

CRITICISM RESULTS IN RESIGNING OF OFFICIAL

Thomas A. Roots, roadmaster of Clackamas county, resigned Monday, effective August 1.

His resignation was presented to the court following a conference between the court and a delegation of citizens interested in the improvement of the Clackamas-Milwaukie road. The roadmaster was presented and says he was criticized in the presence of the delegation for having ordered the grading of a portion of the road. He charges Commissioner W. P. Harris with having conspired with him for having had the work done, though Mr. Roots makes the statement that he was acting under the direction of County Judge Anderson.

There has been trouble brewing for some months between Roadmaster Roots and Commissioners Harris and Proctor, though the relations between Judge Anderson and the roadmaster have been very friendly. Mr. Roots charges the commissioners with hampering his efforts for road improvement, and the commissioners, in turn, indicate that Roots spent too much time in his office, and that he devoted all his field work to paving operations and is not familiar with the needs of many of the country districts.

The breach between the roadmaster and the commissioners widened recently when the question of paving the new highway link connecting Gladstone with the road to Clackamas was discussed. Roots has been insisting that the new road be paved this year, as the people of the district which voted a special tax for the improvement expected it. The court, on the other hand, suggested that the road be macadamized and left to settle, leaving the paving for another year. Another wrangle arose over the question of paving the road connecting Portland avenue in Gladstone with Glen Echo, and some of the Gladstone people asserted that the pavement had been promised by the roadmaster.

Up to last January Roadmaster Roots was given rather a free hand by the county court, but when Mr. Harris succeeded Adam H. Knight, of Canby, the hand of the court tightened, and restrictions, real or fancied, became irksome to Mr. Roots and he has several times indicated he would sever official relations with the county.

Roots has been roadmaster about four years, and has directed paving operations with the county's own paving plant, which is at present working on the Clackamas River road between Clackamas station and the Rock Creek bridge on the north side of the river. Under the program announced by the court, the road through Gladstone, following the present river road, from Steel avenue to Portland avenue, along the Clackamas river, will be next in line for hard surfacing.

Clackamas is one of the few, if not the only county in Oregon, doing its own paving, which has, in turn, been denounced as worthless, and has been praised as having elements of permanence and being laid cheaper than similar pavement by contractors elsewhere.

CAMPTON IS NAMED NEW ROAD HEAD BY COUNTY

At a meeting of the county court of Clackamas county Tuesday H. C. Campton, who has been connected with the state highway commission, was named as County Road Commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of T. A. Roots.

Mr. Campton has had much experience as an engineer, and for several years was employed by Multnomah county under Mr. Nunn. His home is at Haley station near Boring. He will take up his duties with the Clackamas county road commission immediately.

New Prison Ruling Helps Discipline

SALEM, July 21.—Warden Steiner of the state penitentiary pronounces as very beneficial in its effect among the prisoners the ruling recently made by himself and Governor Olcott to the effect that any prisoner who escapes and is captured or who attempts to escape will be punished by being required to serve his maximum sentence. The same ruling is made to apply to paroled men who violate their paroles by the commission of crime. Those who violate their paroles otherwise than by commission of crime are still allowed the privilege, after having been returned to the prison, to appear before the parole board at a later date.

FIVE KILLED IN RACE RIOTING WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Proclamation martial law may be necessary tonight in the killing of five and injury of at least 50 others in several days of disorders, following a wave of attacks on white women, robberies and assaults by negroes, culminated in a series of race battles during the night hours which the police were unable to cope fully, despite the aid of military provost guards.

Several of the injured were reported fatally hurt and at least 200 rioters were under arrest. The dead include Detective Sergeant Harry Wilson, shot through the heart by a negro girl when he entered a house from which she was firing indiscriminately into the street.

FIRST PACIFIC NEWSPAPER TO BE DEDICATED

Delegates to the National Editorial association convention in Portland to the number of over 500 are expected in Oregon City on Saturday, August 9 to participate in the dedication ceremonies of the monument which will commemorate the site of the first newspaper established on the Pacific coast.

