

The Last Christmas News from Huntleys'

TODAY Comes a belated shipment of Holiday Stationery from New York. It was shipped via Panama, held up by the Canal slide, and then sent on around by the Straits of Magellan. It's Eaton, Crane & Pike goods--the best made. To insure its moving in the limited time left, we have made the prices especially low.

We have too many high priced silk umbrellas. To sell them all before Christmas we have cut the prices from 1-3 to 1-2.

We also wish to close out our line of enamelled cooking ware, generally known as Casseroles. Prices reduced about 1-3.

To close out the odds and ends that are always in stock as varied as ours, we have started a bargain table and a bargain window. We promise you that every article on this bargain table or in the bargain window will be not over 1-2 the original Price. Often it will be 1-4 to 1-3 the marked price. Some 75c articles are now priced as low as 10c.

Don't let lack of ready money stand in the way of that Victrola for Christmas. Pay $1, $2 or $5 down, depending on the price of the instrument selected, and then pay the balance in easy monthly payments commencing in January. But don't put it off--our stock is limited.

NOW HE HAS REAL MONEY

Cubans Appear To Like "Made In America" New Coinage

The transfer of the monetary system of Cuba from the former condition where there was no national coinage to the use of the new money of the Republic has been effected without causing a ripple on the surface of business, and good results are already being noted.

Formerly Spanish, French, United States, and small quantities of other moneys circulated indiscriminately. On nearly every prominent corner in Cuban cities, and especially in Havana, in news, cigar, and lottery-ticket stands were money changers who did a thriving business out of the wide confusion of values. Many abuses and inconveniences arose from the condition of affairs. Banks and business houses had to keep their accounts in three moneys--Spanish, French and American--and the values of the various coins were constant causes of misunderstandings and a detriment to commerce generally.

Cuba arranged for money of its own, the banks cooperating, and the minting has been done in the United States. A presidential decree of September 11 forbade the use of other than Cuban and American money after December 1. It had the effect of immediately waking the people up to the imminence of the change, and there was a rush to unload accumulations of French and Spanish gold and silver.

The Cuban money consists of gold, silver and nickel coins. It is estimated that by January there will be more than $12,000,000 of this money in circulation. It is on an absolute parity with the money of the United States, and as yet there is possibly more American money in trade channels than Cuban. It is forbidden to take or ship the national money out of the country. No bills have been issued. Some factions of the business and political world favor the issuance of bills direct by the National Treasury; others are equally strong for a national bank of issue. This is a matter yet to be determined and upon which there exists a sharp diversity of opinion. Meanwhile American notes are the only ones to be had. The supply is apparently adequate.

The Cuban gold coins are $20, $10, and $5, bearing on one side, in relief, the head of Jose Marti and on the other the coat of arms of Cuba half encircled by laurel wreaths. On one side the coin bears the inscription "Patria y Libertad" and the date, and on the other, "Republica de Cuba" and the denomination. Each coin is marked with its fineness. The coins are exceedingly artistic and handsome. The $5 piece has sprung into great favor and is already known colloquially as the "Marti."

The money is upon the same system as that of the United States, and the dollar sign is used to designate it. The peso, or silver dollar, equals 100 centavos. Instead of a 50-centavo piece, there is the "cuarenta," or 40-centavo coin, the "veinte," or 20-centavo; and the silver 10-centavo piece. There are nickel 5-centavo pieces, and a 2-centavo coin and a 1-centavo coin of nickel. The silver currency bears the coat of arms of Cuba on one side and a five-pointed star surrounded by rays on the other.

TROUBLE WITH CORN

Poor Seed Responsible for Much Wasted Labor and Money

"Corn ten feet high and not a single mature ear--a year's labor lost." These, writes an Oregon farmer to R. D. Hetzel, Extension director, are the results secured by purchasing shelled yellow dent seed corn in the public markets. "I have been raising corn the past three years and the only drawback I find is getting the right kind of seed," continues the letter. "In passing a seed store I noticed some extra fine specimens of yellow dent ears and asked to buy one or more of them. I was told that the ears could not be spared but that the same identical corn was carried shelled in stock. So I purchased some, planted it in good soil and gave it extra care. Now what I want to know is will you sell me five or six good ears of College Minnesota No. 23--I would like to get the genuine for a start. I also find the college bulletin, 'Corn in Oregon,' very interesting and instructive."

MORE ABOUT EGGS

Canada Begins to Worry, and Provides Rules for Hen Product, Too

The Canadian Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has provided standards in three general classes for eggs--"fresh gathered," "storage," and "cracked and dirties."

Four grades are provided in the first class, three in second, and two in the third. In the "fresh-gathered" class are "specials," "extras," No. 1's, and No. 2's. The grade "specials" is omitted from the "storage" class and both specials and extras from the class for "cracked and dirties." Specials, according to all standards, are eggs of uniform size weighing over 24 ounces to the dozen or over 45 pounds net to the 30-dozen case; absolutely clean, strong, and round in shell; air cell small (not over three-sixteenths of an inch in depth), white of egg firm and clear, yolk dimly visible; free from blood clots.

"Extras" are eggs of good size, weighing at least 24 ounces to the dozen or 45 pounds net to the 30-dozen case; clean, sound in shell; air cell less than three-eighths of an inch in depth, with white of egg firm and yolk slightly visible.

"No. 1's" are eggs weighing at least 23 ounces to the dozen or 43 pounds net to the 30-dozen case; clean, sound in shell; air cells less than one-half inch in depth; white of egg reasonably firm, yolk visible but mobile, not stuck to the shell or seriously out of place.

"No. 2's" are eggs clean, sound in shell; may contain weak and watery eggs and eggs with heavy yolks, and all other eggs sound in shell and fit for food.

This is the time of the year when the average man curses neckties and Christmas cigars.

NEW MAP INVENTED

United States Airmen to Have Advantage of New System

A portable military and naval topographical map for use of air scouts in the field, and which will enable them to make quick and realistic reports of observations, has been invented by Gunnery Sergeant Herman G. Strascheim of the United States Marine Corps.

Worm gearing, operated by telescopic thumb screws from the sides of the map, will create elevations and depressions therein, showing terrain, contours of valleys, bodies of water, etc., and should make the aviator's report clear to the newest man in the field of operations, Strascheim claims.

The map will be very light though strongly built, and it is thought by many military men that one of the great problems confronting aviators in the field--speed and accuracy in observation description--will have been overcome by the use of the Marine sergeant's invention.

Gunnery Sergeant Strascheim is on duty at the headquarters of the United States Marine Corps in Washington, D. C.
