demand for residence property with the results that rents have been increased, more new residences are being constructed, resulting in a substantial increase of real estate values, and in addition new business structures are in contemplation along Main street and there exists a general condition of business prosperity and I feel safe in saying that Oregon City is by far the best city of its size.

"I desire at this time to recommend for the consideration of the members of the club the following:

"That we continue our policy of co-operation with other cities and communities and with the farming and rural communities of our county in an effort to bring about a system of permanent roads.

"That our club lend its efforts to the end that Oregon City may secure title to a tract of about 13 acres of land known as the Indian Camp in the south end of the city, that the same may be transferred into a public park.

"That, if possible, the club should have an assistant secretary to take charge of the many details of a public nature which naturally fall upon the president and secretary and who, under their instructions, can work out the details and attend to the many things which a club undertakes and does. This secretary should also have charge of the publicity work of our club, and might also be secretary of our county fair. All of this work dovetails together and the right man could handle it all under proper supervision of the officers of the club, thus saving them a great deal of time devoted to detail work, and I believe more would be accomplished in the end."

CHARLES MARCHAND DEAD

Creator of Barnum's "White Elephant" Worked in Oregon City

Another story of P. T. Barnum's white elephant which caused a sensation among the circus going public 35 years or more ago has come to light with the death of Charles Marchand, noted chemist, and originator of the process for the production of peroxide of hydrogen.

Professor Marchand died in New York last Monday, according to information received by Dr. J. P. Tamiesie and Professor E. F. Pernot, Portland men. Professor Marchand was a resident of Portland for about five years and there conducted experiments in utilizing the refuse from pulp and paper mills in the manufacture of by-products.

Professor Marchand, according to Dr. Tamiesie, had worked out a process to extract ethyl alcohol from the refuse of the paper mills at Oregon City, and left about a year ago for New York, where he planned to secure financial aid to put his process on the market.

The first peroxide on the market was the origination of Professor Marchand, according to Dr. Tamiesie, and it was with the use of this peroxide of hydrogen that P. T. Barnum managed to exhibit the white elephant. Dr. Tamiesie says that Marchand often told the story of how he made a black elephant into a white elephant and thus fooled Forepaugh, Barnum's rival in the circus business.

"Forepaugh was exhibiting a white elephant," said Dr. Tamiesie, telling of the story told by Professor Marchand, "and, of course, it attracted considerable attention. Marchand tried his peroxide on a baby elephant and it worked successfully. It was then applied to a larger animal and this animal was then exhibited as an eighth wonder of the world. Thousands of people saw this 'peroxide blonde' elephant."

Professor Marchand was about 68 years old and a graduate of a technical college of Paris. According to Dr. Tamiesie he had no relatives in this state.

SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET

Dr. Roberg is Speaker at Local Institute. Shows Sanitation Slides

A large number of school teachers from all parts of the county attended the local institute held at the high school here on Saturday under the direction of County School Superintendent J. E. Calavan and Supervisor Brenton Vedder. The morning session was devoted to a discussion of proposed school legislation, which was discussed by Superintendent J. E. Calavan and Superintendent F. J. Toozie. English studies was the subject of a talk by Miss Adeline Wyeth of Canby.

In the afternoon the high school orchestra played and the meeting was turned over to the Parent-Teacher association of the county. The session was addressed by Mrs. W. J. Hawkins of Portland and Dr. David N. Roberg, state health officer. Dr. Roberg spoke on sanitation and showed slides made in the Philippine islands. Professor Earl Kilpatrick of the state university, discussed professional reading. The Parent-Teacher association adopted several resolutions regarding proposed school legislation and other timely matters.

PETITIONS TABLED

Council Believes Special Election Plans to be Thwarted

Initiative petitions calling for a special election on February 12 to decide the matter of a jitney franchise for W. M. Foster were laid on the table at the meeting of the city council last night, following a motion by Councilman H. M. Templeton. To avoid complications C. Schuebel and George L. Story, both claiming to be city attorney, signed the petition for the election before the ballot title was tabled. It was thought at the meeting that by laying the petition on the table the matter was killed and that there will be no special election. This point, however, started a legal argument that was carried out of the council chamber.

The council passed on second reading an ordinance permitting the P. R. L. & P. Co., through the Oregon City Motor Bus Co., to operate jitneys between Oregon City and Oswego. This service has already started under a special 60-day permit.

