

LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Dallas, prominent residents of Clackamas county, have taken up their temporary residence at Gladstone, Mr. Dallas being employed at the Northwest Steel company's plant in Portland. Mr. Dallas is one of the well-known farmers of Damascus, and after having put in his crops, and these in prosperous condition, accepted a position with the steel company. Mr. and Mrs. Dallas make trips to their farm a number of times a week to look after their interests, and are occupying the cabin of Mrs. Dallas' sons, for a few months. These boys, S. H. and John D. Rankin, are in the service, S. H. Rankin being with the Medical Replacement company No. 46, at Vichy, France, and John D., who enlisted two years ago, is with the U. S. Naval hospital at Hawaii. The horses at the Dallas farm have been taken to Eastern Oregon by another son, Roy, where they are being used in putting the ground into shape for spring sowing. The wheat on the Dallas farm now stand knee-high, and is considered the finest so far in the county.

W. E. Frazier, a prominent stockman of Clackamas county, whose farm is located in the Viola country, was in Oregon City the first of the week. Mr. Frazier is engaged in breeding sheep. On his farm are found half-breed Hampshire, Shropshire and mixed valley sheep. From 70 ewes this year he has 74 sheep, several of the ewes having twins, and some of these lambs are among the finest that have been raised in Clackamas county this year. During Easter week Mr. Frazier sold 45 head of lambs, each of which brought $9.75. He expects to dispose of a large part of the older sheep this fall, and next spring purchase more. Mr. Frazier's little nine-year-old son, Edwin Frazier, sold one of his lambs a few days ago, which brought $12.75. This lamb arrived at the Frazier farm January 8th, and sold April 17, which is considered a pretty good price for a lamb of that age.

First Sergeant LeRoy Porter, who has been in France with the 31st Aero Squadron, and recently arrived in Portland, was in Oregon City Tuesday evening. He was accompanied by his cousin, Roy Watts, who has been with the 13th Aero Squadron stationed in France. While here the young men were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mayville, of Canemah, Mrs. Mayville being an aunt of Sergeant Porter. Also at the Mayville home were Sergeant Porter's mother, Mrs. Clara Porter, and his sister, Miss Alta Porter, who have come to Portland from Fairbanks, Alaska, to make their home. Mrs. R. W. Porter, grandmother of the young soldier, whose home is at Gladstone, was also at this family gathering. One of the features of the reunion was a dinner, and the Mayville home prettily decorated for the occasion.

Charles Wallace, who has been spending a furlough with his mother, Mrs. W. A. Henderson of Melrum, left for Quantico, Virginia, Tuesday morning, and from there will go to Washington, D. C., where he will undergo a surgical operation on his arm. Charles Wallace was among the heroes of Clackamas county, who received wounds in the battle of Champagne, France. Wallace was in some of the hardest-fought battles, and many times he has been over the top. He was with the 76th Company Sixth Marines. Wallace has a host of friends in this city, whom he visited before leaving for the East. He was a student of the Oregon City high school when entering the service, and was one of the most popular boys attending the institution.

John Scherzinger of this city, has received word from his son, Joseph Scherzinger, a well-known Oregon City boy, saying that he had arrived safely from overseas service, and would probably receive his honorable discharge at Camp Fremont, California. He was employed at Redondo Beach, California, when entering the service he was visiting his home in this city. He was a member of Company C, 36th U. S. Infantry. Scherzinger has been in France most of the time since arriving across the sea. During his absence the young man's mother, the late Mrs. John Scherzinger, passed away, the young man receiving word to that effect shortly before sailing for home. He expects to arrive here within a week or two.

George Armstrong and wife, of Redland, were in Oregon City Monday. Mr. Armstrong came here to arrange for a meeting to be held at Redland Wednesday evening, this to be in the form of a patriotic and road meeting. Mr. Armstrong is again captain of the drive, and has been most successful as such in the former drives conducted in that part of the county. He is one of the most active farmers and fruitgrowers of that section of the county, and says the crops, both of fruit and grain are looking exceptionally fine.

Miss Lorraine Lee, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lee of Canby, who is a student of the Washington high school, Portland, was in Oregon City Thursday evening on her way back to Portland. Miss Lee was among those attending the family reunion of the Knight family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Knight held in honor of Mr. Knight's 80th birthday anniversary. Miss Lee is the young vocalist, who has been heard on several occasions in this city, and who has many friends here.

