BIG CANBY FAIR READY TO THRILL

ton, where she exhibited many pairs of her birds, and some of the largest purses in the classes in which her birds were entered, will enter some of her poultry. These birds were exhibited at the Southwest Washington Fair, which was held between Chehalis and Centralia. D. F. Skene, breeder of Campines, and E. H. Gregory and G. B. Dimick, also breeders of this variety, are to exhibit Campine chickens. From the present outlook the poultry department will have its share of birds.

On Monday, which is to be Canby day, the stores of Canby will close for half a day, and the band will furnish music for the morning, afternoon and evening. There will be several stores in Canby represented in the big pavilion, including Canby Hardware Co., and Carlton & Rosenkrans.

Among those who have decided to enter the city exhibit this year are: Pacific Highway Garage, Western Stock Journal, Oregon City Shoe Store, Price Brothers, Miller & Parkers, etc. There are several other business men contemplating placing an exhibit in the pavilion.

There will be a special excursion from Molalla on Molalla Day, Wednesday, September 23. The Willamette Valley Southern Railway will carry passengers from Mt. Angel, as well as other points this side of Molalla and Liberal. These will transfer to the excursion train at Molalla and Liberal. There is sure to be a large delegation from this section of the county attend the fair.

Estacada, which has just held a successful fair, will be well represented at the Clackamas County Fair, and many of the exhibits that were on display will be given a conspicuous place in the big pavilion. Estacada Day will be held on the same as Molalla day, and many are planning to have a big time on that date.

The women's rest room on the second floor, will be in charge of Mrs. M. Hoffman, of New Era, and arrangements are being made to have music furnished by a victrola.

The Hood River cider spliler has engaged space in the pavilion, and will quench the thirst of the fair visitors.

Mr. Fortune states that the horse races will be far better than of any previous year. They will be held about one o'clock, and a band will furnish the music between heats to enliven the afternoon.

With a carnival company, high diving dogs, good music and many other attractions the visitors at the fair this year will surely get their money's worth. If you can't go on Monday, go on Tuesday with the crowd on the special excursion. This is the first time that a special excursion train has gone to the fair from this city.

The business men of this city have been interviewed by Secretary W. B. Lawton and Ed Fortner, the latter having charge of the racing program, and all who were interviewed were willing to close their business houses during the afternoon, except one, and this man did not have any interest in the fair, and has refused, but the others who were interviewed and signed up, were all willing to help the good cause along and assist to make this fair one of the most successful ever held by the association, and are as follows:

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body. In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutrient gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol. Scott & Bowser, Bloomfield, N. J.

ROAD EXPERT TALKS

Pacific Slope Highways Praised by James H. MacDonald

Speaking before the Pan-American road congress, at San Francisco, this week, H. MacDonald, of Connecticut, declared that the Pacific slope states ranked far above any others in the union for progressive road building. He gave special praise to the Siskiyou pass road in California, saying that there was no finer road in the United States; and also specially praised the roads of Washington. Oregon had some fine roads, too, he said; but did not go into any great hysteria over the highways of the Beaver state.

Mr. MacDonald is regarded as the foremost road authority in the United States, and has made a special reputation for building good roads in Connecticut out of the materials at hand in each community. Some years ago he made a tour of Washington as the guest of Samuel Hill and the Great Northern railroad, and much of Washington's advancement in highway construction dates from the advice he then gave in the different counties that he visited.

Mr. MacDonald declares that success in road building must always be based on drainage both of the foundation of the road and of the surface. Water, in his opinion, is the greatest foe of good highways. By following his suggestions, Whatcom county, Washington, one of the wettest sections of the Evergreen state, was enabled to build roads at slight cost that have stood up under all sorts of traffic and climatic conditions. Mr. MacDonald is an earnest believer in macadam roads, and finds them fully as serviceable as the more expensive hard-surface highways.

Boller-Breck Wedding

One of the most beautiful home weddings of the week was that which united in marriage August Bolle and Miss Frieda Breck. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 P. M. in the recently completed home of Mr. and Mrs. Bolle, by Rev. Kraxberger, rector of the German-Lutheran church, of Oregon City.

The bride was becomingly dressed in cream silk, overdressed with silk embroidered net trimmed with gold lace.

Miss Edith McKeown, a girlhood chum of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and wore an evening dress of deep cream artistically trimmed with black velvet.

Mr. Bolle is well and favorably known here, having been employed by the government at the Clackamas fish hatchery for a number of years. Miss Breck is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Breck, and very popular here.

