LABOR'S TROUBLE HAS NEW TWISTS

SPECIAL POLICE REMOVED AND GOVERNOR SENDS GROUP OF STATE APPOINTEES

CHIEF FRENCH IS DISCHARGED

Hawley Company Will Take All Capable Employees Back. Other Mill Stern

An interesting sequel to the strike of paper mill employees, which is just one month old today, was the discharge on Friday of Acting Chief of Police Lee French, whose dismissal had been predicted for some time, and the immediate appointment of Henry Cooke, chief of the night patrol, to head the day force. Mayor Hackett made the changes. Ed. Surfas was appointed to Mr. Cooke's place on the night force. Mr. Cooke had refused to take the position when it was first offered him a week before the changes were made.

French, who had been a member of the police force for several years and was discharged once during the administration of Mayor Linn E. Jones, says that his discharge is based upon the council's opinion that he had been in the local paper mill troubles. He was appointed to act as chief when Captain L. E. Blanchard took command of his national guard company for war service. French's appointment was only a temporary one.

Following his action in relieving French Mayor Hackett declined to make any statement. At a council meeting last week, where it had been rumored French would be discharged, more than 100 citizens gathered.

Resolutions asking the recall of Mayor E. C. Hackett were presented and passed at the striking paper mill unions' business meetings held Sunday afternoon and night. The unions have taken a stand against the executive because of his action in deposing Lee French, acting chief of police. Mayor Hackett also gained the enmity of the unions some time ago when, at the request of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company he appointed 20 special police to guard the mill property.

Union committees, according to their officers, have prepared petitions for the recall of the mayor, and the name of Councilman Henry M. Templeton is said to be linked with that of Mr. Hackett. The unions have sanctioned a movement, quietly started by individuals, to recall the councilman for his utterances in connection with the strike.

Eleven special state police, sent to Oregon City by Governor James Withycombe, assumed their duties on the streets Monday. The special officers are appointed to take the places of the 20 men who were discharged by Mayor Hackett when it was shown that he could not legally go to Portland to enlist protective forces for the city. The state men will act in the same capacity, keeping order and guarding property.

Manager B. T. McBain reports 546 men at work in the Crown-Willamette mills and the production of 140 tons of paper each day. He says that 30 of the 90 machine men who left the plant with the strike have returned to their work. The union men say 120 machine men struck and only 20 have returned to work. The steamer Ruth, which for some time has been used as a "floating hotel" for the strikebreakers at the Crown-Willamette plant, has been relieved from that service and is on her regular run carrying paper products.

Reports that the local mills would refuse to give employment hereafter to any member of a union organization is flatly denied by W. P. Hawley, Jr., resident manager of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, who stated that a workman's connection with labor unions or any other organization made no difference in his chance of securing work in the Hawley plant. "I would like to have it said," Mr. Hawley stated, "that race, creed or any affiliation will not be given consideration at this mill. We do not ask that striking paper mill workers surrender their membership in any union, as we want to give labor a square deal and we expect as much in return."

The Crown-Willamette mill, through Manager B. T. McBain, will not recognize an applicant for work on any other ground than that upon which labor stood prior to the organization of unions in the local mills, which was in May, last, Mr. McBain stated.

"There are some men now concerned in the strike who will not be given work under any consideration," Mr. McBain said. "These are those who have abused the company and its management and men whom we know to have been instru-

RED CROSS SOCIETY SENDS XMAS BOXES

MARKET WILL OFFER SCORES OF BARGAINS IN USEFUL AND PRETTY THINGS

The last shipment of Christmas packages for soldiers is being prepared in the Red Cross rooms in the Masonic temple for shipment to home cantonments. Recently the local society sent 200 boxes to soldiers in France. With $31.50 collected to make up the Christmas fund the society is assured of money enough to carry out its plans. The boxes being packed are to contain a large assortment of useful and tasty things.