The Oregon Spectator was founded in Oregon City in February of 1846, the site of the building as nearly as it has been possible to determine from all records being a small frame building situated on the grounds now occupied by the Hawley Pulp & Paper company's buildings at the south end of Main street.

The site for the location of the monument which is to be erected to commemorate Oregon's first newspaper, and which has been donated by Mr. W. P. Hawley, is a grassy plot immediately adjacent to the office building of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, and the monument, which will be in the form of a rough-hewn rock weighing approximately six tons taken from the bluff adjacent to the Southern Pacific tracks, is being placed in position in preparation for the dedication ceremonies.

The monument will be set on an appropriate concrete base and will be inscribed with the historical data for the commemoration of which the monument is being erected. The surrounding grass plot will be laid out with appropriate settings and attractive gravel walks and will be one of the beauty spots of the city which in future years will attract tourists visiting the city.

The National Editorial association is scheduled to convene in Portland on August 8 and from advance reservations it is evident that every section of the United States will be represented during the convention. The Oregon City Commercial club has arranged with the Portland Railway, Light & Power company for special trains to carry the delegates to this city for participation in the dedication ceremonies, and the committee in charge has been assured a full attendance of the delegates. The Commercial club is in receipt of many letters from delegates to the convention expressing pleasure at the opportunity which makes possible their participation in an event of such historical interest as the prospective dedication ceremonies.

HARD SURFACE ROAD WILL BE FINISHED SOON

With the exception of a short stretch of roadway on the Milwaukie hill the highway from Oregon City to Portland will soon be entirely completed, as a result of work which has been started by the County paving plant on the north side of the Clackamas river.

The first stretch of hard surface pavement to be laid by the county plant on the north side of the Clackamas will be between Clackamas station and Rock Creek bridge, and extending through Gladstone to connect with the river road at Steel avenue, also running west to connect with the pavement extending from the Clackamas bridge to Portland avenue in Gladstone.

Right of way for the new work to eliminate several bad corners on Steel avenue are now being negotiated. Completion of the proposed work will give a hard surfaced highway all the way from Oregon City to Portland, with the exception of a short stretch over the Milwaukie hill.

Our Own Horn

Modesty may be a virtue, but every once in a while a concern does something or promises something that is worthy of more than passing notice.

We refer to our early removal to the new Enterprise building on Eighth street and Railroad avenue.

This structure was originally erected, five years ago, for a newspaper building and was occupied as such its plans and arrangements contemplated a weekly newspaper, with the average equipment of a weekly. The Enterprise, upon acquiring the building, was faced with the problem at the outset of not only remodeling the interior to fit the conditions of a daily newspaper and a larger printing plant, but is now having plans drafted for a substantial addition to the south of the building, giving our institution more than 1000 square feet of additional floor space and providing accommodation for the book bindery, one of the three located in Oregon outside of the city of Portland.

The Enterprise has been in its present quarters more than 30 years, and has twice, within the last 12 years, had additions constructed. The last time it was necessary to erect another story on a portion of the building.

In its new home all of the operations of the Enterprise will be on one floor, making for efficiency in handling its products. The structure, when remodeled, enlarged and finally completed, will be one of the best newspaper and printing buildings in the state, and our removal will enable us to give even better service to our constantly growing list of patrons than before. The Enterprise is able to boast that it distributes in Oregon City annually more than $20,000 in wages, and that it is a worth-while institution in the growth and progress of our city and state.

ANNUAL TRAINING SCHOOL SESSION TO BE HELD NEXT MONTH

The annual county training school for teachers of Clackamas county schools, scheduled in this city from August 4 to 22, will be held at the Pacific clay school and from present indications will be one of the most largely attended in the history of the annual meetings since their inception by the County Superintendent of Schools.

The school, which in former years has been known as a Teachers' Institute, provides a highly intensive training period of study and lectures for teachers of the schools throughout the county, and is a valuable adjunct to the regular courses of study pursued by the teachers in qualifying themselves for the work of instruction as laid out by the county school board.

