RECEIPTS FROM FORESTS SHOW MARKED INCREASE

The gross receipts from the national forests of Oregon, Washington and Alaska, comprising the North Pacific district of the forest service, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, were $644,937.57, according to a report just compiled in the office of the district forester, Geo. H. Cecil, Portland, Ore. Refunds due to excess payments for timber or forage were made to the amount of $8,761.39, leaving the actual receipts for the year $636,176.18, which is nearly $150,000 greater than the receipts for the year 1916.

Of this amount, $450,000 was derived from the sale of national forest timber in the district, and $186,000 from grazing permits. Special use permits brought in $11,000. The remainder came from power sites, timber settlement, and timber and grazing trespass.

The Whitman national forest in eastern Oregon leads the district in the amount of receipts from all sources with a return of $119,533.20. Of this amount $107,500 was derived from the sale of timber. The Crater national forest stands second with a total return of $95,957.60. Ninety-two thousand dollars of this came from timber sale business. The Tongass national forest in southeastern Alaska received $60,443.05.

Other forests in the district which brought in large returns are the Wallowa, $46,494.66; the Olympic, $39,822.28; the Rainier, $28,012.13; the Columbia, $25,184.33; the Malheur, $22,804.24, and the Umpqua, $21,212.74.

In receipts from grazing permits, the Wallowa national forest leads with $24,554.57. The Malheur ranks second with $21,471.46; and the Fremont forest third, with $15,137.14. Other forests doing grazing business in excess of ten thousand dollars for the year are the Wenaha, the Minam, the Ochoco, the Okanogan, and the Whitman.

The national forests in Alaska lead in amount of receipts from special uses. The Tongass forest received $4020.42 and the Chugach forest $1030.00 from this source.

The receipts from water power business on the Tongass national forest were $1427.50, which is the highest in the district. The Oregon stands next with $1325.12, and the Whitman third with $843.50. Other forests doing more than $400,000 worth of water power business for the year are the Washington, $775.73; the Wenatchee, $693.10, and the Minam, $420.70.

Twenty-five per cent of the total receipts from national forest business will go to the counties in which the forests are located as part of the road and school funds. Ten per cent more will be used in the construction of roads and trails within the national forests. In round numbers this amounts to $159,000 and $63,000, respectively. The states of Oregon and Washington further benefit in the sums of $127,000 and $92,000, respectively, for forest roads, under the Shackleford act.

SUNDAY RAPS RED RAG ANARCHIST

York, New Haven and Hartford railroads. Under the direction of Harbridge way, made up the Sunday party.

Gardner Whipp, of Portland, the Chautauqua chorus and several soloists, gave an hour's musical program following the lecture. James Goddard, bass-baritone of the Chicago Grand Opera company, assisted by Ruth Loy, violinist, and Robert Yale Smith, pianist, gave an excellent program of solos in the evening, but the crowd failed to appreciate it and gradually simmered away until but few remained for the singing of America.

Business Has Been Fine in England

B. C. Forbes says in the August American Magazine: "Thousands, even millions of families find themselves richer than they had ever dared to hope. The possession of surplus wealth is a novel sensation to them, and it is natural that they should want to procure the comforts and luxuries this wealth can buy, even though they are appealed to from every billboard and pulpit and newspaper to save their money and buy war bonds. The consequence is that pianos, phonographs, low and medium-priced jewelry, silk raiment, custom-made suits, expensive shoes, fine cigars, the better grades of foods, motorcycles, and even low-priced automobiles, are bought more extensively than in times of peace, while, it must in truth be added, the consumption of drink in England and Scotland increased lamentably."

Shingles by Parcel Post

A western lumber company made exceptional use of the parcel-post system not long ago when it shipped a consignment of 30,000 shingles through the mails. The destination of the shingles was 52 miles from the shipping point, and the postal charges were less than $50. Although a shipment of this size is uncommon, the parcel post is frequently used in the western states to send supplies to remote places in the stock-raising country as well as to the mines, many of which are far from the beaten paths of travel, and so have no adequate railway facilities. The lot of shingles referred to went via a star rural delivery route.—From the August Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Arrested for Alleged Non-Support
Forest DeLatchmett, of this city, was taken to Portland by a Multnomah county deputy sheriff Saturday on a warrant charging nonsupport. DeLatchmett was arrested by Constable D. E. Frost, who said DeLatchmett's former wife made the charge alleging that DeLatchmett has failed to pay for the support of two children.

Gregory Thanks Wilson

T. W. Gregory, attorney-general of the United States, has written a personal letter to Sheriff W. J. Wilson, of Clackamas county, in which he expresses appreciation of the cooperation given District Attorney Clarence L. Roames in running down rumors in regard to slackers and other matters connected with the war draft.

ELM TREE BEETLE DOING DAMAGE TO SHADE TREES

Considerable damage to elm trees is being done by the elm tree beetle which was first discovered in the trees of library park. The pest resembles a black caterpillar and devours every green leaf or sprig on the trees. Mayor E. C. Hackett and Mrs. Bertha Adams, city librarian, have taken steps to endeavor to have the pest eradicated. Pamphlets have been issued by the Oregon Agricultural college with information for destroying the pests. These books have arrived at the library and elm tree owners may obtain them there. A formula of lead arsenate poison is given to be sprayed on the leaves of the trees and will check the beetle. The pest is a native of Europe and made its first appearance in Baltimore, Md., nearly a century ago. This is the first year it has been noticed in Oregon City.

Soot as a Fertilizer.

Amateur gardeners recommend the use of soot as a fertilizer. Scotch soot, which is generally used in Great Britain as a fertilizer, is from coal that differs greatly from the hard coal used in the eastern United States. Soot from our hard coal must be used with caution around plants or it may do more harm than good, particularly immediately after the application. A sad experience several years ago leads a gardener to warn others so they may not be obliged to gain their knowledge by a like unfortunate experience.—New York Sun.

Club Leader at Milwaukee

MAKES CLUBBING ARRANGEMENT WITH

THE OREGON FARMER

Offers Unusual Opportunity To Its Readers

AMONG our large circle of readers there are a great many who are interested directly or indirectly in fruit growing, dairying and other branches of farming. All of these naturally wish to keep in close touch with agricultural activities throughout the state; and to know about any fight which is being waged for the measures Oregon farmers want and against all sorts of schemes that are detrimental to the people and agricultural interests of this state.

We have, therefore, made a special clubbing arrangement with THE OREGON FARMER whereby any farmer or fruit-grower, who is one of our regular subscribers and who is not now a subscriber of THE OREGON FARMER, will be entitled to receive THE OREGON FARMER in combination with this paper at the same rate as for this paper alone.

This offer applies to all those who renew or extend their subscriptions as well as to all new subscribers. If you are interested directly or indirectly in Oregon agriculture, do not miss this unusual opportunity but send your order in now.

THE OREGON FARMER is the one farm paper which is devoting itself exclusively to the farming activities and interests of Oregon. It has a big organization gathering the news of importance to farmers, dairymen, fruitgrowers, stockraisers and poultrymen; and it has the backbone to attack wrongful methods and combinations and bad legislation, and support honest leaders and beneficial measures. We are confident that our readers will congratulate us on our being able to make this splendid and attractive clubbing offer.
