THE FASHIONS

New York, November 28, 1915. Christmas is in the air! We are reminded of its nearness at every street corner; even the most matter-of-fact among us must feel its spirit and anticipate its cheer. Safe and sane Christmas shopping has been preached for ages but, nevertheless, each year sees the same crowd in the shops, and hears the same question on every side "what shall I give for Christmas?" It is easily answered this year if the intended recipient is feminine. There are all sorts of wearables that may be laid at the dainty maid's door on Christmas morning to be received with little exclamations of delight.

The Shopper's Costume

If one has time to tarry a moment or two at the main entrance of one of the big shops on one of these busy afternoons, they will have a revelation in clothes. Serge runs in the matter of suits and simple frocks; furs are much in evidence and never have we had a season when they were so becoming and so much within the reach of all pocketbooks. There are wide soft collars and cuffs; small round muffs, and any number of other accessories which may be made at home if desired, and added to the suit of serge to enhance its charm and style. Scarcely a suit or frock, passing in its softness. The flare is the thing on collars, cuffs, tunics, coat edges and skirt hems. On many of the rippling coats and skirts, tape holds the ripples gracefully in place; this tape is arranged around the lower edge of the lining and is in the same color; oftentimes too, a narrow taffeta or picot-edged ribbon is used instead of tape.

In the Way of Sleeves

There is the leg-o'-mutton, the gauntlet sleeve, in many variations, the bell-sleeve, the angel sleeve, and the sleeve gathered at armhole and wrist. It is quite a novelty, the sleeve gathered into the armhole, and it is true to its old-time inspiration, even to the slight puff at the shoulder.

One of the most graceful sleeves of all is the gauntlet with wide, tight-fitting cuff, flaring slightly over the hand. The upmost hand in the world must gain in grace with such a cuff. The full gathered sleeves are particularly graceful and pretty in the transparent fabrics now so much favored for sleeves in all sorts of frocks.

The serge coat dress is a general favorite for shopping and street wear. A particularly chic model is made with long, pointed tunic, gauntlet sleeves, high collar and a novel surprise closing. Blue serge trimmed with small braid-covered buttons and loops and a wide band of Hercules braid edging the tunic is the most attractive combination.

The Charm of Hip Draperies

We have always admired the grace and delightfully feminine note in the puffed and panniered figures of Watteau and our own Colonial days; these have returned in the smart hip draperies, panniers and hoops of recent introduction. A soft satin, in dark tone, draped gracefully over the hips with wide loops suggestive of pockets, was trimmed with a bright, contrasting brocade very effectively; the costume was worn at a recent charity bazaar for a Christmas fund and received considerable attention be-and out on its Christmas mission, but shows this touch of fur; braid, too, is having its day on tunic and coat; one cannot but remark the wonderful variety in collars and sleeves. The majority of the suits show the high collar, and many of the dresses, too, although one often glimpses beneath top-coat, and suit-coat, a dainty sheer blouse of crepe de Chine or crepe Georgette with open throat, dainty in

MORE ABOUT ROADS

Farm Paper Gathers Interesting Statistics about Hard Surface

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside is an article on concrete roads from which we gather that a high grade macadam seldom costing more than $30 a mile for upkeep expenses is a pleasant reality.

"Concrete roads built in the United States during 1914 cost on the average $11,921 a mile of 16-foot width. One hundred and forty-four concrete roads built during the twenty years previous to 1914 cost $12,766 a mile of 16-foot width. Most concrete roads are 16 feet wide.

"Upkeep and repair charges have been less than $25 a year for a concrete road built in Bellefontaine, Ohio, more than twenty years ago. The yearly maintenance of the 51 miles of concrete roads in Wayne County, Michigan, costs $28.43 a mile. It costs $13.92 a year to keep up a concrete road at Spencer, Mass.

"Concrete roads are not affected by the weather, traffic, or mud or trash tracked upon them, as is the case with some improved roads. Freezing and thawing have no effect on them if properly constructed. Heat does not soften them, nor cold make them brittle. Concrete increases in strength with age.

