POOR HEALTH IS FATAL TO RESIDENT OF CANBY

CANBY, July 25.—Charles Knutson, native of Norway, and well known resident of Canby, died suddenly at the family home this morning at 6:40 o'clock. Mr. Knutson had been in poor health for some time, but greatly improved during the past two weeks, and was able to be about his place on Monday. His death came as a shock to his family.

Deceased was born May 8, 1866, and came to America when a child of four years, the family settling in Wisconsin, where he remained until 1909, when coming West. He settled in Canby, where he has since resided.

Mr. Knutson was the father of twelve children, eight of whom survive. These are Misses Pearl and Tillie of Portland; Ben of Canby; Mrs. Selma Deetz of Aurora; John of Canby; Berline, Eva and Basil, of Canby. His wife, who was Sophia Tenneson, when he married in Wisconsin, also survives, as does his sister, Mrs. Julia Berg, of San Diego, Calif.; Mrs. Ella Berg, of Berg, N. D.; his father, Knudt Christofferson, of Wisconsin, the son having adopted the name of Knutson. A grandson, Raymond Deetz, resides in Aurora.

CANBY AGGREGATION IS BEATEN BY CARUS NINE

CANBY, July 25.—The ball game between Canby and Carus played on the Canby diamond Sunday resulted in a victory for Carus. The score was 5 to 2, and one of the best games of the season.

Aurora team had planned to play the local team, but for some unknown reason to the Canby boys the Marion county boys failed to meet the team of this city. An "S. O. S." call was sent to Carus, with the result of the latter boys coming to the rescue and winning the game.

Oregon City Pirates will be here next Sunday to play the local team, this to be the first game between the two organizations. The game will be played on the Canby diamond at 3 o'clock.

Union High School Election at Canby Has Been Postponed

The special school election which is to decide upon the formation of a Union High School district in the vicinity of Canby has been postponed from the middle of this week until August 21. County School Superintendent Eronson Veider has just returned from a survey over Mundorf and Ninety-One, two of the districts included and has secured sufficient signatures to the petitions in these two districts to ensure the holding of the election by that time, it is believed. Eleven districts are to be included, the other nine being Oak Lawn, Mundorf, Marks' Prairie, Central Point, Union Hill, New Era, Barlow, Lone Elder and Canby. Together they will have a valuation of more than $1,900,000.

Canby People Make Success of Poultry

CANBY, July 25.—"Fir Lane" Poultry Farm, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thompson, of this city, who are specializing in Single Comb White Leghorns, of the Hollywood strain, is one of the forty flocks in the state of Oregon that has been designated a poultry demonstration farm. A series of meetings are to be held under the supervision of H. E. Cosby, poultry extension specialist.

Mr. Thompson was a shingle manufacturer up to 1919, eleven years of which he devoted to this industry in British Columbia and three years at Florence, Oregon. He decided to enter the poultry business in Oregon, where he and his wife purchased a well-improved place in Canby Gardens in 1920, and the next year he started into the poultry industry. As the place the Thompsons purchased had not been in any sense a poultry ranch, modern buildings for the birds were erected. Among these were a brooder house to care for the baby chicks and a laying house. The latter is 14x20 feet, and is fitted with traps, sanitary drinking troughs with automatic faucets.

Careful Study is Made of the poultry business and, also learned from other poultry fanciers how to care for chickens. He says that there is more to learn, although he and his wife read and talk "chicken" with as much enthusiasm as when first starting into the industry.

In an interview with Mr. Thompson this week he says: "This is one of the poultry demonstration farms of the Oregon Agricultural College. Extension service, and we derived much benefit from the meetings held here."

"We hatched about 5000 baby chicks from young hens this year, and the chicks were strong and easily raised. Most of these were sold as day-old chicks and 600 young pullets. We only mated a few of the best of our birds last winter. The coming winter we will have over 600 two-year-old hens as breeders, mated to cockerels from high-producing hens from the Hollywood farm. We have eight pedigreed cockerels, all from the sons of 300 egg-hens. Two are from a son of the famous 336 egg hen."

Records Are Kept of the poultry business, and shall study it thoroughly, and with our accurate records of trapped hens and pedigreeing and trapping their pullets, we feel we can keep improving our flock."

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have not complete records yet on all of their hens, as many have not completed their year in laying, but a large number are already over the 200 mark and as high as 246.

Mr. Thompson says "high records are not everything—health and vigor come first, and we can continuously so as to get those out that are not up to what we aim to keep."

This fall Mr. Thompson will build a large, modern incubator cellar. Only eggs of good size go into the incubators at this poultry farm.

