

All through life the eyes bear a heavy burden—there's not a waking moment when they're not in use. Their work is far harder than most people imagine and it's no wonder that science has been called on to help exhausted Nature. So when you feel that your eyesight needs investigating with a view to the correcting of faults beginning to develop, it behooves you to obtain the most reliable advice. Our Optical Department is equipped with every device that science can produce for making the most delicate tests, and an experienced graduate optician is ready to exhaust his knowledge and skill in your behalf.

Opticists' prescriptions carefully filled. We grind our own lenses.

Burmeister & Andresen

Oregon City Jewelers
Suspension Bridge Cor.

COUNTY AND CITY LOCALS

Allan R. Joy, formerly a prosecuting attorney in Montana, and now one of Portland's well-known lawyers, was in the county seat early in the week on legal matters.

Miss Nellie Todd, of Portland, a sister of Mrs. Harry Jones, was visiting in the county seat Monday.

E. P. Preble, timberman and general promoter of Portland, motored to Oregon City early in the week, trying out a new speed buggy. When Mr. Preble has nothing else to do he buys a new racing car and practices navigating it over Clackamas county roads.

D. E. Meldrum has returned to the county seat and resumed his work in one of the paper plants. He has been spending a vacation in California.

Miss Grace Grosse and William O'Dell, of Barton, were married Monday by County Judge Anderson in the courthouse.

Mrs. W. A. White, of this city, visited near Estacada the latter part of last week, being the guest of her son, Wilfred, who is working on the South Fork Water project.

Mrs. E. H. Vonderhaeghe was a county seat visitor early in the week.

Mrs. Cassie Evans, proprietress of the Cottage Hotel, Canby, was in Oregon City the fore part of the week, and reports booming business in the southern part of the county.

Jacob Gerber, of Logan, was among the week's county seat visitors.

T. N. Burns has returned to his home in Gladstone after spending the summer at Rainier.

J. C. Kaupisch, who had a praiseworthy display at the Canby fair, was visiting friends in the county seat early in the week.

After a visit of several weeks with Mrs. R. G. Fligler in the county seat, Mrs. C. A. Burris has returned to her home in Hampton, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hendricks, of Vancouver, Wash., were visiting county seat friends over the week-end.

Harold Fosger, formerly employed in the local mills, spent the week-end in Oregon City renewing old acquaintances.

MRS. WILLIAMSON PASSES

Woman Prominent in Church Work Dies at County Seat Home

Mrs. F. Williamson, a native of Scotland, and formerly a resident of the state of Washington, died at her Oregon City home Monday after a brief illness. For the past 20 years Mrs. Williamson has been a resident of the county seat, and during that time has been prominent in church circles, in which she has a large number of devoted friends. She was a member of the Presbyterian church, and funeral services were conducted there by the Rev. J. R. Landsborough. Mrs. Williamson is survived by her husband, Frank Williamson, and two sons, Harry, of the County seat, and George, whose home is in Idaho.

Eastern Folk Here

Spending Sunday in Oregon City and vicinity, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schleswick, of St. Paul, Minn., and Misses Mabel and Katherine Gormley, of Minneapolis, paused on their automobile trip to California to take in the leading points of interest in western Clackamas county. All members of the party expressed themselves as highly pleased with the outlook for development in the Willamette valley.

"Printing with a punch"—at the Courier.

MORE ABOUT WAR

Correspondent Thinks Peace Must Come From Outside War Zone

Editor Courier: A very remarkable idea obtains in the minds of many, and that is that the war in Europe is the last great war, and that it is a war for peace.

"All that is now necessary is to break Prussian militarism, and then the millennium is assured," many say. So while the war is raging, men are proclaiming for the future, "peace and safety."

How few know that the prophetic Word is being fulfilled in this awful conflict! Our great boasted civilization has broken down; for while man has undoubtedly been refined and educated and "cultured," it is scarcely more than veneer, for in battle he sometimes seems as barbarous as in the days of Attila or Alaric.

In a cartoon that appeared in one of the late magazines, the savage's view of this war was well and truly presented. In his native wild sits the savage, reading a "war special," under a tree, against which leans his great spear. And as he reads the terrible records of destruction and barbarity, he exclaims in disgust: "Och! The heathen!"

It is undoubtedly true that this war between so-called "Christian nations" must strike the non-Christian onlooker very strangely. I am reminded of an experience which an American missionary in the Fiji Islands had shortly after the war broke out between Great Britain and the Boers. He was editing a little paper at the time in the Fijian language, and some articles concerning that war were presented to our Fijian readers.

One day a Fijian Christian sought and obtained an interview. He was exercised over the war. His statement of the case from a native standpoint was pointed and convincing. It was much as follows: "The English and the Boers are both Christian people. They both employ chaplains to accompany and encourage their soldiers. These chaplains on both sides pray to the same God for the success of their respective armies. How can God answer both? When the English missionaries taught the Fijians the message of peace we listened to it. Would it not be good for some Fijian missionaries to go to England and preach a similar message?"

What could be said in answer to such a searching argument? How could the missionary explain that there is a good reason for war? What a severe stricture on our advanced civilization and reputed Christian teaching!

The nations are not Christian. Many individuals in all of them are; but the narrow way to life is not, and can never be, broad. The Bible teaches us that in the last days men will prepare for war and not for peace. They are doing what God said we might expect. See Joel 3:9-12.

There may come a lull in the storm, but peace can not be assured. "There is no peace * * * to the wicked," God has said. The end is near. The nations are angry; and the coming of Christ, which ends the reign of sin, is the only hope for peace. His coming is the "blessed hope," and He is the "Prince of peace."

C. O. PERRY.

MULINO MAN DIES

Henry W. Shaw Passes Away at Home Of His Daughter

Henry W. Shaw passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Premo in Wisconsin, Sept. 17. Mr. Shaw was born in San Jose, Cal., Nov. 22, 1841; came to Oregon in 1890 and settled near Mulino. On October, 1914, he returned to Wisconsin to visit his daughter.

He leaves six children, two sons, Frank and Charles, Mulino, Ore.; a daughter, Mrs. Edwin Foust, Mulino, Wis.; and three daughters in San Jose, Cal.; Mrs. Simon Cobleigh, Delton, Wis.; Mrs. Will Premo, Baraboo, Wis.; Mrs. Kris Kramer, Baraboo, Wis.

Should Ride Astride

At noon Wednesday Mae Moore was sitting sideways on a horse led by one of the boys. An automobile caused the horse to shy throwing Mae off. She struck on her head, was badly shaken but suffered no serious injuries.—(Sandy News.)

Attractive Personality

If I can make you see well it is going to brighten your spirits. You will take a lively interest in people and things. Your personality will attract friends.

The enjoyment of life depends so much on good eyesight, or eyesight that is made good with PROPER glasses.

Accuracy, Satisfaction

Wm. A. Schilling

OPTOMETRIST & OPTICIAN

719 Main St., Oregon City, Ore.

"Factory on Premises"

A Case of Blackmail

By SADIE OLCOTT

Pietro Caracali was deliberating on a plan to extort money by sending a threatening letter to some one who could afford to hand over the cash to avoid trouble, when chance gave him a fine opportunity. He was walking past the estate of the Hethringtons one night about 11 o'clock when he espied a light flash among the trees within the inclosure.

Pietro was of an enterprising turn of mind, arguing that one can never tell when a secret may be picked up which may be turned into money. The flash had revealed to him something that he had not expected to see at that time of night in a rich man's grounds—namely, a gentleman carrying a small oblong box under his arm, moving toward the inclosure. Both were young, and the lady was beautiful.

Pietro climbed the fence with the agility of youth and, creeping through such plants as adorn gentlemen's estates, made his way toward the couple, who were moving to a rear corner of the grounds.

Pietro did not need to be the adept he was at theorizing to feel sure that this young couple were going to bury the body of a child contained in the box they had with them. If the little one had died without mystery there would have been no need of their interring it at this time of night and in this secret manner. Stealthily he followed the couple, who stopped at an open space in the shrubbery. The man dug a grave and, having put the box in it, shovelled in the earth and smoothed the surface, while the lady, holding the lantern, stood by, a picture of melancholy. A big dog stood by the lady, viewing the burial with evident interest.

When it was finished and the couple were about to return to the house the dog pricked up his ears and gave a low growl. Pietro best a hasty retreat. The dog dashed toward him, and Pietro got over the fence just in time to save himself from a pair of powerful jaws.

Pietro believed that he had a valuable secret. If he was right in his inference that the body of a child had been buried there who had interred it would undoubtedly give a large sum for the preservation of the secret. Pietro was a methodical rascal and would have visited the grave, dug up the box and assured himself of the truth of his inference, but he had a wholesome dread of the dog's jaws. To go there in the daytime was impracticable, and at night the dog was unloosed and permitted to roam over the grounds.

