Local and County Items of Interest to Our Readers

EAGLE CREEK

Fred Moehke and wife, of Logan, were the guests of Roy Douglass last week.

Dick Gibson went to Estacada Sunday and attended the Moose picnic. Eagle Creek Grange held its regular meeting Saturday. As it is such a busy time, only a few of the members were in attendance, the majority present being women. After a short business session every one adjourned to the grove, where it was cool, to hold the literary program. A pleasant day was enjoyed though it was somewhat warm. Mr. Kitzmiller was obligated in the third and fourth degree.

Mrs. R. B. Gibson was the guest of her sisters, Mrs. S. J. Eddy and Mrs. L. E. Lightfoot, of Portland, over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore, of Damascus, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Howlett.

Ray Wilcox, the fire warden, passed through here on Monday.

CANBY

Warren Kendall and family are going up near Butteville to work in the hop fields.

Mr. Bowly has put up some new fence and two new gates in front of his house and it helps the looks of his place.

Mr. Cole has been threshing in this neighborhood the last week.

There are lots of peaches in this locality this year, and they are of good quality.

There are lots of blackberries here this year.

Mr. Jess Martin and Miss Verna Porter were married a few days ago.

Mr. Bailey is going to have a sale this fall and he and his family are going to move to Idaho.

Mr. Leiser and Mr. Porter have just returned from a trip to the coast.

Harry Cochran has been putting up a platform for drawing water up the hill for Mrs. Dayton.

Mr. Wheeler and family have gone to the coast in Tillamook county.

Mr. Hunt is picking berries and sending them to Portland.

There is lots of cord wood being hauled into Canby this summer.

Mrs. Clark was visiting Mrs. Griffin last Saturday.

There is corn on Adam Knight's place that looks like it would make 50 bushels per acre.

There are some fine walnut trees on the Malgamat place near Canby. Charley Rape, formerly of this place, has purchased some land in Wyoming.

HAZELIA

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lehman and Mr. Mrs. Frank Whitten and Mrs. Milton Shipley, with little Lenora Dale, were among Hazelians picnicing on Sucker Lake Saturday.

Mrs. Alfred Thomas is visiting in Tigard these days.

Will Cools surely makes lots of flying trips to Oswego in his "Ford."

What's the attraction, Bill?

Mr. and Mrs. Max McMahon visited at the John Wanker home Sunday.

Mr. Gans, of Oswego, was a caller at Rose Hill Farm Monday.

A. Worthington is very busy these days marketing peaches.

The second attempt was made to steal a cow from a Hazelia farmer Friday evening at about ten o'clock.

The thief caught the cow and started to lead her away when the owner heard him and would have shot him but was afraid of killing the cow.

Miss Harriet Duncan was a caller of Mrs. S. S. Boutz's Saturday evening.

H. Duncan is not well at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shipley were entertained at the Fred Lehman home Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Alfred Thomas spent the evening with the Misses Harriet and Lucile Duncan Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Helms entertained company from Portland Sunday.

The threshers are very busy in this vicinity these days.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lehman and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitten and Mrs. Shipley of Oswego, expect to drive to the coast near Salmon River, soon.

Mr. McMahon was selling produce at the Public Market, in Portland, Saturday.

Mr. Fiala marketed some fat cattle last week.

MULINO

Little Raymond Manning had his nose quite badly mashed one day recently when the axe he and his brother were using to nail down a board on the sidewalk flew off the handle and struck him in the face.

The school board has secured Miss Florence Grice of Salem, to teach the 1915-16 term of school in district 84.

MOLALLA

Thad Stipp had a yield of 72 bushels of oats to the acre. Billy Heinz had a 75-bushel crop. W. W. Everhart had one piece of wheat that yielded him 45 bushels. The average yields were better than usual all over this section this year. The grain is of excellent quality.

A little 5-year-old boy playing with some matches recently set a straw stack afire on the Watts place south of town. No damage was done other than the destruction of the stack. By heroic work of some young people the fences were saved.

A. J. Ringo of Madras, Ore., called last week. He is hunting a place to rent. He is compelled to come to the coast for his health and is renting his farms at the above place and would like to get near Molalla to take advantage of the school.

Al Wells is taking his vacation in the hills, accompanied by his boys, Cecil and Roy. They are at Low Ridge. One day last week they got a fine buck and brought it out to Albert Engle's place and Everman Robbins went after it, while they went back to the hills after another one.

