

MILWAUKIE & NORTHERN CLACKAMAS

ELIZABETH STRIEB IS BRIDE OF MR. FRANZ

Miss Elizabeth Strieb was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Franz of Portland, at a quiet home wedding Tuesday afternoon. Rev. John Barnard performed the ceremony. Only the close relatives of the couple were present. Mrs. Franz is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Strieb and a very popular member of the younger set. She has been assistant cashier in the First State Bank for some time past.

Mr. Franz is president of the U. S. Bakery in Portland and just recently received his discharge from the service, being a member of a coast artillery company. The young couple have gone on a short wedding trip after which they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Strieb for the present. Their many friends extend congratulations.

VICTORY LOAN QUOTA FULL BY MILWAUKIE

The Victory Loan quota for Milwaukie has been raised. The number of subscribers on the honor roll in Milwaukie alone are 44 totaling $8450. The outside districts have not reported their number on the honor roll as yet. There were no canvasses of the district made. The First State Bank taking up all of the amount not raised by volunteer subscriptions.

EASTER SERVICES.

Easter Sunday service at the Catholic church was well attended and was very impressive. The church was beautifully decorated with white flowers and greenery.

There were two Easter Sunday services at the Episcopal church. In the morning a program was given by the Sunday class followed by a sermon.

In the afternoon the regular service and sermon, both services were well attended.

The Easter services at the Evangelical church were well attended in the morning the Sunday school gave an interesting program and in the evening the Young People's Alliance gave a good program.

PROF. GRUBBS DIES.

Prof. Grubbs died at his home in Portland April 18th. Prof. Grubbs was well known here, as he taught in the Milwaukie high school two years ago. He leaves a widow and large family of children.

BURGLARY AT MILWAUKIE.

The home of Mr. Collins in the Quincy addition was entered by a robber on Friday night, who after searching some of the rooms awoke a small girl who gave the alarm by screaming and the robber fled. A purse taken from the house was found in the yard with the contents gone. It only held a small amount of change.

MILWAUKIE GRANGE.

The Milwaukie grange held the regular meeting on Saturday a number of visitors were present. A fine dinner was served at noon and in the afternoon a good program was given.

MILWAUKIE LOCALS.

Mrs. Pisset an aged resident of the Minthorn district has been very ill for the past two weeks and is not much better yet.

Mrs. Williams who was ill for a week is able to be out again.

Mrs. Farnsworth received a letter the past week from her son Louis, telling her he was now stationed at Boston, Mass.

Rolf Skulason was at Brest awaiting orders to return to the states when he wrote last, so his parents are expecting to hear from him in New York shortly.

Carl Carlson, one of the Milwaukie sailor boys, returned home Tuesday and is glad to be back. Carl has been over a good part of the big seas since he joined Uncle Sam's navy.

School Activities

Students who knew Mr. Grubbs, a former teacher of M. H. S., were shocked to hear of his death which occurred Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held Monday.

The Maroon work is progressing nicely at present with most of the material in. Pictures of the classes, basketball and the staff were taken Tuesday afternoon.

The basketball team has been organized with Norman Mace for captain. This is a very promising team this season and they will play the first game at Oregon City Friday afternoon.

Alma Lewis is absent from school this week on account of a slight illness.

A half holiday was given Monday after noon for the dying circus. Most of the school attended.

HIS PERSISTENCY.

"How many times has Jones proposed to Miss Stern?"

"That's more than I can tell; I only know that he has had to have the interrogation point type bar replaced on his typewriter a couple of times."

Crazy.

Daub has such funny notions. "We artists can't," said he. "In oil paint stormy oceans, Because oil calms the sea."

What One Is.

Sammy—Say, paw, what is a notion store?

Paw—Oh, it's a place where women go occasionally when they have no notion what to buy.

Yes, How?

"Love is blind, they say," began the chronic quoter.

"Well, that being the case," returned the other guy, "please explain why they speak of love at first sight."

