News of the Week from War Zones of Europe and Mexico

English munition factories are now turning out every 48 hours more heavy gun ammunition than they manufactured in the entire first year of the war and the production is increasing each week in preparation for the great offensive on the western front, which British military critics believe will come next spring. "The improvement in our position may be illustrated in this way," remarked an official of the ministry. "We are now manufacturing every week three times as many 155 millimeter shells, five times as many 200 millimeter shells and three times as many 230 millimeter shells as we manufactured during the whole first year of the war."

The new Austrian and German notes are greeted with ridicule by the French press of all shades of opinion. The Figaro says the Germans and Austrians had declared they would not reply to the refusal of the allies to consider their proposal, but that on reflection they concluded it would be better not to remain quiet "under the smashing blow of our note."

The Hamburger Nachrichten, which a few days ago published an editorial attacking James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, now quotes the Westphalia Politische Nachrichten, on the subject. The Politische Nachrichten accuses the American embassy in Berlin of "hindering in every possible way the work of the American newspaper correspondents, who are too pro-German or insufficiently anti-German for the embassy's taste, even hampering them in countries allied to Germany, for instance, making it impossible for them to travel in Austria-Hungary."

It is announced that the Prussian budget for 1917 to be presented to Parliament will provide for a considerable increase in receipts, says an Overseas News agency statement published last week. Regarding the receipts of the railway service, it is pointed out that railway traffic generally is equal to that of peace times and freight traffic even better than normal, the income from these sources of revenue being sufficient, it is declared, to meet credit demands and leave a balance for loans.

Practical confirmation of Ambassador Francis' statement at Petrograd that closer commercial relations with Russia can hardly be brought about if the "principles or resolutions of the economic conference of the allies last June are confirmed and carried out," was given at the state department that an inquiry "probably would not" be sent to the ambassador about his remarks. In two recent cases—Ambassador Gerard's speech in Berlin and Minister Van Dyke's statement at the Hague, the department made inquiries. The Paris economic conference has been viewed with alarm here as suggestive of exclusive trade agreements—a war after the war—dangerous to American foreign trade.

What the entente allies want if peace is desired by their enemies is outlined as follows:

Restoration of Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro, with indemnities. Evacuation of invaded territory of France, Russia and Rumania, with reparation. Reorganization of Europe, founded on stable regime. Restoration of provinces wrested in past from allies by force or against will of their populations. Liberation of Italians, Slavs, Rumanians and Teheco Slavs from foreign domination. Enfranchisement of populations subject to "bloody tyranny of Turks." Expulsion of Turkish empire from Europe. The statement is added that the allies wish to liberate Europe from Prussian domination, but have no design to exterminate the German peoples.

The Hamburger Nachrichten, commenting on the Spanish note respecting submarine warfare, asserts that it mistakes the fact. "Such a one-sided attitude," says the paper, "is obvious partiality and has nothing to do with neutrality."

The paper contends that Premier Romanones has a personal interest in the Spanish export trade and says that "if neutral countries believe that they can make unlimited profits from contraband trade with enemy countries they must also take into account the inevitable risks. We hope that contraband trade with our enemies will soon be hampered in quite another way."

Gatherings in all parts of the country may be able to listen to President Wilson's inaugural address on the morning of March 5 by long distance telephone. The Washington inauguration committee took up with the telephone companies the feasibility of such an arrangement and it was pronounced quite possible.

A high Carranza official stated at Juarez last week that he believed another fortnight would see the end of Villa. General Dieguez, governor of Jalisco, who is moving up from the south, will cut off Villa's retreat, he explained, while General Murguía's forces are closing in to the east and north. The mountain passes are slowly guarded. Generals Murguía and Dieguez have campaigned together before and are close friends.

