

WILL NOT BE RULED

Commission Will Build Roads by Day Labor if Necessary

Friends of the road bond issue all over Oregon are much heartened by the attitude of the new state highway commission. The commission has come forward firmly and stated that no undue preference will be exercised to favor one section of the state over another, or to favor one type of pavement over another. It has made it clear that it will co-operate with all the counties instead of only with a few. Also it states that if contractors' bids for paving and other road construction are too high, it will purchase the necessary machinery and construct roads and paving by day labor under the supervision and direction of the state engineers.

No selection of a state highway engineer has been made, as the commission shows that it intends to cut its garment according to the cloth. A different type of engineer may be needed in the event the bonds do not pass, as there would be little or no paving work to be done, and comparatively little money would be available for other highway construction. Formal official statements of the commission's policy will be incorporated in the official argument in the state pamphlet to be sent by the secretary of state to all the voters prior to the special election. Copies of these formal statements will be published in advance by the state campaign committee, with copies of the bonding act and such other official information as is needed to present to all the public the important facts of the case.

STATE WINS AGAIN

Wasco County Judge Finds Contrary to Campbell in Hyde Case

Circuit Judge W. L. Bradshaw of Wasco county has notified Attorney General Brown that he has decided the F. A. Hyde land fraud case tried before him in favor of the state.

"I have found with the plaintiff (the state) on all questions, except I am of the opinion, and so find, that the state should repay the $125 per acre for the lands involved in this case, as was found by Judge Galloway," says Judge Bradshaw in his letter to the attorney general.

This is one of seven cases involving in the aggregate about 30,000 acres of school lands that were obtained from the state through fraudulent operations by Hyde and associates which Attorney General Brown has been vigorously prosecuting, after many years of delay on the part of former state officials. The suits are to recover the land.

Judge Bradshaw's decision is the second one to be made in favor of the state, while a third decision was announced by Judge Campbell of Clackamas county unfavorable to the state. In the Clackamas county case, however, an application for a rehearing has been made and the case probably is not yet settled. The other decision in favor of the state was rendered by former Judge William Galloway of Marion and Linn counties.

The four other cases are still pending. When the land was obtained from the state by Hyde and his associates, dummy entries were used, but the state was paid $1.25 an acre. This is the sum the court has ordered the state to reimburse. A law was passed by the recent legislature authorizing the state to make such reimbursements as might be ordered.

Reception Delayed

A reception to new members of the Gladstone Christian church, planned for Friday evening, has been postponed by the committee in charge until Wednesday, March 28.

CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

Good Roads Matters are in Hands of Legislative Committee of Eight

Oregon's good roads campaign has been launched. The legislature's committee of eight, three senators and five representatives, has taken charge. Contributions of $10 each were made by all members of the committee, and the formal request was made of the press of the state that subscription lists be opened in their columns for the collection of funds for the county and state campaigns. The only restriction as to subscriptions was that none from paving companies may be accepted. All subscriptions made for the state campaign are to be remitted to Senator F. D. Cusick, treasurer of the legislature committee, at Albany, Oregon. County campaign subscriptions are to be handled entirely by the local organizations.

It was the sense of the committee that organization of county campaigns be left entirely in the hands of the several counties, and that the sole function of the state headquarters is to be the dissemination of such literature, information, advertising and other service as may be required by the county organizations. The state headquarters also will co-operate in securing speakers for local meetings to discuss the bonding bill. There are many excellent speakers in the different counties who are well versed in the provisions of the bill and discuss same ably, and the services of such will be enlisted to visit neighboring counties, their expenses to be paid from the state campaign fund.

To unite all the counties in the state campaign, a convention of supporters of the bond issue has been called to meet at Portland, Saturday, April 7. Meanwhile, the legislature committee will take charge of the state headquarters, the immediate work to be under the supervision of an executive committee consisting of Senator W. D. Wood of Hillsboro, chairman, Senator E. D. Cusick of Albany, treasurer, and Representative Roy W. Ritner of Pendleton, secretary.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEET

Plan Apron Bee for Next Meeting of Lower Logan Association

The Lower Logan Parent-Teachers' association met last Thursday evening and many of the parents in the district were present. Mrs. Herbert Corliss, vice-president, read the constitution. It was then signed by 32. The standardizing of the school and other subjects were discussed.