Percy Ingalls, who is well known in Oregon City, where he made his home at Rose Farm, Mount Pleasant, for some time, was in Oregon City Thursday, where he visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stafford, of Mount Pleasant, and other friends at that place. Mr. Ingalls was on his way home to Amcondia, Montana, having recently arrived from overseas service. He was a member of the 160th Field Artillery and stationed in France. He has had much experience in the firing line. Mr. Ingalls left Thursday evening for his home.

P. M. Boyles of Molalla, was among those to transact business in this city Wednesday. Mr. Boyles is a representative of the Molalla Fire Clay company, and reports that work is progressing on the road leading to the mines from Molalla. This is one of the promising industries of Clackamas county, and much interest is being manifested in the new establishment to be erected in the near future. Mr. Boyles was somewhat proud while here, as he is now grandfather for the first time.

Otto Hogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hogg of this city, is among the Oregon City boys whose names appears in the list of young men arriving safely from overseas service Thursday. The young man has arrived in New York, and was with Company L, 361st Infantry. He has been in France for some time. This is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Hogg who has recently arrived from overseas. Another son is still with his company in the East, and expects soon to receive his honorable discharge.

Wednesday evening, the 60th anniversary of the Champege lodge, Masonic Order, of Canby, was observed at the Masonic hall in Canby. A most delightful time was spent, when one of the features of the evening was the addresses by the visiting members of other orders, and also the supper that was thoroughly enjoyed. Those going from this city were William Orth, Percy Caulfield, Mr. Brown, George Griffith and W. H. Congdon.

Floyd Davis, one of the well-known young men of Clackamas county, whose home is at Estacada, was in Oregon City Thursday. He has just recently returned from overseas service, arriving in the United States March 25. He was with the Casual company 348, and stationed at Angers, France, and sailed from Marseilles. He came through the Mediterranean sea, and received his honorable discharge at Camp Lewis.

Allen, the 14-year-old son of Mrs. Florence Kerr, of Redland, was brought to the Oregon City hospital Monday evening by his mother, and will undergo medical treatment. He is suffering from ulcers of the stomach, and may undergo an operation unless he improves. Mrs. Kerr will remain in Oregon City for a few days at her Oregon City home.

Hugh B. Fleming, formerly lieutenant in the aero service, stationed at Dayton, Ohio, returned to his home at Jennings Lodge, Thursday. Mr. Fleming was accompanied home by his wife and little son, four months old. Mr. Fleming had been recommended for a captain's commission, one week previous to the signing of the armistice.

H. N. Everhart of Molalla, prominent resident of that place, was among the Oregon City visitors Monday. Mr. Everhart was on his way home from Portland, where he had gone to see the flying circus. He accompanied his brother, County Assessor W. W. Everhart, to Molalla Monday evening.

Gifford Osborne and Roy Mattoon, who recently received their honorable discharges from the army, both of whom were members of the 162d Infantry band, and stationed in France, have gone to Bend, Oregon, where they have accepted positions with the geographical survey.

Mrs. Lydia Irwin of Barlow, was an Oregon City visitor Tuesday. Mrs. Irwin is one of the Red Cross workers of Barlow, and while here transacted business in connection with that organization. She also visited her daughter, formerly Miss Hattie Irwin.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Badger of Beaver Creek, were Oregon City visitors Wednesday. They are making plans to leave for an extended visit in Idaho and other states, having recently disposed of their dairy farm.

Shall We Mark Time?

Whenever a town reaches a point where the housing accommodations are insufficient to keep pace with its industrial growth it is time for the business interests and property owners, who depend upon the prosperity of the city for their own prosperity, to look the situation squarely in the face.

Oregon City is blessed with large manufacturing establishments, among them being the largest woolen mill in the west. During recent years the Jacobs concern has developed the manufacture of garments, until today that department of its factory provides employment for 200 people.

Not very long ago the Oregon City woolen mills embarked upon a campaign of national advertising, with the purpose of mind of marketing its products in every nook and corner of this great country.

The response has been so active that the company will soon face the alternative of manufacturing more garments to meet the demand or to refuse legitimate and profitable business.

Very naturally the concern wishes to develop, but it finds a condition locally where additional labor is so scarce that the growth incident to the demand is blocked, and this scarcity is said to be due to the fact that people cannot find houses to live in here.

Unless this condition is overcome, the company may have to build an auxiliary garment factory in Portland, where labor is comparatively plentiful, in which event Oregon City is simply marking time.

This town is not slow, we opine. The people of Oregon City are awake to the advantages offered them, and we invite their contemplation of this situation, with the hope and expectation that a remedy will be found.

