City Hall Is Up

of the down town interests to block the hill site. "If this had not been done, we would have had a city hall in the hill," he said, and then affirmed that the fight over the location was as strong as it ever had been in the past. Councilman Metner took a rap at the proposed compromise site as a building location, but J. E. Jack urged the council regardless of its opinion, to look into the matter as requested by the joint committee.

The type of building which would be accepted by the residents of the hill was specified by one of its supporters as being at least two stories above the crest of the bluff. Gus Scheibel in commenting on the apparent unwillingness of the council to endorse the proposed plan said that the fine weather that was now imminent would make it quite possible to have the civic debates conducted in the great outdoors. This he would provide more room and a better atmosphere and at the same time effectually dispose of all factional differences as to the merits of the different sites.

Engineer to Survey Hill Site
The final decision of the council contained instructions to the city engineer to have the Singer site surveyed and architectural plans drawn up showing the class of building which would be feasible under the limits, financial and otherwise which would govern any new civic structure. The question of removal which was passed on the recorder at the last session with reference to the increase in rent was revoked when Judge Kelly drew the attention of the council to the unsettled condition of the future plans for the city hall. When the rent was raised in the Masonic building orders were issued by the council to the recorder directing him to move his office and records to the present civic chambers.

A request from the Standard Oil company to obtain a ninety day option on some street property at the junction of 11th street and Main was referred to the street committee although several opinions were expressed to the effect that the property owners in that place were opposed to granting any facilities for the erection of a filling station by the oil company.

Vehicle Ordinance Held Over
An ordinance amended to conform to the recent decision of Judge Campbell with respect to motor vehicle franchises was held over for the next meeting of the council. The city attorney pointed out that the unfavorable decision of Judge Campbell was based on the grounds that the ordinance passed by the city was of a revenue producing nature rather than a regulatory measure and as such was unconstitutional.

A petition asking for steps to be taken by the council to lessen or obliterate the noxious fumes from the paper plants was referred to the health committee.

A request from the city attorney for the use of an additional police officer for a few days was passed. Mr. Eby explained that it was difficult to obtain proper observance of the ordinance governing the sale of milk. A campaign for the more rigid enforcement of this law was approved unanimously by the council.

A special meeting of the council was arranged for next Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m., when the matter of the site on Singer hill and the vehicle ordinance will both come up.

A motion to have the city ordinance governing the sale of sandwiches in pool rooms modified was defeated on the statement of Councilman Cross that any variations in the existing ordinances invited to such a mutilation of the laws that they became to all intents and purposes inoperative.

Egg Triplet Laid by Phenomenal Hen Upon DeBok Farm

Mrs. George DeBok, who is engaged in the poultry industry at Willamette, specializing on the White Leghorns, has a hen that has made an exceptional record since March 15, when she laid three eggs attached to each other by means of a small tube, since that time laying a number of double yolk eggs. The largest of the three eggs produced at one time was of unusual size, while the one adjoining was of ordinary dimension. The third resembled a Bantam egg. Each egg had a well coated shell. This hen was hatched on August 1st, and laid her first egg on New Year's day, and she rarely missed a day in producing her share of egg food on the DeBok farm. Mrs. DeBok has 500 hens on her farm, and 300 baby chicks. The laying hens are averaging 300 eggs per day, and are marketed in Willamette and at West Linn.

Boys Lie On Track; Train Rushes Past; Three Found Dead

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 15.—Three youths from Columbus, Ohio, were instantly killed by a Texas & Pacific passenger train west of this city shortly after midnight.

The dead, John Shoemaker, Carl Vance Riggs and Elmer Thill.

According to Edward Minor, a companion, who was not injured, the boys had lain down on the track in fun while waiting for a train. Minor, who is also from Columbus, said he refused to join in the prank.