In feeding the birds Mr. and Mrs. Thompson use the commercial mash fed dry, but mix their own scratch feed from grains to be had at nearby farms. Kale is raised most for the green feed. The chickens are allowed their freedom in the large yards the year round, rain or shine.

Visitors are Shown Chickens

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are always pleased to show the visitors their birds. During the hatching season their poultry farm was one of the most interesting in Clackamas county.

The Thompsons are putting into effect the practical suggestions made by Professor Cosby. Among these is shade in the poultry yard, as Mr. Cosby emphasized the need of shade in the yard. In order to have the shade the Thompsons have planted a large square to asparagus and will also set out much kale with a temporary movable fence that will make it possible to shift the flock from one yard to another, so that they will always have shade and green feed and be on the ground that has been turned over and cultivated.

The first meeting held at the Thompson farm by Mr. Cosby was attended by 74 poultry enthusiasts, when the subject of Professor Cosby was "Feeding for Inter Egg Production." On March 8 a similar meeting was held, when his subject was "Hatching and Brooding." There were 52 in attendance at that meeting. The Thompson farm was formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kuipisch, of this city, who made a wonderful record in producing nearly every variety of vegetable, and who were awarded the handsome silver cup and many cash prizes at the Clackamas county fair.

Tramps Attempt To Start Grass Fire

Growling and grumbling because motorists failed to pick them up for a ride two tramps, walking from Salem to Portland, made an unsuccessful and half-hearted attempt to start a fire just north of Canby Sunday. One of them threw a lighted cigarette in the dry grass along the highway, was the report of a woman who refused to give her name.

This unknown woman was also walking from Salem and although she did not seek a ride, a motorist picked her up for a part of the distance, after which she met the tramps. She claims that they were very bitter because no one offered them a ride and just outside of Canby one of them remarked, "This is a good place to start something," and threw the cigarette on the grass. The woman dropped behind and unknown to the two men stepped on the lighted cigarette and extinguishing the same.

The woman claims that the men were about 35 and 40 years of age, both being "hard-lookers," having about a week's growth beard.

PROPERTY DEAL CLOSED THRU REAL ESTATE MAN

CANBY, July 25.—Among the realty transfers made in Canby during the past few days was the sale of Mrs. Ada Labow's residence and two lots adjoining the property of Mayor W. S. Maple in this city. The papers passed through the real estate office of Charles T. Bates, of Canby.

Mrs. Labow, former resident of Canby, now resides at Milwaukee.

Candidates Initiated By Canby Artisans

CANBY, July 21.—There were about 60 Alazars from Portland coming to Canby on Thursday evening to take part in the festivities planned by the local Artisan Lodge. In uniform the visitors made a most favorable impression on the people of this city when marching on Second street and giving a drill, which was followed by a ball at the Artisan hall. As the ball was free to all there were over 200 attending. The music was furnished by the Garrett-Smith orchestra.

Among the features of the evening was the chicken supper served free to the Alazar patrol and their wives. This was served in the basement of the hall, which was elaborately decorated with the colors of the order—red, white and blue. The lodge room, where the dancing took place, was also decorated with the colors. Dancing continued until 12 o'clock.

Six candidates were initiated into the Artisan Lodge.

The officers of the order had charge of the arrangements. Among those assisting were Mr. and Mrs. W. Walker, Amos Dere, Mr. and Mrs. George Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. George Veteto, Miss Violet Ledford.

Many Attend Camp Meeting Sessions

CANBY, July 24.—About 200 people attended the Spiritualistic Camp meetings at New Era on Sunday. The main speakers of the day were Mrs. Anna Snyder and Rev. J. Willard Hills, of the First Spiritualist church, of Portland.

On Sunday, July 30, the services will be conducted by the Personal Message church of Portland, with C. W. Shaw, pastor, in charge. This service will be held at 10:30 a. m., followed by the afternoon session at 3 o'clock, when there will be lectures and messages by well known mediums. There will be a special musical program, directed by George Cassiday. A memorial service for those who have passed into spirit life is to be held at 2:15 o'clock.

The last meeting will be held on August 5, when an all-day union meeting of workers on the camp ground and State Spiritualist Association of Oregon for the benefit of the camp will be a feature of the day.

The meetings this year have been largely attended, and many tents have been pitched by Portland people, who are attending the entire session.

Farmers at Canby to Have Wheat Crop Threshed This Week

CANBY, July 25.—With threatening clouds, a large number of farmers of this section started to stack their cut grain this morning, getting into readiness for the threshing machine, which will be in the Canby section within a few days. The wheat, according to present indications, will be of fair crop, while the spring sown grain will be a failure, owing to the continuous dry weather. Oats have suffered and will be of short yield. Potatoes are looking well, considering the weather conditions, but a good rain will be of great benefit to the vines, while it would somewhat damage the cut grain. Most of the fall sown grain in and close to Canby is cut.

