BEAUTIFICATION OF WILLAMETTE BRIDGE IS TALKED

Civic Clubs Asked to Take Up Work Of Improving Banks Along Approaches; Value In Attractive Outlook Cited.

HIGHWAYS PROGRAM IS LAUDED BY CROSS

Millions Of Dollars In Road Work Said Obtained Thru Small Outlay By County.

Beautification of the approaches on both the east and west ends of the Willamette river bridge, was advocated by Judge H. E. Cross before the Live Wires of the commercial club at their luncheon yesterday noon. Pointing to the possibility for the creation of a community asset through the improvement of the banks of the river, and the bridge, the judge urged that the commercial club women's clubs and other civic organizations take hold of the program to improve the east and west Linn, he said, he had already indicated that that city is willing to beautify the west side of the river.

An attempt had been made to arrange a debate between Judge Cross and Percy T. Shelly, manager of the recall committee, but Shelly refused upon the ground that the live wires had already taken a stand without hearing the recaller's side of the affair.

Judge Cross, as the only speaker, touched upon the road program, telling of his personal efforts to effect settlements of conditions which he stated were the heritage of his court from the preceding administration.

The Willamette river bridge, Judge Cross declared was only a part of the entire highway project from Portland to Aurora. Clackamas county, through his financing of the deal with the county court had secured a million and a half in road construction for a quarter of a million dollars, he said. The Mount Hood Loop, he stated, had been contracted at a cost of more than one million dollars, with over forty miles of road in Clackamas County. The judge is to speak at the ing $83,000.

C. P. Rickards, bridge engineer, asked concerning the progress on the bridge, stated that it may be possible, if the present rate of work can be continued to open the span by December 15, as asked by the merchants of the city. The matter, he explained, cannot be definitely ascertained, but every effort will be made to put the traffic across at the earliest.

H. Ezell, manager of the Oregon Loeman's lodge is to speak at the meeting next Thursday and it was voted to hold the session despite the usual plan of closing for election day. The construction of a national children's home near Oregon City is contemplated if the matter can be satisfactorily arranged.

The luncheon was served Tuesday noon by the Woman's Club cookery class under Mrs. Elinor M. Redington, demonstrating Portland and Oregon products. The course is to be conducted for three days more, luncheon being served, together with breakfast and tea, for a charge of $1 for the entire series of days. A fee of $1 for the lessons is charged, the money going to augment the woman's club building fund.

CITY TO BE FORCED TO EXCEED STREET BUDGET

Oregon City's budget for the street department will be overdrawn this year. Because of lack of additional funds H. S. Mount, chairman of the street committee last night at the regular council meeting attempted to secure dismissal of the department for the remainder of the year. The motion was defeated, 4 to 2.

The question of the South End road was laid over until the regular December meeting. The highway commission asked for a guarantee upon the construction of the Railroad avenue line, but no action will be taken until after the budget committee reports. Payment of $7,183.20, the first installment from Oregon City on the new bridge, was ordered.

The improvement of Harrison from Seventh to Division, Division to Molalla and Molalla to Harrison street and the alley in Block 4 were accepted. The report of the chief of police showed 15 arrests during the month, 93 hoboes, held over night and $235 collected, held over night and report showed total collection of $1,704.14 in October.

Owing to the terrible state of unemployment in the theatrical profession, many actresses in London are said to have found work as house maids.

PEOPLE BLAMED FOR TWO THIRDS OF TAX BURDENS

Large Part of Levies Made By Voters Says Governor In Talk; Pierce's Claims of Extravagance Are Refuted.

TOTAL STATE IMPOST SAID THREE MILLIONS

Conservative Administration Promised; No Sensational Thrills are Upon Program.

"If I am reelected to the office of Governor of the State of Oregon, I promise, in the future, as in the past, to endeavor to conduct the affairs of the state of Oregon in a safe, sane and business-like manner, a conservative government without thrills or sensationalism, and will make every effort to keep the cost of that government as low as can consistently be done. And to the end that this may be done I promise to use the veto when it can go consistently be used." Such was the pledge given by Governor Ben W. Olcott to the audience that packed the Star theatre last evening to hear the governor and Senator B. L. Eddy of Douglas county. This pledge followed discussion and explanation by the governor of the tax situation in the state of Oregon. During this address he answered many of the charges made by the democratic gubernatorial candidates.

Early Life Recited

Governor Olcott, in his opening remarks, stated that this occasion was his first public appearance in Oregon City, although in 1892 or 1893, he said he came to Oregon City in search of work, which he secured here. He stated he helped lay some of the pavement in Oregon City, at that time, and later worked on the "small railroad from West Linn to Willamette."