Sure Proof.

Mrs. De Nagg—I had a dozen proposals before you and all from smarter men than you.

Mr. De Nagg—I'm sure they were, for they all managed to get out of it.

Tough Time.

"My wife has a tough time of it."

"How's that?"

"If a thing is expensive she feels she can't afford it, and if it isn't expensive she doesn't want it."

Camouflaged Altruism.

"Are the convicts in this prison interested in any brotherhood movement?"

"Yes; they all favor the open-door system."

Wheels Within Wheels

By FREDERICK L. KEATES

The watches began to disappear from Wallenstein's about a week after John Beckwith's commencement there as a salesman. The manner of their disappearance was, for a time, as puzzling a mystery as the name of the song of the sirens.

Jacob Wallenstein, the proprietor, who took great pride in his brilliant Chestnut street jewelry store, said little on the occasion of the first loss, though he no doubt did a good deal of thinking and kept a wary eye on his assistants; but when gold watch number two, value sixty dollars, was missed, things began to live up considerably.

The disagreeable affair placed Beckwith in an uncomfortable position. Being a new, untitled salesman, he guessed that a big share of the general suspicion would rest on him. Uncommonly sensitive as to his honor, he chafed sorely under the incubus of doubt which intangibly threatened it, and he determined to do his utmost to find the culprit.

He felt it impossible to continue to work for very long under a cloud of distrust; for, as he was very fond of remarking, one could never tell what dirty trick chance might play a fellow.

There were two other clerks in the store; decent fellows, respectively Brown and Nevin by name. There was a young man of twenty, Ted Galvin, who wrapped packages, made deliveries, and dusted; and Despard, a silent, grumpy man, who repaired watches and jewelry.

After carefully considering the situation, Beckwith decided to keep a close watch on Despard. Your tactician man is usually a mark for the arrows of suspicion. Some of Despard's actions, he thought, were "off color," but nothing definite came of the doubt, for either the man was innocent or he was much too cunning to be caught napping.

Despite the general watchfulness, it was not long before another valuable watch was stolen. It was missed on a Saturday evening. All that day, owing to a special reduction sale, the store had been crowded with people, but Beckwith, Brown and Nevin swore that they had taken the greatest care to show only one watch at a time, and to see that it was handed back before they submitted another.

No sooner had the discovery of the missing watch been made than Nevin started every one by pronouncing his stock of diamond rings incomplete. Two had been stolen.

"Twenty-five-dollar ones, they were," he said, gazing helplessly around. Mr. Wallenstein looked black. "I don't understand it," he said, frowning. "I have noticed that this sort of thing happens during my absence from the store. I don't know what to make of it."

He passed his fingers through his thick, black hair, and stared hard at his employees.

"Gentlemen," he said, after a long pause, "if you are certain no stranger has robbed you during the rush today, the culprit must be in the store, and if you have the welfare of the business at heart, as I believe you have, you will each personally permit yourself to be searched. Does anyone object? It is very unpleasant, of course, but I must ask the innocent to submit gracefully in order that the guilty may be arrested. I trust no one objects?"

His sharp eyes rapidly scanned their faces for any tell-tale expression of fear. There was no sign of concern apparent on the features of any of his employees. Only on the face of Despard was there a look that was strange, and he was scowling menacingly.

"I object to being searched," he said shortly and sharply.

All eyes were turned on him, and Mr. Wallenstein's face hardened as he stared at him. Despard reddened, then paled.

"Very well," said the jeweler stiffly, with a hint of threatening in his voice. "I trust you know what is best for yourself. You must see that such an attitude cannot be of benefit to you. However, this time I will ask merely that you all show the watches you carry. Do you refuse to comply there, Despard?"

Despard's sole answer was the pulling forth of a commonplace, three-dollar gun-metal watch.

Mr. Wallenstein nodded. "Very good," he said, curtly, and turned to the others.

