Canby Party Enjoys Trip To Seaside

CANBY, Or., Dec. 6.—A party, composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bair, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Waite and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eccles, of this city, and Miss Violette Evans, of Portland had a most delightful time on a recent trip.

Leaving Portland Wednesday morning the party left their lunch at Rainier, and arrived at Seaside in the early evening. The roads were dry and the party made good traveling until Astoria was reached. There the roads showed the effect of the heavy fog from the sea, but good time was made over these the remainder of the distance.

When reaching their destination they found the large home of the Scott family, which they were to occupy during their stay at the resort, lighted and heated for their reception. This is one of the largest and best equipped residences at the resort, and close to the beach, a most desirable for a house party. Following the duck dinner, the members of the party enjoyed dancing, the music being furnished by a Victrola.

The following day golf was enjoyed at Gearhart. A Thanksgiving dinner, with two large turkeys, everything that goes with it enjoyed.

Each day a program of enjoyment was carried out by the Canby people. This was their annual trip to the resort, and they are already planning a similar one for next Thanksgiving.

BATTLE IN SENATE ON SHIP SUBSIDY NEARS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—To verbal broadsides directed against the pending ship subsidy bill by Republican and Democratic senators opposed to it, administration spokesmen fired back the term "destructionists" today as the lines of the approaching battle over the measure in the Senate were tightly drawn.

The Senate does not begin discussion of the bill until tomorrow, but senators on both sides were already carefully combing the situation for votes. Two of the 37 Democratic senators were known to be unalterable committed to the bill—Broussard and Ransdell of Louisiana.

At least six of the Republican-Progressive group were pledged to fight it to the end—Borah of Idaho, La Follette of Wisconsin, Capper of Kansas, Ladd of North Dakota, Norris of Nebraska and Brookhart of Iowa. Norbeck of South Dakota was expected to join them. McNary of Oregon, Lenroot of Wisconsin and Sterling of South Dakota were among those who were non-committal.

MULTNOMAH TO MEET SHARE OF MT. HOOD LOOP

Item of $170,000 Is Included In Budget to Pay for Work in Clackamas County; End Of Long Controversy Seen.

PROVISION MADE FOR TWO YEAR PAYMENT

Tax and Conservation Bodies Determine Obligation Can Be Met by Vehicle Imposts.

Provision for participation in construction of the Mount Hood Loop road by Multnomah county was voted yesterday by the tax supervision and conservation commission, which approved a budget item of $170,000 for this purpose. In voting favorably upon this item the commission reversed its position of last year when it turned down an item of $85,000, which was to match a like amount of state funds devoted to construction of the road.

Special Fund Created

In this ending a controversy marked by no little bitterness the commission gave full explanation of how it found the way cleared for approval of the expenditure. In brief, it said the county commissioners this year propose the setting up of a special fund, where last year they planned to take the money from regular funds, raised through taxes. The commission decided that the motor vehicle license fund which Multnomah county is entitled to is an accumulation by the tax levied on the use of the state at large, that the highway commission is to look to a special fund, that the statute makes a preferential distribution available to the board of county commissioners, and that the allowance for the Mount Hood loop road is in accordance with the preferential schedule contained in the statute, the Mount Hood loop road is allowed by this commission as a budget item in the sum of $170,000.

Future Demands Obscure

The commission desires, however, to call the attention of the people of Multnomah county to the fact that in the hearings developed before it it is apparent that the sum of $170,000 will only give a macadamized road, and that those particularly interested in the road will probably, in the not remote future, seek to obtain funds from Multnomah county for the hard surfacing of certain portions of the Mount Hood loop road situated in the county of Clackamas. It is impossible at this time to determine what demands will be made on Multnomah county in dollars and cents for this purpose, but the demands will probably be staggering in their amounts.

The commission also wishes to be understood that it would discourage any direct levy of a local tax upon the taxable property of Multnomah county for road construction in another county. The constitution expressly prohibits the use of county bond money for road construction in another county, and it is hoped that this restriction may be brought so as to prohibit the expenditure of any money raised by local taxation for road construction in another county.

The budget request of the county commissioners for $89,000 for the paving of the Boone's ferry and Taylor's ferry roads, extending to the Clackamas county line, was slashed to $37,000. With this amount, the commission calculated, the paving of the lower end of the Taylor's ferry road can be done. The improvement will extend up the steep grade of the road to where the Boone's ferry road branches off, according to figures the supervisors had at hand.

The report of Chief of Police W. B. May for the past month showed 12 arrests, 6 juvenile arrests, $122 collected in fines and 67 vagrants held over night.

Mayor James Shannon announced that a special meeting of the council will be called for the 8th of December.

BUILDING CODE IS TO BE ENFORCED BY CITY COUNCIL

Efforts To Put Provisions of Ordinance In Operation are Successful After Lengthy Controversy, Krassig Says.

ACTION PROMISED ON REMAINING OFFENDER

Solons Tangle on Question of Budget Overdrafts; Shift In Funds Is Declared Solution.

Spurred to action by the numerous fires in Oregon City the council and other city officials, after numerous threats and considerable contention, have placed the building code in operation. The law which has been on the statute books, inoperative for the past decade, has been effectively resurrected, its teeth polished and its provisions placed in force, Dr. Wm. Krassig, a member of the fire and water committee, announced last night at the regular session of the city council.

The action ordered against the First National Bank to force compliance with the building restrictions had been withdrawn, the councilman stated, following an agreement on the part of the bank to comply with the ordinance. The other cases where owners have overlooked the provisions of the code had been adjusted so as to meet the statutory requirements without trouble. It was reported with the exception of the Logus estate which refused to make repairs to its property in this city in compliance with the rulings.

Fire Construction Required

The building code provides for the construction within the downtown district of only fireproof buildings, and the fireproof construction of all repair work.

The question of overdrafts in the street fund was aired in the action upon the payment of the month's bills for the street department's expenses. The use of $1000 for the paving of Molalla Ave. leaves a technical shortage in the street department fund. Councilman H. S. Mount, head of the street department, voted against the allowance of the claims on the ground that there was no money in the fund and that under the charter only the specific budgeted amount could be spent for street purposes.

An opinion from City Attorney O. D. Eby was read pointing out the necessity of following the budget, but saying also that funds could be transferred from surplus balances to meet deficiencies.

Surplus Is Used Up

Councilman Fred Metzner, also on the street committee, objected to Mount's attitude, saying that the Molalla paving should have been charged against the general fund. Mount charged that the general fund was all spent too and that no surplus to transfer remains. City Recorder C. W. Kelly explained that the deficiency will be met this year by borrowing from special funds where balances are available and that provision for paying the funds back has been made in the 1923 budget out of the road fund.

Matters concerning the South End Road were laid upon the table pending new developments after the next meeting of the state highway commission.

The report of Chief of Police W. B. May for the past month showed 12 arrests, 6 juvenile arrests, $122 collected in fines and 67 vagrants held over night.

Mayor James Shannon announced that a special meeting of the council will be called for the 8th of December.
