SHERIDAN LILLY GIVEN LIMIT FOR BOOTLEGGING

$500 Fine, Six Month Term
In County Jail Is Handed
Out By Judge E. J. Noble.

Ten gallons and one pint of moonshine found by deputies of the sheriffs on his 80 acre ranch near Baker's Bridge, sent Sheridan Lilly to jail for six months and cost him a $500 fine. Lilly was tried before Judge E. J. Noble in the justice court yesterday and given the limit under the state law for violation of the prohibition statutes. Although Lilly was only charged with possession of liquor, the sentence is said to have been influenced by information presented by the officers to the effect that he had been selling liquor. The raid of Lilly's place was made last Monday night, and he is now in the county jail, having been in the county for the first time in the past two months who have received limit sentences.

Among those facing jail terms are two women, Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. Charlie Straight, who are at present at liberty. A number of others are at present serving time for violations under limit sentences from Noble who has repeatedly informed men on trial that his one regret is that he could not give them penitentiary terms.

In the justice court yesterday A. H. Ellers and S. C. Young were fined $10 each for substitution of license plates. They were also ordered to take out proper licenses for their cars.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Taken from the Oregon City Enterprise, September 9, 1892.

Died.—At her home in Oregon City on Monday morning, September 5, Mary, wife of George Lark. She was 75 years of age, and was a native of London. Mrs. Lark was a spiritualist and knew the Bible by heart, for she was a profound student of the book. The funeral was Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Lucas, pastor of the Congregational church, offered a prayer at the family home on Twelfth and Center streets, with no other religious service either there or at the grave. Interment was in Mountain View cemetery. Deceased is survived by her husband, of this city.

Firemen's Tournament.—The fire fighters of Oregon held a convention in Portland last Monday. There were delegates present from The Dalles, Hillsboro and Oregon City. The Willamette band accompanied the Oregon City delegation. The following members went from Oregon City: August John Trembath, Assistant Chief; Asmus, W. T. Whitlock, W. Pay, Charles Ippman, Frank Brown, William David, Michael Mattoon, Fred Metzner, Michael Flanagan, C. W. Kelly, Chas. Bitzer, M. J. Broderick, Bert Bacon, J. Pethard, Charles Roberts, E. M. Rands, Michael Quinn, William Fairchild, William Wickham, John Gleason, John Schram, Harry McCarver, John Lentz and Arthur Quinn.

There was a grand street parade after which the boys did ample justice to a collation served in the rooms of the Pastime Club. H. W. Trembath was chosen treasurer at the business session.

Discovery of Wilhoit Springs.—Wilhoit Mineral Springs were discovered about 25 years ago by two young hunters named John Cline and Horace Dibble. They camped near the springs, and upon drinking the water Dibble found its taste was similar to that of soda springs he had been familiar with in the East. A few years later John Wilhoit, who owned a ranch of 100 acres five miles down Rock Creek from the springs, took an interest in them and his son, Leander, too a homestead claim but soon discovered that it was school land and not subject to homestead entry. When provision was made for selling the school land Mr. Wilhoit bought 20 acres, and subsequently increased his holdings there to 300 more acres. He sold his 1000-acre farm and spent about $10,000 in building roads and improving the springs property. Dr. Veatch, of Salem, sent Dr. Bell to get some of the water for analysis and afterwards himself made a trip to the springs. He said the analysis was worth $300, but in consideration of Mr. Wilhoit's hospitality he charged only $62. Patients at once commenced going to the springs. After running the springs property for four years himself, and leasing it another four years Mr. Wilhoit sold the springs to Arthur Miller for $5000, and then the present company was organized and took the property. Mr. Wilhoit came to this country from Iowa in 1852, and settled in that wilderness fifteen miles from town. He is now 78 years of age.

Investigation of Petition Brings Out Statements

Following an investigation made Saturday concerning the recent denial by Councilman F. H. Cross that he had signed the Carl Green petition to recall the $35,000 city hall bonds, Cross retracted his denial when it was determined that the petition was one that had been circulated early in the spring, and that the measure which was petitioned for was to be placed on the ballot at the primary election, May 19.

An investigation by the Morning Enterprise of the petitions now on file in the City Recorder's office revealed the fact that eight sheets of the petitions, bearing 123 names, had erasures, type blocked out, and words reinserted in the petition for the measure. The wording of the petitions as they evidently were before the changes were made was as follows: "shall be submitted to the legal voters of the City of Oregon City, Clackamas County, Oregon, for their approval or rejection at the special city election to be held on the 19th day of May, 1922, at the regular state primary election, and each for himself says:—

As changed, these eight sheets, along with the balance of the petitions read as follows: "shall be submitted to the legal voters of the City of Oregon City, Clackamas County, Oregon, for their approval or rejection at the regular city election to be held on the 7th day of November, 1922, and each for himself says:—

The signatures were certified to before a notary public on March 7, 1922. The changes made involve the substitution of the May 19 for November 7, the substitution of "the regular city" for "special city," and the block-out of the words "at the regular state primary election."

"I was sure that I had signed no petition requesting that such a measure be placed on the ballot at the general election," Cross stated, "and if these petitions, which have recently been filed, call for the recall measure to be placed on the ballots at this coming election, I for one do not want my name to appear on it."

He stated that he understood that at the time the petitions were circulated, previous to March 7, of this year, he was in favor of having the bonds recalled, especially in consideration of the city hall entanglement at that time. In view of the more recent developments, however, he stated, and inasmuch as the petitions were not filed in time to have the measure placed on the primary ballots as was the intention, he signed it, he said he did not feel that he wanted to be considered a signer to the petitions as later filed.

A. A. Price, local merchant, expressed the same sentiment Saturday when informed that his name was on the recall petition. "Have they dug up that old petition," he declared. "I thought that was dead and buried." Price was asked if he is in favor of the recall of the bonds at this time. "No," he stated, "I understand that the petition that I signed was for a measure to be placed on the ballot at the spring primary election, and if the petition is being presented at this late time, and for a measure to be placed on the November ballots, as far as my signature is concerned it should be taken off, for I am not in favor of recalling the bonds at this time, nor of putting such a measure on the ballots at the fall election. I consider my name null and void on that petition."

It is not known how many more of the 308 signers to the petition feel as Cross and Price do about it, but it is quite probable that many may be under the same impressions.

In order to have the measure placed on the ballot at the regular city election, November 7, the petition requires signatures of 15 per cent of the voters at the last regular election, according to City Recorder C. W. Kelly. About 1600 or 1700 voted at the last election. This would place the number of signatures required at about 255, according to Kelly. The petition as it stands with the erasures and changes, and the signers, follows:
