G. O. P. CANDIDATES MAKE GOOD RACE

Prediction Is Made by Local Writer that Republicans Will Be Victorious Next Tuesday

When the last bugle is sounded in the present political campaign, the republican candidates of Clackamas county may feel sure that they have made one of the most complete, clean and effective fights that has ever been waged here. Present indications give every appearance of a complete victory for the party, from president to constable. The republicans of Clackamas county have been very fortunate this campaign in having one of the finest and most representative tickets ever placed before the voters, one that cannot help but command the attention and respect of every voter, both from the standpoint of personnel and ability for the particular office for which he or she has been nominated.

The ticket is headed by the legislative candidates, three in number, each of whom represents a different section of the county, and each section happens to be among the largest populated of the county, and the candidates happily are counted among the most representative citizens of those localities.

Geo. C. Brownell, the Oregon City attorney, represents the section comprising Oregon City and contiguous area, although he, like the other two, is a candidate of the whole county and would so represent it in the legislature. Mr. Brownell served Clackamas county 12 years in the state senate and was its presiding officer for one term, when he was counted one of the best and fairest officials that ever sat in the president's chair. While in the senate he voted against everything that tended to make taxes high, and will renew this fight to the extent of an attempt to eliminate some of the useless commissions and the cutting off of high salaries of officials and deputies, which make for the general high taxation in this state. He will work for a good roads program that will aid every county, and where the taxpayer will get the worth of every dollar expended. To Mr. Brownell is due much of the credit for the passage of the Initiative and Referendum measure, which finally became the primary law, and he has always favored and worked for woman's suffrage. His ability and knowledge of parliamentary law is conceded by all, and he would see to it that Clackamas county got every thing to which it was entitled.

Dr. H. A. Dedman of Canby, who represents the southern section of Clackamas county, is so well known that he received practically a unanimous vote of his people in the primary election last spring, both himself and Mr. Brownell receiving the democratic and progressive nominations in addition to that of their own party. Dr. Dedman is one of the leading and progressive citizens of Canby, where he has served his people in public office, although he comes far from being a politician or an office-seeker. He is interested in the two prosperous banks of that town, has a splendid knowledge of the county's needs so far as state appropriations and aid are concerned, and further possesses ability to see that the county is treated fairly by the legislature. Dr. Dedman's duties as a practicing physician have prevented him from making as active a campaign as he desired, but he has visited most of those sections in which he is not so well known as in the southern end of the county, where he senator, being sixth of the 12 candidates running for five places, and his friends believe that this makes him the logical candidate for joint senator caused by the resignation of George McBride, who is running for county judge. Dr. Patton has seen 16 years military duty, having served as an officer in the Fourth U. S. Volunteer Infantry as First Lieutenant of Co. E in the Cuban campaign in the Santiago province. He was also a member of Mayor Rushlight's vice commission. The doctor is not a politician and neither is he looking for political favors. He will be against freak legislation, says he is not tied up to any interests, but will be square and fair toward all. He favors good roads, but wants every dollar made to count.

William M. Stone, candidate for district attorney, is a Clackamas county product, and one of which every friend is proud, and one that would make a good official. He has met with success in his chosen profession and if elected, as his friends and supporters predict, he will give to the county just such energy and enthusiasm as has been displayed in behalf of his clients. He can be depended upon at all times to see that economy is practiced in the conduct of county affairs, and promises to start in with his own office by eliminating the deputy hire of $900 a year, and the $3000 which was appropriated to enforce the prohibition law.

Clackamas county has had few officials who have been as conscientious and painstaking as "Billy" Wilson, republican candidate for re-election as sheriff. And this is not all. He has practiced economy in his office as have few sheriffs before him, all of which should be appreciated by the voters next Tuesday, when they should accord him a unanimous vote. Sheriff Wilson has been on his job day and night with the result that he has made life a burden and source of much trouble and annoyance to lawbreakers of every sort and description. While the sheriff's office is ordinarily one of much trying experience and where friendship ceases, because that official cannot play favorites, it is universally acknowledged that "Billy" Wilson today has more friends than when he entered the office two years ago because he has done his duty fearlessly and without favor.

While the handling of county funds is largely a matter of routine, yet when it is considered that the county treasurer takes in and disburses close to a million dollars a year and to make a mistake in his books not only jeopardizes his honesty, one can realize that it is work for no ordinary man. As county treasurer for the past two years, M. E. Dunn has handled funds amounting close to one and three quarters million dollars, all without an error of any description. The affairs of the office have been handled in an efficient and accommodating manner, greatly to the satisfaction of the taxpayers. As an acknowledgment of Mr. Dunn's splendid conduct of the office of county treasurer, he is unopposed in this campaign, the other political parties declining to encourage any candidates against him.

With a great many the opinion is prevalent that educational matters should be taken out of politics, because practically every one has a direct interest in things educational. To a greater extent than ever before this condition doubtless prevails in Clackamas county this year, and as a result J. E. Calavan, republican candidate for re-election as county superintendent of schools, has no opposition at the polls next Tuesday, so that his election is assured. The people of the county generally are proud of the schools and the splendid progress they have made under the direction of Mr. Calavan during the past two years, that gentleman proving not only a capable and efficient official, but obliging and ever alive to giving of his greatest efforts to the upbuilding of the educational system of Clackamas county.

