CARVER LINE RUNNING

Schedule of Two Trains a Day Maintained for the Present

Regular service on the Portland & Oregon City railway, more popularly known as the Carver line, has been inaugurated, and two trains each way daily are sent over the line from Carver Station, the present end of the road, to the transfer point with the Estacada line of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company. Trains leave the transfer point outbound at nine in the morning and four in the afternoon, and leave Milwaukie at 9:10 and 4:10 p. m.

Returning the trains leave the end of the line about an hour later. Stops are made at any point desired on the present extent of the line, which enables farmers to take the train at their front gate. Considerable patronage has already been developed, and much freight and cordwood has been hauled. Extension of the line continues.

JAMES MOFFATT DIES

Well Known Stockman Passes Away at Oregon City Hospital

James Moffatt, 58 years of age, and formerly a resident of this county, died Monday at the Oregon City hospital, whither he had been brought by his brother, J. W. Moffatt, of the Oregon Engineering & Construction company. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Moffatt was for some time employee of the Willamette mills, and about 15 years ago moved to Idaho, where he took up stock raising. Paralysis threatened him some months ago, and his brother went to Forest, Idaho, and brought him to Oregon City for treatment. Soon after his arrival here his trouble grew rapidly worse, and death resulted. He was unmarried.

JITNEY LUNCHES NOW

High School Pupils Provided with Good Meals for Nickel

Children attending the county seat high school wont have to take their lunches with them any more unless they want to. The school directors have given permission to Mrs. Wilcox to sell nickel lunches in the building. The lunches so provided will be wholesome and satisfying, and will be similar to "jitney" lunches sold in Portland and other schools.

In granting permission to Mrs. Wilcox to serve five-cent lunches the school directors insisted on but one thing—that the plan must be entirely self-supporting. If Mrs. Wilcox is unable to make both ends meet by the end of the school year, she will have to pay her own losses, as the school board has announced beforehand that they will make up no deficit.

Robbery Is Reported
