DAILY NEWSPAPER FOR HARVARD.

University Discusses Plan Proposed For Boston Publication.

AS SCHOOL FOR JOURNALISM.

Hans von Kaltenborn, a Senior, Who Got a Suggestion In a "Vision," Describes His Scheme In Operation In a Magazine Article.

The suggestion that there be established in Boston a morning newspaper printed and administered by Harvard university as a practical school for journalism has excited earnest discussion in the faculty of the university, among the graduates in Boston, and especially among the members of the English department of the college.

The idea of the proposed newspaper is twofold—primarily, to train men in a practical way for a newspaper career; secondarily, to link Harvard as a university more closely with the actual life and problems of Boston, of Massachusetts and of the entire country.

The school of journalism would, as proposed, be a graduate school. The newspaper would be run in actual competition with the morning papers in Boston, but the name of the paper would be Veritas, and the students of journalism who manned its various departments — business, mechanical and editorial—under the close supervision of trained newspaper men, would be taught, above everything, to get only facts and write only facts.

The thing that sets the university talking about this scheme is an article which appeared in a recent number of the Harvard Illustrated Magazine, an undergraduate publication. The name of the article is "The Harvard Daily Truth—A Vision," its author Hans Von Kaltenborn of the senior class.

Von Kaltenborn was himself a newspaper man, but after several years on the staff of the Brooklyn Eagle he felt the need of a more thorough education. He entered Harvard as a special student in 1905, heavily conditioned; but, though at the same time he supported himself by newspaper writing and did not neglect the social life of the university, he worked with such energy and enthusiasm as soon to take high rank in the class of 1909. This is his vision:

There rose before me opposite the Boston Common a huge square pile, pierced by a thousand gleams, twenty tiers of lighted cells. And the people surged about the doors and windows, for within were light and life. A great press shook out thousands upon thousands of printed pages, while brawny men rushed back and forth to carry them away.

I entered the great pile, and, behold, everywhere bright faced youths and earnest men were talking with one another, reading printed sheets or writing busily. And above all the doors and upon the walls and over all the desks was written this single word, "Veritas."

I asked of one in the room, "What is all this?" And he answered: "This is the home of the Harvard Daily Truth, a newspaper printed by a great university. Its readers are scattered in every state, and it has a great influence for good. Here we teach men to make a clean, truthful newspaper, so that they may go out and serve their fellows through the power of the printed page. And the letters you see over the doors and above the walls spell that to which we aspire—truth."

That is all there is to the vision. The rest of the article is an explanation of the scheme.

Mr. von Kaltenborn refers to "Harvard's neglect to provide for the embryo journalist," pointing to the schools of journalism in the west. He states the number of Harvard graduates that every year take up the newspaper business averages fifteen, and then he says:

"My special plea is for the establishment of a daily newspaper to be conducted by Harvard as a school of journalism, but the student will need preparation for this practical work. Harvard college has facilities for this preparation, but they are neither organized nor advertised."

After going on to show that "Harvard faces a decreasing enrollment" and stating how he thinks a school of journalism would tend to counterbalance it the writer goes on:

"Think of Boston having gained at last that clean, unbiased, ably edited, enterprising morning newspaper of which her citizens have dreamed since Ben Franklin shipped for Philadelphia! How closely it would link our university with that great neighboring community!

"Its success or failure would depend upon its appeal to the public. The new paper would have to prove that the truth well told is more interesting than the most lurid lies, a difficult but by no means impossible task.

"And the office of this successful newspaper would be the training school for journalists. Hither would come the college graduates from every state, just as they now come to the law school, to spend one, two or three years in professional study."

As to whether this scheme can be put into effect its author says:

"I first had this vision a year ago, and now I am rapidly growing to believe that it can be realized. It has appealed to all my college mates and has interested my elders. And a dream in which the young men believe and to which the old men listen is sure to come true."

Even its author was surprised with the effect of this article. He said of it:

"As to the university itself, the plan has been much more warmly welcomed by the members of the faculty than I expected. Nearly all the members of the English department are enthusiastically in favor of it. I am much pleased with the general interest it has aroused."—New York Times.

HEED THE WARNING.

Many Oregon City People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are sick they give unmistakeable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Sick kidneys expel a dark, ill-smelling urine full of "brick dust" sediment and painful passage. Sluggish kidneys cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only; they cure sick kidneys, and rid the blood of uric poison. If you suffer from any of the above smyptoms you can use no better remedy.

Oregon City people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

E. W. Midlem, 410 Main street, Oregon City, Oregon, says: About six months ago kidney and bladder trouble became very serious in my case. I tried many remedies but they seemed to aggravate the trouble instead of relieving me. The doctor's prescriptions did not help me either. My back did not trouble much but I knew my kidneys to be out of order by the irregularity in action and unnatural appearance of the secretions. I procured Doan'e Kidney Pills from Huntley Bros. drug store and was surprised and gratified with the beneficial results I received. After I had taken the contents of one box all symptoms of my trouble had disappeared and the action of my kidneys had become normal. I give all the credit to Doan's Kidney Pills for my present good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Oil Against Coal.

The advantages of oil fuel for stationary and marine boilers are receiving much attention in England. Although the total cost is greater for fuel than for coal, oil has the advantage of greater convenience, simplicity and cleanliness. It is also more efficient, since a pound of good oil is found to have a calorific value of about 35 per cent greater than that of an equal weight of coal. It also occupies much less space, and in that respect is very suitable for ships. Many improvements have recently been made in the methods of spraying and burning the oil.—Youth's Companion.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the Best and Surest.

"It affords me great pleasure to state that I consider the preparation known as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the best and surest of good results of any I have ever used in my family, says P. E. Herrington, of Mount Aerial, Ky., This is the universal verdict of all who use this remedy. Its cures are so prompt and effectual that people take pleasure in recommending it. It is stated on good authority that a large mattress and sofa factory will be added to Eugene's manufacturing industries during the next few months. Quarters for the same have been arranged for in the business district and the company is being formed now.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

When six months old the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, a well known merchant of Agnewville, Va., had an attack of cholera infantum. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was given and effected a complete cure. This remedy has proven very successful in cases of bowel complaint in children and when given according to the plain printed directions can be relied upon with perfect confidence. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given small children. For sale by Jones Drug Co.,

Peaches are so thick on a tree in the yard of the residence of Ex-County Judge C. H. Stewart, of Albany, that it was necessary to pick oc one and one-half bushels of peaches, as small and undeveloped as they are now, to prevent the limbs from breaking.

Proper Treatmen for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

The great mortality from dysentery and diarrhoea is due to a lack of proper treatment at the first stages of the disease. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a reliable and effective medicine, and when given in reasonable time will prevent any dangerous consequences. It has been in use for many years and has always met with unvarying success. For sale by Jones Drug Co.,

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE FINE ARTS PALACE, A.-Y.-P. EXPOSITION, SEATTLE.

Into the Palace of Fine Arts there has gone as fine a collection of works of art as has ever been shown at a world's fair. It is made up of loan collections from Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany and the Eastern states of America. Also there are valuable specimens of work by the leading modern artists of Japan and China, and many of the more notable works of their ancient artists.

So valuable is the collection that insurance in the sum of $1,225,000 has been placed upon it with Lloyds.

The building is absolutely fireproof. It is of reinforced concrete and brick and, at the end of the Exposition, it will revert to the University of Washington, by which it will be used as a School of Chemistry.