COUNTY AUTO COLLECTIONS TOTAL MORE THAN $111,000 IN SIX MONTHS

State computation of the amount collected for auto license fees during the six months beginning September 16, 1921 and ending March 15, 1922 credit Clackamas county with a gross collection of $111,022. This is the fourth highest total for the state and is surpassed only by Multnomah, $282,950; Marion, $166,085; and Lane, $114,752. The smallest amount recorded is shown by Clatsop, $2,841 as being paid into the state.

The state law governing the collection of these funds provides that after deducting the administrative expenses the balance remaining is partitioned on a basis of three fourths to the highway and one fourth to the county.

In the case of Clackamas county where the gross receipts totaled $111,022 the amount deducted for administrative expenses was $3946 leaving a net amount of $107,076, of this the county gets $26,769 and the highway fund $80,307. On this method of calculation Multnomah county receives $237,004; Marion $40,045 and Lane $27,669. Lincoln the smallest contributor receives $655 and Wheeler the next lowest in point of gross receipts is allotted $1,059.

The total figures for the state indicate that the gross receipts reached a sum of $2,420,779 and the total expense incurred in administering these collections is quoted as $86,038 leaving a net amount of $2,334,741 which is divided in the following fashion. Total amount to counties representing one fourth share of the net receipts $583,685. Total to highway fund calculated as three-fourths of net amount $1,751,056.

GLADSTONE NEWS

Cooked Food Sale Proves Successful

The cooked food and apron sale held at Pattersons confectionery by the ladies of the Christian church Sunday, was a most successful affair, netting the neat sum of $40, which will be used to complete the upstairs and furnish the parsonage. Rev. Williams will arrive in Gladstone about May 1.

103rd Anniversary To Be Celebrated

The Chautauqua Council of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekahs of Gladstone are planning to celebrate the 103rd anniversary of the Oddfellows with a banquet and program Friday evening, April 28, at Paddock's hall. On the various committees are: Entertainment, Mrs. William Rivers, Miss Orpha Clester and Miss Mary Howell; refreshments, Mrs. Chas. Douchey, chairman to appoint her helpers; decorations and table, Mrs. A. D. Paddock, Chambers Howell and Miss Laura Paddock.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Mumpower and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hemmingway of Fern Ridge, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Lyle of Oregon City Easter Sunday. Mrs. Mumpower and Mrs. Lyle are sisters.

Mrs. Charles Toozee of Oregon City, spent the day with Mrs. L. H. Strickland, Monday. Mrs. Toozee formerly resided in Gladstone, but recently returned from California where she spent the winter.

Mrs. Hattie Pecht, of Austin, Texas, arrived in Gladstone Sunday, where she will visit indefinitely. Mrs. Pecht is the sister of Richard, Oscar and Paul Freytag of this place and Mrs. J. F. Meyer of Oregon City. Mrs. Pecht has not seen Richard, Paul or Mrs. Meyer, since 1901, when she visited here. Her arrival in Gladstone was a most pleasant surprise to the brothers and sister.

Mrs. John Kent spent Monday with friends in Portland, while there Mr. Kent looked after property interests.

Mrs. J. C. Lacy who has been critically ill with pneumonia is improving, the crisis is past and Mrs. Lacy is resting easily. Mrs. Lacy is at the Oregon City hospital with Mrs. Mount in attendance. Mrs. Bally of San Francisco, mother of Mrs. Lacy, arrived here last week and is staying at the Lacy home at present.

Mrs. Ben Beard very pleasantly surprised her father-in-law, Mr. Beard, Sr., of Sellwood the latter part of the week with a party honoring his birthday anniversary. A most enjoyable day was spent at his home by a number of his friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Turner are very much enjoying their new radio phone which has recently been installed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ketels and son attended to business Sunday, where they were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wellman. Mrs. Wellman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ketels.

Miss Veatrice Rauch returned to her home in Gladstone the last of the week from Eugene where she attended the printers convention. Miss Rauch is a sophomore at West Linn.

Mrs. Antone Schorer who recently underwent a very serious operation at the Oregon City hospital is improving as rapidly as could be expected, and hopes to be able to return to her home soon.

