TRIES GUN TWICE, FINDS IT WORKS, THEN KILLS SELF

JIM BOW, WORRIED OVER LONG ILLNESS, ENDS WOES BY BULLET FROM PISTOL.

MAN EMPLOYED FOR 22 YEARS ON KRUSE RANCH IS SUICIDE

Coroner Investigates Case and Concludes No Inquest Necessary—Dead Man Has Cousin Living in Portland.

Taking two shots at a granite-wear coffee pot, to be sure that his gun was in good working order, Jim Bow, a Chinaman about 50 years old, sat down on the floor of his cabin in the Tualatin district Thursday afternoon and put a 38-caliber bullet through his abdomen. The shot severed his aorta and the Oriental died almost instantly.

The man had been working as a farm hand for the past 22 years on the ranch of G. G. Kruse. One of the Kruse boys heard a shot about 3 in the afternoon, but thinking somebody was hunting in the neighborhood, paid no special attention to it. Some hours later the men working in the fields noticed that the Chinaman had not been about for some time, and started an investigation. The door of the Oriental's cabin was open, and on entering they found his body lying on the floor.

Coroner Probes Case.

Dr. W. E. Hempstead, county coroner, was notified at once, and made an investigation. After viewing the body and hearing the stories of people in the neighborhood, he determined that an inquest was unnecessary, and ordered the body removed to the Holman undertaking rooms, where it will be held pending funeral arrangements.

Jim Bow was unmarried. His only known relative is a cousin, who lives in Portland's old Chinatown. For many years the Chinaman has done his trading with Yin Yeh, who operates a store at Second and Stark streets, Portland, and Dr. Hempstead will interview this firm and endeavor through them to locate the dead man's cousin. No money was found in the Chinaman's hut, but it is believed that he has funds somewhere. His cabin is located on the Kruse place, on the Tualatin road, about four miles west of Oswego.

Man in Poor Health.

The only apparent cause for the Chinaman's suicide is sickness. For some time the aged Oriental has been in poor health, and has been complaining particularly of an affliction of the feet, somewhat similar to cancer. He has been taking Chinese remedies for this, prescribed by one of the celestial physicians in Portland. Apparently discouraged because he was getting no better, the man ended his sufferings with a bullet from a Colt automatic.

Before coming to Oregon Jim Bow was employed in Texas stock camps as a cook. On the Kruse farm he lived by himself in a small cabin and worked out and on in the fields and about the house garden. As far as known he had no enemies, and apparently he took no interest in the various long troubles that have from time to time disturbed the Chinese colonies on the coast.

The fact that the Chinaman took two test shots at his coffee pot before turning the gun upon himself, while only one shot was heard by the men in the fields, is regarded as the only odd feature of the case; but this is accounted for by the supposition that when the celestial was trying the merits of his revolver he had his cabin door shut. After finding that the weapon worked to his satisfaction, it is presumed that he opened the door and then turned the gun on himself.

SANDY MAN COMMITTED.

After being committed to the state hospital for the insane, John Fox, an aged resident of Sandy, was taken to Salem by a hospital attendant Tuesday afternoon. Sheriff Wilson and Dr. J. W. Norris, who conducted the examination, brought him in from Sandy Tuesday.

REPUBLICANS TO INVAD DEMOCRATIC STRONGHOLD

CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN WITH BIG RALLY NIGHT OF SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.

The Republicans of Clackamas county will invade the Democratic stronghold of Molalla for the opening of their campaign on Saturday evening, September 30. Molalla was selected for the reason that it is admittedly one of the leading Democratic precincts of the county, and the followers of Hughes have figured that they may as well fire their opening gun of the campaign where they will have to run the hardest. It is probable that Congressman Hawley will be the main speaker, and candidates for district and county offices will be present.

Republican aspirants for county offices held a conference Tuesday night and outlined plans for the coming campaign. Meetings will be held in about 20 precincts. Judge R. R. Butler, of The Dalles; ex-Senator C. W. Fulton, former U. S. District Attorney John McCourt, and A. E. Clark, one of the leaders of the Progressive party in Oregon and now an enthusiastic Hughes supporter, will be on the stump for the national, state and county ticket in Clackamas county.

PRISONER FOUND TO BE GUILTY OF JITNEY MURDER

VERDICT, REACHED IN 33 MINUTES, EXPECTED BY THOSE WHO HEARD TRIAL.