Molalla Couple On Long Hiking Trip

CANBY, Or., July 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wilkebuski, of Molalla, who have been on an extensive hiking trip, passed through Canby the first of the week on the last lap of their journey, which has covered several hundred miles.

Among the places they have visited are Elk Lake, Bagby Hot Springs, Brightenbush Springs and other resorts, returning by way of Albany, also visiting Mill City. They made the entire trip by foot, refusing automobile rides, and enjoyed a "can life" trip. Plenty of fish were caught from the mountain streams by both Wilkebuski and his wife.

CANBY LOCALS

CANBY, Or., July 26.—George H. Grover, and ex-president of Canby, who still has property interests here and in Oregon City, is in this city, and for the present visiting at the home of the Lida family. It is probable that Mr. Grover will against resume his residence in Oregon, for he says there is no place like the state for home, especially in the Willamette Valley. After leaving Canby in the spring he purchased property in Southern California.

N. Digerness and daughters, Eva and Marene, of Salem, were in Canby on Sunday, where they visited with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson, of Eugene, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson.

DAUGHTER ARRIVES

CANBY, Or., July 26.—Born, to Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Rider, of this city, a daughter, weight 8½ pounds. The little one, who was born in the Oregon City hospital, is named Alta Fay Rider.

Growers Shipping Tons of Berries

CANBY, Or., July 26.—So far this season 130 tons of Loganberries have been shipped through the Oregon Growers' Association from Canby 130, with O. B. Long in charge, and it is probable that this week the greater part of the shipment will end. The association has arranged with Mr. Long to take charge of shipping the Evergreen blackberries from this section, and from indications tons of these berries will find a ready demand at the canneries, and the price will be somewhat encouraging to the growers. The Evergreen blackberry vines are prolific and require no care, but a number of the growers have taken special pains and cultivated the berries and arranged them in rows. Among these is Dr. W. E. Hempstead, who has recently arrived from Oregon City to take up his profession, and with his family occupying for the summer the farm located on this section. The vines are growing on beaver dam, and considered the best for the Evergreens, growing larger and of a richer flavor. All lowland grown Evergreen berries are considered better than those grown on high land.

The Schmitt Produce Company having shipped 86,113 pounds of Evergreen blackberries from this section last year, will again ship berries to the Graves Packing Company of Woodburn, the company purchasing the berries last year, the company advising Mr. Schmitt that it will handle all Evergreens received by the local produce company. The boxes and crates will arrive from the canneries the first of next week, for the blackberries will soon be ready for market. Earlier this year, due to the wet weather, the continued hot weather.

The Schmitt Produce Company shipped to the Graves cannery this season six tons of Loganberries and six tons of Royal Anne cherries, besides a large quantity of Lamberts and Bings. The Lamberts and Bings this season did not reach the quality and quantity as last year, for many of the growers found their fruit infested with worms. One of the housewives found after canning her Bing and Lambert cherries that 40 jars (unpitted) were wormy and it was necessary to destroy all. The small white worms were floating among the cherries and juice. This is due to the trees not being properly cared for, and it has been found that such trees, from which wormy fruit was gathered, were infested with codling moth.

Although the Royal Anne cherries were of short crop they were in excellent condition when arriving in the local markets and free from worm.

Canby Telephone Co. Names New Operator

CANBY, July 26.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Canby Co-operative Telephone Company held on Tuesday evening, bids for a new operator for the company were opened. There were nine bidders in all, the salary being ranging from $1000 to $2000 per year. The salary the company has been paying the present operator, Mrs. R. Soper, who has served for 16½ years, has been $125 per month, but it has been necessary for this operator to pay her assistant out of this amount.

John Wells, of Macksburg, a farmer of that place, was the lowest bidder, and he has been given the post, but may be several weeks before he will take up his new duties. The officers of the Canby Co-operative Company are James W. Smith, of Macksburg, president; George Koehler, of Canby, secretary-treasurer. Each district is represented by one to compose the board, there being seven districts.

Mrs. Soper as been most faithful and efficient in her duties, and has resided in Canby since childhood. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee crossed the plains and took up a homestead in Canby. She has made many friends for the telephone company since acting as its operator. She is to make her future home in Newberg.

