

Sheriff's Sale on Execution

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clackamas.

Meir & Frank Company, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs.

S. A. Murray and Grace Murray, Defendants.

State of Oregon, County of Clackamas, ss.

By virtue of a judgment order, decree and an execution, duly issued out of and under the seal of the above entitled Court, in the above entitled cause, to me duly directed and dated the 29th day of June, 1915, upon a judgment rendered and entered in said court on the 6th day of August, 1915, in favor of Meir and Frank Company, a corporation, Plaintiff, and against S. A. Murray and Grace Murray, Defendants, for the sum of $90.13, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the 1st day of April 1914, and the further sum of $7.25 costs and disbursements, and the costs of and upon this writ, commanding me out of the personal property of said defendants, and if sufficient could not be found, then out of the real property belonging to said defendants on and after the date of said Judgment to satisfy said sum of $97.38, and also the costs upon this said writ. Less the sum of $41.20 realized on the Judgment October 10th, 1914.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of said execution, judgment order and decree, and in compliance with the commands of said writ, being unable to find any personal property of said defendant's I did on the 27th day of July 1915 duly levy upon the following described real property of said defendants, situated and being in the County of Clackamas, and State of Oregon, to-wit:

A part of the Thomas Lee D. L. C., Numbered 64, in Sections 15 and 24 T. 3 S. R. 4, East of the Wm. M. particularly described as follows: Commencing at the Southeast corner of said D. L. C. numbered 64, thence running North 0.30 chains, thence West 10.25 chains to point of beginning, which point of beginning is the S. W. corner of the acre tract deeded for cemetery purposes, and beginning North 0.30 chains of the south boundary line of said D. L. C. numbered 64, thence North 2.35 chains, thence East 4.25 chains, thence North 7.35 chains, thence West 12.50 chains, thence South westerly 1 chain, thence Southerly 3.00 chains, thence South 6.00 chains, to a point 0.30 chains North of South boundary line of said D. L. C. Number 64, thence East 9.69 chains more or less to point of beginning containing 2.43 acres more or less, except a strip of land of the West end of this tract, conveyed for road purposes, not exceeding 0.30 chains in width; also except a strip of land conveyed for roadway paralleled the boundary line between this tract and the land conveyed to Minnie Stone by D. N. Bridenstine, Jan. 4, 1911, and I will, on Saturday, the 28th day of August 1915, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the County Court House in the City of Oregon City, in said County and State, sell at public auction, subject to redemption, to the highest bidder, for U. S. gold coin, cash in hand, all the right, title and interest which the within named defendants, or either of them, had on the date of said Judgment or since had in or to the above described real property or any part thereof, to satisfy said judgment order, decree, interest, costs and all accruing costs.

Dated, Oregon City, Oregon, July 29th, 1915.

W. J. WILSON,
Sheriff of Clackamas County, Oregon.
By E. C. HACKETT, Deputy.

Brakeman Was Cured

F. A. Woodsey, a railroad brakeman of Jacksonville, Texas, writes: "I was down with kidney trouble and rheumatism so bad I could hardly get up when I sat down. I had a backache all the time and was almost tired of living. I saw Foley Kidney Pills advertised. I took some and after a short time I was thoroughly cured and am having no more trouble." They act promptly and help kidneys throw poisonous waste products out of the blood. Thousands have written similar letters.—Jones Drug Co.

"EXPERTS" NOT LIKED

Correspondent Doesn't Think Much of Advice Given Farmers

Editor Courier: I do not agree with you in your editorial in last week's Courier under the heading "On Being Penny Wise." I have been noticing some of the reports of Agricultural Experts and I don't find them at all interesting. For instance, one reports being called to see a sick cow, and advised the owner to get a veterinarian. He didn't say how much of a rakeoff he was to have for recommending that particular cow doctor. In the same report he viewed a field of oats that was being destroyed by grasshoppers, and advised that the oats be cut for hay. This cloverhopper saw that tried sixty years ago and if I remember right the hoppers thanked the farmers for cutting it down; it saved them the trouble of climbing after it. At least they got all the oats.

Another expert reports inspecting clover fields and says: "Fields that were neither pastured nor clipped yielded more seed than those that were." That has not been our experience. We pastured our clover until the fifth of June, then clipped it and turned the cattle off. We had a heavy crop of hay, clean of weeds and briars, and what we left for seed is well filled. Another thing, the clover wasn't ready to cut until the June rains were over—which this year lasted well into July—and that helped in curing the crop.

Another writes that the Colorado potato beetle has made its appearance in his county and that he advised the growers to hand pick them and drop them into coal oil. Yea verily: this child worked at that half a century ago, and woe is me if the beetles ever get a foot hold in this valley, and our scientific men can give us no better method of conquering them.