THOMPSON DROPS WHEN JUDGE READS FINDINGS OF COURT

Conviction Is Found for Slaying of Mrs. Jennings, State Refusing to Combine Murder Trials at Request of Defense.

HILLSBORO, Ore., Sept. 13.—Just 33 minutes were required by a jury in the circuit court here tonight to return a verdict of guilty against Bennett Thompson, charged with the murder of Mrs. Helen Jennings. The jury retired at 7:45 o'clock and returned at 8:18 with the decision that probably will send Thompson to the penitentiary for life.

More than 100 persons were in the courtroom when the verdict was read. So conclusive did the attendants at the trial consider the case against the jitney murderer that they expected a prompt conviction.

Instead of leaving when the jury retired, as is usual in murder cases, they remained in their seats and there was little surprise when the jury filed in with its verdict, signed by Paul Beck, the foreman.

Although Thompson was tried only for the murder of Mrs. Jennings, his conviction practically fixes his guilt also of the death of Fred Ristman, the jitney driver whom Thompson hired to drive him to the Gore farm, where the double tragedy was enacted.

Thompson to the last minute bore himself with composure and evidently hoped for an acquittal. He stood as Judge Bagley read the verdict. As the word "guilty" was pronounced, however, he sank back into his chair. The crowd filed silently from the courtroom without any expression of sentiment.

Final argument in the case closed at 5:40 tonight, the jury received instructions at 7 o'clock and the fate of Bennett Thompson was delivered into his hands.

Arguments began an hour before noon and the steady plying together of circumstantial evidence by District Attorney Tongue and efforts of Attorneys Huston and Hurst for the defense to shatter the state's alignment continued all day.

CALIFORNIA AND OREGON MEN BUY UP BANK'S STOCK

NO CHANGE IN DIRECTORS OR OFFICERS TO BE MADE UNTIL JANUARY.

CHESTER D. PHILLIPS WILL BE CASHIER AFTER CHANGE COMES

C. H. Caulfield Makes Public Change in Ownership, But Does Not Tell What Present Owners Will Do—Same Policy.

A majority of the stock in the bank of Oregon City, the oldest bank in Clackamas county and one of the oldest in the state, has been sold to a group of California and Oregon capitalists, Charles H. Caulfield, president, announced Monday. He issued the following statement:

"The most important announcement in banking circles of the state for some time is the passing of the controlling interest of the Bank of Oregon City to California and Oregon capitalists, who are represented by Chester D. Phillips, who has been connected with California and Nevada banks and who comes highly recommended. Mr. Phillips will be cashier. With this exception there will be no change in directors or officers until the annual meeting, January next, and the same conservative policies heretofore existing will continue. The sale was negotiated through the Charles E. Walters company, Portland, Oregon."

E. G. Caulfield is cashier of the bank at the present time. Mr. Charles Caulfield did not say when Mr. Phillips would become actually connected with the local bank, or what Mr. E. G. Caulfield or himself would do after the new owners had taken over completely the property.

The Bank of Oregon City is not only the oldest bank in Clackamas county, but also the largest. At the time of the semi-annual report of the bank, published June 30, 1916, the resources totaled $1,022,910.87. The bank has about half a million deposited on check accounts and time and savings deposits total $331,155.31.

Under the management of Charles H. and E. G. Caulfield, the bank has grown to be one of the best known and most popular in the north Willamette valley.

Mr. Caulfield did not make public the names of those who have bought the stock of the bank. "Everything we have to make public at this time is contained in that statement," he answered in reply to questions.

COOVERT'S NOMINATION INVALID, SAYS BROWN

ATTORNEY GENERAL HOLDS PRECINCT COMMITTEEMEN COULD NOT FILL THE VACANCY.

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 8.—E. E. Coovert, of Portland, was not legally nominated as a republican candidate for the office of state senator from the Fourteenth district, comprising Multnomah, Clackamas and Columbia counties, at a joint convention of the republican precinct committeemen from the counties named, Attorney General Brown held in an opinion here today.

Brown held that precinct committeemen have a right to fill a vacancy where the vacancy is caused by death or removal from the district, but not otherwise.

