

Oregon City Voters of Moderate Means Vote 104-X-Yes

DEC. 6, 1915

WHY?

Because if you don't, warrant holders are going to sue us for their money all at once, and the courts will make you pay your share of the city debt forthwith.

Because we have pure water, improved streets, sewer, free elevator, good health and the best little city in the state.

Because no adequate provision has been made to pay for the city's share of streets and sewers.

This is Pay Day--Get Busy and Vote!

Vote 104-X-Yes, so the man of moderate means can have 20 yearly installments to meet his portion of our debt. Vote 104-X-Yes, to compel the Mayor and Council to live within the budget or be subject to heavy penalties. Vote 104-X-Yes, and the city will borrow money at 5 percent instead of 6 per cent as we are now paying--This Is Good Business. Vote 104-X-Yes, and the city can pay in cash instead of 6 per cent Warrants, which hereafter are bound to be discounted if they sell at all. Vote 104-X-Yes, for practically all of the merchants, business and professional men and women and men of moderate means, who study and know our financial condition say it is the thing to do--it therefor must be right!

The Courier has received a letter from the Industrial Welfare Commission relative to methods by which the life of women employed in stores may be made easier, and suggesting ways in which a better feeling all round can be built up between merchants and the general public. Part of the letter read as follows:

Editor, Courier:—Accently Miss Bertha Moores who represents women and minor employees on the Industrial Welfare Commission of the State, and the writer visited fourteen towns in different sections of the State and called at practically all of the establishments employing women and minors for the purpose of inquiring into the operation of the minimum wage and limitation of hour rulings which have been promulgated during the past two years by this Commission. We wished to learn whether the employers found difficulty in complying with the law, what the effect of the law had been on the working conditions of the women employees, how the latter regarded the law and to discover and correct any violations or abuses of it.

The most frequent complaint which we heard from the employers concerning their difficulties in complying with the law came from the merchants who protested against the lack of co-operation from the shopping public, especially the women. The latest hour at which a merchant in the towns of the state, other than Portland, may employ women in his establishment is 8:30 p. m., (in Portland this is 6 p. m.) Many merchants say that they approve this provision of the Commission's Rulings because it shortens their own and their men employees' working day. In a number of the towns however, the moving picture houses run one show from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., and a second show from 8:30 p. m. to 10:00 p. m. The county shoppers and the working people for whom the stores are expressly kept open on Saturday nights, come, it is claimed, to the first show, that is from seventy to eighty-three, and then just when the women clerks must go home, these late customers flood the stores demanding service. There is no reason why this shopping could not be accomplished from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., and the show enjoyed from 8:30 p. m. until 10 p. m.

The Liberty Bell reached its home in Philadelphia on Thanksgiving. Very appropriately the citizens of the City of Brotherly Love gave thanks.

Now Tacoma gets into the lime-light again with a man who says he knows about German plots to destroy shipping. It is easy to get on the front page of some newspapers these days.

REMARKS BY MEREDITH

Rain water for sale.
Our foreign consuls should find a market.
They can advertise the fact that it can be bought in Oregon City.

Our paper mills are capitalized at fourteen million and now we wonder what they are assessed at.

Our state has a fund of $237,000 for roads. How much did Clackamas county get for her share? Ask your $25,000 state highway commission, who favor putting the people in bondage.

The supreme court has decided several months ago that the Southern Pacific owned $2.50 per acre in the O. & C. Land Grant. A lot of back taxes are due on this land. What is our county court going to do about it?

Farmers are much interested in our county budget, and they will be surprised to find so little to whittle off and retain the present system. The present plan of state and county government is very expensive and instead of being a blessing to the people has gradually become a heavy burden on the taxpayers.

Our national government costs us eleven hundred million every year. Our railroads make a clear profit on watered stock and all after deducting for depreciation and overhead charges of an equal amount, and I think I am safe in saying that the banks of this country charge us several times eleven hundred million for the use of our own credit. Farmers must get interested in their budgets also.

The supreme court of the U. S. gave our congress until January 7th to dispose of the Oregon-California railroad land, and if congress failed to act by that time we know not what is to become of these 2,400,000 acres, but we think the railroad should pay back taxes on $2.50 per acre valuation, and if the railroad refuses for our county officials to proceed to sell the land the same as if it belonged to farmers.

President Wilson has signed up for a larger army and a larger navy, but he signed for only half of what the jingoes wanted. I have studied a long time to find out what we needed a large navy and army for and it has just reached my consciousness. We must have it to guard the crippled and graveyards of Europe to prevent them from attracting our Oregon Naval Militia.

We are to have a Land and Loan measure to come before the people for our approval, and the voters should become familiar with its proposed ways and means to better our conditions.

DEEP STORY, THIS

Marine Terms Sprout out All Through Novel Tale About Youth

Fearing that his runaway son would carry out an often expressed desire to enlist in the United States Marine Corps, Morris Kanue, of Leopold, West Virginia, has written to the Pittsburgh recruiting office of the "sea soldiers" as follows:

"U. S. Marine Corps, Pittsburgh, Pa.
"I hereby warn you not to employ or hire my son, Anthony Kanue, as a submarine of the Navy. He has run away from home and I think he has gone to Pittsburgh to enlist. He is only 17 years old, in proof of which I am only 39 myself. If he comes there while him within an inch of his life and send him back to me.
His father,
MORRIS KANUE."

Sergeant Michael DeBoo, in charge of the Pittsburgh recruiting office of the United States Marine Corps, has assured the anxious parent that the boy will not be enlisted should he apply, but that "whaling" him is out of the question, and the father should "paddle his own Kanue."

