Estacada's celebration of July 4th, was a great success, and the large crowd present seemed to enjoy the day. The weather was ideal, quite an improvement over the two days preceding the Fourth. The lid was off and the small boys thoroughly enjoyed their privilege to use fire crackers and other fireworks, with no disaster following, although several fires were under headway when discovered and extinguished. The parade in the morning was good so far as it went.

The lateness in deciding to celebrate was the prevailing excuse for the absence of many floats. The exercises in the park before the basket dinner, consisted of music by Campbell's American band, vocal music by a choir of girls, an address by Rev. A. F. Lacy and the national salute of many guns. The ball game after dinner at the ball park between Estacada and the Portland Firemen, was won by Estacada, with a score of 10 to 2.

There was dancing in the pavilion in the afternoon with a splendid orchestra from Portland and the band concert in the park during the afternoon, was thoroughly enjoyed. The day's celebration closed with a dance in the pavilion at night, with a very large attendance. There have been no accidents reported and the large crowd seemed happy and enjoyed the day exceedingly.

Police are baffled by murder in the Dalles.

THE DALLES, July 1.—Sheriff Levi Chrisman, the police and the coroner—all the law-enforcing agencies in the country—are united today in a great effort to unravel the murder mystery that was uncovered here late Friday night when the body of a man, his head pounded to a pulp, was found anchored in the Columbia river about 14 miles east of The Dalles.

Not the slightest mark of identification was left on the body. If it is ever identified it will come from an examination of the corpse, which has numerous distinguishing marks, according to Dr. Thompson Coberth, the examining physician. The man probably was a mechanic, and the condition of the hands indicate that he may have been a machinist. Machine grease was found under the finger nails. The hands were calloused and heavy. The mouth is filled with gold teeth. The man was about 30 years old. His height about 5 feet 8 inches, weight 135 pounds. His hair was dark brown. He had apparently shaved a few hours before being killed. The face was smooth and thin, rather

ULTIMATUM UPON SOUTH END ROAD ROUTE DELIVERED

Resolution as Memorial To Commission is Passed At Meet of Council; 7th Street Line Held Out of Question.

FIFTH STREET IS SAID ONLY SOLUTION NOW

Stormy Talks Attend Action Upon Declaration; Protests Lead to Heated Arguments.

The routing of the Pacific Highway must go over the Fifth street line and the improvement of the Seventh street and Railroad avenue route cannot be handled at the present time, according to the formal decision of the city council at the present time, according to the formal decision of the city council at its regular session last evening. A resolution, urging the State Highway Commission to reconsider its action establishing the Seventh street route was adopted after a short stormy discussion between the council and visitors. The resolution sets forth the fact that Oregon City under the present conditions, cannot handle the Seventh street improvement.

The resolution was followed by an immediate motion for the request of a conference with the commission to reconsider the matter, which has already been the subject of two meetings.

The resolution was presented by Councilman Fred Metzner, who urged its adoption unchanged. The resolution stated that the Fifth street improvement as an outlet to the South End road must be considered as the only solution in view of the lack of finances, the inability of the city to handle the expensive condemnation proceedings necessary in the Railroad avenue improvement and the danger of routing traffic over the line past the elevator.

The passage of the resolution was strongly opposed by Wallace Caulfield, who urged the consideration of the matter for a more lengthy period, pending the receipt of promised word from the commission summing up the entire situation. "I don't believe we should antagonize the highway commission," Caulfield stated, claiming that there was a possibility of securing a concession on the donation of Oregon City toward the new bridge which would solve the financing problem to the extent of $30,000. He stated the facts were not fully represented in the resolution and intimated that several of the "gentlemen of the council" were out of touch with the situation.

Caulfield attacked the resolution as improper because it was not prepared by the city attorney, Ben Harding, who also spoke on the proposition, explained that it had been prepared by Chris Schuebel. Metzner took issue with Caulfield, saying that they hadn't wanted Attorney O. D. Eby to prepare it because he was in favor of the Seventh street route and they didn't want "any catches in it."

The attorney took issue with this personal convictions to interfere with my discharge of legal duty," he said. As Metzner rose to reply, Mayor Shannon stopped the argument by putting the matter to a vote. The ballot for the resolution was unanimous.

Harding, in speaking for the Fifth street route, urged it as the only feasible solution to the South End road problem, because the city did not have the finances to construct the Seventh street route, and further because he believed the Main and Fifth street highway routing beneficial to the interests of the city.

The council accepted a number of routine reports, including those of the treasurer, water commissioner, recorder, and finance committee. All were filed for further reference.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IS CITED IN BOOZE CHARGE

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Renewing his attack on the Anti-Saloon league, Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, declared in the house today that the 18th or prohibition amendment, had been bought and paid for and that according to reports "worthy of belief," Wayne B. Wheeler, the league's general counsel, "and the interests he controls," expended from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 in the series of years preceding its adoption.

Mr. Tinkham asserted that "conclusive and sworn proof" of his charge in the house of "extensive violation of the corrupt practices act" by the Anti-Saloon league had been obtained.