The Red Cross society market will be held in a Main street store building on November 28, and a committee in charge has secured promises of many donations of things that will be put on sale at the market. The Bank of Oregon City has donated the use of a building and the P. R. L. & P. company has offered to light the room. Florists, gardeners and homekeepers have already donated to the stock of the market. A committee in charge of the affair is composed of Mrs. J. J. Tobin, Mrs. L. L. Pickens, Mrs. J. P. Clark, Mrs. L. E. Jones, Mrs. M. P. Chapman, Mrs. James Cart, Mrs. E. E. Brodie, Mrs. C. G. Miller, Mrs. David Canfield, Mrs. A. C. Warner, Mrs. E. A. Chapman, Mrs. G. B. Dimick, Mrs. H. J. Bigger, Mrs. V. Harris, Mrs. P. D. Forbes, Mrs. Sidney Bowman, Mrs. C. H. Dye, Mrs. H. B. Cartledge, Mrs. Rosina F. Evans, Mrs. H. Vernet, Mrs. G. A. Harding, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Neita Barlow Lawrence, Mrs. H. S. Moody, Mrs. W. A. Dimick, Mrs. H. S. Mount, Mrs. A. L. Beattie, Mrs. L. A. Morris, Mrs. Livy Stipp, Mrs. W. A. White, Mrs. A. C. Howland, Mrs. Thomas Meldrum and Mrs. Raymond Canfield.

ITALY FURNISHES GRIST FOR LOCAL DIVORCE MILL

From the sunny shores of old Italy Clackamas county draws its freshest grist for Judge J. U. Campbell's divorce mill. It was in Italy, fiction's most popular romance-land, that Josephina and Emilio Boitano pledged everlasting fidelity as they looked out over their field of dreams to the great America, to whose favored soil they came not long after their marriage at Genoa, Italy, on September 2, 1907. And romance in America flourished for a few years—long enough that two pretty tots were brought into the world to share it. Excessive drink is said by Mrs. Boitano to be the cause of her husband's cruelty and the cause of the bursting of her bubble of hope. Intoxicated, the wife says, the husband beat her several times and failed to provide for her. He left her on March 6, 1917. They lived near Sandy.

Viola Maude Peters is said to have told her husband, Henry, that she cared no more for him than for a poodle dog, and Henry up and files suit for divorce, charging her with cruelty. The couple was married at Portland on July 9, 1915, and there is a 2-year-old child. Mrs. Peters is said to have added to her husband's provocation by deserting him on November 3, last. He says he was forced to hire help to care for their child, of which he asks custody. Desertion is the charge made by Phoebe Earle in a complaint against Charles E. Earle, to whom she was married at Kentland, Ind., on October 25, 1903. Mr. Earle is said to have left his wife on May 15, 1916. They have four children, of which the mother asks the custody, in addition to her share of 2.41 acres of land and $75 cost costs.

Anna Rath, married to Louis Rath at Highland, Clackamas county, on March 1, 1898, and the mother of two children charges her husband with cruelty and drunkenness in a divorce complaint filed Tuesday. Mrs. Rath says her husband at one time threatened her life with a gun. She asks $1500 suit money, title to considerable property and custody of the children.

W. A. Miles filed complaint against Hortense Miles, whom he married at Portland on May 25, 1910. He charges that she has neglected her home, that she is of a very cross nature, and that she deserted him on November 16, last. Mr. Miles asks that he be permitted to retain title to much property in Mulmohah, Lane and Columbia counties and that he be given custody of their minor child.

Judge Campbell this week signed decrees divorcing Elizabeth and Conrad Schwartz and restoring to Mrs. Schwartz her maiden name, Elizabeth Helzer; Ella and Harry A. White and Margaret and G. D. Kernes.

Fire Cremates Dog
Fire of unknown origin early this morning destroyed a shed on the property occupied by Roy Cox on Jefferson street, and the family dog, shut in the building, was burned to death.

GUERNSEY CLUB'S STOCK RECEIVED

PRIZE CATTLE COME FROM THE MOST NOTED OF EASTERN SIRE AND DAMS

ANIMALS ARE ON EXHIBIT

Express Shipment of Animals Valued at $11,000 Goes to 14 Purchasers

Two prize Guernsey bulls and 27 heifers arrived in Oregon City by express Tuesday from the east for the Clackamas County Guernsey Cattle club, and are on exhibition here while undergoing final examination and tests before their distribution to the purchasing members of the club. These are the cattle for which the club recently sent John T. Whalley, of Molalla, and Professor E. L. Westover, of the Oregon Agricultural college, to eastern Guernsey centers. Most of the animals come from Wisconsin, although the purchasers went as far east as Massachusetts to make purchases.