The governor answered two specific statements by Walter M. Pierce, taken from the voter's pamphlet, "Is the sum of over $15,000,000 annually necessary in order to pay the expenses of state government in Oregon? Can the people afford to pay any such sum annually for this purpose?" and "The present enormous burden of taxation has grown up under the regime of Governor Olcott." Answering the first question, the governor read an affidavit by Frank A. Lovell, state tax commissioner, in which Lovell stated that $15,000,000 is not required, in fact a sum far less than this amount is required. The state tax levy in 1920 was explained to be approximately $3,000,000. It was further explained that it would have been impossible to raise this levy to anything approaching $15,000,000, on account of the six per cent tax limitation law, which prohibits the levying of a tax larger than six per cent greater than the tax levy of the previous year. Any tax levy over this six per cent must be voted as a constitutional amendment, and hence is without the power of the governor.

Popular Taxation Cited

"In that same year, 1920," the governor said, "you yourself voted $6,000,000 for the educational millage bills." He continued, "I am, and hope I may be soon enough to stand for the which I sponsor, though I do not care to be made the goat. You yourself are responsible for two-thirds of the tax burden since 1920. About $3,000,000 has covered every activity of the state government." Explaining further the use to which the money received from taxation is put, he stated that 94 per cent of the money is used to conduct, and for the upkeep of higher education, for elementary schools, and for local roads, and that six per cent went to the maintenance.

The state highways, he explained, are built and maintained by money received, not from taxation upon the people, but from auto license fees, and from gas tax. The State Highway commission, the governor stated, consists of three men who receive no salary for their work, and who have executed their duties as highway commissioners in an able manner, and received high compliments from other states and executives, mentioning among them these later, Ex-governor Lowden, of Illinois. State Highways which are built in Oregon, are paid for by bonds, he explained, and these bonds, and the interest thereon, are paid by receipts from auto licenses and gas taxes.

A state tax investigation commission has been appointed by Governor Olcott, he explained, to make a thorough and scientific analysis of the tax situation and to report to the governor and the state legislature. "This committee," he said, "will report to the next legislature, a republican legislature that is already pledged to do all in its power to lower the taxes for the people of Oregon."

Urging the election of Olcott as a governor of the common people, whose record, he stated, had shown conservative economy, loyalty, patriotism and the support of government, by law, B. L. Eddy, senator from Douglas county, followed Governor Olcott. Eddy attacked the candidacy of Pierce whom he characterized as the weeping willow of Grand Ronde.

"From the beginning of his campaign," said the senator, "Pierce was challenged to show where and how he would begin to reduce taxes if he were made governor. His first thoughtless answer was that he would cut down the expenses of government, but those institutions are so economically conducted under Governor Olcott and Secretary Koser and Treasurer Hoff that there is no possibility of reasonable saving there, and Pierce as a former state senator should know this and does know it, and no longer makes that suggestion. He has recently come forward with a new proposition. He would have the United States pay the State of Oregon a revenue on the timber which it sells from its forest reserves! It would take some governor to do that!

"He would have to swing not the Oregon legislature, but the Congress of the United States, and I think he could swing it about as far as he could swing one of his blooded bulls by the tail! We now get for our schools and roads 25 per cent of all money received by the United States from its forests in Oregon. Why doesn't he go farther and say that since Uncle Sam is getting a fine revenue from the income tax in Oregon, he ought to divide up with us about fifty-fifty, and that if he is elected governor he will see that your Uncle Samuel comes across. Why not? There is a justice of the peace in Douglas county who displayed great genius in getting votes.

"It was during the war. Strange lights had been seen on his hills, and some surmised that the Japanese were seeking to land troops on our coast or that a fleet of German warships had eluded our navy and was about to invade Douglas county. There was not little interest and uneasiness. The ingenious candidate for justice of the peace assured the people that if elected he would speedily solve the mystery of the strange lights. He was elected, but I believe the mystery is unsolved."

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET SET FOR NOVEMBER 10

At a recent meeting of the County officers of the Sunday School association, plans were made for holding the Clackamas County Girls' and Boys' Conference to be held at the Baptist church on November 10th and 11th. Arrangements are being made to entertain about 200 members, these to come from various parts of the county.

The first program will be on Friday evening, and will continue until Saturday evening.