The first report received directly from Belgians deported to Germany, who have been inviolated from the camp at Soltau, Prussia, has been given to the Associated Press. These prisoners were returned from Germany because they were almost in a dying condition. A number of them who were interviewed while separated from each other agreed in their stories of conditions prevailing in the Soltau camp. Seventy of the Belgians were sent home in a crowded cattle truck attached to a freight train. It took three days and three nights for the journey, which usually is made by express trains in six hours. They arrived home in an emaciated condition, coughing, the greater number of them bearing evidence of having contracted tuberculosis.

A considerable number of the Rumanian prisoners of war have been sent to the occupied part of northern France by the Germans, according to the Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung, as quoted in an Amsterdam despatch to Reuters. The paper says that these prisoners will be employed as agricultural laborers.

A PIONEER'S LETTER

Mr. Kirk Likes the Courier. He Recalls Early Days Vividly

Monument, Grant Co., Ore.

Editor Courier:

I wish to inform you that I have read copies of the four magazines you give with the Courier for 1917 and am very much pleased with the same. I enjoy reading the Courier, as I am an old-time subscriber to that journal.

I am an old pioneer of Clackamas county, having come to Oregon City, when but 13 years of age, with my parents, 64 years ago last October. I crossed the plains with ox teams in 1852 and was five and a half months on the road. So you must know that I am no spring chicken. We resided in the little village of Canemah the season of '52 and '53, and father took up a donation claim in the spring of '53 in what is known as the Beaver Creek neighborhood, where I lived for 50 years, before coming to Grant county.

I remember scores of the old Oregon City and Clackamas county pioneers of that date who have long since passed over the divide. Those who were young boys and girls have grown to be old men and women. I was at the funeral of Dr. McLoughlin when his remains were laid at rest in the Catholic church yard in your city. There are four of my father and mother's family still living, three brothers and one sister. The oldest brother living is J. A., who resides in Lane county, near 83 years of age. T. J. is living in Clackamas county in what is known as Highland, 80 years of age, and my self, W. F., 77 years of age. The sister, M. J., lives at Dutch Flat, Cal., and is 75 years of age. Our combined ages figure up to 315 years. Who can beat it?

The old pioneers are fast passing away and we too will soon have to pass over and give room for those that come after.

You can imagine what Oregon was 64 years ago. Almost a wilderness, and I have lived to see it blossom as the rose and have lived through the most progressive age of the world. I should be satisfied to soon give up my place to the younger generation.

THE FASHIONS

Each day unfolds something new in the world of fashion, for many interesting novelties catch the eye of those who observe the women of fashion, from whose apparel may be gleaned every detail and item of interest which create the atmosphere of good style.

Some of the new collars are large affairs rolled high at the back and low in front. These have been given the demure name of monk collar, and one is illustrated in the sketch. Sometimes they are fastened with little buttons and loops at the front, or the closing is made invisible. They are usually made of satin or the new figured silks to contrast with the dress material.

The loose side panels on skirts, with large pockets on each side, are also recognized as one of the newest style notes in skirts. The panels, being loose, flap about in the wind, often disclosing a bright lining of contrasting material on the reverse side. From the front, these side panels seem at first to be nothing but the familiar tunic which appears quite often in the new dresses, showing the narrower underskirts.

Another treatment of side panels appears in some skirts where the panel extends to the lower edge of the skirt, is attached there and falls softly over the edge in puffed or draped effect. Puffed all around in imitation of the Turkish trouser effect, are some of the skirts of evening dresses. In the supple taffetas and silver tissue cloths, dresses in this style are extremely graceful, the skirts devoid of any trimming whatever and the bodices fitting rather snugly in contrast. The bodices are in reality hardly more than deep bands suspended by straps of ribbon over the shoulders. Sleeves there are none, unless the bands across the upper part of the arms are so called. In other styles of evening dresses, however, sleeves begin to be more favored than they have been for some time. The flowing sleeves which form a kind of drapery reaching almost to the edge of the skirt is a style with great charm.

New Footwear Fashions

Not only in dresses but in footwear, some novelties are noticed. For afternoon wear there are black and tan shoes with gray buckskin uppers, and these have found favor with well-dressed women. Dark gray brocade uppers are also considered very good style. Suede shoes, laced in front or buttoned at the side, may almost be said to be taking the place of kid shoes, so popular are they.