From the shipping point the 29 head came to Oregon City in practically the same length of time as it takes fast mail to make the trip and every animal arrived in good condition. They will be groomed and thoroughly tested before they are distributed to the club members. The cattle in the train represent the largest single importation into the county in its livestock history and also represent the expenditure of $11,000 placed to the credit of the club by the Bank of Commerce, Oregon City.

The purchasing members of the Guernsey club of the county are: Octav Voget, H. L. Carl, S. C. Young, W. A. Carlson, Dr. A. L. Beattie, John T. Whalley, F. S. Hutchins, D. Scheff, F. H. Boeckman, Charles F. Wagner, F. H. Stangel, Sam Elmer, A. I. and J. Hughes.

Every animal in the shipment is pure bred to the last degree and comes from some one of the county's foremost Guernsey sires. In the lot are 15 heifers of the Langwater Demonstrator strain that are said to be the best animals of the Guernsey breed in the country.

In the interesting articles which Mrs. A. I. Hughes, secretary of the Guernsey club, has been writing for The Courier, she has told practically everything that can be said at this time regarding the important importation of fine cattle. Professor Westover, with work at the college piled up on him in his absence, hastened to Corvallis upon delivering the cattle and at once resumed his duties at the agricultural college, and Mr. Whalley went to Portland on business and to rest for a few days after his strenuous duties of the past few weeks.

The importance of the purchase of Guernseys to the livestock industry of the county can be gauged in a small way by reference to the A. I. and J. Hughes herds, which have been prize winners wherever exhibited within the past few years. Undoubtedly the success which has been attained with the Hughes herd is largely responsible for the purchase of additional animals by members of the club.

The most important group of animals in the herd that is here are the 15 heifers from the Mixer farms of Massachusetts. The animals, heavy in calf, are sired by the famous Langwater Demonstrator, a bull with several advanced registry daughters, and are bred to Yeoman's King of the May, with 10 advanced registry daughters to his credit. This sire is in turn sired by the noted Imp. Yeoman, a bull with a wide show ring record. Yeoman's King dam is Elkhorn Daisy, with two advanced registry records.

Eight of the heifers in the herd are from the Pratt farm at Whitewater, Wis., and are sired by Langwater Hambro and are bred to Bob Rilla's Monogram, a grandson of Mat Rilla, a cow that held the world's record of the Guernsey breed for butterfat production.

The cattle will be on exhibition at the Elkhorn barn for about ten days.

Have 25 Stars in Flag

A service flag bearing 25 stars, signifying that as many members of the Federated Congregational churches of Oregon City have answered the call to the colors, was unfurled with ceremonies at the military social held at the First Congregational church Friday evening. A military feature was Captain Phillip's award squad and a program of martial music was rendered by the Roake family and others. Miss Harrison sang.

Scott's Auto Damaged

The automobile of E. W. Scott, of Falls View, was damaged Friday when an electric car struck it from the rear as Mr. Scott was driving over the car tracks. Mr. Scott was uninjured.

COUNCIL APPROVES 7-MILL CITY LEVY

DEMAND MADE FOR REMOVAL OF "CHICKEN HOUSE"

CHARTER REVISION.

Oregon City property owners will pay a 7-mill tax assessment this year and any effort that may have been in the wind to increase that assessment for one purpose or another is thereby squelched. The city council Monday evening passed on first reading an ordinance setting the amount of the assessment, and designating November 28 as the time for the final reading.

Any surplus from the 1917 budget is to be carried into the 1918 budget under the head of "emergency fund," as a result of a vote of the council on Monday evening. The surplus, if there is any, will be a small matter, the councilmen believe.

The council voted its approval of the action of Mayor Hackett in relieving from duty Lee French, until Sunday acting chief of police. The council approved the mayor's handling of the police situation, which covers special officers and the regular force.

Doom was spelled for the "chicken house," as Councilman Templeton named the unornamental little shelter that has been built just outside the elevator door on Seventh street. Councilman Templeton proposed and had passed a motion demanding that the thing be removed. Investigation showed that Mayor Hackett and Councilman Fred Metzger had given the "L. L. Stansbury Co." permission to erect the shed over a popcorn wagon without the knowledge of other members of the council. "It is unsightly and a nuisance on such a busy street," Councilman Templeton stated.