The taxpayers, instead of the taxpayers, should take charge of governmental affairs in Oregon or be shackled and chained to a wall of taxation that will prohibit prosperity with the working people.

The cost of loaning the school fund of Oregon is less than one percent. If Oregon can loan money with so low cost our U. S. government could do even better still.

The government loans to bankers at two percent and could loan to farmers in small or large amounts for the same money with even better security. If we are to have rural credit why not have a good system for the farmer?

BUY AT HOME STUFF

This Story was Confided to us by One of the Best Local Boosters

"It's funny how one's best intentions fail sometimes," said an Oregon City businessman the other day. "Take my store, for instance. We are boosting the trade at home idea all we can. The other day a man came into my store, shopped around and finally went out. I met him at the door and asked him if he was satisfied. He said he guessed he was. I noticed he didn't have any packages under his arm, so I asked him if he had secured everything he wanted. He looked at me a minute, and then answered slowly that he had a pair of shoes he'd like to exchange for the next size larger.

"I told him to show 'em to me, and he stepped out to his wagon and brought in a pair of rubber boots. I looked them over and saw they were Sears-Roebuck goods, and I told him that he couldn't expect me to change them, that he'd have to send them back to the mail order house where he got them. Then I thought I saw an opening for a little sermon, so I began to preach buy-it-at-home to him, told him how easy it would have been to exchange his boots if he'd bought them of me, and all that sort of stuff, and wound up by telling him how we always tried to accommodate our customers and do them any favors that we could.

"Well, the man listened to me, and then he walked over to the wrapping desk and picked up a parcel that would just about comfortably fill his wagon, and threw down a handful of gold and silver in payment for it. Then he turned to me:

"I just bought twenty-nine dollars worth of stuff here," he said, "and I thought that maybe on that account you'd trade these rubber boots in. But since you won't, well, good-day." "And he walked out. Now I'd have changed those boots in a minute if I'd known how much he bought in my place, and stood the loss. We want to be accommodating—but you see I thought he was just trying to palm off some mail-order boots on me. It doesn't always pay to preach, does it?"

"SOMEBODY SLIPPED"

Molalla Egg Market Invaded by Pickled Product, It Seems

Some farmer has been running pickled eggs on the merchants for fresh eggs. It has resulted in a loss to them as they passed through the local candler and were detected after being shipped to Seattle with the result that there was a serious loss in the shipment.

Under the provisions of the pure food law the merchant as well as the farmer offering lined or pickled eggs as fresh eggs are liable to severe penalties. It is no joke to run counter to the federal pure food law and the practice should be stopped. The merchants are on the outlook for the persons putting these eggs on the market.

The pure food laws are especially valuable to the farmer as they prevent cold storage eggs or imported eggs being marketed as fresh, thus coming into equal competition with the fresh article. It is strange that farmers should violate the very law that is worth so much to them as a protection.—(Molalla Pioneer.)

OREGON USES WOOD

Forest Service Report Shows State Absorbs Much of Its Timber

Over a million and a quarter board feet of wood is used annually in the mines of Oregon for props, lagging, ties, and rattle boxes.

Oregon consumes 536 board feet of lumber per capita annually. In 1914 in the construction of ships and boats at the ship building yards of Oregon and Washington, nearly 13,000,000 board feet of high grade lumber and timbers were consumed. Australian frontbars contributed 35,000 board feet to this total.

To repair the spokes, tongues, and reaches of broken wagons, the blacksmiths and wheelwrights of the towns and cities of Oregon and Washington used over 400,000 board feet of oak, ash, hickory, etc. The average cost per thousand board feet of this raw material was over one hundred dollars.

YET ONCE AGAIN

Occasional Correspondent Has Another Outburst of Ideas

Editor, Courier:—I see by the daily papers that the park authorities in San Francisco are reported to have refused permission to erect a statue of Jesus Christ in Golden Gate park, on the grounds that the park is public property, and that nothing of religious significance should be therein foisted upon the people.

Somehow one hardly expects this from San Francisco, of all places. And one is also led to marvel at the action of the park authorities. I am not overly well acquainted in the city by the Golden Gate, but I suppose that in common with other cities, its parks are decorated with classical statues of Diana of the Chase, and possibly of Mercury, and maybe with a marble or plaster replica of Apollo Belvidere. If such is the case—and I surmise that it, for American cities have a fondness for classic art—I wonder why the park board drew the line at Jesus?

Is there any more religious significance in a statue of the Carpenter of Gagglee than there is in a statue of some deity of a bygone age? Is there anything strictly sectarian about the Man of Sorrows, who is honored by about 25 percent of the world's population? Is there any sense at all, on any grounds, of barring a statue of the Christ?

Back in Boston, which is a city in Massachusetts, they have in two of the public parks statues of noted ministers. And Boston was glad to get these memorials. Nobody has yet offered a statue of Christ to Boston; but if such an offer was made I presume it would be accepted in the same spirit it was offered.

Now that San Francisco has drawn the municipal line at Jesus as a park ornament, I wonder what will be the next "limit" of this marvelous city. It strikes me that this action of the California park authorities is so very ridiculous that it merits comment—even comment from such a pen as mine. And if you think this commentary worth printing, I hope you will permit me to sign it, as usual,

Strong and Well As Ever

Fred Smith, 325 Main St., Green Bay, Wis., says: "I suffered a long time with a very weak back. Foley Kidney Pills completely relieved me of all soreness and pain and I now am as strong and well as ever." Winter aggravates symptoms of kidney trouble; cold weather makes aching joints, sore muscles, and irregular bladder action more unbearable. Foley Kidney Pills help the kidneys eliminate pain-causing poisons.—Jones Drug Co.