The simple minded boy said that he knew the miller had a bunch of fat hogs in his pen, but he didn't know whose grain it was that fattened 'em. So I am aware that some of the counties have expert advisers, but I don't know of what benefit they are.

NEY AS A FIGHTER

Napoleon Called His Marshal the "Bravest Man I Ever Saw."

THE RETREAT FROM MOSCOW.

Where the Heroic Commander With a Mere Handful of Men as a Rear Guard Fled Back, Facing the Foe, Minor Heroes of the Great Conflict.

Three towering personalities came to the clinch on the field of Waterloo. There are perhaps a half dozen names remembered in connection with that epoch making battle, but they are little more than names; only Bluecher, Napoleon and Wellington have contrived to outlive the memory of their contemporaries.

Yet there were some at Waterloo who were not only brave fighters, but vastly interesting individuals, and it is more than unfortunate that they should have suffered eclipse. There is perhaps one exception. One cannot scratch the history surrounding any of the three great commanders who met at Waterloo without encountering Michael Ney, Napoleon's "bravest of the brave."

It is impossible to think of Ney except in superlatives. It is impossible to collect dry facts about him; the temper that matched his hair smolders through and sets them ablaze. Even Napoleon, always so unpleasantly eager to shift the blame for failure to other shoulders, wrote from the solitude of St. Helena, "Ney was the bravest man I ever saw."

One of his officers once asked him if he ever felt fear. "Never had time," was the curt reply. The tales of his daring, his hair-breadth escapes, his unbelievable indifference to shot and shell, are legion. He was always calmest in time of the greatest peril, and it was this quality that Napoleon appreciated. Again and again France and the crown were in Michael Ney's hands. Whenever Napoleon saw that the issue of a battle turned on a single point he sent Ney to that point. At the battle of Bautzen the emperor lay on the ground which is sheltered by a height from the town. He heard Ney's guns on the left. A bomb burst over his head. He sat down and wrote Marie Louise that the victory was gained. He waited only to learn that Ney was where the crisis turned to be sure of victory.

But the most dramatic chapter of this gallant fighter's life is that headed "The Retreat from Moscow." Melancholy might better have painted the rear of the Corsican's army than the van. He would have had a more appealing, a more gallant subject in Michael Ney, retreating with his face to the enemy. With a mere handful of men he flung himself between the fleeing French and the Russian army and backed slowly, stubbornly from Moscow.

This is the man who a little later was publicly shot as a traitor to France. Ney's fellow marshal, Grouchy, does not fare so well. Grouchy was a loyal French patriot, and he had a record of engagement in 200 battles, which offered copious proof that he was no coward. But light headed, irresolute, vacillating he surely was. The Waterloo mistake is merely a repetition of earlier failures of judgment.

One of the most interesting of the minor heroes of Waterloo was the soldier-musician Graf Friedrich Wilhelm Buelow. He had been thrown a little in the shade by the vehement personality of his chief, Bluecher, and the intrepid Gneisenau. But the man who at the head of his 30,000 emerged at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of June 18, 1815, from the wood of St. Armand and turned the tide of the battle of Waterloo stands out as a romantic figure. Probably no one of Germany's brave fighters of that racking period, excepting not even "Old Forward" himself, was so well loved, so vigorously admired, as Friedrich Buelow. He was a gentleman and a man of well seasoned culture.

But to find the most truly picturesque in the group of lesser generals at Waterloo one must go over to the English side. "As rough, foul mouthed a devil as ever lived," said Wellington himself of Sir Thomas Picton. "But," he added, "no man could do better in the different services assigned to him." He always carried a stick to tap on the horse's mane when he felt over impatient and wave in the air to emphasize his commands. Sometimes he carried an umbrella, as at Vittoria, where he used it to beat Wellington's butler over the head. The unfortunate man was escorting the headquarters baggage and got in the march of Picton's division.

The visitor to the field of Waterloo, even though he know little of the personality of this fine old fighter, feels a thrill when the guide says, "Here Picton fell."

There could be no sharper contrast to Tom Picton than Sir Rowland Hill. The mild eyed, sweet tempered, ruddy cheeked general, soon to become the most influential politician in Europe, was the complete picture of an English country gentleman.—Chicago Herald.

His Honesty.
Tourist—What sort of landlord have you got here? Irish Native—He's the sort of man if he was put on an uninhabited island that would stick his hands in the pockets of the naked savages and rob them of what they hadn't got.—Chicago Herald.

Never spend your money before you have it.—Thomas Jefferson.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED
Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system. To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and uphold your strength. Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.