City Attorney G. L. Story was ordered to prepare a revised charter for early publication and was authorized to secure competent aid in the task at the expense of the city.

WONG WING DONATES

Wong Wing, Chinese gardener and Liberty bond buyer, has given the local Red Cross society his choice of the vegetables from his big gardens near Oregon City for the market to be held on next Wednesday. Donations for the market will be received by Red Cross workers until the sale starts. Many fine and useful articles will be offered for sale at the market.

PARKPLACE MAN KILLED IN PORTLAND ELEVATOR

John McCormick, of Parkplace, aged about 30 years, employed by the Hurley-Mason Construction company in remodeling the Falling building at Portland, was instantly killed Friday morning when the weights of an elevator caught his head against a beam at the side of the elevator shaft.

McCormick was engaged in removing a plate along the edge of the shaft on the third floor. His head was protruding into the shaft as the elevator was rising and the weights dropping. According to other workmen, no signal was given and no noise heard, hence McCormick had no way of knowing that the weight was descending.

W. J. Nichols was operating the lift at the time. According to statements made by workmen to Deputy Coroner Smith and Harry P. Coffin, chairman of the public safety commission, warning was given by Nichols when he knew that men were working on the shaft, but that he did not know there was anyone working there that morning. Harold Neal was working with McCormick at the time, but was on the opposite side of the shaft from the weight. He was uninjured.

Death was instantaneous, as the descending shaft cut off one side of the victim's head. Deputy Coroner Smith said:

"After a cursory examination, it is my opinion there is grave negligence in the protection of workmen on the building."

Mr. Coffin said that measures for the protection of the workmen which should have been taken were not. Deputy Coroner Smith conducted a rigid investigation of the case. McCormick lived with his wife and small child at Parkplace.

Myers Sues for $3000

Levi W. Myers Monday brought suit against C. W. and Lucena Kern to recover on promissory notes totaling $3000. The complaint asks for $250 attorneys' fees. The instruments were dated at Portland on April 28, 1911.

$4000 IS RAISED FOR Y.M.C.A. FUND

OREGON CITY RESPONDS WITH SEVERAL LARGE DONATIONS FOR TROOPS

TOTAL IS MORE THAN QUOTA

Estacada and Other Districts Come in With Splendid Financial Support

Clackamas county has oversubscribed again. This time it is the Y. M. C. A. war work fund for the benefit of soldiers in the trenches overseas and in home cantonments that profits. More than $4000, the amount asked as this county's share of a $35,000,000 fund has been donated by the good people of the county.

This morning A. C. Howland, chairman of the committee in charge of the campaign for the county outside of Estacada, reports the receipt of $3,775, with more coming in with every mail. The Estacada committee, which managed its own campaign, has reported to the Portland headquarters the collection of $600 making, roughly, a present total of $4,375. That the grand total, when all collections are in, will amount to $5000, is the prediction made by the campaign leaders.

In Oregon City, as well as in every other section of the county, a small army of solicitors has been at work for more than a week taking the donations from house to house and from the business men. Oregon City, of course, recorded the largest individual subscriptions, but the 50 cent pieces and the dollars from housewives and school children are what made the big total of the fund. The campaign in outlying districts was managed by the clerks of the various school districts with the cooperation of interested citizens and school children.

Oregon City alone has raised close to $2000 of the required amount for the county, or approximately one half. Molalla has reported the collection of $200; Milwaukie, $230; Canby, $225, and other communities in proportion. Some of the large donations received in the county seat are, Hawley Pulp & Paper Co., $200; Oregon City Manufacturing Co., $100; First National Bank, $100; Bank of Oregon City, $100; L. Adams, $100; Drs. Mount, $50; Bank of Commerce, $50; Henry Streibig, $25; Grant B. Dimick, $25; William Andersen, $25; J. E. Hedges, $20; Huntley Drug Co., $20; Wilson & Cooke, $20; Dr. M. C. Strickland, $20; Jones Drug Co., $20.

Meetings were held during the week in practically every community in the county and in each case the collections made the effort expended well worth the while of the committee. Several important subscriptions have been noted by the Estacada committee in its report of $600 collected. Many small donations have not yet been reported and it is supposed that these will be in sufficient numbers to take the total of the county's subscription to $5000.