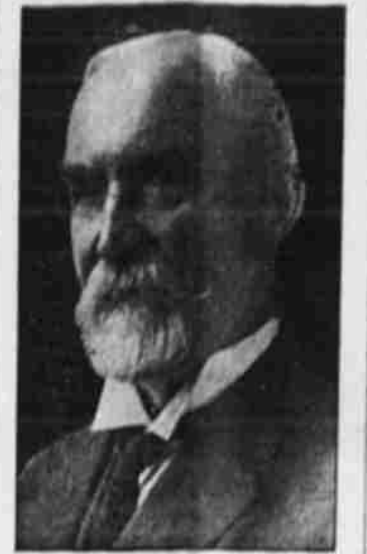

Coovert was nominated for senator to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of George M. McBride. McBride did not remove from the district and he is alive.

Even if the statutes were broad enough to permit the filling of such a vacancy by committeemen, precinct committeemen of counties could not do it, because a senator is a state officer, Brown asserts.

"The precinct committeemen attending the joint convention in Multnomah county have the same, but no more nor less a right, as any republican electors of their respective counties have, to attend and participate in said convention," says Brown.

The opinion means that there will be no republican candidate for the place.

GOVERNOR VISITS O. C. AND ENJOYS ICE CREAM FEAST

Governor Withycombe.

Governor James Withycombe, his daughter, Mable, and a party of friends from Salem were in Oregon City for a few minutes Wednesday afternoon after spending several hours at Camp Withycombe. They left on the afternoon train for Salem. While here the party enjoyed an ice cream feast in a local drug store. Governor Withycombe will be in Oregon City again Saturday night to speak at the Republican banquet in Busch's hall.

10TH ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR OPENS MONDAY

CANBY TO BE HOST TO VISITORS OF COUNTY FOR FOUR DAYS.

EXHIBITS TO BE BEST IN HISTORY

AMUSEMENTS, TOO, ARE PROMISED GOOD; RACING BIG FEATURE.

The big gates of the Clackamas county fair grounds will swing open to the public Monday morning, September 18, and remain open for four days. This is the tenth annual fair, and promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the county. Amusements of various kinds are to be provided, and the four days have been set aside for the various sections of Clackamas county.

The first day is Canby day with the Canby band furnishing the music; second day, Oregon City, with the Oregon City band; third day, juvenile and east Clackamas county day with the Garfield band in attendance, and the fourth day will be Hubbard and Aurora day with the band composed of musicians from those two cities furnishing the music.

On Oregon City day the business houses will close their stores for half a day, all closing in the afternoon, thus allowing all employees to "take in" the fair. A special train is to leave about 12 o'clock and return at good time in the evening, and after the races.

Schools Close Tuesday. Tuesday being juvenile day, the schools will close, and the children allowed to attend. There will be special features that will be of interest to the children.

The juvenile department is to be one of the main features on the second floor. J. E. Calavan and Brenton Vedder, the former being county school superintendent, and the latter school supervisor, who have worked diligently for the last year in interesting the students of the Clackamas county schools in making exhibits at both county fair and Oregon state fair, and they have found that their work is to be rewarded by having one of the largest and finest exhibitions that children of Clackamas county have ever made.

Art Exhibit Is Feature. The art exhibit is to be a feature of this year's fair, and will be in charge of Mrs. Anna Kling, while the women's textile department, in charge of Mrs. J. L. Waldron, and the domestic science department, all on the same floor, will be in charge of Mrs. A. H. Knight. Mrs. C. N. Walt is to be in charge of the baby show, this to be on Thursday at 10 o'clock, and there will be many handsome prizes offered.

H. M. Shaw is planning to place the large automobile bus that is now on the Mountain View-Oregon City run into service for the four days of the fair. A smaller automobile will run to Mountain View during that time. This bus will carry 35 passengers.

Arnold's Carnival company will be on the grounds with a large number of shows.

Big Livestock Exhibit Assured. There will be plenty of livestock in the big barns, and many of the stockmen are already planning to make exhibits in some of the best stock. The poultry sheds are to be well filled, and many of the poultry fanciers are already making plans to take their birds.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED. A marriage license was issued Wednesday to Ada M. Longley and Charles E. Wells, of Oregon City, by County Clerk Ira Harrington.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET AT BANQUET SATURDAY NIGHT

ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETE FOR ROUSING MEETING AT BUSCH'S HALL.

DELEGATIONS TO ATTEND FROM EVERY CORNER OF CLACKAMAS

Molalla Will Send in Carload While Estacada, Canby and Other Towns Will Be Well Represented at Big Banquet.

Arrangements are being completed for the most rousing Republican banquet in the history of Oregon City. The affair will be given next Saturday night at Busch's hall, Eleventh and Main streets, and is in charge of the officers of the Clackamas County Republican central committee.