County Superintendent of Schools J. E. Calavan, under whose supervision the training school is conducted, has announced the following instructors who will be in attendance at the session next month: Primary, Miss Mamie L. Fulkerson, of Stayton; grammar, history and reading, Miss Lillian Schmidl, of Franklin high school of Portland; civics, arithmetic and geography, R. W. Kirk, Supt. Oregon City schools; physical training, Louis Leppere, Oregon City.

Daily lectures are to be given by many of the foremost instructors from the various colleges and institutions throughout the state, and daily chapel talks by Rev. C. H. L. Chandler, St. Paul's Episcopal church, and Dr. E. E. Gilbert, Methodist Episcopal church, of this city, will be features of the training school.

TELEPHONE OPERATORS STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

In obedience to orders received from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in San Francisco on Sunday all the operators of the local exchange of the Pacific Telephone company reported for work Monday morning, and it is expected that in accordance with an earlier statement of that company all operators reporting will be taken back to fill the positions vacated by them when they quit their posts several days ago on orders from the officials of the International.

Information vouchsafed by an official of the local exchange last evening was to the effect that the work of re-engaging the local operators was being handled from the Portland offices of the company, and that so far as could be ascertained it was the intention of the company to take back all striking operators.

Reports from Portland are to the effect that practically all of the operators in the various exchanges in that city have returned to work, with the exception of isolated cases where the girls refused to take off the union ribbons which they donned at the start of the strike.

Members of the electricians' branch of the I. B. E. W., employed by the telephone company who went out on strike with the operators, and who threatened upon first receipt of the order and remain out, have also returned and remain out, have also returned to work in the local exchange as well as in the Portland exchanges.

FORESTS OF BULL RUN IN DANGER FROM FIRES

PORTLAND, July 23.—Fires in the Bull Run reserve, presumably started by lightning, were reported late Wednesday afternoon and two crews of men have been dispatched to locate and extinguish the blazes.

So far as has been ascertained the fires reported are small and if reached in time can be stopped before they assume dimensions which will threaten Portland's water supply.

ATTENDANCE AT CHAUTAUQUA IS NEW RECORD

The twenty sixth assembly of the Gladstone Chautauqua came to a close Sunday night after a thirteen days' session that has shattered every record of previous years. Secretary Arthur Beattie stated Monday afternoon that it was impossible at the present time to state just how far ahead, financially, the association would be, as all bills were not in nor audited. There will, however, be a comfortable balance on the right side of the ledger, notwithstanding the fact that the management this year presented one of the best programs in the history of the organization. The members of the tent colony were busily engaged Monday in packing up and moving out.

M. E. Reed, platform manager, left Sunday evening for Victoria, B. C., where he will act in a similar capacity at the seven day session of the Chautauqua at that place.

While the attendance of the last day was not up to the previous Sunday, it came fully up to expectations, over 6000 gathering for a program up to the standard of the preceding days. Following Sunday school, in charge of the state association, were three entertainments by the Apollo Concert company. The Chautauqua Chorus, under the direction of Jasper Dean MacFall, appeared afternoon and evening.

Mrs. E. T. Allen, who has spent several years with her husband as a missionary in Persia, spoke on "When the Turk Came to Persia."

Rev. William McElveen of the Manhattan Congregational Church of New York City, who is filling the pulpit of the First Congregational church of Portland for a few weeks, was secured for a sermon lecture at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. McElveen is a forceful speaker, with a fund of humor that enables him to hold his audience from the time he steps on the platform until the close of his address.

The closing number on the program was the illustrated lecture, "Closing Days of the War," by Henry Warren Poor, formerly head of the art department of the Boston Normal School, but now engaged as color expert for Underwood & Underwood. The slides shown included the principal characters in the great conflict, the great devastation in the Argonne forest wrought by the heavy guns of the American forces and the devastated cities and fields of France. A number of pictures were shown that up to the close of the war were under the censor's ban; these included a number of slides showing the devastation wrought by the bombs in Paris and London. Mr. Poor's lecture was one of the strong numbers of the assembly.