Contractors Catto and Rankin have completed a modern home for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dummire at Fern Ridge. Mr. Dummire has recently established himself in the garage business in Placerville.

Mrs. Harry Dummire of Clackamas, has been visiting her parents and friends in Gladstone the first of the week.

Mrs. C. A. Wells of Hood River, was the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Eby, Saturday. Mrs. Wells was formerly Miss Dorothy Taylor of Portland and is quite well known here, having been the guest of Mrs. Eby at various times before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dessare moving to Astoria where they will make their home. They formerly lived in the Maddax house. Mr. and Mrs. Maddax will return to Gladstone about May 1.

George Nelson, of Newberg has been visiting friends in West Gladstone for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Saulsbury are having a new concrete garage put up which adds much to the appearance of their property. Contractors Wallace and McKinney are doing the work.

R. Solomon is confined to his home, having stepped on a nail and is threatened with blood poisoning. Chester McCherey of Falls City, was the week end guest of friends in West Gladstone.

Jack Hempstead left for Eugene Thursday to attend the Printer's Convention which is being held there. While at the convention he will represent the Union high school at West

Personal Glimpses of Employees of the Crown-Willamette Plant.

Twenty-five of the heads of the various mill departments gave an informal banquet at the C. W. Inn Thursday evening in honor of A. Banks, who has been transferred to Portland and promoted to the position of assistant resident manager. James P. Lovett, superintendent, acted as toastmaster, and gave a brief review of the growth of the West Linn plant and recounted many interesting sidelights on the work of previous managers. Mr. Banks responded and expressed his sincere appreciation for the close cooperation between the many departments and to their loyal support in carrying out his plans he attributed the success of the past fifteen months. C. W. Mordean, new mill manager, expressed faith in the loyal support of the mill departments and hoped that the present cooperation and spirit of fellowship would continue.

"Bud" Simmons, steel construction foreman, is back on the job after four weeks illness on account of stomach trouble. It is rumored that F. Heister, oiler on No. 5 machine, has procured the necessary license entitling him to eligibility in the Matrimonial Club.

Capt. Cole, congenial foreman of the labor gang on the construction crew, has resumed his duties after a month's absence due to illness of himself and family. Capt. claims he was too tough for the "flu" and "is rarin' to go."

E. R. Scholberg, chemist, is one of the enthusiastic future skippers who expects to spend his vacation mastering the science of navigation. At present he is spending all leisure moments in preparing his boat—screw, tub or well, we don't know what it is, for something other than dry land sailing.

The present mecca for mill employees is the Sandy river where every one returns with a sack of smelt. We wonder if trout fishing will give the same result as several parties are being arranged for Saturday.

The practice game scheduled for Sunday with the Standard Oil aggregation of Portland has been canceled due to the inclemency of the weather. The local boys are working out at every opportunity preparatory to the opening league game with the Kirkpatrick's West Linn field Sunday, April 23. The "Colts" of Portland have withdrawn from the Willamette Valley league and will be replaced by a live and strong aggregation from the near-by Portland vicinity. No stone is being left unturned by the local managers to put the strongest semi-pro team in the state in uniform here and they assure us of real major league caliber games during the coming season.

A LOT OF IDEALS

"I'm proud of you, Dick—buying a lot when we've only been married three years."

"Not three, Phyllis," he answered, trying not to let on how much he relished her appreciation.

"You win. You've got the proof, but it's a whiz of a three years—awfully short."

"I should say I have the proof," she laughed, snuggling the two-year-old who came toddling toward her, and pretending not to see her compliment. "Your folks have been grand, sharing their house with us. It's time we got out before."

"Before they get tired of us," she interrupted. "Before our family gets any bigger," he persisted, not to be diverted. "But the lot," reminded Phyllis, also not to be diverted. "What is your ideal of a lot?"

"Well," he answered, piercing deep into the lettuce bed he was spading. "It must be safe and sanitary and sweet, since it's to be the setting for my jewels."

