TAX ORDINANCE PASSED

Oregon City Levy Declared to be Ten and One-Half Mills for 1916

Oregon City's council met Friday evening of last week and passed an "emergency" ordinance declaring the city tax levy for 1916 to be ten and a half mills. As the law provides that the city cannot levy more than ten mills, the ordinance provides for the construction of the Mt. Pleasant walk at a cost of $287.50.

Mr. Templeton sprung a surprise on the council by intimating that in the construction of the Fallsview steps the specifications had not been followed. He asked the city engineer about it, and both City Engineer Miller and Councilman Andrews insisted that the specifications had been adhered to. Mr. Templeton insisted that he "had heard" there had been irregularities; but was advised by Councilman Albright to "forget it and build an elevator there."

Report of the board of appraisal appointed for sewer district No. 10 was submitted, and it then developed that two of the appraisers were property owners in the district. They will be paid four dollars a day for the work they did, but a new report will be sought. John Bittner, John Humphreys and Charles Vonderahe were appointed as a new board of appraisers to submit another report.

The matter of the "lumps" appearing in the new Main street paving along the side of the interurban tracks were discussed, and final action was put off till the regular December meeting. The paving company, the street railway company and the city engineer were expected to be able to get together on a plan for remedying the trouble by that time.

Councilman Meyer was absent, and Councilmen Long and Hackett, mayoralty candidates, were also among the missing; it being presumed that they were out electioneering.

HOW TO HELP YOUNG

Bradford, England, has Municipal Bureau that Does Good Work

Writing in the Daily Commerce Reports, H. C. Claiborne, vice-consul at Bradford, England, gives an interesting description of some of the city work handled by the British community in which he is stationed. Describing this work, he says:

"Among the many noteworthy Bradford municipal enterprises for children's welfare is the Juvenile Employment Bureau. By an admirable system of cooperation between teacher, medical officer, and employer, the mental and physical capabilities, as well as the predispositions of the boys and girls, are considered in connection with the opportunities offered in office or mill.

"Three months before each child leaves school a card is sent to the education officer, giving a record of health and school career and offering suggestions as to the kind of employment most suitable for the case under consideration. A member of the district committee then calls upon the child's parents and in many instances suggests a course at the city's night schools, or makes an appointment with parents and child to call at the bureau, where full information regarding employment may be had. Especially worthy of note is the manner in which employers have responded to the opportunities of the bureau; in fact, during the past year inquiries from employers were more numerous than from children.

The scope of this work is by no means limited to children leaving school, and perhaps one of the most important phases of juvenile employment in Bradford is the reconstruction of the cases of those who are dissatisfied and unsuccessful in their positions. The children's clinic and the open-air schools are coordinate with the employment bureau, and by early diagnosis of defects and diseases, have obtained excellent results in the prevention and cure of disabilities and embryonic maladies. Numerous cases have been recommended to the juvenile board for open-air employment, and others are designated to report at intervals to the medical officer in charge.

Will You Read This Twice?

A very important question to-day which every housekeeper must decide for herself is whether she prefers pure, cream of tartar baking powder like Royal or whether she is willing to use baking powder made of inferior substitutes which do not add healthful qualities to the food.

One kind is easily distinguished from the other, since the laws of various States require the ingredients to be printed upon the label. If anyone is in doubt which kind is most healthful, it is worth while to ask the family doctor. Then decide.

And when once a decision is reached let no advertisement or dealer's argument or canvasser's solicitation change the decision. It is not a question of a few cents or of pleasing a salesman. It is a question of health.

If this appeals to you as reasonable and sensible advice, it is worth reading twice. And it is worth remembering.
