

WHAT IS HE WORTH?

First Prize Essay in Contest Among Clackamas County Schools

The following essay was awarded first prize among many submitted upon miscellaneous subjects in the essay writing contest conducted in the high schools of Clackamas county under the direction of Brenton Vedder, school supervisor. It is the work of Fred J. Toose, Jr., a senior in the Oregon City high school and son of F. J. Toose, superintendent of Oregon City schools. This pupil's work is easily the best of a score of essays submitted:

What is he worth? In modern times this query is generally accepted as meaning, "How much money has he?" But this, however, is not the highest nor most worthy interpretation of such a question. Although money does occupy the chief position of importance in the commercial and social world, there are other possessions which in point of value to the individual, far surpass the mere accumulation of money.

Among such may be enumerated personality, culture and appreciation. Careful investigation of those elements which contribute in a large measure to the success attained by many of the noted men and women of our country, shows us that personality is a very important factor in the life of mankind. The ability to attract, to command and to lift others to a higher plane of life is one of the greatest blessings of such a personality and with this means at our command we ourselves and others may rise upward in the human scale. A strong personality is one of the greatest assets a person can possess and indeed, it is one of the predominant factors in commercial, social and moral success.

The second of these personal attributes, namely, culture, is a rare gem that many seek but few possess. To be able to do and appreciate the finer things of life, which lift us above the sordid, selfish pecuniary struggles of life, is an accomplishment that is of inestimable value to all. Cultivation of the pleasing arts, music, art, literature, etc., tends to broaden our thoughts, raise our ideals and remove us from the humdrum of our daily existence. The display of the proper consideration and respect toward our fellowmen, all this, too, is embodied in culture, and in point of value to the individual is far superior to any monetary possession.

Ranking high with both personality and culture, appreciation constitutes one of the most needed elements in the life of the human being. The ability to appreciate is one of the finest arts that human kind possesses, but often this art is not used to the best advantage. Many a production of the struggling musician, artist or inventive genius might be elevated to a higher plane of perfection were the maker given a sincere word of appreciation. Appreciation spurs the discouraged one onward to better and higher achievement and as an agency of encouragement, gratitude and interest should be freely manifested by all.

It is evident that there are other things beside money which build up the individual mentally and morally, and bring him into a closer fellowship with his fellow-beings. The dollar is a mighty power in the commercial world but it cannot purchase those qualities which in a large measure form the character of the true man and the noble woman, who with unselfish spirit are trying to better the condition of themselves and those about them.

THE FASHIONS

The fluffy afternoon frock is to divide honors with sports clothes this season. While we know that sports clothes are all-important, that their charms are indeed legion, and that no woman who considers herself as having the least pretensions to being fashionable will be without a goodly assortment of them this year; yet, in spite of all this, we must acknowledge that there is a touch of severity about them that creates a craving for the contrast of dainty, frilly lingerie frocks.

There comes a time in the life of even the most ardent devotee of sports when one must relax, and it is at these times that the feminine longing for dainty, picturesque frocks, meant solely to make one as bewitching as possible, must be satisfied.

And so, for the delight of the feminine heart, there are the most irresistible creations of sheer silk voiles, soft chiffons and crepes, to say nothing of the abundant variety of cotton voiles, marquisettes and awes that are offered this year.

Silk marquisette is combined with charmeuse in many dainty dresses of the more elaborate kind. The former material takes, seemingly, the less important part, but it really is quite important, forming the background, as it were, to bring out the sheer material to greatest advantage. It may be used in a band at the edge of the skirt and in touches on collars and cuffs, or it may be used for a skirt with a long overdress of the sheer material falling over it. Georgette crepe is another of the dainty materials employed in this manner.

The crepe de Chine dress is to come in for more attention than it has had for a long time. Crepe de Chine is to be one of the most popular fabrics for spring and summer dresses. No one will regret investing in a dress of this material, seeing that it has so many advantages, among them that of being a material which can be laundered very successfully. When so many of the present materials must be dry-cleaned, a dress which can be laundered and look just as fresh as new is a great boon to those whose incomes do not permit of many extravagances.

Smart Bordered Fabrics

Among the fashionable designs used in dress materials, borders appear very frequently. The bordered fabric with a design scattered all over the surface is one of the most striking of the new effects. Borders on plain materials have been used largely before, and they are again favored this season, but the border around an entire design is the very newest fashion. Both the embroidered and the printed effects are looked upon with favor. The colors show the same tendencies noted in the other spring and summer materials; that is, they are quite gray and often combine several bright tones.

One of these fascinating bordered fabrics is illustrated in the sketch of an afternoon dress for a young girl. This shows by far the simplest and not the least effective way of using such materials. The border goes around the bottom of the skirt, and makes the belt, and a strip of it is applied around the edges of the sleeves, forming a veritable frame for the figure.

