THE SOCIETY

The Girls' Club of the Gladstone Christian church held its regular meeting Monday evening, when Miss Mabelle Whitcomb entertained the members at her home.

Plans were made for the girls to have a booth at the bazaar to be held in December.

The evening was devoted to fancy work and a social time.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess who was assisted by Miss Lola Vedder.

Attending the affair were Mrs. George E. Williams, Misses Florence Gatchell, Glenna Miranda, Leona Fox, Mildred Kyler, Grace Owens, Matilda Hayward, Lola Vedder, Dorothy Fox, Dorothy Kyler and Mabelle Whitcomb.

One of the prettiest birthday parties of the fall was celebrated at Gladstone Heights at the George Shortledge home in honor of the eighth birthday anniversary of their daughter, Dorothy, who was the recipient of many beautiful remembrances.

The table was arranged under a large oak tree on the lawn. The table was centered with a birthday cake.

Mrs. Shortledge was assisted in serving and entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Jack White.

As guests of honor were grandmothers of Dorothy Shortledge, who were, Mrs. M. I. Shortledge, of Gladstone; Mrs. James Bergers, of Oregon City.

Enjoying the afternoon were Dorothy Shortledge, Reva and Bessie Smith, Margaret and Helen Rosenbrough, Wilda Brown, Marvel Meind, Bettie and Stella Sharp, Anna and Gertrude Buine, Vivian and Luella Carrothers, Harold Moore, Howard Brown, Bobbie Sharp, Jack, Jr., and Teddie White.

The annual bazaar of the Gladstone Baptist church will be held at the Baptist church Friday, Dec. 8th, according to plans made at Mrs. W. R. Porter's home last Wednesday. Mrs. Chas. Forsner as president presided.

The following committees were appointed by her: fancy work, Mrs. Rawlins, chairman, Mrs. Miranda, Mrs. Daggar, and Mrs. Muke; aprons, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Cover, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Beech; dining room, Mrs. Eugene Noon, Mrs. H. E. Cross, Mrs. Rawlins, and Mrs. William Peters.

E. Rauch.

The dedication services for the new home of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Sunday afternoon drew a large crowd of spectators from all over the county.

A parade of members of the Odd Fellows, Rebekah and Muscovite lodges from the old hall at Sixth and Main streets to the building at Seventh and Washington, preceded the cornerstone services. The parade was led by the drum corps from the City View lodge, a branch of the Muscovite order in Portland.

Judge T. F. Ryan was in charge of the services at the new hall, with Rev. Henry Spees of Portland, a member of the Oregon City lodge, delivering the dedicatory address. Mrs. Walter Wentworth sang the Star Spangled Banner.

In the cornerstone a copper penny of 1850 and a silver dollar of 1857 were placed. The Oregon City lodge received its first charter in 1853. Irving T. Rau was in charge of the articles placed in the cornerstone, among which were a list of members of the Odd Fellows lodge No. 3, of Rebekah lodge No. 2, and Falls Encampment No. 4, and copies of the bylaws of the three orders, as well as the constitution and bylaws of the Odd Fellows home of Portland.

West Linn Streets To Willamette Are Closed For Repair

A half-mile of road between West Linn and Willamette is closed for traffic, owing to improvements being made. This stretch will be closed for about 30 days, and it will now be necessary for those desiring to travel to the Willamette country or to Willamette to go by way of Wilsonville. The road is being paved.

Arrangements have been made whereby the dairy is able to furnish its patrons milk in the district where the road is closed, and those whose mail boxes are along the route are to call at the postoffice for their mail. There are eight or nine families on this road, which will be inconvenienced by the closed road.

Within two weeks a portion of the road lying northwest of West Linn will be closed until that is paved.

The Pacific States Telephone Company and the Portland Gas Company have begun work on placing their wires and pipes beneath the ground in West Linn, preparatory for the beautifying the grounds in the neighborhood of the new suspension bridge. Two crews of men of these companies are engaged at the work.

There is unusual activity in the West Linn section. With new houses under construction, several new business houses completed and roadwork under way gives this place a city appearance.

Ralph Millin, engineer on the highway is one of the latest purchasers of property in that section. Millin has bought slightly over one-half of the river near the home of L. L. Port.

Adjoining this is a tract purchased by Millin's mother, Mrs. Arthur Millin, of this city. Millin's property is 125x126 feet, 125 fronting the river. The former expects to erect a handsome bungalow next summer.

A short distance beyond a new residence is being erected, which will be modern throughout. Cation made for Wright is having excavation made for a modern bungalow, which is located on the paved highway. A number of lots have recently been sold at that point.

JOHN RUPERT IS KILLED BY TAR POT EXPLOSION

John Rupert, of Rupert station, after whom that vicinity was named, died at St. Vincent's hospital Saturday. His death was due to injuries received when he was struck by a piece of iron, torn from a tar pot which exploded. His wife is in the hospital in a critical condition suffering from injuries and shock.

Rupert, who was 77 years of age, was assisting his son-in-law, Joseph Bullivant, Jr., of 491 Harrison Street, Portland in making repairs on his home when the accident occurred. Rupert was struck by a flying fragment, which tore away a portion of his face. Bullivant was slightly injured, and Mrs. Rupert, who was standing close by, was also struck.

The tower house, where the men were engaged in working, caught fire and was burned to the ground. All contents were consumed, including the pumping plant, tools and farm products.

The man was rushed to the hospital, where every effort was made to save his life, but he died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Mr. Rupert was one of the best known residents of northern Clackamas county. He had taken great interest in his little farm home and was considered one of the most attractive places along the road leading to Portland. He was a retired pharmacist and had taken an interest in his country home, making it one of the show places of the countryside, and prided himself on making it such.

He first made his home in Portland in 1889, coming to that city from Idaho, and worked in several drug stores. He was a resident of Bandon, Oregon, for about six years, and later went to Alaska in the gold rush. Shortly afterwards he returned to Portland, later moving to Clackamas county.

Mr. Jewell is survived by his wife and son, George, of this city.

Death Of Cook Is Declared Caused By Heart Trouble

The remains of Charles Terry, cook, who was found dead in his bunk at the construction camp of the Hurley-Mason Company about 25 miles from Estacada, were brought to Oregon City Friday night by Coroner O. A. Pace.

Friday morning shortly after the man was found by his room mates. Pace had much difficulty in reaching the camp by going by automobile as far as Estacada, then by electric car and automobile truck had to travel about a quarter of a mile by foot over a rough road. The man died from Heart disease, according to investigation, and an inquest was not necessary.

Terry, who claimed to be a cook by profession, had arrived at the camp the previous day, asking for the job as a cook. This was given him, and he intended starting to work the morning he was found dead.