Pietro thought of going to the house and making inquiries of the servants that would help him in determining what the secret burial meant, but he was farseeing and looked forward to a possible future arrest, in which case he would be identified as having prowled around the place, the denizens of which he proposed to bleed, would prove a great disadvantage to him. He determined to proceed on the theory that there was something to be concealed.

He learned the name of the owners of the place, then wrote a note mentioning what he had seen and offering to keep the secret on payment of $5,000, giving an assumed name to be addressed at the general delivery of the postoffice. In a week's time he received a note written in a feminine hand imploring him not to divulge what he had witnessed. The money to pay for his silence was being got together, and as soon as it was ready he would be notified.

A fortnight later, not having heard anything further in the matter, he wrote again, demanding immediate payment or the police would be notified that a crime had been covered up. To this he received a reply that $3,000 of ready money had been raised and would be turned over to him in any manner that he might designate. Each year for four years $500 would be paid him provided the secret was kept.

This looked to Pietro like a bona fide offer. He had not thought that the parties would likely provide against being called on for blackmail in future. He accepted the proposition and appointed a meeting at a certain day and hour at a street corner near the scene of the burial to receive his first payment. He would wear a brown suit and would carry a book in his left hand. Any attempt at treachery would result in the death of his would be captor.

At the time appointed a man appeared on the scene and, seeing another in a brown suit and a book in his hand, asked him if he were the party to be paid for keeping a secret. Pietro admitted that he was, and the other put his hand into his inside coat pocket, took out a fat pocketbook and was about to hand it over when several men started from different points near by, one of whom clutched Pietro from behind before he could make any defense. Then he was taken to a police station.

Pietro, instead of having provided for his freedom for five years, had provided for his board at the expense of the state for an exact term. No explanation was made as to the secret of the burial, for none was needed. The lady's poodle had died in the evening, and she and her husband were to go on a journey early the next morning. The night burial was therefore necessary.

Former Deputy Gets Berth

A. J. Mumby, for some time a deputy sheriff in Washington county and well known in the county seat and elsewhere in Clackamas county, has been appointed one of the guards at the Kelly Butte rockpile, and will work under Sheriff Hurlbut of Multnomah county henceforth.

The Courier has a full line of Legal Blanks for sale. If you are in need of Legal Blanks you will find that it will pay you to come to the Courier.

BRIGHT IDEA THIS

Chance to Apply Expert Advice and See What Will Happen

Last week's Benton County Courier contains the following suggestion which strikes us as being worth a try-out:

"It has been suggested that the state Agricultural College, take ten acres of its first-class land and build a fence around it. Then build a comfortable farm bungalow thereon, together with a barn, and necessary outbuildings, find a tenant, some first-class up-to-date farmer with the necessary cows, horses, and other livestock and implements, simply to go on this ten acres of land, farm it for what he can make, and see how he will come out, keeping an accurate account of every dollar spent and every dollar taken in. Then we shall have a demonstration, and not the unproved statement of some mutt who says that a man and his son can take ten acres and make $1500.00 a year thereon, dead easy."

"Such a statement has been made recently by a man high in authority, and it is challenged. But the literature sent east and into the peaceful haunts of contented farm people as inducements to them to sell out and come here, make similar statements.

Careful as our boosters may be in what they say, they actually do put in specimens as averages, and probably do not know it. This writer has seen the same picture in the literature sent from three towns thirty miles apart as a fruit orchard near the town. It is near all of them, and it is the only one. They claim it. That is what hurts. For when the poor wap from his home of former contentment comes this way, and finds himself disillusioned, out of home, generally out of money too if he has lived here long enough, it hurts him. He turns his back, and he hitches back to his former home of contentment, and to everlastingly damn the country and the people who have printed and distributed the lies which caused him to sell out."

TIPS ON WEATHER

ig Government Reports Are Not On Hand, You can still Guess

In its current issue, Farm and Fireside says, of course, that the best weather prophet in the world is the United States Weather Bureau, which is right at least four times out of five. In regard to the less scientific guides Farm and Fireside says:

"Here are a few weather signs which are older probably than anyone living to-day. Experience has shown them to be fairly reliable, and some of them can be explained on a scientific basis:

"Moonlight nights have the heaviest frosts.

"The higher the clouds the finer the weather.