A little more than a year ago the first Clackamas County Older Girls' and Boys' conferences were held in Oregon City. This meeting, scheduled for November 10th and 11th is the second meeting of its kind held in this city, and every boy and girl between the ages of 15 and 21 years will be given the privileges of attending, with the teacher of the Sunday school attending.

There will be a registration fee of 25 cents to cover the cost of the programs, badges and other necessities of this meeting, but entertainment will be furnished free of charge. The banquet will be held on Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock to be followed by the evening session. Registration will take place at 4 o'clock.

The Saturday morning session will be held in various churches.

The officers of the Clackamas County Sunday School association, attending for the conference are as follows: A. J. Ware, president; Mrs. B. A. Hoag, vice-president; Mrs. W. A. 153 VETERANS APPLY FOR TAX EXEMPTIONS

Exemptions to old soldiers and widows of veterans in Clackamas county for the 1922 tax roll, will amount to 96,450, according to figures completed today by W. B. Cook. Under the law enacted by the 1921 legislature, exemption from all taxation on property to the value of $1,000 is allowed veterans of the Mexican, civil and Indian wars. A total of 153 veterans filed for exemptions under the law in 1921 covering property to the value of $65,000.

Because the law went into effect in the middle of the year, the figures cannot be used for accurate comparative purposes, Cook states, as all of the old veterans in the county did not file last year and some are included on the current year's tax rolls.

KLAMATH FALLS, Oct. 2.—When the eternal triangle landed Louisa Blanco in the justice court Thursday on charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, she expressed surprise that "such a fuss" should be made over "nothing but a little shooting scrape."

23 ARRESTS ARE MADE IN TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN

Man Is Sent Back Over New Era Road and Given Lesson In Proper Driving Method.

Twenty-three arrests by State Traffic Officers H. L. Griffith, Chet Wilds, Floyd Browne and County Traffic Officer Long, which have been tried in the justice court before Judge E. J. Noble since Monday, bear witness to the fact that the campaign to put a stop to carelessness in motor vehicle operation, is bearing fruit in Clackamas county.

B. F. Suttel, of Albany was arrested by Griffith and Wilds for passing a machine on the curves near New Era. School boy punishment was inflicted by Judge Noble. In the custody of officer Wilds Suttel was sent back over the road to New Era at a ten mile an hour rate and given an elementary lesson in the laws of the road.

Faulty Lights Scored. A large portion of the arrests, according to Griffith, are being made at night in an effort to check the practice of driving with faulty lights.

Pointing to the danger in defective equipment, Browne cites the accident at Parkplace last Friday. Through a defective trailer steering arm, a truck owned by the Willamette Valley transfer was ditched. Browne, on investigating the accident, discovered that both truck and trailer were loaded with five tons of dynamite.

$4450 VERDICT WON IN SUIT AGAINST ATTORNEY

A judgment for $4405.50 against W. L. Mulvey, Oregon City attorney, was granted to William Feltelson today in a decision written by Judge George R. Bagley. Feltelson sued for $4500 due on a contract for the purchase of property located at Eighth and Main streets. The extra amount allowed represented interest upon the payments overdue.

The case was tried in the Clackamas county circuit court a month ago and taken under advisement by Bagley.

FOREIGN PARTICIPATION IN 1927 FAIR IS ASSURED

PORTLAND, Nov. 1.—That fear of a possible failure of the Oregon, 1927 exposition because of lack of foreign participation, is without any foundation is shown by official information just received at the exposition headquarters in Portland to the effect that at the present time in spite of conditions in Europe 22 foreign nations are now participating in the world's exposition in Brazil. Included in the list are all of the nations which opponents of the Oregon exposition have said are "sick" and could not be expected to take part in Oregon.

The exposition headquarters have received from the Brazilian delegation in Washington, D. C., the official information on the scope of the South American exposition. This report shows that the following nations are taking part: Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Japan, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Holland, Belgium, Cuba, Canada, Poland, Roumania, Uruguay, Czechoslovakia, Peru, Bolivia, Mexico, Chile, Argentina and the United States.

Mrs. Stockton in her affidavit states that she knew her daughter had not had trial, and she therefore started to remonstrate with the judge, but was interrupted by Mrs. Church, who stated, according to the affidavit, "You have nothing to do with that child." Mrs. Stockton states that she appealed to Judge Cross, asking him if he thought it fair to refuse to hear her story, or to tell her who had preferred charges. Judge Cross, according to the statement, ignored her altogether and refused to hear her side of the story.

Following this, Mrs. Stockton states, she had the school board sign a special petition and one of the members of the board interviewed the judge personally in her behalf.