The dress of broadcloth in the second sketch shows one of the new overdress styles worn with a gümpe.

A full box-pleated skirt is attached to a straight-hanging jumper a little below the normal waistline and the whole hangs from the shoulders. The worsted embroidery on the front of the jumper and on the pockets is worked in black, red and yellow. Rich embroideries continue to figure very prominently in all dresses. One of the latest models in oyster-white tussor had a wide embroidered panel front and back worked in thin silk in a close design and giving a strong Oriental effect. The panel was finished at the ends with a fringe of the colored silks used in the embroidery—dark red, dark blue and gold.

In old-gold Georgette was a wonderfully attractive dress decorated with blue and gold beads; another in light gray trimmed with old-rose beads carried out two very delightful color schemes.

The Latest Fads in Underwear

Speaking of Georgette—this sheer fabric is put to all sorts of uses, and does not stop at dresses but appears to be quite a favorite for underwear. The most appealing shades of pale blue, lavender and flesh color fashion undergarments of every description. Though they are hardly practical, there are many who find it impossible to resist these dainty undergarments. Underwear seems to be getting more and more elaborate, and the very latest fad is the combination of silver lace with Georgette. Beadwork, too, has invaded underwear, and it has been seen on the new pajamas and nightgowns of Georgette crepe. There are, however, some extra tax (wt yrjetl vbkg fl.: ?) cedinglly dainty pieces of lingerie which are quite practical after all. Among these are the silk and wash satin undergarments which are very practical as long as they are carefully laundered. The delicate shades must be washed with care to preserve their colors, and there is no denying that it is well worth the trouble for the satisfaction that one feels from possessing such dainty lingerie.

Eighty-Seven Years Old

Backache, sore muscles, stiff joints, dark puffs under the eyes and bladder disorders are symptoms of diseased kidneys. H. H. Adams, Springfield, Mo., writes: "I had a very severe attack of kidney trouble. I am getting old, eighty-seven. I tried different treatments, but none did me so much good as Foley Kidney Pills. I consider it the best." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, and quick to give good results.—Jones Drug Co.

P. R. L. & P. is Sued

G. W. Ingram Thursday filed a damage suit against the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, asking $15,120. He charges the company with carelessness in not removing loose rocks along its right of way. Last November, Ingram was riding on a car which he had been ordered to take along one of the company's fumes near Bull Run. Returning after obeying his instructions, the complaint says, a heavy rock rolled from the cliff to the car. Ingram was thrown to the ground 40 feet below and suffered internal injuries.

Wants Others to Know Remedy That Helped Him

MR. CHAS. FROELICH

Can't Understand How He Was Cured so Quickly After Suffering Nineteen Years

For nineteen years, Mr. Chas. Froelich, R. F. D. No. 2, Gorham, Kansas, suffered from kidney and stomach trouble. He tried all the doctors for miles around but got no relief, and had about given up, when Mrs. Froelich read in the Kansas City Post about Fruitola and Traxo and what it had done for a man with stomach trouble. He says, "She sent for Fruitola and Traxo and from the first I felt better. I only took two bottles and am well now and can eat and work like a young man. Fruitola and Traxo did it and I'll do all I can to get others to try it."

Fruitola and Traxo are compounded from the original Edsall formulas at the Pinus laboratories in Monticello, Ill., and can be purchased in Oregon City, Portland, Canby and Hubbard at the Huntley Bros. Co.'s drug stores; a doctor's prescription is not necessary. Fruitola is a pure fruit oil that acts as an intestinal lubricant and disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, discharging the accumulated waste to the sufferer's intense relief. One dose is usually sufficient to indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a tonic-alterative that is most effective to rebuild and restore the weakened, rundown system.

A booklet of special interest to those who suffer from stomach trouble can be obtained by writing to the Pinus Laboratories, Monticello, Illinois.
