Notice

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been presented to the County Court of Clackamas County, Oregon, for a partial vacation of certain streets and avenues in Millwaukie Heights and Park additions, as shown by plat of blocks attached to said petition; the same being to reduce the present width of said streets, and avenues, from 60 to 40 feet.

Kind of fence
Woven wire..... 3.29 802
Barbed wire..... 3.42 772
Board..... 3.23 817
Picket..... 3.29 802
Hedge (well trimmed) 7.6 347
Straight rail..... 3.57 739
Worm rail..... 6.05 436

Should the fence run between two pasture fields, practically no land would be lost, but when it divides two cultivated fields the width of the strip of land made untillable, as shown by the table, should be doubled, and the number of rods of fence required to occupy an acre of ground would be one-half that stated in the table.

When a forage or small-grain crop is grown, less land is lost along the fence row than when corn, potatoes, or some other cultivated crop is grown, for much land is taken for turning along the fence row with the latter.

Local practices also influence the amount of land along the fence row which is not cultivated. Thus, in certain parts of Iowa and adjacent states, it is not uncommon for a farmer to leave a headland 10 to 12 feet in width long his fences; these are used for driveways. In many localities of the east it is the practice to use one horse to plow along the fence row in order to get as close to it as possible.

It will be noted from the table that wire, board, and picket fences take up but a little over 3 feet on a side, while worm-rail fences occupy double this amount of land. The amount of land that the hedge fence renders useless for cultivation will depend upon the size of the hedge. If it is left untrimmed it will sap the fertility of the soil for more than a rod on each side of it; if it is kept well trimmed it occupies nearly double the amount of land taken by a wire fence. If the season is dry, a hedge does much more damage than when there is plenty of rainfall, as its root system extends out to a considerable distance and takes up moisture that is needed by the crops in the adjacent fields.

THE MODERN KITCHEN

COULD THE ELECTRICALLY EQUIPPED KITCHEN suggest anything but comfort and convenience? To the housewife, who has considered heat and stuffiness inevitable in the kitchen, the ELECTRIC RANGE on which any desired degree of heat for cooking or baking can be obtained by the turn of a switch, and the electric dish washer which relieves the cleansing of dishes of all its disagreeable features, seem incredible dreams.

Yet these dreams are true, and we will appreciate the opportunity to tell you all about the economy, convenience and other distinct advantages of the modern

LAND LOST BY FENCING

Space Occupied by Various Types of Fences Should Be Considered

The amount of land that is lost to cultivation along fence rows is a matter of importance, especially where the land is high priced. Hence it is well, in selecting a type of farm fencing, to give consideration to the space that the fence will occupy. The following table, derived from data obtained from a survey recently conducted by the department in 12 north central states, reported in department bulletin 321, shows the width of the strip of land, from the center of the fence out on one side, which is made untillable by different types of fences:

Kind of fence
Woven wire..... 3.29 802
Barbed wire..... 3.42 772
Board..... 3.23 817
Picket..... 3.29 802
Hedge (well trimmed) 7.6 347

cities in the county, the average report revealed much the same conditions as are shown in the report for the last three months.

Establishments in Molalla and Canby are among those inspected recently. The one bakery in the former place scored 59.4 per cent. Two hotels averaged slightly over 75 per cent, and the meat market scored 65.9. At Canby the dairy scored 54.2 per cent, two hotels and one restaurant averaged 74.8 per cent, although the best of the three scored 89.6 per cent. The market and slaughter house at Canby scored 65 per cent.

SEX CONTROL IN COWS.

Scientist Advances Theories for Control after Much Study

A Maine experiment station scientist thinks he has discovered a method of controlling sex in calves. Dr. Raymond Pearl is the scientist. He has concluded that service early during the heat period will produce a majority of female calves and service late during the heat will produce a majority of male calves.

In a letter to the New England Homestead, Dr. Pearl gives the following information:

"One of the primary purposes for which the co-operative cattle breeding record plan was undertaken in Maine was to get comprehensive statistics to show whether any definite effect on the proportion of male and female calves born could be observed when service occurred at different times in the heat period. Work at the station some years ago indicated that when service occurred very early in the heat there was likely to be born a larger proportion of heifer calves, and when service occurred very late in heat there was likely to be born a larger proportion of bull calves.

The results we have secured to date have been very gratifying. Exact records show that when service was given early in heat, there resulted 243 heifer calves, as against 160 bull calves. On the other hand, when service was late in heat, there were 52 heifer calves and 97 bull calves. When the service was made middle of heat, the difference was not so pronounced, as shown by 69 heifer calves and 79 bull calves.

"From this work it seems clear that there is a very striking difference in the result according to whether service is early or late in heat. The difference is already beyond the bounds of probability of accidental occurrence. It is proposed, however, to continue the co-operative breeding record scheme for two or three, or possibly more, years until a sufficiently large number of records have accumulated to make the conclusion beyond doubt."

GOLD MINED AT OGLE

Clackamas County Property Said to be Rich in Ores

Development work is under way at the Ogle Mountain mines in southeastern Clackamas county and a mile of tunnel has been completed by the operators.

The tunnel constructed varies in width from 3 to 15 feet and taps what is said to be a very rich ore deposit. The ore taken from the Ogle Mountain mine is a free milling quartz and is rich in gold, as is shown by many assays that have been made.

T. B. Fairclough and S. H. Kirchem, operators of the Ogle Mountain property, have plans to further develop the property by the erection of a mill, which will be undertaken as soon as sufficient capital can be secured. They say that the district is rich in galena and silver producing ores in addition to gold. The operators have recently placed a display at the headquarters of the Oregon Bureau of Geology at Portland and have a fine exhibit at their own offices in Oregon City.

PIONEERS TO MEET

Judge Colvig Will Deliver Annual Address at Exercises

Extensive preparations are under way for the 44th annual reunion of the Oregon Pioneer association, which will be held at Portland, Thursday, June 22. Large numbers of pioneers from all sections of the state and from other states are expected in Portland for this gathering.

The annual "campfire," always one of the popular events of the reunions, will be held as usual, giving the pioneers a chance to relate the interesting tales of life when the state was young. There will be the annual business meeting and the programme of addresses and popular music and the annual banquet.

William M. Colvig, pioneer of 1852, will deliver the annual address at the exercises held in the afternoon at the Masonic Temple.