The Commercial Club, through its Live Wire organization, could seek no better field for its endeavors than the one herein presented.

Ghosts In Moonlight
Fair Ladies Run
Boys Prove Heroes

Do ghosts hover near Multnomah Falls?

This is the question which was asked three well known young men of this city. The question was prompted from the fact that the son of a prominent minister, accompanied by his lady fair, saw a ghost sitting on a stump leading to one of the trails to Multnomah Falls.

Monday night was beautiful; the moon shone luxuriantly. Moons and automobiles are tempting things when girls are concerned. A trip was planned by our hero on the Columbia River Highway. Owing to certain unforeseen difficulties, the trip was delayed and it was necessary to view the greatness of the Falls from a distance. Trails are prevalent and trails are tempting. A side trip was taken up one of the trails. Girls are just naturally afraid of ghosts and sometimes young men are influenced unduly by the whims of their loved ones. Anyway, she saw a ghost and after much persuasion he also saw the self-same ghost.

No time was lost in reaching the automobile. The roads were good and the machine was in splendid running order. When running from a ghost, no speed can interfere. They reached Oregon City about 2 A. M. The story was related to friends of the young man and a party was straightway formed to go and hunt the ghost. The trip was planned for the same hour—the moon seemed to have been notified ahead of time and all was in order for a fair ghost-hunt. Of course the ghost had not been forewarned that four big huskies were coming upon him and he was wholly unprepared—but there he was. They stole upon him like death in the night and captured him white-handed. He was an old tree that had been blown down by the winds and bleached by the sun.

Mary Van Donge
Given Judgment

Mary Van Donge was given a decree Tuesday for $2,900.25 against A. B. Baker and wife, W. E. Joberg, John Kayler and Alice M. Kayler and Audrey and Edwin Baker.

The suit was over a note given to Martin Van Donge, deceased, with a mortgage to secure payment, and the property changed hands several times and plaintiff alleges taxes were not paid, which compelled her to pay them.

Judgment Given
On Note for $500

C. H. and Marie Steiner were given a judgment on a note for $500 and $75 attorney's fees in the circuit court Wednesday against A. L. and Anna Snidow, A. W. Estes, James W. Robertson, Herbert DeBok and J. Sprouse.

The note was given by the Snidows January 17, 1917, and a mortgage was given on property in Clackamas county to secure it. The property was afterwards sold to Estes and later to Robertson, who plaintiffs alleged assumed the mortgage. The property was ordered sold to satisfy the note.

OLD RESIDENT PASSES

George McCarver, better known as Esquire, passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. C. Babcock, Thirtieth and Washington, Wednesday night at 11:30 o'clock. No funeral arrangements have been made and will be announced later.

AMELIA JURANEK AND
FRED KREBS MARRIED
SATURDAY EVENING

Miss Amelia Juranek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Juranek, of this city, and Fred Krebs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krebs, of this city, were united in marriage at the Lutheran church Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Kraxberger.

The church was decorated with Easter lilies, spring blossoms and ferns.

The bride was attired in a tan blue traveling suit, and carried a shower bouquet of roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Annie Juranek, sister of the bride, was attired in navy blue, and carried roses. The best man was Edward Krebs, brother of the bridegroom.

Sunday a reception and wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by a few friends and relatives.

The rooms of the Juranek home were prettily decorated with ferns and flowers. The table, where a most elaborate dinner was served, was decorated with cut flowers.

Attending the reception and dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krebs and family, Rev. and Mrs. William Kraxberger and family, Mr. Euman, Harry Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Krebs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Juranek and family.

The bride is one of the well-known young women of this city, and came here with her parents three and one-half years ago from Wisconsin.

The bridegroom has been in the service for the past six months, and was with the Medical Corps stationed at Camp Lewis. He recently received his honorable discharge, and will resume his position with the Crown-Willamette Paper company.

DADDY'S EVENING
FAIRY TALE
BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

LAZY SNOW-STORM

"I don't feel like working hard today," said old King Snow.

"Let's rest every little while," said the snow flakes.

"Good idea, children," agreed old King Snow. "We'll do that."

So the snow came down to the earth so slowly and just as though it didn't want to rush or hurry or work.

"We're lazy today," said old King Snow, "but I suppose everything must feel lazy at times. I feel more like talking than working."

"Talk to us, King," said the snow flakes.

And then the snow storm stopped for awhile and everyone thought it was going to stop snowing for the rest of the day.

