AUTO MAN HAPPY

President Volger, of Northwest Concern, Sees Return of Prosperity

There was recently printed in the daily press an interview with Mr. F. W. Vogler, president of the Northwest Auto Company of Portland, who had just returned from an Eastern trip. This interview was most optimistic in its tone as to business conditions throughout the East and it expressed a firm belief that the West would share with the East in the increased prosperity caused by abundant crops and the extraordinary demand for many of our products.

Mr. Vogler was particularly impressed by the favorable attitude of Eastern bankers toward the automobile business, which has now become one of the leading permanent industries of the country—indeed, one of the great banks in New York City has been running a series of advertisements in the New York papers calling attention to the fact that the automobile has become a great public utility, making the prediction that with good crops this Fall, every expectation of the automobile manufacturer as to increased sales will be fulfilled.

Mr. Vogler, in commenting upon this, says:

"It has been humorously suggested that a large percentage of automobiles is sold to the farmer, who, while previously a good savings bank customer, now becomes a customer of the man who sells gasoline and makes repairs. The real truth is that the automobile has long since ceased to be merely an expensive luxury and is now an economic necessity as well to the farmer as to the department store or in any occupation where expedition or economy can make its use valuable.

"By means of the automobile the outlying country is being brought closer to the big cities and the values thus created more than offset any ordinary expense which the owners of automobiles may incur either in the way of daily upkeep, depreciation or wear and tear. What is gathered from the ground and capitalized certainly reflects the general prosperity of the entire community, and money obtained from crops and thrift even though it goes into automobiles, graphophones and pianolas really puts into circulation new wealth and the country benefits in consequence."

Mr. Vogler speaks enthusiastically of the new era, and in every statement he is squarely backed by the factory. In talking over the new model, Mr. Vogler says:

"The man who is acquainted with the rigid Reo standards of excellence in materials and manufacture, as well as Reo integrity in selling, will be surprised at the new Reo price, which it must be universally conceded are the greatest values ever offered in automobiles. As a matter of fact it wasn't necessary, in order to sell Reos, either to take them any better or sell them any lower, but it was possible to do it, therefore it has been done. The great buying public wants a certain popular price and Reo dealers the country over have agreed to sell Reo cars on a smaller margin of profit than obtains with other cars. Therefore the factory has set a price that has caused a sensation in the selling of automobiles."

BLAZE IS HOT

Home of W. J. Burns Scene of Lively Battle With Fire

Firemen from Milwaukie and Portland both went out of their regular territory last week when they volunteered to battle with flames that were sweeping the residence of W. J. Burns, between Sellwood and Milwaukie.

Donald Llewellyn, of the Milwaukie department, was painfully injured when a Milwaukie chemical engine exploded, and he was sent to the Sellwood hospital. Jack Whitaker, of Engine Company 11, of the Portland department, was also hurt at the fire, when a falling board drove a nail through his foot.

Part of the Burns home, including the garage and the servants' quarters, was completely destroyed, entailing a loss of $2700. As the house was situated out of the water main districts of both Portland and Milwaukie, the firemen had only two garden hose and a bucket brigade with which to check the spread of the flames. Finally, after much effort, they ain part of the dwelling was saved from destruction.

The fire was extremely spectacular, and attracted a large crowd; the heavy column of black smoke which arose attracting hundreds from Sellwood, Milwaukie and the grounds of the Waverly golf club.

Tax Protests Heard

The county board of equalization began its hearings in the county seat Monday of this week, and listened to complaints regarding tax assessments. Only a few taxpayers appeared during the week to ask for reductions.

SECOND TEST MADE

Interurban Line Drags Second Freight Over New Pavement

Apparently desirous of seeing just how good the Worswick paving on Main Street, in the county seat, was; the Portland Railway, Light & Power company last Friday night dragged a train of five freight cars over the new street surface for about a block. A week or so before this the interurban company made a preliminary test of the pavement, when they hauled a 40-ton freight car over the pavement for about eight feet.

Last Friday's more drastic test proved that the pavement even exceeded the hopes of the streetcar men; and while the five cars made some slight dent in the new street surface, the pavement stood up very well.

It is said that as a result of these tests the Portland Railway, Light & Power company will shortly have removable flanges put on their cars; and that after passing Twelfth street the flanges will be taken off, and cars run entirely on the pavement. This will enable the company to take up nearly a mile of track, and use it for extra siding on the line to Portland.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD

Supreme Court Decides that Sunday Closing Law Is Good

According to a decision rendered by the state supreme court at Salem Friday, it is illegal under the Oregon Sunday closing law for cigar stands to do business on the Sabbath. The ruling was given in a case carried up from Eugene; and the justices decided that the law as it stands—with exceptions favoring theatres, undertakers and some other lines of business—was perfectly good.

Whether the law will be enforced in the county seat is not known. Mayor Jones, asked what his action would be, said that he would have to think the matter over before reaching a decision. Local cigar store men are not overly pleased with the ruling of the supreme court; and say that it will be a hardship if they have to close, while drugstores are permitted to sell cigars on Sunday.

Dear Amy:—

I called yesterday on Mrs. Newcomer, who has just moved here. She told me that lots of her things were broken and scared in moving and asked me, since she was a stranger in town, to tell her where to buy new furniture.

I told her to go to no one but where we always traded because she would be sure to find what she wanted and at reasonable prices.

Come soon.

Bye, Bye.

Lou.

P.S.—Mrs. Newcomer has just dropped in. She was so pleased with the furniture she bought from