Delegations will be here from every corner of the county, and leaders in the party from other parts of the state will be on the program of the evening for talks. Molalla Republicans have made arrangements with the Willamette Valley Southern for a special car which will carry Republicans along the line of that railroad to and from the meeting. Estacada, too, and Canby will be represented by large delegations, and practically every precinct will have one or two representatives.

Officers of the county central committee are confident that at least 500 persons will gather around the festive table Saturday night.

Women especially are invited to attend the banquet, and many men will attend with their wives.

Chairman E. E. Brodie of the county central committee received word Tuesday from Governor Withycombe, A. E. Clark, State Chairman Chas. L. McNary and Walter L. Toome that they would be here to address the banquet and an effort is being made to bring Judge Thos. A. McBride here for the night.

"The biggest political gathering of the year," is the way local Republican leaders describe the banquet. Plates will be $1 each, and all voters are invited to attend.

TWELVE OREGON DAILY NEWSPAPERS ORGANIZE

PORTLAND IS MEETING PLACE FOR DAILIES FROM OTHER PARTS OF STATE.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 11.—"The Oregon Daily Newspaper Publishers' association," with a membership intended to comprise the daily newspapers published outside of Multnomah county, was founded today at a convention of representatives from all parts of the state, held at the Chamber of Commerce.

"Co-operation and mutual benefit" were given the chief purposes of the organization. The plans indicate that it will work closely in harmony with the State Editorial association.

Similar organizations have been perfected in many of the western states and have proved successful. Membership in the new organization will be based upon the requirements for membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations, in which the various papers have become members already.

E. E. Brodie, of the Oregon City Enterprise, president of the State Editorial association, was chairman of the meeting today, and Phil S. Bates, secretary of the State Editorial association, was secretary pro tem. There will be no regular officers of the new association, that is, after the style of the average organization, but the administrative power will be vested in an executive committee.

On this committee were named yesterday C. H. Fisher, of the Salem Capital Journal; John E. Gratke, of the Astoria Budget; and E. E. Brodie, of the Oregon City Enterprise. There are 27 dailies in the state and 12 of them were represented in the attendance yesterday. The Audit Bureau of Circulations was represented by C. P. Gaston, of Chicago.

JURY REACHES VERDICT IN ONLY 13 MINUTES

After 13 minutes of deliberation a jury in the circuit court Wednesday returned a verdict for $114.65, the full amount sued for, in the trial of A. C. Nelson against Nora E. Rail. The action was brought to collect on a note. Dimick & Dimick and Will Mulvey represent the plaintiff and Earle C. Latourette the defendant.

GAS COMPANY ASKS FOR A BLANKET FRANCHISE

GRANT WOULD GIVE CORPORATION RIGHT TO LAY MAINS ANYWHERE.

ONE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

County Bldg. 2d. Cor. Taylor Portland, Ore.

The Portland Gas & Coke company applied Friday to the county court for a general blanket franchise to lay gas mains on any road in the county, now laid out or to be opened in the future. The court took the proposed franchise under consideration, reaching no definite decision Friday.

The gas company now has a line constructed and in operation between Portland and Oregon City, but seeks to extend its lines to other parts of the county, serving communities which are not now reached.

The proposed franchise would give the company the right to lay mains on any road in the county without securing any additional grant or permit from the county. The court will insist on restrictions in the franchise which will safeguard the county's interests.

RIVER FRONT AT TWELFTH IS SITE OF IMPROVEMENT

FRANK BUSCH WILL CONSTRUCT BIG PIER AND LARGE WAREHOUSES.

CONNECTION WITH WILLAMETTE VALLEY SOUTHERN IS PROBABLE

Oregon City Transportation Company Will Lease Dock for Term of Years—Construction to Commence Soon.

A modern dock, 65 by 165 feet, and two large warehouses, one on the dock and the other on the river bank back of the dock will be erected by Frank Busch on his river frontage just south of Twelfth street. Construction, Mr. Busch said Tuesday night, will begin within the next two weeks and will be almost completed within two months, when the fall rains will force the Willamette to rise.

The contract for the pier has not yet been awarded, but some material is already on the ground and other material will be shipped here as soon as possible. A carload of piling was unloaded from the Willamette Valley Southern siding on the river bank Tuesday.

The pier will run 165 feet out from the shore. Mr. Busch secured a special permit from the federal government to build the dock. It will be unnecessary to dredge a channel to the dock as it will extend out to the deep water.

