

MUCH PRIVATE LAND

Forest Reserves Dotted with Many Private Homestead Claims

Within the national forest boundaries are some twenty-one million acres in private ownership, consisting of lands granted or taken up for different purposes before the forests were created or of homestead entries made since. In Oregon there are about two and a half million acres of such lands within the national forest boundaries, and in Washington nearly two million acres.

Mineral lands within the national forests are governed by the same public land laws as such lands outside the forests. More than 500 mineral claims were patented within the national forests of the United States during the fiscal year 1915.

Of the 10,905 timber sales made on the national forests of the United States during the last fiscal year, 10,621 were for amounts under $100 each. In the forests of Alaska there were 290 such sales, in Oregon 724, and in Washington 122, making a total of 1,136 sales under $100 each. In the Northwest forests, there were also six large sales ranging from $11,000 to over $1,000,000.

SEVERE "REP" GIVEN

Molalla Youths Charged with Giving Booze to Minors "Up"

After being found guilty by a jury, Oscar Johnson and Alfred Wall went up before Judge Campbell for sentence Saturday morning. The charge upon which the two were tried was giving liquor to minors, and testimony was brought out during the hearing of the case that shed considerable light upon some of the "jinks" pulled off at recent Molalla dances.

Judge Campbell gave the two young men one of the most scorching reprimands that has been heard in the circuit courtroom for some time, and finally paroled them, with the warning that any further complaints against them would result in heavy sentences.

The prosecution of the case grew out of complaints published in the Molalla Pioneer regarding the freedom with which liquor was to be obtained at dances held near the interior town.

BELOVED WOMAN DIES

Mrs. McNulty Passes Away at Her Home in Oregon City

Mrs. J. W. McNulty, the wife of J. W. McNulty, one of the most highly regarded women of her community, died last Friday evening at her home at 908 John Adams street, Oregon City. At her bedside when the end came were her husband and members of her family. The funeral was held Monday of this week, and was attended by many sorrowing relatives and friends.

Mrs. McNulty—Louisa A. Morris—was born at Morristown, Rice county, Minnesota; and was married to Mr. McNulty at Fairbault, Minn., April 17, 1879. She moved to Oregon City in 1891, and has resided here ever since. She was a member of St. John's Catholic church, from which edifice the funeral was held.

Aside from Mr. McNulty, she is survived by three sons, James, Frank and Arthur; and four daughters, Mrs. John Wells, of The Dalles, Mrs. C. R. Lindsey and the Misses Eva and Viola McNulty, of Oregon City. There are also six grandchildren who mourn her departure.

CLACKAMAS PORK HELD

Portland Authorities Find Half Ton of Diseased Meat

Eleven hundred and ninety-five pounds of diseased pork were seized in Portland last week when a shipment of meat from A. Blatt, a Clackamas county stock raiser, was confiscated at Constantine's market by the city health officer. Diseased pork during the past week caused the death of four people in Portland, and seven other persons were stricken seriously ill from eating pork which was infected with "hog cholera."

Following the seizure by the Portland authorities the State Dairy & Food Commission was notified, and that body has ordered a searching investigation. "Hog cholera" is a contagious disease that spreads rapidly, and the finding signs of it in such a large shipment of pork leads the authorities to believe that drastic measures may have to be taken to stop its spread in the county and elsewhere. All hogs infected with it have to be killed.

NEW INDUSTRY FOUND

Canby Man Aiding Santa Claus to Make California Children Happy

Something in the way of a new industry is being carried on by W. H. Bair, produce and commission merchant. Mr. Bair has contracted to ship 21 cars of Christmas trees to California and has had a force of men busy for the last several weeks filling the order. The trees are being gathered and shipped from Canby, Aurora, Toledo, Wilsonville, Gaston, Oregon City, Clackamas and Brush Prairie, Wash. They are shipped for the most part, to a wholesale firm in Oakland and from there jobbed out to houses in San Francisco, Stockton, Los Angeles, Sacramento, and elsewhere over the state.

Mr. Bair shipped the first car load the latter part of November to San Francisco. There the trees were sorted out and graded and shipped by steamer to Honolulu for the Hawaiian children and also Americans living there to get their presents on Christmas morning, and to use in Christmas decorating.

Each car will hold an average of about 1500 small trees, so that Mr. Bair is supplying something over 30,000 Christmas trees. For the cutting of these he pays out a little over $3,000.—(Canby Herald.)

The exports of shingles from the United States in 1914 were approximately 47 million, valued at $112,463, and the imports were about 895 million valued at nearly three million dollars. Canada received more than 72 percent of the exports and was the source of about 98 percent of the imports.

The cedar imported into the United States during 1914 amounted to over 17 million feet, valued at nearly one million dollars, of which more than half came from Cuba.

Compared with other countries, the United States ranks first in the world's supply. The exports in 1914 were nearly 19 million gallons, valued at over eight million dollars.

The imports of pulp wood in 1914 were over one million cords, valued at over seven million dollars, all of which came from Canada.

Secret For Secret.

In the days of Louis XIV. even warriors banded epigrams with one another.

The Marechal de Grammont had taken a fortress by siege.

"I will tell you a secret," said its military governor after surrendering. "The reason of my capitulation was that I had no more powder."

"And, secret for secret," returned the marechal suavely, "the reason of my accepting it on such easy terms was that I had no more balls."

Fate of Fame's Candidates.

"I am the lady who owns a watch that is always correct. I wind it up every night and I never have to ask my husband what time it is. You may not believe it, but it's so."

"I am the grandfather who never mentions the fact that my grandchild is the smartest and best looking young one that ever lived."

"I am the utterly unconcerned person who doesn't care a single continental or Mexican dollar whether you print this or not."—Portland Express.

His Failing.

Chuggerton—How's your chauffeur? Carr—Had to fire him. He used to be a motorman. Chuggerton—Too reckless, eh? Carr—Reckless nothing! Why, I couldn't break the fellow of the habit of slowing up at crossings!—Puck.

Swedish Service

Swedish service will be held in the Methodist church in Oregon City next Sunday, Dec. 19 at 3 o'clock p. m. All Scandinavians are most cordially invited to attend.—John Oval, Minister.

Wonder what alibi the Portland Chamber of Commerce will spring to explain how that million railroad ties went to Washington mills?

If the highschool can furnish lunches for a nickel, what's the matter with some of our chop-houses?