After the business session a program was enjoyed. The school children sang "Sweet Afton." Alma Boss and Rose Tschopp recited; Elsie Busch read a story; F. S. Hutchins made a speech and "America" was sung by all as the closing number of the program. Refreshments were served after the program. The next meeting is set for April 12, when an apron sale will be held to raise a general fund for the school.

DAIRY AND CREAMERY

GOOD DAIRY RATIONS.

Cows Should Be Fed in Accordance With Their Milk Production.

Professor C. H. Eckles of the Missouri station is a wise counselor on matters pertaining to dairymen. He has made a close study of the question of compounding dairy rations, and his advice is well worth heeding. In a recent press bulletin he points out that good and economical dairy rations are based upon corn silage and some legume hay, such as clover, alfalfa or cowpeas. If these are plentiful the feeding problem is much simplified. A good grain ration to go with these is corn, four parts; bran, one part, and cottonseed or linseed, one part.

Corn, even at the present high price, is the cheapest source of digestible food

The cow herewith pictured, Irene's Cherry 25823, has earned the title of world's champion senior two-year-old Jersey. She went on test at two years and eleven months of age and in 35 days produced 12,567.7 pounds of milk, containing 749.57 pounds of fat. This exceeds the record which was made by Lady of the Lakes, the former champion.

Cottonseed meal, distillers' grains, brewers' grains and linseed meal are the cheapest sources of protein. A mixture of corn and cottonseed meal alone would not be a good ration, as it is too heavy—that is, it forms a sticky mass in the stomach, which the digestive juices cannot penetrate easily. Bran, dried beet pulp or brewers' grains are the best feeds we have to lighten a ration. For this reason one of these is nearly always included in the ration fed heavy milking cows requiring liberal grain feeding.

The most difficult question to decide this winter is how liberally one can afford to feed dairy cows. As a general rule, feeding a cow to near her capacity is the most economical. If the farmer goes to the expense of maintaining the cow it is not economy to fail to make use of her productive capacity. A good rule for practical feeding is to give the cow as much roughage, silage and legume hay as she will eat clean, then feed in addition one pound of grain to each three pounds of milk for a Jersey and one pound of grain for each four pounds of milk from a Holstein.

A dairy cow should be in good condition at time of calving. The amount of milk she gives when fresh usually shows her capacity. She should then be fed enough to support this milk production. A cow that does not have the inheritance to give more than twenty pounds of milk daily cannot be made to give forty by liberal grain feeding. However, the cow that starts giving forty pounds will not continue to do so long unless sufficient feed is given to furnish the raw material for this much product.

It is not economy to feed all cows the same amount of grain. They should be fed in accordance with their production. A heavy grain ration given a light milking cow fattens her, but does not increase her milk beyond her ordinary limit.

Silage For Dairy Bulls.

There has been some disagreement among dairymen relative to the effect of feeding silage to bulls in service. It is generally agreed, however, that feeding large quantities of silage does have a detrimental effect in making the bull sluggish and lowering his worth as a breeder. We advise therefore that not more than ten to fifteen pounds be fed per day.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Temperature of Milk For Calves. Under natural conditions milk consumed by the young calf has a temperature of approximately 100 degrees. It has been found by experience that a slight variation from this temperature may cause indigestion. Especially is this true with calves under two months of age. The chief point is uniformity in the temperature of the milk at all times.

DAIRY WISDOM.

Too much cannot be said about the way in which cows should be treated in the stable. Be generous and kind to the helpers. They will repay you as soon as they become cows. When unpregnated cows sell for $120 at public sale the wisdom of saving the heifer calf becomes self evident. If possible water should be supplied to cows in the stable. The increase in yield from a herd of cows would quickly repay the expense of a covered barnyard, where the herd can rest and take some exercise through the day.

