

Some New $2 Blouses that you would be happy to own

THERE are not a great many of them, not perhaps enough to last throughout the entire day. When these are gone no more of the same styles will be obtainable.

IF YOU lived in one of the recognized Style Centers of the United States—in the very cities where fashions have their origin, you could never have newer Blouse Styles nor obtain better Blouse values than you can always find in our Blouse Department. As soon as the new styles are developed, they are immediately expressed to us, and the economy-effecting manner in which they are made and sold makes possible the unusual values.

We control for the city the exclusive sale of the justly-famed Welworth Blouse.

TWO BOOTLEGGERS TAKEN BY MILWAUKIE OFFICERS

Steve Osborne and C. Pierce, who were arrested in Milwaukie Friday night, when Pierce carried two suit cases full of whiskey from the north-bound California train, gave bail for a hearing before Recorder Matthew Saturday morning. When Pierce was arrested he refused to put up any bail and spent the night in the Oregon City jail. Conditions there were not to his liking and he threatened to sue the city of Milwaukie for damages, claiming he has a peculiar ailment which only whiskey will relieve. He gave $600 bail for his appearance before Recorder Matthew when he was arraigned at a preliminary hearing Saturday morning. Pierce had about $1,200 in certified drafts in his possession when arrested. He told District Attorney Gilbert Hedges that he is a delinquent tax buyer and was on his way to a friend's ranch near Milwaukie for a two weeks' vacation. The pair were arrested by J. F. Rigdon and Henry Phillips, deputy marshals of Milwaukie.

It was announced at the meeting that the state convention of the guard was to be held in Portland today and many of the girls from this city will attend. It was requested that those who desire to go to Columbia beach this summer, where the state guard will have its headquarters, should notify Secretary Miss Pratt at least a week in advance, and how long they will stay. The charge will be only $5.50 a week, and many of the members from this city have signified their intention of going. The outing at the beach will be in charge of the state organizer, Mrs. Panforth. At the Elks' flag exercises to be held tonight at the Elks' lodge, the Girls' Honor Guard will attend in a body and take part in the program.

PLANS PROPOSED TO START WORK FOR WATER DISTRICT

At a meeting of the Oak Grove Commercial club in the schoolhouse Tuesday evening it was decided to incorporate the section between Milwaukie and Gladstone into a water district to draw its water supply from Portland. The area included practically all of road districts Nos. 38 and 47. At present the residents are getting their water from wells but the population has increased so rapidly at Concord that it is thought advisable to improve the sewer system. Dean Butler, of Oregon City, has been engaged to take charge of the legal arrangements toward incorporating the district.

MAKES ASSAULT ON JUDGE WHEN REFUSED BAIL MONEY

Frank Crowley, said to be a fireman of Portland, was fined $25 and costs by Judge J. R. Kelso, of Milwaukie, this week, following an altercation which he had with City Recorder Mathews, of that city. Crowley and a man named Anderson were arrested in Milwaukie Sunday for having intoxicating liquor in their possession in a public place. They put up bail for their appearance but later went to Recorder Mathews' home and demanded their money. Crowley became abusive and the fight followed. He may be charged with attempting to bribe an officer and trespassing.

WOULD DISCOURAGE SOCIAL AFFAIRS RED CROSS WEEK

Until the Red Cross Week, June 18-25, is past and the $400,000 asked of Oregon, outside Multnomah county, for the $100,000,000 emergency Red Cross fund, has been secured, it is asked that large social affairs be discontinued in order that all energy may be given to the big patriotic task assigned to this state.

At the same time, H. L. Corbett, chairman of the State Red Cross committee, suggests that such methods of raising money for the Red Cross as teas and socials be discontinued. He believes the situation too grave, the need too pressing and Oregon's responsibility too great to go about the work in a small way. Each community will be systematically districted by its committee, and loyal citizens are asked to have their contributions ready to give direct without loss of time or extra costs. It is desired that every cent shall be utilized directly for Red Cross service.

In the organization of the general state campaign, special representatives of the state committee will confer personally with practically every community in Oregon. State Chairman Corbett is visiting the cities between Baker and Portland. State Field Manager, L. G. Nichols, will meet with the committees in Marshfield, North Bend, Bandon, Myrtle Point, Coquille and Powers in Coos and Curry counties. George Kelly will go to Eugene, Cottage Grove, Junction City, Wendling and Marcola. Robert E. Smith will confer with Red Cross campaign organizations at Medford, Ashland, Jacksonville, Grants Pass, Roseburg, Drain and Oakland. Barclay Atchison will go to Astoria.

Arrangements have been made for reports from all Oregon communities which will be summarized and sent out as bulletins of progress. The state at large is asked for $400,000; the city of Portland for $200,000. There will be keen competition between State and Portland committees to be first in reporting success.

There are those who want to know why the Red Cross is so important to the nation in its war emergency that President Wilson issued a proclamation appealing for $100,000,000 fund and setting aside Red Cross Week in which to raise it.

At the front line trenches, stretcher bearers wearing the insignia of the Red Cross will be found carrying the wounded to the rear. Red Cross ambulances are carrying the wounded to Red Cross base hospitals where Red Cross physicians and nurses faithfully nurse the wounded soldiers back to health, in order that they may return to the world war for liberty, or be able to come back to those who wait for them at home.

The bandages used in Red Cross hospitals are made by devoted women, working for the Red Cross in many communities.

The vocational training given soldiers incapacitated for former employment, will be organized by the Red Cross. The mother who has given up her boy, her support, to the service of his country, will find her necessities cared for by the Red Cross and he can march away with no anxious thought as to her welfare.

The training of Red Cross nurses is under Red Cross direction. Thus