"Wayne County, Michigan, has the most remarkable system of concrete roads in the United States. This system was begun seven years ago. The value of the abutting farm land has been doubled in some instances, and all land has increased in value because of concrete roads."

Recommended for Croup

Coughs, colds, croup, hoarseness, inflamed throat, bronchial troubles or sore chest are relieved by Foley's Honey and Tar which opens stopped air passages, soothes and heals inflamed surface, and restores normal breathing. W. C. Allen, Boseley, Mo., says: "I have raised a family of four children and used Foley's Honey and Tar with all of them. I find it the best cough and croup medicine I ever used. I used it for eight or ten years and can recommend it for croup."—Jones Drug Co.

SOMETHING WRONG

Red Cross Seal Publicity Contradicts Itself Quite Badly

The Courier has received a batch of "publicity dope" from organizations which appear to be desirous of boosting the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. Part of the publicity says that the money derived from the sale of the seals will be used to aid in Red Cross work on the European battlefields; and part of the publicity stuff says that none of the money will be sent to Europe, but that all will be used to fight tuberculosis in the United States. Aside from the fact that this publicity contradicts itself, the Courier is not disposed to use it because it doesn't believe that the funds derived from recent Red Cross Seal sales in Oregon have been rightfully dispensed.

Portland papers recently contained interesting stories detailing the manner in which funds raised by this method two years ago were allowed to lie idle in banks. Aside from this, only a small percent of the money paid for these "seals" is dispensed locally, even when it is spent at all. The Courier realizes that there is a great need of funds to combat tuberculosis; but it thinks these funds can be raised in better ways than by the annual hysteria over Red Cross Seals. So this is about all the publicity that the Red Cross Seal campaign is going to get in these columns.

HOW TO GET GOPHERS

Idaho Man Offers Advice to Farmers Bothered with Diggers

Editor, Courier:—Reading in your columns recently that one of your readers wished to learn how to catch gophers, I am offering some personal experiences.

When I was down in the valley I used a small steel trap, digging a little place so I could set my trap crossways of the runway with the treddle in the center and level with the bottom of the hole. Then I used a little board to cover the trap up dark; being careful not to use my fingers to dig with.

Here in Idaho we have the best luck with the "California 44 Pocket Gopher Trap." It is a box-like trap with one end and bottom out, and a little hole in the other end. Take a shovel and cut out just to the edge of the hole, open the hole up with a stick, place open end of the trap there so the gopher can come in. Cover clear to the top of the hole and your gopher will come to the peep hole, which must be left open. Remember that you must set your trap.

Has the petticoat returned in all its old-time fluffiness and rustle, to add to the bouffancy and charm of the full skirt, or have the dainty pantaloons, introduced quietly and cautiously at the beginning of the season, entirely usurped its place in the hearts of well dressed women? One must admit that the soft, frilly pantaloons, or trouser-petticoat, is delightfully practical as well as fascinating. The full skirt may billow and blow in the wind to its heart's content with no affront to modesty. These pantaloons petticoats when worn with the tailored skirt or frock are usually in the same tone as the costume, trimmed with self ruffles, corded, fringed or pleated. For evening wear, of course, they are sheer, of chiffon-cloth, crepe or net, lace trimmed and frilly.

WHERE THEY GO

Railroad Men Who Get Militant Seem to Favor the Marine Corps

Eight hundred and thirteen railroaders, including brakemen, conductors, engineers, firemen and switchmen, have enlisted in the United States Marine Corps during the fiscal years of 1913, 1914 and 1915, according to the tri-annual statement of recruiting just made public.

During the occupation of Vera Cruz by American Marines in April, 1914, war correspondents were amazed at the efficiency shown by our sea soldiers in repairing and operating the line outside the city that had been torn up by the Mexicans, but the answer is found in the fact that almost one of ten marines is a railroader.

