"The Brunswick"

A PERFECT MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

ON this instrument it is possible to hear the own sweet voice of the performer, not a mechanical sounding re-production. Your favorite records are played as never before, richer, finer, truly remarkable in musical quality. Yours will be a pleasure supreme to learn the fascinating enjoyment of a "BRUNSWICK" rendition, of the finding of the self expression in the music, just as though the artist were guiding in person the selection. This accomplishment is a revolution in the musical world accomplished exclusively by THE BRUNSWICK.

Advantages can be numbered by the dozen for this super-instrument. For instance any record can be played no matter of what make. Then you have the musical library of the Pathe creating, constantly new selections for your use. And these records are not the breakable or scratchable kind they are immune from destruction Then besides all the valuable qualities mentioned, there is the decided superiority of the cabinet work. Manufactured by people who have developed through long years the work of cabinet building to a science the BRUNSWICK cabinet represents a masterpiece.

We know we are enthusiastic over this instrument but only because we have examined its qualities so minutely as to be sure that it will maintain when played in your home, the high standards for which we stand.

By all means do not fail to hear THE BRUNSWICK.

THE RISE OF MR. HULL

Former Employe of Courier is Now Secretary of State of Wisconsin

The rise of Merlin Hull, 155 years ago an employe of the Courier, when this great family journal and fireside friend was published by Izaac LeMahieu, is the story told between the lines of a letter received by County Treasurer M. E. Dunn from Mr. Hull, who is now secretary of State of Wisconsin.

Some time ago Treasurer Dunn wrote to Wisconsin for a book. Incitentally he said he was a former resident of that state. Mr. Hull, secretary of state, answered the letter personally and gave the bit of history that tells of his success within 15 years. Many remember Editor LeMahieu well and others are certain that they recall Merlin Hull. The letter from the former Courier employe, now Secretary of State Merlin Hull, says:

My dear Mr. Dunn: I have yours of February 27th, asking for a copy of the Wisconsin Blue Book.

I should be pleased to send you a copy of the Blue Book, but this department has none for distribution.

I note what you state about having been a resident of Wisconsin. In return, permit me to state that some 15 years ago I was a resident of Oregon, and was employed for some time at Oregon City, on the Oregon City Courier. I liked Oregon very much. It is a grand state and the only drawbacks I foundwere its WET winters.

With personal regards, I am

MERLIN HULL.

HOW THE BLUE BELLS CAME TO JACK-IN-THE-PULPIT

One time, long, long ago, Jack-in-the-Pulpit was complaining to good Mother Nature that the Birds and Flowers and the Fairies were never on time for his service. But they said, to her reproof, they had no way of finding out just when to come, for they couldn't always see the sun; and the Thyme and Four-O'clock were so often slow. So, very often, Jack-in-the-Pulpit had no audience; and the Singers would not even be there. This, of course, was very unpleasant, and especially for such a precise and proper preacher as Jack-in-the-Pulpit.

Mother Nature, therefore, told him she would help him if she could, for she felt very sorry for him. One day, not long after Jack-in-the-Pulpit received this promise—just before the time for his service to begin—he heard the most beautiful melody. 'Twas a bell, yes, many bells! And, looking curiously around, he saw a cluster of tall, green, slender stalks on which were hung many beautiful blue bells—all swinging and ringing. And then his audience heard, and came.

So, ever since that day, the Birds and Flowers and the Fairies have been prompt; and Jack-in-the-Pulpit has been happy. For Mother Nature made for him the Blue Bells, which are growing, ringing to this day. And, if you but listen, you may hear them!

E. E. GILBERT, PREACHER

New Pastor at M. E. Church Wins Hearts in First Bout With Sin

A husky Englishman with a human smile. Such a man is the Rev. E. E. Gilbert, recently of Le Mars, Iowa, presently pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Oregon City.

The Rev. Mr. Gilbert was introduced to his congregation on Sunday morning by Dr. T. B. Ford, district superintendent of the church. There were musicians and speakers galore to aid in the event, but Mr. Gilbert did himself more good with his smile than did those whose speeches presented him.

It was a broad British smile, tempered, perhaps, by the influences of a Canadian nativity. Anyhow, it was a smile, and speedily won a following. In spite of the fact that three other good Canadian parsons have won places in this community, there appears to be room for a fourth, and Mr. Gilbert has made a flying start toward that goal.