Y. P. I. Postpones Action

Those interested in the proposed young people's institute and the $20,000 club house which it is hoped to erect, met for an informal discussion of plans Monday night and postponed definite action toward securing money until next Monday night. It is understood that teams of young people will be organized to work against one another in a competitive money raising campaign. Several large donations have been promised by business men in the city if the plans for the club carry.

FARMS FOR WORKERS

Railroad Will Let Employees Use Idle Lands on Rights of Way

President J. D. Farrell of the O. W. R. & N. Company has just made announcement of that Company's plan this year to give its employees the privilege of cultivating its right-of-way and other lands that may be available for such purposes. "This is done," he explains, "as an aid to national preparedness through the production of vegetable foods."

No charge will be made for the privilege, and the only condition is that such products as are grown shall be confined to the use of employees and their families.

"Our great family of employees," he adds, "can splendidly assist in the nation's program of preparedness by adding to the food supply, and all who can do so are earnestly urged to take advantage of this offer."

This announcement further provides that lands not applied for within ten days will be offered to others than employees, when suitably recommended, on the same terms.

This move brings into possible productivity a very large area of land as fertile and capable as the average farm, and if the offer can be improved it will absolutely remove from the employee's family expense account the cost of vegetables of an entire year.

REALTY BOOMING

Dwellings Scarce. Important Operations Planned for This Year

According to realty operators here, Oregon City is enjoying prosperity in that line that it has not known before. Dwellings, especially for rental, are in great demand, it is said. A thorough canvass of the community shows only a few vacant houses and in most cases they are not the most desirable. All the realty dealers have a waiting list of renters and are unable to find locations. The dealers find the same lack in business places. Main street storerooms are not available for any kind of business and several important developments in business buildings are under consideration. These plans provide for at least two important Main street buildings within the coming summer.

According to S. O. Dillman, the increased operations of the local mills, the additions to the woolen mills and the Hawley paper mills, have served to aggravate the situation by bringing more people into the city than can possibly be cared for. The result, Mr. Dillman says, is a marked advance in realty values and in rents. The general advance in the price of property in the city averages more than 5 per cent above last fall's prices, and rents have advanced accordingly.

Among the important building operations under consideration are a modern apartment house and two Main street business blocks, one to occupy a corner near the courthouse with offices and several storerooms. Smaller business places are rapidly occupying the older structures on South Main street because there is no vacant space in the newer section. Business space on the hill is also crowded. The erection of a new hospital this summer and the construction of a modern concrete garage building on the corner of Main and Ninth streets, will aid in solving the difficulty. This work is definitely promised for the early future.

CALDWELL BOUND OVER

Grand Jury May Investigate Bribe Scandal of Roadmaster

Pleading not guilty to a charge of assaulting William Christner, W. H. Caldwell of Carus was on Saturday bound over to the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Sievers. Caldwell was arrested over the telephone by Constable D. E. Frost and came in Saturday as he had promised. The complaint against him was sworn to by Noah Christner, father of the boy Caldwell is charged with assaulting. The grand jury in session here this week, with several minor cases upon the docket. The case of Fred Myers, a Marquam farmer charged with cruelty to animals, will be considered by the grand jury. The jury will make no definite report until tomorrow afternoon.

There is a possibility, it is reported, that the grand jury will consider the case of Roadmaster T. A. Roots, who has been accused of blackmailing a briber. According to reports Mr. Roots received a $100 bill from a Portland road machinery dealer and, for not making the man's name public, is said to have exacted promises of heavy reductions on purchases made by the county last year and possible purchases for this year.

and the streets were brightly illuminated. The living models in one of the stores kept the aisles crowded throughout the evening and the music in several other places of business proved attractive. One store employed the entire high school orchestra for the occasion. A band played on the streets.