Stanley Murphy has returned from eastern Oregon, where he has been working in the harvest fields.

Arrangements are almost completed for the grange picnic to be held here on September 18. This will be a sort of harvest festival, as this has been an exceedingly prosperous year for the farmers.

LIBERAL

E. J. French has rented the old Austin place owned by Richard Petzold.

Otto Friedrich has sold his wheat to C. T. Howard, the Mulino miller, and is hauling it.

F. H. Burns has been appointed agent for the Southern Pacific company here.

Levella Burkhardt is taking a vacation from his work at the store and has gone to Cottage Grove for a visit. He will amuse himself picking huckleberries.

SHUBEL

Quite a number of young folks attended the party given in Jack Grossmiller's new granary recently. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walters, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kandle, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. H. Moehke, Mr. and Mrs. Berg, Mr. and Mrs. F. Grossmiller, Miss Anna Mayfield, Miss Florence Stone, Miss Mae Adams, Miss Clara Bent, Misses Clara and Gertie Carlson, Miss Leda Wetmore, Miss Fern Bittner, Miss Sullivan, Miss Nellie Ashenfelder, Miss Emma Grossmiller, Miss Ellen McIntyre, Mrs. W. H. Dolbow, Jack and Carl Grossmiller, Frank Roder, Henry and Raymond Ginther, Lloyd Schram, Milton Miller, Hurley Fellows, Jeff Shockley, Heinie Grossmiller, Ed McIntyre, Rudy Miller, Mr. Scott, Bernard Berg. Refreshments were served.

Phillip Massinger and sister, Julia, attended church at Clark's Sunday morning and spent the afternoon at Mr. Hofstetter's.

We are glad to hear that Will Dolboro, who has been very seriously ill for five weeks at St. Vincent's Hospital, is improving.

Mrs. Hansen died Tuesday evening.

Everybody is busy getting ready for the threshers.

Mrs. J. P. Strain is home from the Oregon City Hospital, where she underwent an operation.

CHERRYVILLE

Dusty days and dusty ways.

We are made of dust and most of these joy-riders are covered with dust. This is the hunter's month, or the beginning of the hunter's season, and already they are tramping all over the mountains.

Our early ancestors—way back in the stone age—followed the chase, or made of hunting a business or means of livelihood and we easily revert to a former type.

Another industry is being developed here, and that is making Oregon Grape jelly. Three parts early apples are used by some. It certainly makes a fine jelly, and one party sold 35 dozen jelly tumblers at $1.50 a dozen. Oregon Grape is not supplying as good a crop as last year, however.

What is the matter with a campfire in the hills these delightfully cool nights with huckleberries, trout and venison for supper?

Fay Shank is out from Portland on his vacation at the home ranch north of town. He says that he is after that deer that came and insulted him a year ago last spring when he was putting in his oats and found him in a defenseless condition. Some kinds of deers' (dears) Fay says, might approach him in that manner but no wild deer of the hills can in the open season. Not much!

The sale at Dr. Bolkin's on the 14th, when he offered for sale some cattle and hogs, drew quite a good-sized crowd, but the people seemed scared stiff and hardly dared bid at all as they seemed to have lost heart. After selling a limited number the sale was declared off. The crops are fine and there is just as much money in the country as ever. People returning from the middle west say business is fine back there and Ford, the auto man at Detroit, says he could sell 200,000 machines right now if he had them and that he is two months behind on his orders. A Sunday procession goes by this place every week-end representing an outlay of thousands. The banks and moneyed men seem to have entered into a conspiracy to fasten everything down and shut every dollar up. A man informed the writer that he had over 1,000 acres of good land that he owed but little on, but in order to borrow $200 at 8 percent with a big bonus he had to mortgage 40 acres. This is a shameful state of affairs, and we will have to establish banks run entirely by the government; taking this useful function out of the hands of private parties.

Parties here from over on the Columbia camping in the hills say that they travelled over the hard-surfaced road on the great scenic highway that is completed, being made of a Warrenite, and say that it was as good as any city boulevard. This road was 18 feet wide with a solid rock foundation and was as smooth as glass, or approximately.

This is the kind of road that will eventually be extended over this Barlow route, that is to be connected by a loop east of Mt. Hood with the great scenic highway.

