GOOD BYE, OLD YEAR.

GOOD-BYE, Old Year!—the Fickle world Pursues another Flame,

And Time—the ruthless, changing Time—

Will now erase your name.

And yet your younger rival with His aspect bright and new

Is but an unread version of The hopes we had in you.

The apple-blossoms of his Spring, The little seeds that lie

Deep buried in the Heart of Earth, Will live again—and die.

He, too, will give the warmth of Sun, And days of slanting rain,

As he deals out our yearly share Of happiness and pain.

The big round moon and silver stars That lighted up your skies

Will shine upon as many loves In just as many eyes.

And he will bring the fragrant June When crimson roses nod,

And hurry through the Summertime To flaunt the goldenrod.

The painted pathway of his Fall Will be with clouds o'ercast,

Because his Winter footsteps reach The Portal you have passed.

Good-bye, Old year!—We loved you well;

We found your treasures dear, But you have died as monarchs die—

And so—Long live the Year!
