

NEWS OF THE COUNTY AND SUBURBS

Local and County Items of Interest to Courier Readers

CHERRYVILLE

The fall season has begun falling. Some of these big autos had to labor to get home on Labor day.

No one needs to be poor in this country; they can buy or rent a small tract of land and raise logan berries or beans and make a fine living. Prof. Couper sold $40 worth of logan berries from two short rows. At that rate over $400 could be had per acre.

Andrew Oaks, who lives up near the Bull Run reserve, discovered lately on Camp creek a valuable ledge of Black Jack quartz, specimens of which he has taken this week to Portland for an assay.

August Hornecker, an old miner, who owns an interest in the famous Greenhorn mines near Baker City, has leased the Morning Light claims on Sheezy creek above Welches. Over $3000 has already been expended on work on these claims. The quartz is a conglomerate of gold, silver, copper and lead.

W. A. Stone and family have gone down to help Mrs. Stone's brother pick hops near Oregon City.

Dr. Jayne and family of Lafayette, Ore., are up on his ranch north of the postoffice for a few days, making some needed improvements.

Edison and Ford are both out for Wilson for president. They are both easily the greatest living Americans, especially in their line. In the meantime old Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan and other big business bandits are for Hughes.

The strike is over, thanks to the determined efforts of the president and on the final vote in the senate every republican but La Follette voted against it. This is a bad record and puts them in a terrible hole. In the house some republicans refused to vote at all merely answering present. Among them our delectable Hawley. This is a bad body blow for the old standpatters, most of them being corporation lawyers and drawing down big salaries from the railroads on the side. Governmental control of railroads is in sight.

Ford says the only way to beat him is to pay bigger wages, say $6 a day, which he says none of them have sense enough to do. The U. S. steel carders 2828239 828T8.bmgf hrdwag pay could easily do it; so could the Standard Oil and the munition companies, but that bunch of pirates will never do so.

"Pat" McArthur, of Portland, voted against the 8-hour law in congress. Of course! The ox knows his owner's stall and the ass his master's crib.

Oh! Mr. Hughes! Have you heard the news. That's going all around?

With all your blow You stand no show— You're daily losing ground.

Your journey west Is at the best But time and labor gone.

The people here; They have no fear Of Wilson at Shadow Lawn.

You've made no hit— You'd better quit— And one thing please remember: We'll fix your fate On a certain date Away long in November.

The shingle mills here have sold out their entire output of over 1,000,000 shingles and could have sold more if they had them on hand. They run by water power and had to shut down, but now that the water is up again they will resume operations. In the meantime millions of feet of cedar are lying around here in every direction.

HAZELIA

Mr. and Mrs. Max McMahon and sons were entertained at Maple Knoll farm by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eastman and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McMahon Tuesday evening.

It won't be long until the school bells will be ringing in our land. Joneth Johnson and son, Arance, were Oswego visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. Geo. Wilson was pleasantly entertained by Mrs. S. S. Boutz on Saturday morning.

He who hollers most does not always have the most money. Most of the farmers here have their grain stacked and are ready for the threshers.

When a girl praises a young man he had just as well make up his mind she is not in love with him.

For dexterity and skill in the art of catching fish we put our progressive neighbor, Mr. Zivney, one of Hazelia's most respected citizens, up against the world. Why, if he wants fish all he does is to shoulder his fishpole and go to the river, lake or pond, and he sure know how to land some beauties. We have him to thank for enjoying fish for dinner several days this week.

C. T. Dickinson, good citizen of Alti park, visited with Theodore Steinhiller Wednesday.

Mr. Borland was a visitor at Mullino Tuesday.

Jerry Flala and son, Arthur, were business visitors at Tualatin Meadows Wednesday.

Blackberry pickers are here almost every day and they find the luscious fruit ripe and very plentiful.

Mrs. S. S. Boutz and little sons, C. Antone, Shirley and Joan, were pleasantly entertained at Tualatin Meadows Wednesday.

Harley, Everett and Leonard Whitten were callers at the Richard Zivney farm.

Mrs. Fred Lehman and daughter, Miss Lena, the Misses Janet and Irene Raicy were visitors at Tualatin Meadows Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Scott was a Hazelia visitor Wednesday.