O. C. T. to Lease Property. The Oregon City Transportation company will lease the property from Mr. Busch for a term of years. The lease, however, will be so worded that the boats of other companies can use the dock.

The plans include two warehouses, one on the dock and the other on the shore back of the dock. A slip will permit the landing of boats at all stages of the river.

Rail Connection Probable. Mr. Busch believes that arrangements can be made to run a siding from the line of the Willamette Valley Southern to the dock. Now the electric line has a track within 200 feet of the site of the dock. A road way will be built from Twelfth street to the dock.

With the Willamette Valley Southern running a switch to the dock, Mr. Busch is of the opinion that wheat, oats and other farm products grown along the line will come by rail to Oregon City and on to Portland or other towns by water.

WILL LOGUS MAY BE CAPTAIN OF G COMPANY, O. N. G.

GRAND JURY IS SUGGESTED TO SAVE LOCAL BRANCH OF OREGON GUARDSMEN.

BLANCHARD IS QUOTED AS BEING WILLING TO STEP FROM POSITION

Men in Company, However, Blame Oregon City for Their Refusal to Take New Federal Oath—Williams Replies.

The refusal of the men of G company, Oregon City's quota of citizen soldiers to take the new federal oath and the cause for their action were the principal topic of conversation both at Camp Withycombe and in Oregon City Wednesday. There was no agreement of opinion as to why the men take their stand, some claiming that it is because of alleged unpopularity of the captain, Lowell E. Blanchard, while the men themselves, through a committee of two sent to Oregon City Wednesday, say that they are not anxious to stay in the militia because of the lack of support of the people of Oregon City.

At a last chance to save the company to the town, a movement is now on foot to promote First Lieutenant Will Logus to the captaincy. It is said that a majority of the men are willing to join the company providing Lieutenant Logus is the commanding officer. At least 30 men must take the federal oath to keep the charter in Oregon City. Forty-five men are now enrolled in the company.

According to Captain John Hibbard, of the adjutant general's office, Captain Blanchard Wednesday night offered to resign in order to give the company. Over the telephone, Captain Hibbard suggested that a delegation of Oregon City citizens go to Clackamas Friday and talk with the men. He believes that if the proposition is put squarely before the men and that if Logus is made captain, the company will be saved.

The talk by Captain Williams in the Commercial club Tuesday night seems to have increased the break and Wednesday two members of the company, Sergeants Fred Haynes and Fred Scott came to Oregon City as representatives of the men to explain why the men of G company did not take the oath. They signed the following statement:

"We do not know who called Captain Williams to Clackamas nor do we care, but we do know he was misinformed as to our reason for refusing the oath.

"Captain Blanchard and officers offered to resign if they were the cause of the desertion, but we still refused. "A short time ago G company tried to recruit up to something like a company. The people then said that we were a bunch of rough-necks, and did not want their boys to enlist. So now the rough-necks are stepping to let the mollycoddles take their place. We think that Oregon City would feel proud of them as they showed their willingness to serve when they were needed most.

"A certain business man in the town saw fit in the preparedness parade, showed his true colors when time came by not only refusing to go himself, but also made it hard for those who did go.

"We wish to extend our thanks to the people of the town who showed us so much kindness and extend thanks from every man of G company, but feel they were few compared to the size of the town.

"How could a company be retained in the city when it has been rumored around that the company was composed of the lawless element, although our standing the Third Oregon infantry is the very best.

"The members of G company consider they have an apology coming from Captain Williams, and hope no resident of the town of Oregon City

COUNTY'S VALUATION SHRINKS $48,175 DURING LAST YEAR

The total assessed valuation of Clackamas county has shrunk from $23,094,200 to $22,613,025 in the last year, a decrease of $48,175, according to figures prepared by County Assessor J. B. Jack for the board of equalization which meets this week. These figures exclude the loss of the Oregon & California grant lands.

The county's loss of assessed valuation is due principally to wind storms in the Cascades during last winter and spring. Assessor Jack sent men into the mountains to estimate the damage done and they returned with the report that millions of feet of standing timber had been lost by the force of the wind. In places the trees were piled so high and so thick that it was impossible to get through them. The assessed value of timber holdings was cut $30,000 because of these storms.

Only six cases have been brought before the board of equalization. The Portland Presbyterian church asks that the assessment of its property in this county, used as a refuge for human derelicts, be reduced. Action has been taken in none of these cases.
