WILLAMETTE FERRY IS TO CEASE OPERATION

Closing of Road and High Water Prevent Continued Use; Need Soon Obviated.

The Oregon City—West Linn ferry which for the past five months has been operated to take care of vehicle traffic during the period while the Willamette River bridge was under construction, has ceased running, according to A. G. Beattie, secretary of the corporation of local merchants. The closing of the road on the West side and the high water have necessitated closing down the ferry. The new bridge will be opened December 28.

The ferry was put in operation to meet a situation which arose when only too traffic across the bridge was provided for. It has been kept in operation despite difficulties for a majority of the time, and the small charges made have not quite met the expenses of operation.

Regulation on War Stamps Explained

Explaining the regulations governing the payment of 1918 issue war saving stamps, assistant postmaster Wm. Howell yesterday explained that the stamps may be cashed at any of the banks. Under the system as that in vogue by the government it is possible to take unregistered stamps to any bank and secure the principal and interest.

Registered stamps must be cashed at the postoffice of registry, he says. After December 20, it is pointed out, direct payments on stamps maturing January 1, 1923 can be made. It is only necessary to bring them to the postoffice, secure a receipt, and after ten days call for the money, eliminating the red tape formerly connected with the cashing of the stamps.

BOND LIMIT INCREASE SOUGHT BY OAK LODGE

Plans for the presentation to the state legislature of a measure providing certain changes in the methods of administering water districts are to be made to the next session at Salem. It is indicated by the commissioners of the Oak Lodge district. The ten percent limitation on the bonding power of the district is not sufficient to allow the building of the class of water system desired and the legislature is to be asked not only to raise the limitation about two or three percent but to make changes in the regulations under which territory can be added or excluded from the district.

Under the present laws there is not sufficient elasticity, J. Dean Butler, attorney of the district, explains. Adjacent territory cannot be added or changes made in existing boundaries without prohibitive red tape.

Henry Babler, commissioner, was re-elected December 4 to succeed himself for three years the commission announced following their session Tuesday evening.

Mrs Phillips Still Enigma To Officials

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 9.—The search for Mrs. Clara Phillips, hammer murderer, who escaped from the Los Angeles county jail last Tuesday, has "brought us right back where we started," according to statements from sheriff's deputies today.

They admitted they had "no tangible clues", and that only two facts stood out in their investigation—that Mrs. Phillips had escaped and that she was still free.

They declared again their determination to continue their search until they had recaptured the woman, and said they attached as much credence to the report she had fled to Mexico as to another that she had remained in Los Angeles.

"MORE AND BETTER FRUIT"

A new discovery—Nature's way of production greatly improved.

The fruit buds mature and produce much larger and more wholesome fruit. Extremely large cherries and they do not fall. Bear in mind that fully fifty per cent of our cherries are lost before maturity. This may be saved, except for weather conditions, the first year by the application of "Morehouse's Orchard Invigorant," applied by expert horticulturists. All fruit made to bring forth an abundance of brighter tints, all cereals, vegetables, forced into heavy production. Practical pruning, spraying, budding and grafting done in proper season. All sprays have the invigorant added free. The wilderness and the dry land shall be glad, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." Write or call for information.

MOTHER AND SON ARRESTED UPON ARSON CHARGES

William and Mary Barry of Jennings Lodge Are Cited In Complaint of Marshal Deputy; Bonds Are Given.

PROBE OF INCENDIARY FIRES HERE DELAYED

Pomeroy and Davis Called To Astoria; Grand Jury May Be Asked for Aid.

Charged with arson with intent to defraud the Philadelphia Insurance company, William and Mary Barry of Jennings Lodge are awaiting action of the circuit court grand jury. They are under arrest on a complaint filed by H. H. Pomeroy, chief deputy fire marshal, and deputy L. B. Lewis in connection with the blaze which, on July 26, destroyed their own home at Jennings Lodge and the Ingalls residence adjoining.

Mrs. Barry was released upon her own recognizance and her son upon $500 bond furnished by C. D. Atchley and Wiley Trout. Both have waived a preliminary hearing in the justice court.

Man Was Ill Barry, at the time of the fire was undergoing treatment in the Oregon City hospital. All of the personal effects of the family as well as their residence, were lost.

Work of investigating the many fires in Oregon City during the past year which the local and state officials declare have been of incendiary origin has been temporarily held up by the conflagration in Astoria. Pomeroy and Lewis have been transferred to the mouth of the river to investigate the reports that the holocaust there was the work of an incendiary.

Grand Jury May Act That the investigators, when they return here, will present angles in the case to the grand jury has been indicated, but draws no comment from District Attorney Livy Stipp. Just when the grand jury will be called this month has not been definitely determined, the district attorney says.

Increasing credulity is being given the theory that the Oregon City fires are the work of a local pyromaniac. Peculiar circumstances surrounding some of the fires have been discovered by the state men, leading to the belief that they are the work of fire bugs who are familiar both with the city and with the individual buildings which they have attacked.

any man to stand up to my face and say that I have not always from the first, talked of more streets, stood on the floor at the Live Wire luncheon and stated and argued that we need more streets down town, if we are ever to grow into anything but a one-street town. The same men that oppose the routing by the highway commission also stood on the floor and said "Oh! yes, we should open Railroad avenue, but in the future; it should not be linked with the highway."

"Is there any consistent reason why we should not have three streets, viz. Fifth, Sixth and Seventh opening onto the highway, thereby being able to take care of left-hand turns and other business in town, rather than one street, viz. Fifth? Is there any sense in thinking that if the commission routes the traffic on Seventh street, all of the traffic is going that way? Is it not better to believe that the traffic will split three ways and filter in and out of the city to the south, on Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets?"

"I believe we owe a debt to thorough traffic and to the Pacific highway, as much as any city on the line. Can you name one city on the highway from Canada to Mexico where there has been as much trouble in getting a safe, clear way open to through traffic as in Oregon City? We hear of injunction proceedings if the highway goes up the basin or if Railroad avenue is opened. We are selfish enough, or we are influenced by selfish motives to such an extent, that we must tie the traffic to only one route and thereby congest our street and make it more difficult for through traffic to get through Oregon City."

"Why people want through traffic to come past their place of business is more than I can see. Does through traffic buy anything except perhaps some gas, a package of cigarettes or an ice cream cone? Don't you suppose that when through traffic gets this close to Portland it will go on to Portland? We don't want it in our streets; it congests them and wears them out for no good."

"I maintain that the highway commission is a broad-minded set of men who are continually running up against traffic problems, and that we will eventually come to believe that they were right in trying to get through traffic in and out of our town as quickly and directly as possible, and that they were right in forcing us to open Railroad avenue."

"It is deplorable that a few business men in one building should be inconvenienced by this matter, but it appears to me that the new street is for the convenience of the majority, and in that case should be put through."

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers will meet in annual session in Richmond, Va., the second week of December.

Did You Come Out Behind Your Bills Last Month?

That's easy to do—but it's a losing game. Swing the pendulum the other way and save for a few months: Yes, do without something you'd like, if necessary. But put a deposit in that Savings Account every month or every pay-day.

After a few months, what happens? Just this: You've put the shoe on the other foot. You're ahead, instead of the bills. And you're better satisfied, that way.