Local talent has contributed greatly to the success of the Chautauqua, and the management is to be congratulated on being able to secure the hearty co-operation of so many who by their efforts helped in making the entire session so successful.

Among the many who gave generous assistance were Jasper Dean MacFall, who organized the Chautauqua chorus and whose daily concerts were the subject of much favorable comment. F. F. Theroux, whose daily appearance at the symposium hour, with a class of pupils whom he has been training for the past year, was a strong drawing card. Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, who had charge of the daily Symposium, and who arranged for the appearance of the speakers who appeared daily on the program.

One of the pleasant features of the last day of the Gladstone Chautauqua was the singing of the duet, "Hope Beyond," by Garland and Homer Holwell, following which Garland Holwell sang "The Lord Is My Light," responding to an encore with "Oh Heart of Mine."

STRANGER IS SUPPOSED TO BE FUGITIVE

Fred Sparks, alias Walter Raleigh, who escaped from the state penitentiary at Salem last Saturday is supposed to have passed through this city Thursday morning about five o'clock, according to a report brought in Friday morning by Beldon Ganong, who has a houseboat on the Willamette river just south of town where he is engaged in crawfishing.

According to Mr. Ganong he first noticed the suspected man standing on a float a short distance from the houseboat as he was engaged at his fishing and again noticed the stranger after he returned from Oregon City several hours later. Mr. Ganong obtained a closer view of the stranger at this time and noted that he carried a coat or jumper similar to those worn by state convicts and the overall he had on had been torn across the knees and roughly patched. On account of the jumper he made a careful mental note of the man's appearance and partially identified a photograph in the Sheriff's office as corresponding to the details of the stranger.

On a pretext of business he remarked to the stranger that he must needs return to Oregon City, and Sparks asked him to set him across the river in his rowboat. Mr. Ganong asked him why he couldn't walk down the east bank of the river and cross the bridge at Oregon City and Sparks replied that he did not want to go through the city. Mr. Ganong accordingly took him across the river and Sparks departed in the direction of Portland.

SCHOOL REPORT FOR LAST YEAR SETS RECORD

The yearly report of County Superintendent of Schools Calavan for the year ending June, 1919, for Clackamas county, is one of the most highly satisfactory in the history of the Clackamas county schools, and is indisputable evidence of the benefits that have been derived from the campaign of cooperation between the citizens of the county and Superintendent Calavan for the advancement of education in the outlying districts of the county on a par with the work being done in the city schools.

According to the report out of a total of 11,277 persons in the county between the ages of four and twenty years the total registration during the past year was 7,979 and the percentage of attendance for all the schools of the county is reported as 93.5, exceeding the standard of 92 per cent as established by the state board.

The total enrollment of pupils above the eighth grade is shown as 808 and the number completing the 8th grade work during the past year as 514. The average number of days taught in all of the schools of the county was 142.8.

Out of the 142 school districts in the county 140 were reported as being open for the full term. The total number of school houses is shown as 149 with one new school having been built during the past year. Of this number 147 are reported to have been in operation during the year. Fifty-two schools completed a nine-month term, three completed the ten-month term, and eighty-five the eight-month term.

A report of the library departments of the schools of the county shows a total of 32,940 books on hand, 2,989 new books having been purchased during the year.

The financial report of the Superintendent shows the schools of the county to be in a particularly healthy condition, with receipts totalling nearly a half million dollars and expenditures totalling $355,978. Of this amount $206,945.68 was paid out in teachers' salaries, the average of which was $71.60 for the smallest one-room schools and the highest, with the exception of the superintendent of the Oregon City schools, was $102.02 for principals in schools of more than one room.

The report bears incontestable evidence of the progressiveness of the citizens of the county, and the percentage of attendance, which is well above that established by the state, is supported in great measure by the attendance of the schools in the outlying districts, disproving the idea that the country youths are handicapped in their effort to secure the fundamentals of a complete education.