But be that as it may, Uncle Sam would like to know why the railroader seeks service with the oldest and smallest branch of his military arm. It has been suggested that the men who follow the rail are naturally adventurous, seeking excitement and danger, and it is believed that the Marine's service on both land and sea satisfies that craving.

FARM BOYS ARE HEROES

Many Carnegie Medals Given to Country Youths for Bravery

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside is an interesting article on the medal winners of the Carnegie Hero Fund.

"Since the Carnegie Hero Fund was established," we read, "medals have been awarded to eighty-nine farmers for deeds of bravery. Seventy-eight railroad men—including conductors, brakemen, engineers, switchmen, flagmen, yardmen, and all branches of the trade—have been decorated, while the count for miners—engaged in one of the most hazardous of all employments—is but sixty-five, and for those who follow the sea—including fishermen, sailors, deck hands, and so on—is but forty-seven. No other calling has made nearly so good a showing as farming."

"The surprising things which the record disclosed is that many of the farmer heroes are boys."

TWO MORE SUITS

Northwestern Association Taken Into Court Twice in One Day

The Northwestern Association, of which Jesse Hazzel is the prime mover, was sued twice last Saturday, papers in that number of actions being filed with the county clerk. Hazzel has recently filed a petition in bankruptcy, in which he admits general liabilities of about $115,000, with no particular assets.

Max Glutsch, of Molalla, who is a contract holder in the association, filed a suit asking that the court appoint a receiver for the company. Dimick & Dimick, Will Mulvey and W. O. Eastham are his attorneys.

Bertha Smith is the plaintiff in the other action. She seeks to foreclose on a $1100 mortgage with two years interest. B. N. Hicks is her attorney.

The Northwestern association owns over 200 acres of farm lands in the Redland district and an attempt has been made to sell the property in small tracts on installments.

GOATS HELP WEST

Angoras of Today Tackle Places Vacated by Former Pioneers

"Angora goats are helping to solve the problem of clearing the three million acres of logged-off lands in western Oregon and western Washington," says the current issue of Farm and Fireside. "Goats charge nothing for their services, and they furnish meat and mohair, for which there is a demand at good prices."

"Angoras thrive everywhere, except in the lodge room and the comic supplement, where they have never been able to supplant the Irishman's goat, which is supposed to live largely on gum overshoes and tin cans. The pure-bred Angora is quite a different creature, being covered with a beautiful coat of long, wavy hair, which has the sheen and luster of silk."

"When it comes to foraging and picking up a good living where any other animal would starve, the pure-bred Angora is the equal of any scrub billy that ever butted his way through an unsympathetic world."

"Kentucky Sue"

Richardson & Talbert are bringing to this city a capable dramatic company and will open in the Shively Opera House on December 6th with "Kentucky Sue," a play full of heart interest, at times provoking roars of laughter and then again a few tears. A play that is well balanced with all the requirements for a smooth, intensely interesting evening's entertainment.

It is a story of a mountaineer girl who is loved by a good hearted mountaineer boy, but a city chap comes along and wins the girl's love and takes her to the city with him and she is out of her natural environment and, of course, there is no harmony in their household and she finally returns to her own kind but still loving her city husband, who later sees his mistake and forgoes his people and they are reconciled again out in the mountains. A beautiful, romantic story is written around this plot and the comedy is some of the richest that is seen in any play. This play runs for three evenings and is followed by "The Captain and the Lady," a strong play of city life.

There will be no reserved seats and the price of admittance will be—Adults, 15c and Children, 10c.

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.
When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K. C. the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before,
put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins
2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded tea-spoonfuls K. C. Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful salt; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.
Mix dry ingredients together three times.
Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins.
Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins
1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry
flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K. C. Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level tablespoonfuls sugar;
1 teaspoonful salt; 1 egg; 1 cup milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoonfuls melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins.
Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins.
To get 83 other recipes as good as these,
send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K. C. Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs.
Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jacques Mfg. Co., Chicago.