A feature of the entertainment was the business men's banquet. Sixty-five merchants and their guests, including a number of Portland men, sat about the long tables. O. D. Eby, president of the Commercial club, presided at the banquet and Dan Kellaher of Portland was the chief speaker. Others who spoke were President Catton of the East Side Business Men's club of Portland; City Commissioner Bigelow of Portland; L. Adams, W. A. Huntley, B. T. McBain, William Andersen, A. R. Jacobs and S. Bowman.

First prize in the window display contest was awarded to Bannan & Co. for a beautiful exhibition. Second, third and fourth prizes went to Adams Department store, Frank Busch and Jones Drug Co., respectively. Honorable mention was given Burmeister & Andersen, Price Bros., H. W. Streibig and Miller and J. H. T. Adams store window of "made in Oregon" goods was designated the most striking feature by the group of judges, which included several Portland business men.

CROP OUTLOOK GOOD

Dun's Reports Business Conditions of State for Past Period

The business report, published in Dun's Review and emanating from Portland, reflects the business tone of the state. It is as follows:

Crop prospects to date are satisfactory, and farmers in the grain counties are preparing to increase the spring wheat acreage largely. There is an urgent demand from the east and south for both wheat and flour, but prompt shipment, which is required, cannot be guaranteed, owing to the car shortage. The only shipments by water in the past month were to California, amounting to 73,805 bushels of wheat and 27,051 barrels of flour. For the cereal year to date, shipments of wheat to all ports have been 1,195,847 bushels, against 7,937,970 bushels in the same period last year, and 368,794 barrels of flour, compared with 631,950 barrels in the corresponding months last year.

The lumber movement by water also continues light, exports in February amounting to 2,800,265 feet and domestic shipments to 5,534,000 feet, the total comparing with 10,488,000 feet shipped in the preceding month and 12,017,140 feet in February last year.

With the bulk of the apples of export grade disposed of, the market is not seriously affected by the recent British regulations, and the stock remaining in storage is being steadily absorbed by the domestic trade. Potato shipments in the past month were 600 cars and only 200 cars are left in Oregon growers' hands, while no onions remain, except the limited stocks held by dealers.

Preparations for mohair shearing are being made and an average clip is expected. Buyers are offering to contract for mohair at 50c, yet there are no sellers at this price. A small amount of wool contracting is being done at 40c, but the larger part of the Oregon clip will be held for the regular spring market. Receipts of cattle and sheep at the Portland stockyards in the past month showed small increases, while there was a large falling off in the hog run. All classes of cattle and live stock are selling at prices never before reached here.

ESPEE WILL BUILD
Railroad Company Gets Permit for Use of West Linn Land

Oregon City takes it as evident that the Southern Pacific company intends to proceed with the construction of its proposed West side line through West Linn, in view of the lease recorded here last week in favor of the company by the Moody Investment company. The lease gives the railroad the use of a strip of land, through the Hugh Burns and the Daniel Burns donation land claims, comprising 5.61 acres. The lease provides that the company shall surrender der the property by June 28, 1919, and the company is to have trains in operation over the west side route by that date. The property involved in the lease is to be used by the company for its work shops during the construction of the proposed road and will revert to the lessee as soon as the work is done.

MR. RILEY ILL
Faints While at Work in Court House. Son Comes Here

E. F. Riley, a Portland abstractor, fainted Friday in the office of County Recorder Boyles. He was sitting on a high stool at the time and when he fell to the floor his head was painfully injured. Mr. Riley was hurried to the Oregon City hospital and when he had recovered was taken to his home in Portland. He recently recovered from an illness and had been ordered not to work Friday in his weakened condition. A son, Frank Branch Riley, of Portland, came to Oregon City to attend his father.

A Medicine for Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kieso Cured After Seven Month's Illness.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my house work, I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for herself how good it is."—Mrs. KARL A. KIESO, 596 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

Could Hardly Get Off Her Bed.
Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said, 'I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my house work, and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. JOSIE CORNEN, 1668 Harrison Ave., Fairmount, Cincinnati, Ohio.