"Everything S," she said trivially but she glowed inwardly. "Well lighted, and well policed, and with passers-by frequent enough that you would not be afraid when I am away; above flood danger; and with no special fire-hazard; and not on a street where there is heavy or rapid traffic to run over Ted—and—"

"The twins," she finished. "Yes, and I wouldn't want to be near a railroad on account of both danger and noise; nor a river because it might smell bad in hot weather; nor a marsh; nor a sewer outlet."

"And no factories, nor gas tanks, nor crowded quarters, nor dirty or unsightly commercial buildings," stipulated Phyllis. "The best residential districts have laws restricting such things. We'll hunt a locality where they are certain not to come in," explained Dick. "What would you think of getting into some newer, up-and-coming part of town where a fine class of people are just beginning their homes and where prices are not so high, and which will improve right along?"

"That's just my ideal," agreed Phyllis. "Where town and country meet, with schools and churches, and a few good stores near enough, but country air and meadow larks on the other side. And I like neighbors, don't you, Dick?"

"People of our own class to talk over the fence with about which is going to have the earliest tomatoes or the biggest cabbages," acquiesced Dick. "Rather about carburetors and differentials," corrected Phyllis significantly, and he resumed his digging.

"We can judge of the people by their houses and yards. Their children will play with our children and grow up with them,—and marry 'em maybe," she continued, taking a far look ahead. "Perhaps we can be near a bench for swimming, or a park for golf or tennis or skating, or a library, or a Y. M. C. A. or some of those things."

"Within reach, anyhow," she dreamed on. "And as I'll have to hustle the finances, I've got to be easily accessible to business."

"I'd like to be on the west side of the street," suggested Phyllis, "to have the morning shade in my kitchen and the afternoon shade on the front porch. And since the prevailing winds are from the west, they blow the street dust to the east side."

"That's the housewife for you," commented Dick. "And I hope the soil will be light and dry to drain away from our cellar."

"That's the engineer," retorted Phyllis. "I'd like to have pretty views from the living room windows, at least."

"And a clear title; and a good investment so we can sell it anytime, if we want to, for more than we pay for it. We must consider the price. There's no need to be held up. It must have pavement, curbs, and sidewalks, and sewer and water, or else the price must be low enough to make up the difference. There are plenty of good bargains; we'll hunt one."

"When?" asked Phyllis ecstatically. "Tomorrow," determined Dick. "Oh joy!" exclaimed Phyllis. "Tomorrow will be one of the happiest days of my life."

"That means a lot," twinkled Dick. "A lot," she punned and they both laughed happily.

TRAINING YOUNG CITIZENS

Are you teaching your own children morals. There is a National Institute for Moral Instruction located at Chase Washington, D. C. Its aim is to help direct the education of boys and girls that they become strong and useful citizens. While this may be a task demanding public concern, it is even more—much more—a task for mothers, demanding daily thought and effort.

The Institute has selected thirty-two rules or ideals for the "good citizen." He tries to gain and keep perfect health, to control himself, is self-reliant, reliable, plays fair, does his duty, tries to do things the right way, works in friendly co-operation with his fellow-workers, is kind and loyal."

Address the Institute, if you are interested, and see if you are teaching your children all the thirty-two fundamentals. Whoever is a leader of the Boy or Girl Scouts or the Camp Fire Girls is performing a great moral service for the community, for these are the ideals taught through these organizations.

MAUDE SPENCER FILES PAPERS IN DIVORCE SUIT

Incompatibility Is Charged In Complaint; Couple Have Been Married for 24 Years.

After nearly 24 years of married life, Mrs. Maude Spencer is suing her husband, Charles E. Spencer for divorce. Suit was filed in the Clackamas county circuit court Thursday.

The Spencers are residents of Canemah and were married in Oregon City June 19, 1898. Spencer is employed in the Crown-Willamette paper mills. He is a prominent lodge man.

General charges of incompatibility are made in the complaint.

This is the second case filed in the last two days where the couples have been married more than twenty years. Ada May who Wednesday filed suit against her husband, Clyde May, was married in 1898.
