"A considerable percentage of the juice remains unsold at the present time," says Professor Lewis, secretary of the committee, "and it is in the interests of the manufacturers that we ascertain how much and in what condition. There are four classes of juice—raw, which is unsweetened; beverage, sweetened and diluted ready to drink; concentrates sweetened but not diluted for drinking; and syrups, for the confection trade. In reporting, the class should be designated."

"In order to move that unsold portion promptly and profitably the supply and the grades should be known as early as possible. Manufacturers are earnestly appealed to in the interests of the industry to correspond with the secretary concerning these points."