Ylisen Committed

Guest Ylisen of Colton, arrested Wednesday by Sheriff Wilson, was committed Thursday to the state hospital as insane. Ylisen is unbalanced on religious subjects. He feared his neighbors and would run at sight of anyone unless his wife accompanied him. His wife and 5-year-old child returned to their home at Colton.

FIGHT CARD GOOD

Falls City A. C. Smoker Draws Crowd. Martin Loses to Moscow

Although Art Wilson, Portland heavyweight, had taken one sound beating from Oregon City's only Ben Borden a week before, he returned last Thursday evening for more medicine. He got it. Borden didn't take a blow from his big opponent and landed only a few before Wilson was stretched out on the mat. The same story was repeated in the second round and Wilson was taken out. Still he has a foolish notion that he would like to fight our Ben again.

Jimmie Moscow won a decision over Carl Martin of Oregon City in the main attraction on the card. The smoker was held at the Masonic temple before a crowded house. Freddie Lough and Eddie Olson battled six rounds to a draw and Ping Bodie's ability to take punishment won him a decision over Bill Gold, the hard hitting Oregon City lad. Mugsey Sholes of Portland forced Jack McLane of Oregon City out of their fight in the fifth round and Frankie Murphy lasted three rounds against Joe Farrell. The card was one of the best presented here in years. Ralph Shepherd was referee.

ARGUMENTS BRING DIVORCE

Dinner Table Political Bee Buzzes into Circuit Court

Erma Jost and her husband, John Jost, Jr., are in the Clackamas county divorce court because they could not agree politically prior to the recent national election. The couple had many heated quarrels about presidential candidates and Mr. Jost ended one of them by saying that he had been a fool for marrying his wife and suggested that she divorce him. The couple was married on Christmas day 1910, in Portland. Mrs. Jost asks the restoration of her maiden name, Erma E. Soule.

Cruelty is the charge made by Lela B. Thompson in her complaint against Louis O. Thompson, to whom she was married at Detroit, Mich., on May 12, 1910. Lucy Emerson Bacon wants a divorce from Walter A. Bacon on a charge of cruelty. They were married at Marysville, Cal., September 3, 1907.

SCHROCK'S MIND GONE

Laborer Held in Jail Pending Sanitary Investigation is Forgotten

Charles Schrock or Ed Stock, he is not certain what his right name is, is held in the county jail pending an investigation into his mental condition. He was picked up by Deputy Sheriff Frost and Joyner on Monday near Gladstone. Schrock told the officers he had been hurt in an accident about two years ago, although he was uncertain whether the accident happened only nine months ago, and says that his head has pained him ever since. He showed signs of suffering from hunger and cold. Schrock believes he has a sister in "Vancouver or Portland or somewhere," and says he is either 22 or 34 years old, being inclined to think it is 34.

PORTLANDERS VISIT

Guests Inspect Mills Here and Return Home to Boost

Three special cars brought 136 members of the Progressive Business Men's club of Portland to Oregon City on Saturday afternoon, and they made a thorough inspection of the several industrial plants in and near the city. Following the trip the members gathered with some of those of the Oregon City Commercial club in the club parlors and were given "inside information" on the resources of the community and its importance as a manufacturing city. Most of the Portland visitors inspected mills on both sides of the river, although the party was divided in half, one going through the Hawley mills and the woolen mills while the other visited the Crown-Willamette plant.

Derthick Club Meets

The Derthick club meeting at the home of Mrs. George A. Harding Friday, when Mrs. L. H. Olmsted was assistant hostess, was devoted to a study of the works of three musicians. The program for the afternoon was made up of readings of biographical sketches by Mrs. John W. Loder on the lives of Jessie L. Gaynor, Clayton Johns and Arthur W. Thayer. Mrs. Thomas A. Burke rendered vocal solos by the three composers. Mrs. Loder also gave a reading on "What Music in the Public Schools is Accomplishing." The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. G. G. Miller with Mrs. T. A. Burke as assistant hostess.

THE GOLDEN STAIR

I built a golden stairway
To lead to Happiness,
A pleasant way, a fair way,
Of Pleasure and Success.

I left the crowded highway
Of those who fought and failed,
For their way was not my way—
My stair was golden-railed!

But when I reached the gateway
That crowned my gilded stair,
I looked below—and straightaway
My happiness lay there!