"Snow flakes," said old King Snow, "I saw a chickadee the other day, and I said, 'Little bird, how can you stand this weather?'"

"Well," said the chickadee, "I'm here because I want to make the people cheerful. I love to cheer them up. I don't want to make people live without as all winter you see."

"You're a cheerful little bird," I said. And then the chickadee sang such a cheery little song which went like this, "Chickadee, dee, dee, chickadee, dee, dee."

Old King Snow stopped talking then for a few moments and the snow flakes stopped listening and they all began to go on with the lazy snow storm.

"Little Bird, How Can You Stand This Weather?"

"This is the funniest snow storm the people have had in a good long time," said old King Snow. "They must think I'm feeling lazy today, all right."

"And they must think we're feeling lazy too," said the snow flakes.

They dropped to the earth very slowly, without any hurry or worry or scurry. And then, after awhile, the snow flakes said, "Dear old King Snow tell us of something else you've seen this winter. We're too lazy to fall any more for a time."

"So am I," said old King Snow. "I will tell you of the train I saw go by this morning. I got on top of the train and I talked to the snow there."

"Cousins," I said, "from where have you come and where do you go?"

"You know from where we come," they said, and I chuckled and nodded my snowy head—for of course, it was true, I did know from where they came!

"Well," I said, "tell me where you are going?"

"Ah," they said, "we do not know. We are traveling. We fell on this train and our cousins fell on the other trains and the engines and the icicle neighbors joined us and we're all going on and on and on."

"What mystery! What joy! I said: 'And what are you stopping here for? I asked them."

"We're stopping here to let on passengers." And then we heard some people who were getting on the train say, "Oh look! The train is covered with snow. How cold it looks. We hope it will be warm inside."

"And then we thought how lucky we were to be outside for if we had gone inside we surely would have melted away. And we thought how fairly everything was arranged anyway—the snow falls outside where it is cold and the fires burn in the stoves inside where they want it to be warm."

"And then the trainmen called 'All aboard,' and the snow on the train shouted to me, 'Good-bye old King Snow, sorry you won't go along too, for we're going to see the world and go along on top of this good old train. We're going to compliment Mr. Winter for we're going to look good and cold."

"Good-bye, old King Snow. You're the best king that has ever been."

"So I dropped down to the earth and I am still here feeling lazy as I did then. But ah, I've seen such wonderful sights—a chickadee bird who didn't complain of the cold, and our snow cousins going on a wondrous trip on a great train of cars through the country."

"You've most certainly seen a lot," said the snow flakes. "Well, we'll fall some more but not too much, for we're the lazy snow storm, we are."

"We are indeed," said old King Snow. "And we could easily sing this song."

"We may seem slow, but still we're snow. And we can blow, can blow."

Cannot Judge by Noise. "De man dat allus talks loud in an argument," said Uncle Eben, "is mighty likely to be de kind of a man dat runs away fum a fight."

ESTACADA WINS BALL GAME WEDNESDAY BY
SCORE OF 14 TO 5

The Oregon City high school baseball team got off on the wrong foot Wednesday afternoon in their game with the Estacada high and when the smoke of battle cleared away at the end of the second inning the score was 8 to 0. At the end of the ninth the score stood: Estacada 14, Oregon City 5.

As this was their first match game of the season the boys were nervous and could not settle down until the start of the third inning and then held their opponents even.

Califf, for Oregon City pitched a pretty game and succeeded in fanning 6, walking one and hitting another. He worked the full game and was received by Cannon, who did excellent work behind the plate.

Califf and Hull were the heavy hitters for Oregon City, the former getting three hits and the latter two. Each connected for a two-bagger. Smith pitched for Estacada and Lovelace caught. The former connected for a home run with two on.

Ward and Branson officiated Wednesday and gave good satisfaction. Although the local boys were defeated in their first big game Coach Tatro expressed himself as well satisfied and with a little more practice says the boys will give a better account of themselves. They made about a dozen errors in the first two innings of the game Wednesday.

The local team will go to Molalla Friday to play that team and next Wednesday play a return game at Estacada. Molalla beat Canby 22 to 2 and Canby won from Oregon City 9 to 5, but the local boys are out to get their scalps and the game should prove a hummer.

PROMINENT RESIDENT OF CLACKAMAS COUNTY
PASSES AWAY FRIDAY

David Clossner, one of the prominent residents of Clackamas county, whose home has been at Springwater for the past 26 years, died at his home Friday after a brief illness, at the age of 87 years.