While she does not lay claim to being a politician, yet unconsciously Miss Iva M. Harrington, candidate for county clerk to succeed herself, has so successfully and satisfactorily filled the office during the past two years that she has made hundreds of friends, all of whom made it apparent last spring that it was useless for any one to run against her in the primary campaign on either of the two chief political parties, and this is the reason she appears today practically unopposed. She has surrounded herself with capable and efficient help and the records of the office today are in the neatest and most complete shape possible.

The office of county assessor is one of the most important, if not the most important, in the county, and the taxpayers are vitally interested in seeing that a fair and impartial official is chosen. In the nomination of W. W. Everhart of Molalla to this office the republicans have placed before the people a man whose business life should convince them that he will be absolutely fair and impartial. He is a farmer and having had considerable experience in farm values in different sections of the county will bring experience to the office that will be of much value to the county. He will surround himself with competent help so that the work will be kept up to the highest state of efficiency. Mr. Everhart has been a member of the Molalla Telephone company and has been on the Clackamas county fair board for eight years.

Dudley C. Boyles, candidate for county recorder, who appears on the ticket practically unopposed, has been a resident of the county for a good many years, being well known in the Molalla country, where he was bookkeeper for Robbins Bros., general merchandise for a long time. He has been deputy county recorder for the past two years and during this time proved himself capable and efficient and in every way worthy of the confidence of the people of Clackamas county. This has had much to do with his nomination by his own party as well as his being unopposed by the other parties.

Being identified as he is with agriculture, timber and financial interests which keep him busy, as well as his large ranch, of which a hundred acres are in cultivation, W. A. Proctor of Sandy, candidate for county commissioner, is in a position to know the wants of his fellow-citizens. A man who has paid heavy taxes and gone through the mill of helping to build good roads where once existed the old mud streams of thoroughfare in Oregon, not only understands the needs of his fellow-citizens in the way of county improvements, but he also, as a taxpayer, understands the value of each dollar to be expended in improvements; and as a handler of finances and the employer of a large number of men, his ability to handle the two together by the most economical method cannot help but be of benefit to any county or community on which he would seek to employ his time and talent.

Mr. Proctor is prominently identified with many of the industries that are working so hard to build up and make things of benefit to the county and the farmers of his immediate vicinity. (Contributed and paid for by W. E. Hassler.)

Tax for Milwaukie Schools. Milwaukie will have an 8-mill tax levy for school purposes, according to recommendations of the board of school directors of that place. The recommendations will be considered by the taxpayers of the district at the annual meeting to be held November 24 at the school house. The proposed special levy will raise approximately $12,151. Other funds necessary to maintain the schools of the district come from the state and county school fund.

Baby Had Whooping Cough Mothers who have used Foley's Honey and Tar would not be without it. Mrs. Sam C. Small, Clayton, N. M., writes: "My grandson had whooping cough when he was three months old. We used Foley's Honey and Tar and I believe it saved his life. He is now big and fat." It is a fine thing to have in the house in case of whooping cough, croup, coughs, colds. The first does help, loosen phlegm, heal inflammation, clear air passages, stop racking coughs.—Jones Drug Co.

MOTION IN VIETOR CASE

Defendants Ask Him to Elect One Cause of Action

A motion to compel Maxwell Vietor to elect one cause of action from the four he has set out in his complaint against E. E. Brodie, the Enterprise, published by Mr. Brodie, and Thomas A. Burke, will be heard by Judge Campbell on Monday morning. Vietor is suing for $10,000 damages, alleging libel and setting out other causes of action. The suit brought by Vietor, former newspaper man, hinges upon a story which appeared in the Enterprise some weeks ago, in which the candidate was charged with plotting to discredit District Attorney Gilbert L. Hedges and Sheriff Wilson because of the fact that they held in the county jail for four months one

John Joseph, an insane Magyar, on a minor charge.

O. C. A. C. WINS GAME

"Red" Rupert's Charges Make Spectacular Plays on Canemah Field.

The football team of the new Oregon City Athletic club won by a score of 21 to 7 from the Vancouver Athletic club team on Canemah field Sunday afternoon, in the first game of the season. Coach Rupert's men faced defeat in the first quarter when the visiting team carried the ball over for a touchdown and kicked the goal, but came back strong in the second quarter, when Miller, left half for Oregon City, carried the ball over. In the following period Miller grasped a Vancouver forward pass and raced 40 yards for the second touchdown. The third score for the locals was made in the last quarter. Star playing on both sides featured the game, said to be one of the fastest played on the local field in years.

Canby Loses at Football

Years of experience and 30 pounds to the man more weight gave Woodburn a 45-to-7 victory over Canby high school Saturday. The Canby eleven made yardage once on consecutive plays, but in the last quarter made two 60-yard runs with intercepted passes, scoring on the last, but in the first attempt held for downs on the one-yard line, where the runner was forced out of bounds. Canby excelled in passing and kicking, but lacked in experience, weight, judgment, ability to tackle, and especially, confidence.