PACKERS CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT TO BUY FISH PETITION

G. G. Green, Initiator of Bill To Stop Seines and Wheels, Denies Effort to Sell Out To Commercial Interests.

AFFIDAVITS SIGNED BY TWO LOCAL MEN

J. W. Moffatt Claims No Part In Any Deal Concerning Proposed Regulatory Law.

In affidavits signed Wednesday afternoon G. G. Green, of West Linn, who has been accused by the salmon packers of attempting to sell to them the petitions for the salmon bill which he has initiated for the fall election, charges the salmon packers with approaching him in an effort to buy his bill, and gives details of a conversation said to have been held with their representative on or about the first week in June.

In denying the charges contained in affidavits signed by Frank M. Warren of the salmon packers' association, Green said that after he had been approached by their representative and had refused to sell out to them, that they put a detective on his trail, and that the meeting mentioned in Warren's affidavit was framed by them and that he was present only by their invitation. He denied that he had arranged the meeting, and calls attention to the fact that the meeting was held on June 24th, 2 days after the petitions had been filed at Salem, which was too late to withdraw or sell them out to the packers. Green has in his possession an acknowledgment of receipt of the petitions by Secretary of State Koser, dated June 22, 1922, and stating that the petitions contain 13,312 verified signatures of legal voters, or sufficient to put the measure on the ballot, and that it would be submitted to the voters at the fall election.

Green also denies the statement attributed to Carl Shoemaker, state game warden, concerning the amount of money he had secured from fishermen for handling the petitions. He said that he had collected a little over $500, and had paid out nearly $1500 on the deal, and that he had not collected $3000 as charged.

An affidavit, making a similar denial, and charging that he knew nothing of the attempts to sell the fish bill, attributed to him by the packers, was also made yesterday by J. W. Moffatt, whose name was connected with a so-called expose of the affair. The affidavit as signed by Green follows:

I, G. G. Green, being first duly sworn, say and depose, that on a certain Saturday, the latter part of May or the first week in June, of this year, I was informed that a telephone call had come in for me and to call a certain number. The party in question proved to be one J. W. Moffatt. He informed me that a visitor would see me the following day, Sunday, at 11 a. m. He said that he was not well and could not travel and asked me to see him at the said time.

I consented to this and on the following day called as directed. He informed me in a few words of the nature of the visit and went into the house. Presently a man appeared and he introduced himself as Mr. Gearrin.

He suggested that we take a walk, which we did. He immediately came to business with the remark, "I don't suppose that I need tell you why I am here." I replied, "I have heard some things but further information would clear up some points." He then said, "I am here in the interests of certain salmon packers to get your price for dropping the proposed measure that you have been circulating." I said, "What is your proposition?" He replied that he had no definite plan in view and asked that I make some statement to "start me." I then told him the bill was not gotten up for the purpose of selling out and didn't think that he could come high enough to make it interesting. I also explained my views on the salmon industry and the way that our local stream was being depleted of salmon to the benefit of the Columbia River packers.

This of course did not interest him in the least and he said as much. He said even though the bill passed, that he would be declared unconstitutional because it conflicted with certain Indian treaties.

I presume that we talked from 15 to 20 minutes on the subject and how I could expect as much for filling the petition as by calling it off. I explained that if I only broke even on expense I would still have a fair amount of self respect and could still walk down the street with my chin in the air. He laughed and said, "You must remember that no counter offer will be made by you and if you can name a reasonable price we will have this settled. He then asked me to sign an agreement not to bring this up again for at least ten years and to turn the petitions over to him in case of a settlement. I answered "no" in both cases.

I again explained that there would be no counter offer and that he might be back the following Tuesday, he left, and I have not seen him since. The foregoing is the substance of the conversation I had with the said Mr. Gearrin.

G. G. GREEN, Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of July, 1922.

WM. M. STONE, Notary Public for Oregon. My commission expires March 1st, 1925.

Man Visits Moffatt Moffatt's affidavit follows. In refutation of the implication of being connected with the notoriety in the recent newspaper discussion of the initiated Fish Bill, I desire to make the following statement under oath, to-wit:

On the 27th day of May, 1922, I went to the office of Frank M. Warren in Portland, Oregon, to ascertain if Ed M. Atkinson had made an affidavit as to his trusteeship of a certain lot owned by him in Oregon City, which I was trying to get in order to complete a sale of the same, and which Mr. Atkinson, who is a brother-in-law to Mr. Warren, had refused to make, which Mr. Warren said he had not obtained. Mr. Warren said he could give me very little of his time as he was busy on account of the sinking of one of their boats up in Alaska, which news just came to him by telegraph. I then said, I am sorry, and I have a boat which I will sell to you at a very reasonable figure." He inquired what kind of a boat and I replied that it is a gasoline launch and described the size of the boat.