"The farther the sight the nearer the rain.

"Dew is an indication of fine weather.

"When stars flicker in a dark background, rain or snow follows soon.

"Expect a strong wind with stormy weather when smoke from chimneys hangs near the ground.

"Here are a few in verse. They have the advantage of being easily remembered:

"Clear moon,
Frost soon.

"Year of snow,
Fruit will grow.

"Rain before seven,
Fine before eleven.

"If the sun set in gray
The next will be rainy day.

"When the wind's in the south
The rain's in its mouth.

"The wind in the west
Suits everyone best.

"If you see grass in January
Lock your grain in your granary.

"Evening red and morning gray
Help the traveler on his way.

"Evening gray and morning red
Bring down rain upon his head.

"When the clouds appear like
Tops and towers,

The earth's refreshed by frequent showers.

"If you can get the official weather report by phone you'd better count on that first. But the proverbs and jingles just given are better than a common guess."

WEST LINN RICH

State Tax Commission Report Shows Mill Town Valuations High

Valuations of property in incorporated towns in Clackamas county has increased, according to the tables prepared by the state tax commission, but the tax rate has remained about the same. Perhaps the most surprising feature in the report is the valuation of West Linn property, which is shown to be nearly equal to that of Oregon City.

Incidentally it may surprise some to see that Milwaukie has the third heaviest valuation, and that though its assessed valuation is only about a fifth of that of West Linn, it collects almost as much taxes. Detailed figures for the several communities for 1915 are as follows:

Oregon City	2,874,756.04	28,404.4
City	Valuation	Taxes
Canby	$339,587.97	$5,247.75
Estacada	196,131.10	981.03
Gladstone	330,496.50	1,652.48
Milwaukie	564,370.27	4,514.91
Molalla	140,100.60	700.74
Oregon City	2,874,756.04	28,747.87
Oswego	295,257.76	2,952.56
Sandy	55,015.00	275.40
West Linn	2,435,574.41	4,871.14
Willamette	94,594.46	473.06

Gladstone Pupils Quick

In response to a test alarm of fire pupils in the Gladstone school got out of the building in exactly one minute early this week, when the first fire drill of the season was held. The lower floor of the building was cleared in 40 seconds, and 20 seconds later the last pupil from the second floor had reached the school yard.

The Good Old Times.

At one time in Rome political offices were auctioned off in public to the highest bidder. In ancient Greece theft was not considered so much of a disgrace as being caught at it.

Our prisons are not ideal, but we have made progress in dealing with crime. There were formerly fourteen offenses in Delaware punishable by hanging. In the early history of Connecticut lying, "that foul and gross sin," was punishable with five stripes at the whipping post and confinement in stocks; people were imprisoned in awful dungeons for debt. In Rome men were sold into slavery to pay debts; creditors could tear the body of the debtor to pieces, each receiving a piece according to the size of his credit.

Today is the best day creation has ever seen. For 2,000 years the Sermon on the Mount, like heaven, has been permeating the hearts of men. At last only that which is good can endure. The fires of time burn out the dross.

There is "one faroff divine event, to which all creation moves." It is perfection—but it is not here.—Leslie's.

Setting a Fashion.

Some years ago the coral fishers of Torre del Greco, near Naples, were in hard straits. The value of coral had fallen so low that they were no longer able to find purchasers for their harvest. At last in their despair they besought the queen to come to their aid.

At the first great court ball that was held that year at the Quirinal the queen, to the surprise of all beholders, wore about her neck a collar composed of six rows of coral instead of her superb collar of pearls, and her black hair was crowned with a diadem of coral and brilliants. From that evening the mode changed. Old coral ornaments that had been hidden away for years and years were again displayed at the jewellers' and were snapped up by eager purchasers. Queen Helena's object was attained, and that court ball marked the beginning of more prosperous days for the coral fishers of Torre del Greco.

The Chinaman's Wardrobe.

In "Home Life in China" Isaac Taylor Headland tells the following story to illustrate the conveniences of the Chinese costume:

A Chinese government representative who was new to American ways came to the home of an eminent New York banker for a week's visit. It was winter, but he came without luggage, and yet every day he appeared at dinner with a change of garments. At first his hostess wondered how he managed it, but soon she discovered that his body was his trunk and that instead of putting his clothes into his trunk he put his trunk into his clothes. His garments were like the layers of an onion, except that any layer might be worn on the outside, and as some of his gowns—for such they might be called—were of silk, lined with fur, or fur, lined with silk, he could wear them either side out at will.