A. P. Mumler of Lents, Oregon, was a guest at the Geo. F. Nagl home Thursday night.

Corkins Ackerman was the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. C. Borland, Friday.

Misses Mary and Jean Wilson returned from the beach Friday after a ten-day visit there.

Mrs. Joseph McMahon's sister left for California, after a brief visit at the McMahon home, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman of Rock Bottom farm, were Oswego visitors Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lortz of Portland were weekend guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joneth Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Thomas entertained relatives from Gaston, Ore., Thursday.

S. S. Boutz was a business visitor at Oswego Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lortz spent a pleasant evening at the C. C. Borland home Saturday.

The rain came as a welcome change from so much dry weather. Most of the farmers are wearing smiles.

Your correspondent is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. H. V. Keifer, formerly of Hazelia but now of Port Orchard, Wash. Mrs. Keifer says that crops of all kinds are good there. Mr. Keifer has a prominent position in the U. S. barracks at Seattle. The Keifers' "Eureka" farm is just across the bay from Seattle.

Hazelia Sunday school met at "Redwood" farm, the home of H. T. Duncan Sunday because of the rain.

Mr. Segard threshed grain for Joseph Eastman, T. Steinhiller, A. E. Thomas, W. H. Zivney and Richard Zivney, all of Hazelia.

A. Worthington, farmer of this community, is very busy picking and marketing his peach crop.

Richard Zivney was a pleasant caller at the S. S. Boutz home Sunday evening.

Walter Borland was a guest at the home of his grandparents Saturday.

Mrs. A. E. Thomas spent Sunday at the Theodore Steinhiller home.

Mr. Andrews, the obliging mail carrier of Route 5, left for Silverton with his family Friday, where they will spend a two weeks vacation.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Several families have left this part of the city for the hop fields.

Last Sunday morning the alarm of fire was sounded when Mrs. Ruski discovered their home on fire; caused by a defective flue. Very little was saved from the building although the fire company responded promptly, but it was badly handicapped by lack of water. For a time it looked as though other houses would catch the blaze, but a bucket brigade was busy for a time.

Last Friday two auto loads of people drove out to the residence of Al Jones near Carus and spent the day with Mr. Jones' mother, Mrs. J. P. Roehl, it being her 79 birthday anniversary. Several presents were given her. A cafeteria luncheon was served at noon. The following ladies were present from Oregon City: Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. Baty, Mrs. Boylan, Miss Myrtle Henderson, Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Hickman, Mrs. Stillwell, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Nation and Mrs. Striker and children. Neighbors of Mrs. Roehl were also present. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. James is building a new house on Roosevelt street. Other new homes are being planned for this fall. A scarcity of houses seems to be the trouble at present. There are two good sized houses in this vicinity that have been under construction for the past three years that are enclosed but not finished. These would be easily rented for a good interest on the money if they were finished.

A "Smart Alec" has ridden on horseback twice over the foot bridge here, and it would be a good idea to make him pay a fine. Boys with their wagons running over the sidewalks for hours at a time and others on bicycles do not stop for pedestrians but ring their bells to warn you and you have to get out of the way or take the consequences. We need an officer almost every day to stop this breaking of the ordinances of the city.

Mrs. Katie Harrington and daughter, Aletha, have gone to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Van Doyne, near Pendleton. Her son, Morris, who has been down there the past two months, will return with her.

The Mountain View Ladies' Aid met last Friday at the home of Mrs. Frank Bullard for an all-day quilting bee. A fine dinner was served on the lawn and all enjoyed a pleasant time.

Mrs. W. C. Clark has been quite poorly for the past month and does not seem to improve.

Announcement

The undersigned have a complete well-drilling outfit and are soliciting business in Clackamas county. Work guaranteed. Satisfaction is assured. Phone Pac. 180-J.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building, and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

EAST CLACKAMAS

The rain of the last few days was greatly appreciated by some of us. Mrs. Henry Kelenhofr and son, Edward, have gone home to keep house while her parents enjoy their vacation.

J. W. Bennett has sold the remaining 18 acres of his ranch here to a native son of Italy.

Bernice Gottberg returned to her home in Oregon City after spending the past week at Cedar Springs ranch.