Music was enjoyed before the supper hour, and after the wedding supper the young people danced in the spacious rooms of the Bolle home. Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. August Bolle were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Bolle, Sr., Mr. E. Breck, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Biers and daughters, Helen and Elsie, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gustavson, Mr. and Mrs. O. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Derry, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eby, Fred and Carl Hogg, Miss Ruby Morris, Mr. John and Edward Bolle, of Oregon City; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewenberg, Miss Mary Lewenberg, Fred Lewenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Pebler, Annie Kelley and Miss Gardner, of Clackamas; Misses Grace and Edith McKeown, of Eagle Creek; and Mr. Fred Bolle of White Salmon, Wash'n.

GLIMMER IS SEEN

what goes on in Kansas—where Brother George was prosecuting attorney for six dry years while the saloons ran unmoleted.

After mentioning the fact that Kansas voted down a measure to prohibit the importation of liquor within its boundaries, and citing this as proof of the fact that people in Kansas want their booze, Mr. Gilmore says:

"Similarly, I believe that the people of Oregon did not desire absolute prohibition when they accepted the Anti-saloon league brand of prohibition embodied in the new amendment. If they did they were badly deceived by the Anti-saloon league."

And in closing Mr. Gilmore remarks:

"Mr. Brownell will find, if he presses his demand of absolute prohibition in Oregon, that anti-saloon leaders will give him very little real support. That the amendment as it now stands is a joke upon the people of Oregon was urged by me last spring in an interchange on the subject with Rev. Mr. Hutton, of the Oregon Anti-saloon league."

All of which is remarkably true.

But who is this President Gilmore, and what is his league? Who is this gentleman who so thoroughly agrees with George C. Brownell?

Mr. Gilmore is the mouthpiece of the latest battle-line of the "wets," and the "Model License League" is a tardy realization of the fact that only "good saloons" can prevail. Mr. Gilmore belongs to that large class of "wets" who want absolute prohibition or "model license." If they have "model license" they can still do business—and if they have ABSOLUTE prohibition they know the courts will knock it out as being an undue interference with the liberty of citizens.

In other words it is the figurehead at present at the head of the "wets" who is approving of what George C. Brownell says.

George C. Brownell doesn't like the Oregon prohibition law, and says the legislature fooled the people when it was passed.

The "wets" don't like the Oregon prohibition law, and say the legislature fooled the people when it was passed.

The "wets" say George C. Brownell is on the right track and is talking good sense.

Once again, brethren, let us rise and sing:

"Blessed be the tie that binds."

INVENTION IS FATAL

Wagon Seat Made to Order Results in Designer's Death

When James Fryear started hauling pipe from Oregon City up the Abernathy canyon for the South Fork pipeline, he designed a special wagon to carry the unwieldy pieces of metal and on the front of the frame he had perched a narrow seat, balanced on springs, to make riding as comfortable as possible. Fryear superintended the construction of the wagon frame, and found that it worked well until Thursday of last week.

Thursday evening he was returning from a point on the pipeline whence he had taken a load, and sitting easily upon his high seat, was guiding a four-horse team down the rough and narrow roadway. Suddenly the wagon struck a rut that ran across the highway, the springs under Fryear's seat acted like a catapult, and Fryear went flying out into the air. He struck the road upon his head, and sustained a fractured skull. Dr. Mount was summoned to his assistance, and rushed the man back to the county seat in an automobile; but his injuries proved fatal, and he died after being unconscious for about eight hours.

HAZELL IS BUSY

Promoter of Redland District "Orchard Land" Fixes Suits

Jesse Hazell, who sometimes sells land on which he says apples and other fruit can be raised, and who is promoting 240 acres near Redlands, has fixed up all but two of the seven suits that have recently been filed against him. Of the two remaining, one was dismissed last week in justice court, and the other is still pending. This last suit is one brought by the John Deere Plow company, in an effort to collect a bill.

Most of the suits filed against Mr. Hazell, who is president and general manager of the "Northwestern Association," have been brought by people who allege that he has misrepresented land which he has offered on conditional sale. Mr. Hazell's plan is not very original—as far as the history of the Northwest goes—and consists quite largely in selling on extended payments land said to be suitable for orchard purposes. Most of the buyers are eastern people who have not seen the land, and who agree to pay a certain amount towards the purchase of a "tract" before they pick out the tract.