FIREMAN BANQUET

Annual Meeting Featured by Good Entertainment Program

Eighty members of the volunteer fire department enjoyed the annual inter-company banquet held last Thursday night at the Woodman of the World hall. City and county officers, including Mayor E. C. Hackett and Sheriff W. J. Wilson, were guests of the firemen. Judge Grant B. Dimick acted as toastmaster and directed a splendid program of fun-making, music and addresses.

Among those who aided in entertaining the firemen were Gustav Flechner, F. Theroux, Mrs. Bradley, Blanche Burritt and Miss Keru, the last three of Portland. Judge Dimick's talk at the banquet was a plea for support of the Y. M. C. A. war work fund campaign in the county. Mayor Hackett and Sheriff Wilson spoke briefly.

Sending Xmas Boxes

The people of Molalla have sent Christmas boxes to the boys in the service in France. Fourteen Molalla boys are at the front now, and there are 40 young men who have enlisted from this section in some branch of the service of the United States. Plans are being made to send boxes to the boys who have not yet gone to France.

Brown Gets Drunk

Charles Brown, arrested Sunday at Milwaukie and held on a charge of being drunk on a highway, was put in the county jail Monday to serve a 12-day sentence imposed by Justice of the Peace J. N. Sievers, when Brown could not pay a $25 fine. The complaint was sworn to by Sheriff W. J. Wilson, who made the arrest on Sunday.

FIRE IN MID-RIVER CHARGED TO ENEMY

GOVERNMENT BARGE PARTLY DESTROYED BY MONDAY NIGHT SPECTACLE

Fire that is generally supposed to have been set with malicious intent, seriously damaged a United States government barge in the river south of the suspension bridge late Monday night. The damage is nearly $1000, and covers equipment partially destroyed. The barge had been on fire a full ten minutes, while the flames lighted the sky over the city, before any alarm was sounded. Employees of the Crown-Willamette mill are said to have declined to form a bucket brigade to fight the blaze, and after the fire had gained much headway employees of the U. S. engineer department, arrived and helped to stop its progress. Charles Culprett, night watchman about the government locks, was the first aside from citizens, to discover the fire.

He is said to have called upon mill men to assist in putting the fire out, but they refused, saying that it wasn't worth while as it was beyond control, and then stood on the bank of the river while the fire progressed. Fire Chief Ed Lavier, who is employed at the locks in the construction work, heard the whistle alarm, and hastened from his home picking up several fellow workmen on route, and they made their way across the river in a boat from near the Hawley mill. By this time other lock employees were on the scene, and with the aid of buckets they soon had the blaze under control, but not before eight cords of wood and the engine house had been destroyed, and the engine and boiler badly damaged. Fire Chief Lavier and the men in authority at the locks are convinced that the fire was of incendiary origin, from the fact that Night Watchman Culprett reported that only a few minutes before he had been on the barge inspecting the same and there was not the least evidence of fire or trouble.

Some $500 worth of carpenter's tools, the property of the men working on the locks, were on the barge at the time of the fire, but these were rescued by Fire Chief Lavier and his volunteer assistants. Chief Engineer Beechey, in charge of the lock work, stated that he is inclined to the belief that the fire was of incendiary origin.

SOCIALIST McDONALD ENLISTS FOR SERVICE

S. McDonald, former city park superintendent and prominent in Clackamas county Socialist politics, has joined the aviation corps of the United States army and reported for duty Tuesday at Vancouver, Wash. Mr. McDonald has been in Oregon City about eight years and came to America 10 years ago from Scotland. Mrs. McDonald and their two little daughters will remain at their home in this city during the war. Mr. McDonald is an engineer by trade.

Earl D. Van Auken and Jack Owenby, well known young men, left Tuesday for New York City, where they will take a war course under the supervision of army authorities at Columbia university. Van Auken is a veteran of the Nicaragua campaign of the United States marine corps, and was a member of the Oregon national guard during the trouble on the Mexican border.