In spite of the fact that the school year just past was short in point of total days of session the report shows that the number graduated, five hundred and fourteen, is above the average of former years. Over one hundred of the children of school age registered in the county are reported to be in attendance in high schools in Portland and other parts of the state outside of Clackamas county, and in addition to these are a number who are attending private and parochial schools who are not included in the figures compiled by Superintendent Calavan.

The average of students graduated from the grammar schools during the past term who have declared their intention of entering high school the coming term is shown to be 80 per cent, which is on a par with the showing made by the best city schools.

TEST SUIT STARTED TO FIX BLAME OF DAMAGE

As the result of five separate actions filed in the county court by Traffic Officer Meads during the past few days against the Willamette Valley Transfer company of Portland and Salem, that company was named as defendant in the trial of the cases to test the state law relative to the overloading of trucks traveling on the State highways insofar as any damage to the pavement caused by the trucks may be chargeable to the owners or operators.

In a previous case of this nature against a Silverton firm tried before Justice of the Peace Stipp, that firm pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined, and Justice Stipp upheld his previous opinion in the present case.

In the case now pending against the Willamette Valley Transfer company the outstanding questions which will be brought out for settlement are as to the exact and proper rating of the loading of trucks using the highways, as established in the existing state law, and the licensing of trailers under the present law.

It has been frequently reported that heavy trucks, with trailers, are doing a great amount of damage to the paving of the county highways and recourse of some nature has been proposed to force the owners of the trucks to lighten their loads to a degree of safety.

The usual practice of the drivers of the heavy trucks, which usually make use of the highways during the night, is to keep to one side of the paving, the noise of their machines making it impossible for them to hear the sirens or horns of machines approaching from the rear and desiring to pass. The result of this, evident at many points along the roads, is the breaking down of the pavement which along the edges is lighter than on the crown.

The case against the Portland company is being watched with interest from all points of the state.

TWO ARE HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMEN ON MILWAUKIE ROAD

A second hold-up took place in Milwaukie on the Lake road Saturday night, when three highwaymen halted Tom Evans and Mr. Kilgren, severely beating Evans when he attempted to put up a fight. Kilgren was coming down the road sometime after midnight, returning home on the last Milwaukie car. About 25 yards back of Kilgren came Evans. When Kilgren neared some brush near the side of the road Evans saw him disappear and, thinking of a hold-up, took the center of the road when he neared the spot where Kilgren disappeared. When he arrived even with the spot three men stepped out and ordered him to throw up his hands. He did so and was ordered to advance to the side of the road and into the brush. When the robbers stopped him he found that they also had Kilgren in charge. Kilgren was standing near with his hands in the air. The robbers searched him. When they were taking his watch, Evans remonstrated and as the robbers continued Evans started to fight and call for help. At this time an auto passed and the driver, hearing the cry for help, stopped. The robbers took to their heels, dropping a pocketbook which they had taken from Kilgren. No trace has been found of the three robbers up to late this morning. A man following Evans and Kilgren, hearing the scuffle, ran into his house and got a gun, but by the time he arrived on the scene the robbers had fled. All of the men held up live near Milwaukie on the Lake road. In the scuffle Evans was seriously beaten about the head and face with the butt of a gun in the hands of one of the highwaymen. He is now in the hands of a physician.

BROWNE MAN WAS RESIDENT OF REDLANDS

C. Swanson, prominent farmer of Redland, was in this city today, going on his way home from Portland, where he had gone to identify the body of a man, believed to have been A. Naslund, formerly of Redland, who mysteriously disappeared from his home at Redland about May 15. The body proved to be that of the young man, who was 31 years of age, and was well and favorably known in Redland, where he had engaged in farming on a small scale for the past two years. Naslund resided in Oak Grove for five years before taking up his home at the former place, and still retained the ownership of five acres of land there.

Mr. Naslund, who was single, had always been known to carry large sums of money on his person, and his friends at Redland believe he was killed for the money, and the body thrown into the river. He was a man of excellent qualities, and was very reserved.

The only known relative Naslund has is a brother in Montana, and word has been sent him.