A Rare Bird.

The lowest form of bird life which exists is believed to be the kiwi, or Apteryx nantelli, of New Zealand. It is so scarce, however, that scientists consider themselves lucky to get a specimen in any condition. It is without wings or tail; its legs are short, but very strong, and are used for digging. The chief food of the bird is earthworms. The body covering is a cross between hair and feathers. The kiwis develop great speed and make a desperate fight when attacked. A peculiar characteristic is that during the day they conceal themselves under rocks or roots of trees and when at rest resemble to some extent a hedgehog when it is curled up. Efforts to breed them in captivity have utterly failed, and only a few museums can boast of specimens.

Explained.

When he came in late he said to his waiting wife, "See the nice present I brought you."

"Where is it?"

"Here it is. A point lace handkerchief."

"Oh, ain't it beautiful?"

"Yes, it cost a dollar, marked down to 99 cents."

"My, what a horrible odor!"

"Oh, that's the scent of the dollar!"

—Exchange.

Chesterfield on Dress.

"When you are once well dressed for the day," wrote Chesterfield, "think no more of it. Always and without any stiffness or fear of discomposing that dress let all your actions be as easy and natural as if you had no clothes on at all."

An Unkind Retort.

"You made a fool of me!" exclaimed the angry husband.

"Call yourself a fool if you wish, my dear," calmly rejoined his tantalizingly placid wife, "but remember that you have always claimed to be a self made man."

Honest, Anyhow.

"So you are marrying the man of your choice?"

"Not exactly the man of my choice; rather the man I could get."—Detroit Free Press.

Quite Manly.

Mother—I'm afraid you are overeating. Tommy (keeping on)—I ain't afraid. Women get scared at things fore men do.—Boston Transcript.

Meet Proposition.

Hubb—Cool any icebergs coming over on the steamer? Gotham—Well, yes; I was introduced to a girl from Boston.—Yonkers Statesman.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him. NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Dear Amy:-

I used to think a long time ago that our home was furnished complete, but it wasn't until I bought a big easy chair for John. Now, how he does enjoy leaning back and puffing his big cigar while I play the phonograph for him.

Women should look out for the comfort of their husbands as well as for the beauty of their homes.

Your chum,

Lou.

P.S.—You just go down and buy Bob a big easy chair from

FRANK BUSCH

Leading Furniture Dealer

11th & Main Sts.

Oregon City, Ore.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

250 DOLLARS CASH

The balance in monthly payments to suit the purchaser. Better still; make our offer your savings bank—deposit a small amount each month until you have deposited $250.00 then take your car and pay the balance in monthly payments.

Pacific Highway Garage
Oregon City, Oregon

MUCH MONEY SAVED

But It Wasn't Spent in the United States Instead of Europe

In a recent interview Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, expressed himself as gratified with the public interest in the development of our great National Parks.

"The number of visitors has been steadily increasing," he said, "but this summer's travel will be far ahead of other seasons. As the magnitude, beauty and healthfulness of parks are better understood it may be expected that the yearly travel to them will rapidly increase. Thus, the damage caused by the war is being neutralized by inducing Americans to spend money at home. The whole country is the gainer by this intermingling of the people of the East and the West."

Secretary Lane's modest estimate of "at least a hundred million dollars" that Americans are saving to America this year is, indeed, conservative in comparison with the figures compiled by Lockwood Barr, editor of the Wall Street Journal, who finds that the 600,000 Americans who go abroad each normal year spend, in passage money alone, nearly $87,000,000. Most of the steamship lines, are of course, foreign.

"It is quite impossible," he continues, "to get even a fair approximation of the amount of money tourists spend while abroad in hotel bills, railroad, steamboat, and other forms of transportation, gratuities, etc. An estimate by one who comes in contact with a representative part of the regular summer exodus of Americans to Europe places the amount of money spent in this wise at a very conservative minimum of $220,000,000.

"Of course nothing approaching this saving is being spent on American scenery this summer. At least, however, it is being kept in America."

GOOD MAPS OFFERED

Uncle Sam Will Sell One For a Penny And It Is Worth It

School-teachers who are not familiar with the many and various maps published by the United States Geological Survey will be interested to learn of a small map of the United States which is sold by that bureau at the nominal price of 1 cent. This map shows rivers, lakes, State boundaries, State capitals, and principal cities, but not the less important