He replied that he was overstocked with that size boats at that time. I jokingly inquired if it was on account of the Fish Bill to close the river to fish wheels?

He said, "What do you know about this bill?"

I replied that I knew very little and thought it was either spite work or for a hold up."

He asked if I had an idea as to who was back of the bill, and I replied I knew very little, as I had been confined to my bed for months with a very bad cold, but rumor had it that Jack Albright was concerned in it; also that last election he handled an interest bill which was voted on and defeated by big vote.

And I further say that I had not seen this Mr. Green who is back of the fish bill within the past year, prior to my conversation with Mr. Warren; that I had never had any conversation with any person backing or carrying any of the petitions, had never seen the petitions or any of them or had any conversation with any person connected in any way with the circulation or preparing the petitions or the bill itself, and if I had not seen the mention of it in the paper I would have had no knowledge that there was such a bill proposed, and all the knowledge I had of the bill was through the newspapers.

Very shortly after my visit to Mr. Warren a man claiming to be from Mr. Warren came to my home and inquired where he could find Mr. Albright and I told him I did not know where he lived, but he could find out where he was at one of the picture shows, which was run by his brother-in-law. He then inquired for Mr. Green, and I told him I did not know exactly where he lived, though I told him that I had found out that Green was at home and he could see him if he would come up the next day.

Further, I had been confined to my home since the first of March, 1922, with erysipelas in my arm, and was unable to be out until a very short time before my visit to Mr. Warren, and I never had any connection with the said bill in any manner, shape or form, or with any of the people connected with it.

J. W. MOFFATT, Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of July, 1922.

J. F. CLARK, Notary Public for Oregon.

GERMAN EMPLOYES TO GET WEEK-END LAY OFF

BERLIN, July 21.—"Week-end" holidays, the custom in England, will become a law in Germany.

With compulsory invalid, sick and accident insurance largely enjoyed by employers, a law in force and with liberal municipal and state support for the unemployed, of whom there are at present but few, the forthcoming legalization of week-end holidays as provided in the labor law is another move in the direction of making Germany a paradise for the working man. Many industries now have a 46-hour week or less, while shop councils determine who may or who may not be discharged.

Those in favor of legal week-end holidays have advanced the theory that they are a big factor in health for the working classes and adds to their joy of life, increases their capacity for work and gives great impetus to athletics.

GROGER PICNIC AT GLADSTONE PARK KNOCKS 'EM COLD

Crowd of 11,000 Comes To Chautauqua Grounds For Annual Outing; Record For General Hilarity Set.

OREGON CITY BUSHERS WIN BASEBALL GAME

Races, Dance, Minstrel Show, Eats, Features of Program; $1,800 Is Given In Prizes.

"A good time was had by all!" That was the verdict brought home last night by a jury of 11,000 people, men, women and kiddies who Wednesday sat in hilarious judgment of the annual Grocers' picnic, held at Gladstone park.

It was the biggest affair that the grocers have ever staged. It was the first time it had ever been held at Chautauqua park, and it broke all of the former attendance records nearly in two, set a new standard for pep and good eats and attracted 1000 per cent more than it came to jazz.

Eight thousand people were expected. There were nearer 12,000. And the committees are certain that there were at least three spoonfuls in the grove, and one freckled-faced youngster in the grandstand who didn't get counted.

Oregon City won the ball game. The score was 4 to 2. And even the Portland outfit admitted that it was a good battle royal on the diamond.

There was hand music of the afternoon. There was a minstrel show in the evening. Also there was a dance. The sport program in the afternoon disposed of $1800 in prizes in jig time. And whenever any one got tired of the formalities there were things to eat. Lots of them, all the culinary delicacies that could be provided.

Multnomah, Clackamas, Yamhill and Marion counties were represented. And so was Gotham. But the one New York salesman who sauntered into the grounds to see how they did it out west, remarked that the party was too swift for him and trotted back to the peaceful retreats of the metropolis around about eight o'clock.

The party didn't break up until nearly midnight. The dance formed one of the stellar attractions of the evening. Special P. R. L. & P. cars conveyed a small proportion of the grocers, et al., back to the city and the remainder returned either on foot or by automobile. There were several horse drawn rigs which meandered down the 82nd street road earlier in the morning bringing parties to the picnic. And there were "firm" delivery carts, loaded to the runningboards, too numerous to count.

Present indications, as indications go, point to a repeat at Gladstone.

The barometer of personal feelings among the good providers of life's necessities in the Willamette Valley points to "fair and warmer" tomorrow.
