TREATED TIMBER TESTED

Government Inquiry Shows Many Factors Enter Into Success

According to records recently compiled by the Forest Products Laboratory of the Forest Service, Madison, Wis., of tests made upon creosoted and untreated poles and posts of various woods, it was determined that creosoted material of this character in such woods as Douglass fir, western red cedar and western yellow pine will last for over 20 years. Other western woods, such as Sitka spruce, lodgepole pine and alpine fir, have shown a similar record. Untreated woods of these species vary in durability from two to eleven years, western yellow pine decaying sometimes in two years and western red cedar lasting at times eleven years.

These figures are, however, given as average or approximate results, for individual cases often show a wide variation from these averages. This is due to a large number of influencing factors. The quality and kind of wood, the climate soil, drainage, ground cover, amount of sapwood present, the condition of the heartwood, whether the wood has grown in open or dense stand,—all have their effect upon the durability of the wood. It has also been found that poles and posts set in very wet or very dry soils are more durable than those set in soils alternately wet and dry. Winter cut timber has been found in some cases to be more durable than summer cut. There is little evidence that the seasoning of the wood adds to its durability.

AID FOR FRUIT MEN

Uncle Sam to Open Bureau in Spokane to Assist Apple Shippers

Complying with numerous requests from the growers' councils, chambers of commerce, growers and shippers' organizations in the States of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, the office of Markets and Rural Organization of the United States Department of Agriculture has made plans to establish temporary headquarters in the Northwest for the study of the distribution of the 1915 boxed apple crop.

The plan as outlined is based upon assurance that the Office of Markets and Rural Organization will receive the cooperation of all those interested in the apple industry, for without this cooperation the efforts of the Office would not produce valuable results. It is probable that the field headquarters for this work will be in Spokane, because of the accessibility of that point to the apple territory in the Northwestern states.

The work which the Office will do is not that of a telegraphic market news service, but rather contemplates the collection by mail and the compilation of data and issuance of weekly bulletins concerning the shipments and destination of the northwestern boxed apples. In this connection similar work will be carried on to a certain extent in the apple sections of Colorado, Utah, and California.

IS YOUR SPINAL COLUMN PLUMB?

HERE are so many contributing causes which lead to a defective spinal column, that to enumerate them would require an almost exhaustless review of life from cradle to grave.

The position assumed by the child at the school desk, or the man or woman while at work, suggests the tendency for abnormal spinal curvature; also a fall or bruise, no matter how slight, may easily throw the spinal column out of plumb, and these may cause the fatal pressure upon the nerves and throttle the life giving currents, leading to disease of the organs.

Chiropractic Adjusts Spinal Defects

It lifts the pressure from the nerves, permitting them to nourish the famished and worn out tissues and organs. Nature is then able to bring about normal conditions, which mean Health.
