Dedication Service Held After 40 Years

SANDY, June 5.—Dedication services were held at the Pleasant Home Methodist church yesterday afternoon. Dr. C. R. Crose preached, and Dr. W. W. Youngson of Portland had charge of the dedicatory services.

Forty years ago this church was built and the time set for dedication but for some reason the date was postponed and the years slipped by without another time being set. It was decided to dedicate the entire building when the Sunday school room and kitchen recently built were completed. There was a large attendance. A quartet, a duet by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Strong and a solo by S. E. Rusher all of Gresham, furnished the special music for the occasion. Rev. Cotton baptized four children and took four adults into church membership at the morning service. Children's day service will be held at the church next Sunday morning.

Arra Wanna Hatel Burned to Ground

SANDY, June 6.—The Arra Wanna hotel is in ashes. The building and contents are a total loss. The fire occurred Monday afternoon and evidently had been smoldering for hours in the attic, as there had been no fire in the fireplace, nor in the cook stove for hours before. Mrs. Spencer and daughter were the only occupants of the building, as Mr. Spencer, the manager, was in Portland and there were no guests in the house. It seems Mr. Tawney first discovered the fire and just after Mrs. Spencer rushed out to look at the building the upper part fell in and it was impossible to go inside again. The Spencer's lost all of their belongings, which included five or six hundred dollars' worth of groceries. Two out cabins were also burned.

J. L. Bowman, the owner and Mr. Rosenkrantz and Mr. Spencer arrived on the scene late Monday evening from Portland.

Sandy Lumber Mill Burns Early Monday

SANDY, June 5.—This morning about 2:30 o'clock the Jonsrud-Gunderson mill burst into a mass of flame and was soon destroyed. Help was rushed from Kelso and Sandyridge and by hard work the Gunderson home and barn were saved, also the lumber yard was saved, the blacksmith shop, and the "donkey." Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller looked out the window at 11 o'clock and there was no evidence of fire. Mr. Jonsrud, senior partner, took special care Saturday evening to look over the plant before going home to see that everything was safe. The Jonsrud family went to Portland on Sunday and knew nothing of their loss until Monday. There was no insurance. The owners of the mill expected to start up full blast on a tie contract this week, and were going to employ a night watchman, without which, mill insurance is prohibitive.

Both the partners in the firm are quite brave over their heavy loss and are planning to rebuild the mill. The loss is at least $15,000.

Artie Lamber, the only 8th grade graduate was presented with a diploma and also received a diploma for high grades in spelling. Gladys Wilkins, Marie Spaller and Florence De Shazer received county diplomas for spelling, and Florence also received one for high grades in arithmetic.

Then came real fun when "chances" on the old organ were sold, and "Bill" Lamber won the winning chance, $12.20 was realized in this way, and

Bill says if anybody wants to use a fat-mill to come up his way, as the old organ will answer the purpose. After the program was closed a bonfire was built on the school grounds and old and young had a happy time playing games.

Carmack died in Vancouver, B. C., last night after a brief illness. The body will be brought to Seattle tonight.

Oak Grove Dance Hall Is Feature In License Tangle

Final approval of the Oak Grove development project, being carried by the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, was obtained by Franklin T. Griffith, president, from the federal water power commission in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Griffith returned yesterday from the east, where, in addition to appearing before the federal water power commission, he held consultations with J. G. White & Co. of New York, engineer for the local company.

He also accompanied Eric V. Hauser and his party to the White House when an invitation for President and Mrs. Harding to attend the Portland Rose festival was presented.

"The Oak Grove project, which is located on the main fork of the Clackamas river, has for its ultimate object development of 100,000 horse power," said Mr. Griffith. "The initial development will be 3,000, and this part of the project will be completed within two years."

This type of development, as well as conduit line, were agreed upon in consultation with our engineers, J. G. White & Co. in New York.

200 Men at Work. "Several hundred men are now actively engaged on this enterprise, and the work will be prosecuted as rapidly as is practicable. We are planning to utilize a large force of men and so the type of development will be continuously in the winter as well as in the summer."

"There are several tunnels to be driven, and this work will be done during the winter."

The project includes the construction of a roadway 25 miles long, a dam in Oak Grove creek and a pipe line from the diversion of the dam to the power house site, a distance of 15 miles. The pipe line will be constructed of wood stave pipe, 100 inches in diameter, a pipe line which will be supplemented by even larger pipe when additional units are installed.

New Steam Plant Planned. Mr. Griffith stated that during the present year the company would install an additional 5000-horse power generator at the Bull Run plant, and within the next 90 days the company will install a 3000-horse power auxiliary steam plant at Salem to supplement the company's hydro-electric service in the Willamette valley.

In its betterment programme the company, he stated, is employing a larger force of linemen in Portland than has been the case at any time before in its history. This, he said, was necessary, largely, in caring for extension of services in new districts of the city.

"The construction expenditures of the company," Mr. Griffith said, "in all departments, in 1922, will exceed $2,000,000, and a considerably larger sum of money will be necessary to care for the 1923 improvement programme."

While in the east, Mr. Griffith attended the annual convention of the National Electric Light association, in Atlantic City, where more than 4700 members were registered.

Speaking of business conditions in the east, as he had observed them, Mr. Griffith said: "Throughout the business world there is a growing feeling of optimism, and business conditions are unquestionably better now than when I was in the east last fall."