Kimono Styles and Short Sleeves

The designers have returned to kimono sleeves and the body-and-sleeve-in-one effects. Many of the new blouses and dresses are made in these styles; and a good many show the short sleeves, which have a fair promise of being taken up for spring and summer, though not to the exclusion of long sleeves. The most favored type of long sleeve at present is fitted closely from the elbow to the wrist. At the elbow, or above it, there is fullness, the sleeve being shaped in a point extending away from the elbow.

The Puff in Skirts

A feature of the new skirts which appears to be very acceptable is the puff at the lower edge produced by a gathering of the edge to a foundation. Evening dresses are especially graceful in this style, whether made of tulle, satin, charmeuse or the other soft silks. This is a very delightful effect for young girls and is used very frequently for their party frocks. The illustration shows how full of charm are misses' dresses in this style, and that a great deal of this charm lies in its simplicity. The model is developed in soft rose charmeuse, with chiffon of the same shade embroidered with gold threads forming the simple little bodice. Orchid and sea-foam green are among the other evening colors which make exquisitely pretty frocks for the younger set.

RIGHT AND WRONG POISE.

Bodily Posture is a Potent Factor in Good Health.

The carriage of the body may determine the condition of one's health. Bad posture is often responsible for the failure of the vital organs to perform their functions properly. It causes refuse material to be deposited in the tissues and is responsible for a large percentage of headaches.

Because of the unnatural strain on muscles and ligaments, more nervous and muscular energy are expended in holding a poor position than in maintaining a correct bodily posture.

Good posture gives the blood a chance to carry new food material where needed and to eliminate waste. It allows the nerves to carry their messages and for the lungs to fill the tissues with life giving oxygen. A certain readiness for action saves lost motion.

The common faults of posture are drooping shoulders, protruding head, hollow chest, round shoulders, hollow back, bent knees and weak or flat feet. Many persons have almost all of these defects.

It is claimed that more than 50 per cent of all cases of spinal trouble are due to faulty positions which have become habitual.

Daily exercise, well regulated, will not only prevent but will correct many faulty postures.

Dancing is one of the most wholesome and most effective ways of cultivating good carriage. It calls into play muscles in all parts of the body and tends to produce gracefulness.

Of great value for similar reasons are many of the outdoor sports such as swimming, skating, tramping, rowing and horseback riding. — Pittsburgh Press.

GIVING LIFE FOR PEACE.

How a Deadly Feud Between Alaskan Tribes Was Ended.

Ending a war is always attended with difficulties and perplexities. It is interesting to recall the manner in which two Alaskan tribes, the Stikkeen and the Sitkas, once settled such a matter. The late John Muir narrated the facts. The bloody feud had lasted all summer, for the parties were evenly matched, and they were all likely to starve in the winter because the women dared not go out to fish or pick berries. But one day a Stikkeen chief appeared before the camps and called for a parley. He said:

"My people are hungry. They dare not go to the salmon streams or berry fields for winter supplies, and if this war goes on much longer most of my people will die of hunger. We have fought long enough; let us have peace. You brave Sitka warriors go home, and we will go home, and we will all set out to dry salmon and berries before it is too late."

The Sitka chief replied:

"You may well say let us stop fighting when you have had the best of it. You have killed ten more of my tribe than we have killed of yours. Give us the Stikkeen men to balance our blood account; then and not till then will we make peace and go home."

"Very well," replied the Stikkeen chief; "you know my rank. You know that I am worth ten common men and more. Take me and make peace."

The offer was accepted. The chief gave himself up and was shot down in his tracks in sight of both tribes. One man died for many, and peace was restored.—Christian Advocate.

Cutting Retort.

The late Charles Frohman was one of those people who sometimes rap out a retort that in cooler moments they would wish unsaid. Of one of these Mrs. Patrick Campbell was the victim. During a rehearsal it appears Frohman made a constructive criticism which nettled the actress very much. Going to the footlights, Mrs. Patrick Campbell said:

"Mr. Frohman, I want you to know that I am an artist."

Frohman, with a solemn face, instantly replied:

"Madam, I will keep your secret."

Morocco and the Moors.

Five centuries ago Ferdinand and Isabella drove the Moors from Spain, and in Morocco they sought a new empire. The gradual conquest of north Africa by European powers has driven the true Mohammedan—the religious fanatic—southward or westward to the practically unknown interior, or to Morocco. Egypt, Tripoli, Tunisia and Algeria have all contributed from their populations to the peopling of Morocco.

Characteristics of Famous Men.

When I meet a famous man I note that all he has is a little sense, a little politeness and a disposition to look after things. Many famous men are very ordinary, except that they are unusual in the respects noted.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Your Easter Shoes are Here For You

And The Price Is Right

While many merchants report the decreasing sale of shoes because of the high prices, the OREGON CITY SHOE STORE goes right on with business.

Have you paused to ask the reason?

It is because we bought the right kind of shoes at the right time, and are not forced to raise our prices out of all proportion to actual value in order to make a living profit. The price of shoe leather has advanced to a heretofore unknown height—but our shoes, in most instances, are selling for the usual price.