The Lord's Prayer for Jingo

When they pray do not as Christians do, who pray in secret. But pray thru the press, the pulpit or the stage or street corners—anywhere in public where ye may be seen and heard of men—and pray after this manner:

Our father, who operates the ammunition factories, "Preparedness" be thy name. Thy kingdom come; thy will be done in America as it is now done in Europe. Give us this day our generous supply of bullets and battle ships; help us to increase the debts upon a fool people, for thy kingdom is graft. Thy power is money and thy glory is murder forever. Amen.

SOMEBODY SCARED?

Bar Association Talk Causes Ripple of Excitement Locally

Rumored plans on the part of some of the county seat attorneys to form an Oregon City bar association created no slight excitement in legal circles last week, and several lawyers were looking askance at their fellows and wondering what was up. William E. Stone, who appears to be one of the leading spirits in the plan, suggested that he thought Gordon E. Hayes would make a good president, and that his partner, Mr. Moulton, ought to be secretary. Mr. Stone also gave it as his opinion that the Hon. George C. Brownell ought to be chairman of the grievance committee.

What action will be taken by those behind the plan is unknown at this writing—as they used to say in the country papers—but we bet that the association will have a stormy course to sail if it is ever formed.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

At the Gladstone Christian church Friday evening there will be a general community discussion of plans for better fire protection, additional park space and other municipal benefits.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Toban, of Camas, who were injured in an automobile accident a week or so ago, are recovering rapidly. They are former residents of the county seat.

Mrs. Daisy Mollert was given a surprise party at Gladstone Monday of this week, the occasion being her birthday. Many county seat friends attended the gathering.

Gustave Snider, of Milwaukie, has been visiting friends in the southern section of the county during the week. Mr. Snider and party are traveling by automobile from their home to the California fairs.

Thomas F. Gainsboro, of Wilmington, Del., stopped in Oregon City over the week end, while en route to California, to visit local friends.

RIVER IS LOW

Oregona Goes Aground; Sunday Trips Ended for Season

In spite of a couple of days rain in the mountains last week, the Willamette river quit business as a transportation stream Friday, when the steamer Oregona ran hard and fast on a bar near Salem and tied up a bunch of hop pickers who wanted to get back to Portland. The steamer Gramona managed to make some trips, but was badly delayed in getting over the shallow spots.

End of the summer rush, together with the low stage of water, also brought out an announcement last week from the Oregon City Transportation company that they would discontinue their Sunday schedules for this year. While the season was on the company did a good business; the popularity of the river beaches bringing out much greater travel than usual.

GLADSTONE HAS 'EM

Religious Enthusiasts From County Seat Open Branch

Gladstone, the moral and remarkable city just to the north of the county seat, may shortly have an opportunity of showing Oregon City how to behave in times of local difficulty. Throughout the summer Oregon City has been struggling with the problem of how to "regulate" a group of religious enthusiasts, who have been holding services in a tabernacle on the hill. Finally Oregon City established hours in which the services could be held.

Gladstone now has a chance to see what it can do, for a branch of the county seat congregation has opened quarters in the Schooley building, Gladstone, and holds services nightly. Gladstone people who know of the difficulties Oregon City had are anxiously watching the proceedings in their own town. As yet there have been no occasions for municipal interference; but as the members of the sect in question have the reputation of working at their religion pretty hard, and making considerable noise when they work, it is believed that Gladstone will yet have troubles.

WOMEN TO MEET

W. C. T. U. to Hold County Convention At End of Week

Members of the W. C. T. U. for Clackamas county will meet in convention at the First Baptist church, Ninth and Main streets, Oregon City on Saturday, September 18. On the following day special temperance services will be held in the Baptist and Presbyterian churches, and which Mrs. Adah Wallace Unruh and Mrs. Jennie Kersey will speak. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the Saturday meeting, as many important topics will be taken up.

At the morning session of the convention there will be an election of officers and reports from all sections of the county. Needs of the several districts for the coming year will be discussed. In the afternoon papers on departmental work will be read; and in the evening there will be a general discussion on the topic "Substitutes for the Saloon," with Mr. Latourette opening the question.

Dickens Pays Fine

John Dickens, who was arrested by Patrolman George Woodward for operating a fairly good imitation of a "blind pig" in the county seat, last week entered a plea of guilty before Recorder Loder, and ponied up a fine of $200. In deference to his payment of cash, a 90-day jail sentence was suspended.

SCHOOL SOON READY

Extension of County Seat Highschool To Be Ready February 1

All irregularities and woes of the Oregon City highschool bonds have been smoothed out and settled, work on the extension of the building will start at once, and contractors say that the structure will be ready for occupancy by February 1. In the meantime the additional attendance of the county seat highschool will be cared for in portable buildings, which will all be ready for occupancy by October 1.