Clackamas is getting ready to greet the soldier boys who are ordered home from the border.

Mrs. Payton visited with Mrs. W. Kneeland Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding visited with Mr. and Mrs. Kneeland last Thursday. They left for Salt Lake City, where they will visit a while before returning to their home in St. Joseph.

W. F. Mundeheke is having his house and barn decorated with some paint. Keisner and Pluffer are the artists.

Edwin Daue is in the Logan country helping his father with the hay harvesting.

Edith Blake is convalescing nicely at present.

H. Van Water was a Portland visitor last Friday.

Our local sauer kraut factory will begin operations next Wednesday.

We are blessed with two jitneys now-a-days, they run as far as Logan. The Clackamas Valley stage seems to have a little the best of the P. R. L. & P. company jitney.

Mrs. M. Victor of Milwaukee visited from Monday to Thursday with home folks, L. M. Haworth and family.

Mrs. W. Kneeland and son, Millen, attended the funeral of their friend, Blanch Boynton of Lents, last Friday.

Death was caused from burns received when a camp stove fire ignited her clothing while camped in Happy Valley, last Wednesday.

W. Kneeland was transacting business in Portland last Saturday.

STAFFORD

Mrs. Aims and daughters, Josephine and Edna, spent a pleasant evening with Mrs. Gage recently. Games and music helped to pass several hours.

The cloudy days with a warm sprinkle now and then are bad for hope. The elements seem to have conspired to say "No" to the Brewers' amendment.

Mrs. Nemece and daughters enjoyed a visit with Mrs. Baker on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Jack Ellegson was stung on the ankle by something while catching a chicken one evening and her foot and limb has been badly swollen and are painful. She has no idea what it was that stung her. It is getting better at the present writing, and is able to wear a shoe.

School is to open on the 18 with Mr. Bleakman as principal, and a Miss Davis for the lower grades.

A number of the farmers propose to bale their straw this year. Threshing is nearly over with a fair yield.

It is said that a snake six feet long and as large as a man's arm was seen on Fred Moser's place last week.

All who can use a needle and thimble are expected to meet with the Ladies' Circle the third Thursday of this month at Mrs. Oldham's and spend the afternoon in sewing for the hostess.

T. L. Turner, who has been ailing for the past few months, was taken worse on Saturday and is no better at the present writing. His daughter, Mrs. Fred Ellegson, was summoned, and is still in attendance at his bedside.

Mrs. Henry Shauber is said to be in a fair way to recover from a serious operation, which was undertaken last Saturday at the Oregon City hospital.

EAGLE CREEK

George Judd and some of his near neighbors are through with their threshing. A good many of the farmers are awaiting the coming of the threshers.

Mrs. A. W. Cooke and Mrs. Sarah Dallas were guests of Mrs. Howlett over Wednesday night.

Mr. Burger paid a visit to his farm recently and had his grain cut.

The Smiling club met at the home of Mrs. D. Beckett last Wednesday afternoon and spent a pleasant afternoon with her and her daughter.

The name of the "Hoping Hand" was voted on as the permanent name by which the club be known hereafter, and the time of meeting at 2:30 p. m. After a delicious luncheon was partaken of the club adjourned.

James Gibson, accompanied by his son, H. F. Gibson, and grandson, Sam Wilson, paid his old home a visit last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bow, of Portland, were guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, over Sunday.

Roy Douglass and wife were Logan visitors Sunday.

This rain is not very well liked by those farmers who have grain out in the field.

Joe Cahill, his sister, Lena, brother, Bobbie, and cousin, Mrs. Long, went on a "huckleberry" trip last week, returning with 8 gallons of berries.

MULINO

Once more it is raining—a little too soon for the hoppers and threshers.

Bayne Howard is taking his vacation this week and is on a hunting trip in the mountains of the Roaring river and Salmon river country. He is accompanied by John Bounds, a former resident of Mulino, who now lives in the foothills east of Estacada.

DAIRY and CREAMERY

PURE BREDS PROFITABLE.

Scrub Cows of Less Value For Milk Production and Offspring.