MISS SCHINDLER MARRIES

Other Happy Twains Secure Licenses to Marry County Girls

Ottile Schindler, of Milwaukie, and George David Burns, of Lents, who secured a marriage license in County Clerk Harrington's office here Monday, were married at Milwaukie Tuesday morning in the presence of the two families. Miss Marie Fredericks sang at the wedding and Miss Rosie Schindler, sister of the bride, played the wedding march. Marriage licenses were also issued to Laura Bell Richards, Sandy, and William Hudson, Boring, and Amy Hammond, Oregon City, and Oscar E. Clyde, Portland.

Mother's Estate Entered

F. W. Greenman last Thursday filed a petition for letters of administration in the estate of his mother, Mrs. Isophene Greenman, who died in this city on November 8. The estate comprises personal property valued at $400 and two sons are heirs.

Horse Kicks H. Kohl

Dr. H. S. Mount was called last Thursday to set the bones in a broken leg for Henry Kohl, a well-known Redland farmer. The limb was fractured when a horse, hitched to a plow which Mr. Kohl was driving, kicked back.

HAPPY ESKIMO IN NORTHLAND HOME

BROWN TELLS OF HOSPITABLE SURPRISING STUDENTS OF NATURE IN ALASKA

ARE FAT AND DIRTY FOLK

Have Animal Instinct of Danger—Are Ivory Carvers and Make Beautiful Baskets

(M. J. Brown)

If there is an American citizen the people know very little about, it is the Eskimo.

A lady tourist at St. Michael told me if she was to learn any more about them she would rather get it over long distance. She had just been through the Eskimo village at St. Michael. Visiting a cluster of native huts in mid-summer is likely to blow away any halo. But halo is about all that is blown away. The small lingers.

But notwithstanding the filth, the stench and the uncivilized and unsanitary conditions with which their lives are mingled, the Eskimos are a wonderfully interesting people.

They were on the job up there in Alaska long before a white man's foot ever touched America; long before anyone had figured it out that this ball of mud was round and centuries before C. Columbus grasped the idea that there was a new country "somewhere in America."

The Alaskan Eskimos are brown; while races in the same latitude in this Eastern Hemisphere, bordering on the same sea, are fair. And why?

The inference is that the Eskimos in past ages came from Japan and China—as no doubt the Indians did. The features are strikingly similar to the Mongolians.

From Cape Prince of Wales, north of Nome, on a fair day East Cape, in Asia, may be seen across Bering Strait, a distance of about 40 miles.

About a third of the way across are some small islands, which are the property of this country. A few miles beyond are other islands of the Diomed group and they are in Asia. The international boundary is between them, and it is also a date line.

When it is Sunday on the American islands, three miles to the west it is Saturday, and as I had plenty of time to do a lot of unnecessary worrying, as I looked across to Siberia I wondered if there were any Seventh Day Adventists in our crowd, and if so, how in the Dickens would they be able to keep their faith should they make a trip across the straits.

But I started to determine the ancestry of the fish-eating Eskimos and have chased off onto theology.

Ages ago, perhaps, and no doubt, before Christ was born, the wild natives of Siberia saw the little islands out in the straits, and they paddled their kayaks out to them. From these islands they could see the coast line of an unknown land, and no doubt a big chief, filled with Columbus ambition, dared the others to follow his lead and get in on the ground floor before the Nome gold rush came.

Just how it all happened is anybody's guess, but a good one is that some of them reached the Alaskan coast. The waters between Alaska and Siberia are mighty rough and dangerous, and they dreaded the return trip. Perhaps the girls were seasick and refused to use their return tickets. Perhaps they found favorable hunting and good fishing with no closed season or bag limit, and decided to stay. Anyhow, they did stay, and a new race began. That race yet inhabits the coasts of Northern and Southern Alaska, and they live much as they did ages ago.

The Eskimo village at St. Michael is a cluster of one-room huts and filth. I went through the village several times smelling and seeing and the only reason I could find for cholera or small pox not breaking out was the fact that winter keeps the filth in cold storage most of the time.

There is no street system or order of things in these villages. An Eskimo doesn't have to get a building permit to erect his one-room shack. All that is necessary is to find driftwood enough and start the erection any old place where there is room. The villages are invariably where there is good hunting, fishing and driftwood.

There was absolutely no drainage or any other sanitary precautions around the St. Michael Eskimo annex. The frost water ran down from higher land above, mixed with the village refuse and there was mud and filth a foot deep around some of the huts, and yet in this unsanitary surrounding there was apparent health. The children were