If he knows any of the hell-fire-and-brimstone gospel he probably left it to wither in the blizzards of Iowa, for he did not display it on Sunday. He has a pleasant tone to his deep voice; his words ring clear and forcefully. Yet, he doesn't resort to dramatic, thunderous oratory to carry his emphasis. He leaves that duty to an unmodulated delivery, to the happy smile, to the clenched fist that smites vigorously into space. And frequent alliteration in the phrases he employs makes his speech the more eloquent.

Mr. Gilbert's fist is used to good advantage. He doesn't break the furniture when he brings it down forcibly, because the air is all he hits; and he doesn't raise the roof with stentorian tones. He speaks as he smiles—easy, unassuming, pleasant.

On Sunday evening Mr. Gilbert built the platform of his faith upon First Corinthians, 2:2, "For I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ, and him crucified." Carefully planking his platform upon Paul's words, he paused, now and then, to thoughfully bite his lip and to smile, and not once did he have to adjust his white tie or smooth his black frock coat. Which is something for a new parson in a new pulpit to be proud of.

The Rev. Mr. Gilbert, Mrs. Gilbert, Miss Gilbert and the little Gilbert are comfortably settled in the Methodist parsonage on Main street.

Steel Points

William Gladstone Steel, superintendent of Crater Lage national park, has compiled a valuable little booklet on Oregon place names, giving the names, significance and derivations of cities, counties and places throughout the state. From a historical standpoint Mr. Steel's little work, published as one of a series entitled "Steel Points," is very valuable. His careful study has given new significance to many well known place names through an intimate history of their sources.

OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY

Concord School Exhibits Work and Entertains Parents of Pupils

Mother's day was observed at the Concord school house last Wednesday afternoon and evening. Each pupil exhibited some of his work and there was a fine display of cakes and needle work by the girls and bird houses, wagons and drawings by the boys. The following program was rendered from the first four grades under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Inez Bailey: Debate, by Herman Oetkin, Stella and Burton and Alice Landien and Olive Howell, on "Resolved, That dogs are better playthings than dolls." The decision was in favor of the negative. Piano solo, Ruby Starkweather; dialogue, "The Seven Days of the Week," seven little girls; recitation, "Daisies," Annie Baumgartner; recitation, Kenneth Wilcox; song, by eight little boys; piano solo, Wade Spalding; song, "The Bird's Nest," by primary children; "Three Bears," by Edward Brekke, Harold Oatfield, Paul Bauge and Harriet Smith. In the evening a community sing was held and some chorus work by the seventh and eighth grade pupils, under the direction of the instructor of music, Miss Kennedy.

Starving Uncle Samuel

"All of this stress by the public press directed toward the future danger of food shortage," says Farm and Fireside, "is at present a false alarm. The city consumer realizes only the food in sight. If a number of food staples continue in scant supply for a season, he jumps to the conclusion that the producer has reached the limit of his producing power.

"If the land seeded to wheat, beans, potatoes and corn last year in this country and Canada had produced maximum instead of minimum crops, even the unusual foreign demand would have been taxed to find an outlet for these staple food crops. The farmer has advanced beyond the point where he is now unwilling to sow and reap beyond the needs of market requirements merely for the sake of overflowing his barns and warehouses. Like other manufacturers, the farmer now prefers to limit his crop acreage to meet the probable requirements of consumption in his selling zone.

"When there is a staple demand for 'two blades where one now grows,' double production will be forthcoming—whenever there is profit in it for the producer. It is much too soon to get excited over a transient food shortage even though a combination of circumstances has put several food staples in the class of luxuries."

Divorce Dismissed

The divorce suit brought by Emma J. McGraw against F. W. McGraw was dismissed by Order of Judge Campbell Monday.

Shake Off That Grip

When Spring comes, with its changeable weather and your exposure, it is best to clear away all the symptoms left after an attack of grip. That evil disease leaves you weakened, and when its victim attempts to "do his bit" he exposes himself to the risk of a second attack, for which he is less prepared, and which may have graver consequences.

There's Danger in Delay

April and May are pneumonia months. In this time a weakened system is a constant source of danger, for the pneumonia and grip infections are in the air, and after a long winter the body is so clogged with waste it cannot resist them. Fortify the health, remove the catarrh, and improve the digestion.

For Quick Relief PERUNA

This reliable tonic is recommended to remove the waste from the body, counteract the catarrhal poisons and allay the inflammation that is catarrh, restore the regular appetite and tone up the entire system to resist disease. A well man is safe.

As a tonic after grip it has won many commendations, while its effectiveness in catarrhal conditions is unquestioned. Take no chances—Take Peruna.

Peruna Tablets are always ready to take. You may carry a box with you and ward off colds and chill. The liquid medicine in your home is a great safeguard. Protect your family.
