FLORENCE STROMGREN UNITED IN MARRIAGE TO CHARLES HARLOW

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stromgren, of Colton, Saturday evening, when their elder daughter, Miss Florence, became the bride of Charles Harlow, of this city. The marriage was witnessed by relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties.

To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, rendered by Ruth Schuebel, the bride party entered the living room, and during the impressive marriage ceremony performed by Rev. J. R. Landsborough, former pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city, now of Portland, stood beneath a floral archway made of roses and ferns. This room and the dining room were beautifully decorated with cut flowers.

Following the marriage ceremony Miss Pearl Stromgren, sister of the bride, sang most impressively "Love's Old Sweet Song," and was accompanied by Miss Ruth Schuebel, of this city.

The bride, a very attractive girl, was handsomely gowned in white silk with net oversleeves. She wore a long tulle veil held in place with a crown of orange blossoms, and her shower bouquet was of pink carnations and tiny rosebuds, the latter, gracefully attached to the satin streamers.

The bride's maid, Miss Pearl Stromgren, of Colton, and sister of the bride, was prettily attired in white chiffon. She carried pink carnations. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Fletcher Harlow, of Cottage Grove.

During the evening Miss Pearl Stromgren and Mrs. Glen Hankins, the latter of this city, gave a number of vocal selections. Among those the latter gave was "I Love You Truly."

Mr. and Mrs. Stromgren, parents of the bride, served refreshments.

Among those witnessing the ceremony were Mrs. C. A. Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Stromgren, Fletcher J. Harlow, Mrs. Mable Spray, Mrs. William T. Hankins, Hugh H.