Good pure bred cattle are more profitable than scrubs when considered from the standpoint of either production or offspring, says Hord's Dairyman. As used here the term scrub applies to two classes of cattle. It includes those cows of indiscriminate breeding, sometimes known as native stock, that are not capable of producing each year sufficient milk or butter fat to return a reasonable net profit to their owners. It also includes the scrub pure bred which will not return a similar profit. In any of the dairy breeds there are some registered animals incapable of profitable production.

In general adaption the Dutch Belted cattle are similar to the Holsteins. They are somewhat smaller, however. The animals are distinguished by a white belt encircling the body. The Dutch Belted cattle are a distinct dairy breed, but the public records that have been made are not as good as those made by Holsteins. The cow shown is a Dutch Belted.

and these are no more valuable to the dairy farmer than are scrubs of the first class.

Fortunately the majority of pure bred animals are profitable producers, but this cannot be said of the majority of native cows. It is true, however, that some of them are good producers, and where a dairyman has such stock it is usually advisable to keep them and try to improve the herd by the use of a pure bred bull from high producing ancestors.

Pure bred dairy cattle have for generations been bred for profitable milk and butter fat production. Consequently it is reasonable to expect them to be more profitable producers than the animals whose ancestors were at best only fair producers. This expectation has been realized hundreds of times, as shown by the herd records of pure bred owners.

From the standpoint of offspring the pure bred is vastly superior to the scrub. Dairymen generally have come to recognize the producing powers of pure bred and high grade cows, and consequently such stock commands a much higher price than the scrub. A good pure bred cow will not only prove a profitable milk producer, but her offspring will also prove a source of income for the owner. The offspring of scrub stock, on the other hand, are valuable only for the meat their carcasses will yield, and, since they are usually not economical meat producers, it is rarely profitable to keep them for that purpose.

THE CARE OF CREAM.

Two Essentials Are Cleanliness and Quick Cooling.

The two things most important in producing good cream are cleanliness and quick cooling.

The separator must be washed thoroughly after each separation, and the cans, pails and other utensils must be kept clean.

The cream may be cooled quickly and easily by simply placing a small cream cooling tank, or even a barrel, between the pump and the stock tank and connecting them in such a manner that the water from the pump enters the cream cooling tank from the bottom and overflows from the top into the stock tank.

In this manner all water for the stock is first used for cooling cream, thereby saving unnecessary pumping and insuring plenty of cold well water for cooling the cream.

A cover on the cream cooling tank will help to keep the cream sweet, and if the tank is provided with insulation that will keep the water from changing temperature so much the better.

By proper arrangement, according to the ingenuity and means of the farmer, this method of quick cooling and good care of the cream may be provided without much trouble and expense, and the well becomes as useful as a natural spring and the work of cooling and caring for the cream very convenient.

Don't pour warm cream into a can of cream already cooled off. Cool the warm cream first; then add it to the can of older cream.

It pays to take care of the cream. Some creameries pay 5 cents more per pound for butter fat than others, due almost entirely to the better grade of cream delivered and to regular, frequent deliveries.—Missouri Bulletin.

Cement Floors For Stables.

Where the walls join the floor of the stable be certain that the cement is rounded—not like a "quarter round," but like a "cove." It will help to keep the barn clean. Do not neglect this precaution, because it may be slightly inconvenient for the person doing the cement work. Remember the inconvenience it will be daily not to have the rounded corner.

Mrs. Oscar Daniels is reported still quite ill.

Mr. Ashby and daughter, Lois, are ill with typhoid fever.

Walter Waldorf has just purchased an automobile and rides to and from his work.

The W. V. S. hauled a record train load of freight last Saturday. The train consisted of 25 cars, and there would be more yet if it were not for the shortage of men and teams.

Feed picking is in full blast at Fred Bratzel's and other orchards this week.

NARROW ESCAPE

Cement Plant Kiln Explodes Blowing Roof 100 Feet

Two employees of the Oregon-Portland Cement company plant at Oswego had narrow escapes from death Friday morning, when the kiln blew up at 5 o'clock.

The half made cement was blown through the roof, and portions of the roof were carried 100 feet away. Two workmen standing within 30 feet of the plant found their clothes on fire, and escaped serious injury only because they were near the river and out of line of the blast from the kiln.