It is our desire to serve the people of Clackamas County with the best footwear we can buy at the best prices we can possibly make that prompts us in extending a cordial invitation to our store.

We here list several special footwear features, but they represent only a small part of our large stock of up-to-the-minute shoes for men, women and little folks.

HAWLEY GETS DEED

Suit Threatened by Higher Bidder Who Was Left in Cold

A deed transferring lot 6, block 28, to the Hawley Pulp & Paper company was filed with County Recorder D. C. Boyles Friday by the city of Oregon City. The consideration is an even $1500. The property involved is the site of the Cataract hose company's home on lower Main street, ordered sold to Mr. Hawley at the last meeting of the city council. Mr. Hawley bought the property from the city at a time when the money was greatly needed to add to the fund for the purchase of a fire truck, and in addition donated $1000 to the fund.

As a result of this sale the city is threatened with an action in court by the Northwestern Fire Apparatus company, which used the threat in an attempt to force the council to consider the purchase of the fire truck handled by the company. The company made a bid of $3000 for the Main street lot and submitted a certified check for $300 as a guarantee. The council considered the action of the company as an attempt to "hold up" Mr. Hawley, who proposes additions to the mills to cover the lot, and ordered the check returned. The fire apparatus company said that the council's action would result in a lawsuit to force consideration of the higher bid.

"You may well say let us stop fighting when you have had the best of it. You have killed ten more of my tribe than we have killed of yours. Give us the Stikkeen men to balance our blood account; then and not till then will we make peace and go home."

"Very well," replied the Stikkeen chief; "you know my rank. You know that I am worth ten common men and more. Take me and make peace."

The offer was accepted. The chief gave himself up and was shot down in his tracks in sight of both tribes. One man died for many, and peace was restored.—Christian Advocate.

GRANGE CLUB STARTS

Women Representing Granges of Three Counties Organize

About fifty women, representing seventeen granges of Clackamas, Multnomah and Washington counties, assembled at the Central Library, Portland, on last Thursday to organize a new club, which will be known as the Women's Grange club. It will work along the lines of promoting grange work and for the betterment of homes and communities and rural life generally.

The following were elected officers: President, Mrs. Edythe Tozier Weatherford, Multnomah county; vice-president from Clackamas, Mrs. Valerie Benvie; vice-president from Multnomah, Mrs. Mary Palmer; vice-president from Washington, Mrs. A. B. Flint; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Brodersen. Mrs. Florence A. Dickinson of Oswego grange was appointed chairman of the executive committee. Mrs. Maggie Johnson of Milwaukie grange was appointed chairman of membership committee. Mrs. Saylor Smith was named publicity chairman.

The next meeting will be held in room E, Central Library, Thursday, March 29, to complete the organization and give out the work to the committees. Membership fees will be nominal. Mrs. R. D. Inman, president of the Conservation club, gave a splendid talk on the subject, which was greatly appreciated.

Schmidt Paid for Beer

Judge J. U. Campbell last Thursday signed a judgment order for $180.75 in favor of Frank T. Schmidt and against J. W. Johnson, on a claim assigned to Schmidt by a beer agency when the state went dry. Schmidt charged that Johnson had not paid for wet goods delivered to him.

This Opinion of The NEW EDISON won a $500 prize. It is worth reading

"REALITY is Better than a Copy—Real Music is Finer than Reproduced Music."

This is why the New Edison entertains better than an ordinary talking machine and gives children a truer appreciation of music.

In our home naturally we would rather have a painting than a photograph of it. And we wish the music in our homes to be like paintings, possessing all their original beauty.

Now our good but old-fashioned talking machine records seem to us like photographs of music—enjoyable, though lacking something.

But our trial of the New Edison convinces us that at last there is a phonograph that gives us music itself in all its strength, freshness and wonder—music as magnificent as original oil paintings, not photographs of music, but genuine music.

To make children love painting, show them the artists' own work rather than photographs—the brilliancy and colors of painting delight them.

And so in music there are charming tone colors, living, thrilling sounds that only the New Edison ever brought home for our delight.

Real, Re-Created music is better than reproduced.

Edison music IS REAL!

Nothing greater can be said of it. This is why we want a New Edison."

FREDERICK DOYLE, 620 West St. Catherine Street, Louisville, Ky.

Come to Our Store and See if You Agree with Mr. Doyle

WE SHALL be only too glad to give you a private demonstration of the New Edison, which the New York Globe calls "the phonograph with a soul." There is absolutely no obligation to buy, and you will not be importuned to buy. We want you to form an opinion of the New Edison. We are certain it will be a good opinion, and your good opinion is worth something to us.

NOTICE—Please do not ask us to sell you Edison Re-Creations if you intend to attempt to play them on any other instrument than the New Edison. No other instrument can bring out the true musical quality of Edison Re-Creations. Furthermore, injury to the records is likely to result if you attempt to play them on an ordinary phonograph or talking machine.