The summer's work is pretty well finished and many of the people are out picnicing and picking huckleberries and trying to pick up some deer and bears. Believe me—this is a touch of high living in the high hills.

HIGHLAND

A number of people in this vicinity motored to Wilhoit Springs Sunday morning to Mr. John Schram's auto truck.

Mrs. Hanhart returned home Monday after a few days visit in Portland.

Mrs. C. C. Kandle gave her husband a very pleasant surprise Saturday evening, the happy event being a celebration of his birthday anniversary. A large circle of friends gathered at the home to help him celebrate. Dancing and games were indulged in until a late hour. Lunch was served at midnight.

Lester Fellows, of Portland, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Fellows.

John Welsh and Mr. Nash, of Arleta, were visiting at the home of M. E. Kandle a few days last week.

Miss Tillie Martin is home visiting her parents.

O. Fellows spent Sunday at Wilhoit Springs.

Miss Engel, who has been visiting her mother the past month, returned to Idaho Monday, where she has gone to take her position as a teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson of Portland, and Mrs. Ed Vohs spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fellows.

John Schram went to Portland Monday.

Mrs. G. M. Causey and children, of Oregon City, are visiting Mrs. Causey's friend, Mrs. Curtis Kandle.

Homer Bennett spent Saturday evening at Barton.

Postponing Old Age

Overworked, weak or diseased kidneys will often make a man or woman feel old before middle age. Rheumatism, aches and pains in back, puffiness under eyes, stiff joints and sore muscles, biliousness, headache and various other symptoms give warning that the kidneys need help. Foley Kidney Pills bring a sound, healthy condition and help the kidneys eliminate uric acid and other poisons from the system, which, when permitted to remain, cause dangerous disease.—Jones Drug Co.

ALL ABOUT WEEDS

Courier's Plans Go Astray Owing to

Some weeks ago Louis Funk, who has one of the nicest farms in Clackamas county, came into the Courier office and gave use a little talk on weeds. Mr. Funk said that there were a number of noxious weeds growing in this neck of the woods that might do much harm to stock, and he added that he would be willing to collect samples of them and place them on exhibition as samples of what not to let grow if the Courier could find a place for the exhibit.

Thinking to go Mr. Funk one better, the Courier wrote to the Oregon Agricultural College and said that a number of farmers hereabouts had been bothered with weeds—many of them have told us their weed troubles—and asked the college to send us an infest the western part of the state. The Courier was planning to print this article, and later on to take up the scheme of having a weed exhibit placed in some public place, so that farmers could get acquainted with the worst kinds.

About two weeks after writing to the Agricultural College the Courier was sent an article by that center of learning. The article dealt with weeds and their control, all right—but it dealt exclusively with the weeds that were bothering EASTERN OREGON, and not the familiar Willamette valley kinds. A week after that we received a letter from one of the hardworking Agricultural College chaps, who really seemed to take an interest in the problem. He said that he was going to try and get us up the weed article that we wanted, and added that he was glad that the paper was going to take the matter up.

Then came a silence until this week, when another letter came from the Aggie College, telling us curtly that somebody had left a note somewhere saying that the Courier had been sent the article it asked. We suppose the note referred to the Eastern Oregon weeds, in which farmers of this locality are not particularly interested.

And that is as far as we have been able to go. Maybe when the rains set in and drown out all the weeds, somebody at Corvallis will wake up and send in a treatise on Willamette Valley and Clackamas county weeds. Some of our pet weeds may thrive in Eastern Oregon, but it is a cinch that Eastern Oregon weeds aren't bothering farmers around here very much.

Our facilities for printing are of the best.—Courier.

WHO FEEDS WORLD?

Farm Paper Says Women Do as much As Others

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears the following: "What is not undisputed king, nor cotton either. The egg crop last year was worth about $700,000,000.

"The bulk of the poultry is produced mainly by the work of the women and children. The supply from the specialized poultry farms is small compared to that from the farms where women care for the fowls and children gather the eggs.

"The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that does its full share in feeding the world.

"Two per cent of all eggs sold are broken before they get to the consumer. Two per cent more are dirty. The total loss from all causes is over one sixth the total egg crop."

Hen Hatches Turtles

Farm and Fireside says: "A Louisiana man has a hen which would sit. He took away the door knob which she was incubating, and gave her a clutch of turtle's eggs. She made a hatch of eighteen snapping turtles. Who's the mother of the turtles?"