The two who had narrow escapes were Bert Crego and Harry Hedges. Crego was on duty in the fire room, but luckily was standing at one side of the doors of the kiln. Hedges was just outside. The two of them recovered from their surprise quickly, and extinguished the fire before any material damage was done.

The damage to the dry kiln was estimated at $500.

Farmers Should Advertise

Farm and Fireside, in an article advocating the use of the mails by farmers to bring business, gives several examples of men who made money by advertising their products. In the article this occurs:

"At this point I entered the conversation. I told them about a man in northeast Kansas who sells all of the crop from a 100-acre apple orchard by parcel post. He makes cider of all of the apples he can't sell for $1 a bushel. The freshly pressed apple juice is heated to 160 degrees Fahrenheit, and put into clean, scalded barrels. The barrels are sealed to prevent ferment bacteria finding their way into the cider. When this orchardist desires to sell the cider it is drawn off from the barrels, heated to 160 degrees for half an hour, and bottled in quart bottles. Each bottle is wrapped in paper. This prevents them from striking against one another and breaking.

"A traveling salesman then told us about an Indiana farmer who is selling butter and eggs by mail. He said that it sometimes cost his friend 50 cents to get a customer, but that he orders soon cut down the expense of the first advertising. According to the traveling man this Indiana business farmer could afford to pay as much as $1 apiece to get customers. In other words, he could afford to pay $6 for an ad that only brought six orders if he could keep the trade of those six persons."

Grand Jury Drawn

The list of United States grand jurors was drawn in the federal court at Portland on Friday before Judge Wolverton for the session which convenes on September 18. The list includes two members from Clackamas county:

George Adams, farmer, Molalla; Harry G. Beckwith, merchant, Oak Grove. Others among the long list are A. D. Gribble, farmer, Aurora and John Murray, farmer, rout 3, Aurora.

Summer—last summer and next summer—is only about ten months away, but we have all enjoyed the mild winter.

HAUN COMMITTED

Aged and Homeless, Wanderer Finds Refuge at Asylum

The career of Marion Haun, homeless and 75 years old, is to terminate in the state hospital for the insane, to which he was consigned on Saturday after an examination by Dr. J. W. Norris and County Judge Anderson.

Haun is the old man who was sent here some time ago by Hood River county officials, because he said he had relatives here. His nearest kin in Oregon City were Sheriff Wilson and Constable Frost, who as officials gave him a bed in the jail. Haun was sent back to Hood River county as promptly as possible, but a few days later appeared at the court house here again with the cheery greeting: "Well, I'm back again."

He was back, alright, as homeless as before, and officers decided that the state hospital was his best refuge. Attendants from the Salem institution arrived on Saturday and accompanied the old man to his new home.

FARMERS NEGLECTFUL

Should Make Better Use of Vast Information of Government

The proper use of the vast fund of agricultural information assembled by the federal government at a cost of about $250,000,000 to the nation, has not been general by a satisfactory number of people on the farm.

"The situation," says Paul V. Maris, state leader of county agricultural work in Oregon, "has been compared to that of a great manufacturing concern whose warehouses are full to overflowing but whose selling and distributing facilities are so inadequate that the products cannot be placed in the hands of the consumer. Agricultural bulletins, institute lectures, farm paper articles, state demonstration farms, all these and other agencies have played an important part, but experience has taught that the ocular demonstration on the farmer's own farm of improved varieties, better cultural methods, standard market grades, etc., is the most effective agency for bringing about the widespread adoption of better methods.

"The announcement that an improved strain of wheat has been developed is not sufficient to bring about its use. It is the actual demonstration of its merits on ten or twenty farms of any county that causes it to be grown, resulting in an increase in the total cereal production of the county that may far exceed in value the cost of the demonstrator. This is one reason why the county agent work was started."

Notice

I have taken up a stray horse; color, bay; weight about 1600 lbs. Owner can have same by paying costs of keep, etc.—A. C. Stevens, Gladstone, Ore.

When Oregon City gets a new council perhaps it will also get its streets sprinkled at the right time of day and a decent fire equipment for the protection of its homes.

The farmer as a business man—every whit as much as the man who has a stock of goods on the shelves of a store room, and there is every reason for the farmer forming a bank connection.

FIRST—It is the safest way; a