TEST SUIT STARTED TO FIX BLAME OF DAMAGE

As the result of five separate actions filed in the county court by Traffic Officer Meads during the past few days against the Willamette Valley Transfer company of Portland and Salem, that company was named as defendant in the trial of the cases to test the state law relative to the overloading of trucks traveling on the State highways insofar as any damage to the pavement caused by the trucks may be chargeable to the owners or operators.

In a previous case of this nature against a Silverton firm tried before Justice of the Peace Stipp, that firm pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined, and Justice Stipp upheld his previous opinion in the present case.

In the case now pending against the Willamette Valley Transfer company the outstanding questions which will be brought out for settlement are as to the exact and proper rating of the loading of trucks using the highways, as established in the existing state law, and the licensing of trailers under the present law.

It has been frequently reported that heavy trucks, with trailers, are doing a great amount of damage to the paving of the county highways and recourse of some nature has been proposed to force the owners of the trucks to lighten their loads to a degree of safety.

The usual practice of the drivers of the heavy trucks, which usually make use of the highways during the night, is to keep to one side of the paving, the noise of their machines making it impossible for them to hear the sirens or horns of machines approaching from the rear and desiring to pass. The result of this, evident at many points along the roads, is the breaking down of the pavement which along the edges is lighter than on the crown.

The case against the Portland company is being watched with interest from all points of the state.

TWO ARE HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMEN ON MILWAUKIE ROAD

A second hold-up took place in Milwaukie on the Lake road Saturday night, when three highwaymen halted Tom Evans and Mr. Kilgren, severely beating Evans when he attempted to put up a fight. Kilgren was coming down the road sometime after midnight, returning home on the last Milwaukie car. About 25 yards back of Kilgren came Evans. When Kilgren neared some brush near the side of the road Evans saw him disappear and, thinking of a hold-up, took the center of the road when he neared the spot where Kilgren disappeared. When he arrived even with the spot three men stepped out and ordered him to throw up his hands. He did so and was ordered to advance to the side of the road and into the brush. When the robbers stopped him he found that they also had Kilgren in charge. Kilgren was standing near with his hands in the air. The robbers searched him. When they were taking his watch, Evans remonstrated and as the robbers continued Evans started to fight and call for help. At this time an auto passed and the driver, hearing the cry for help, stopped. The robbers took to their heels, dropping a pocketbook which they had taken from Kilgren. No trace has been found of the three robbers up to late this morning. A man following Evans and Kilgren, hearing the scuffle, ran into his house and got a gun, but by the time he arrived on the scene the robbers had fled. All of the men held up live near Milwaukie on the Lake road. In the scuffle Evans was seriously beaten about the head and face with the butt of a gun in the hands of one of the highwaymen. He is now in the hands of a physician.

BROWNE MAN WAS RESIDENT OF REDLANDS

C. Swanson, prominent farmer of Redland, was in this city today, going on his way home from Portland, where he had gone to identify the body of a man, believed to have been A. Naslund, formerly of Redland, who mysteriously disappeared from his home at Redland about May 15. The body proved to be that of the young man, who was 31 years of age, and was well and favorably known in Redland, where he had engaged in farming on a small scale for the past two years. Naslund resided in Oak Grove for five years before taking up his home at the former place, and still retained the ownership of five acres of land there.

Mr. Naslund, who was single, had always been known to carry large sums of money on his person, and his friends at Redland believe he was killed for the money, and the body thrown into the river. He was a man of excellent qualities, and was very reserved.

The only known relative Naslund has is a brother in Montana, and word has been sent him.

Roosevelt Highway Prospects Bright

PORTLAND, July 18.—Prospects that congress will appropriate $2,500,000 to match the bond issue of a like amount by the voters of Oregon for the construction of the Roosevelt highway are very encouraging, according to Louis J. Simpson of North Bend, Charles Hall of Marshfield and B. F. Jones of Tillamook, who returned Tuesday night from Washington, D. C., where they have been for the past three weeks in the interest of the appropriation.