Nevin's watch was a common gold-plated one; Brown's was a ten-dollar thin model, pretty well worn; Galvin's was a huge silver monstrously, a hundred years old (so he said), and once the property of his great-grandfather; Beckwith's was the humblest of them all—a nickel timepiece that had been dropped on the floor more than once and still kept fair time.

"That will do," said Mr. Wallenstein. "You may go. But, gentlemen, I want you to understand that I shall call upon you, when necessary, to submit to a thorough search. You are responsible for the goods placed in your care, and you have got to account for them. I make no charges, but something must be done in the matter and I must be permitted to do it in my own way, pleasant or unpleasant."

When his employees had gone home, Mr. Wallenstein, left alone, searched the store, and the two rooms above it, from floor to ceiling, in quest of hidden goods, but his search was in vain.

"This is getting serious," said the exasperated jeweler. "I ought to have insisted on a thorough search before I let them go. Still, I feel convinced they're honest, although Despard, perhaps, is a trifle doubtful. The wisest thing is to have him watched. I'll get a detective at once. I have let the thing go too far already."

In spite of all precautions, however,

Mr. Red Fox Tries to Eat the Bride

That was a lovely Wedding Journey of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Otter to Mirror Pond. It was a pretty sight to see Dick and Betsy Otter swimming side by side along the moonlit waters of the Big River. And then they swam rapidly and cautiously along laughing brooks, and singing little rivulets, where the tall grasses reached across and touched hands, so that the swimmers passed under green bowers and flowering arches of fragrant wild flowers.

After swimming through many ponds and winding brooks, they came out to a big river. Now and then they heard a great Horned Owl hoot in the Great Wood; and often they heard the call of some of the little people of the woodland. Some loons were fishing on the Big River and they heard them laughing loudly as their harsh voices echoed through the green chambers of the forest.

Soon Dick heard the sound of the Waterfall, and he said, "Betsy, here is where we got out of the Big River, and must walk around the Falls. And both swam to the shore, and cautiously climbed the moss-carpeted bank to walk around the Falls. They both used their keen noses and ears and eyes, to watch out for cunning foes.

Now Mr. Red Fox is awfully cunning and swift. And Mr. Red Fox loves to eat Otter-meat. He had seen Dick Otter swimming up the Big River on his trip to see the Great World; and he said to himself, "How I would like to catch Dick Otter! I'll watch for him when he comes back, and I'll hide near the Falls, and grab him when he is walking on land."

You know Mr. Fox doesn't like to swim, and he knew Dick Otter could whip him in the Big River. Dick Otter was ahead, and Betsy was close behind Dick. And just as Betsy got near a big tree, Mr. Red Fox darted out with a spring and grabbed Betsy to carry her off to his den, to eat her for his breakfast. Betsy gave a sudden scream, "Oh, Dick save me! It is the awful Mr. Red Fox!" And I wish you could have seen the hair rise right up on the neck of Dick Otter! Why, he was never so angry before in his life. And he gave an awful growl, and he leaped upon Mr. Red Fox, like a flash of lightning, and when Mr. Red Fox felt the sharp teeth of Dick Otter biting his neck, he let go of Betsy, and pounced upon Dick Otter.

Tomorrow—Dick Otter Saves Betsy from the Red Fox.

room, they were surprised to find it empty. Even Galvin's waistcoat had gone; for, discovering the loss of his watch, the guilty one had been quick to grasp the situation, and had fled. The open window showed the way of his escape.

Standing on a chair, the detective leaned out of the window and noted the strong lightning-rod wire which ran loosely down the wall, close to the window.

"Nervy, all right," he muttered. "Good stunt, too, that old watch of grandpa's."

Mr. Beckwith has been Mr. Wallenstein's partner for some time. No watches have been lost since Mr. Galvin slid the rod.

Ideal Wife.

An ideal wife is one who sympathizes with you when you have a headache and says you ought to begin wearing glasses when the chances are you have been smoking too much.—Kansas City Star.

Useless.

The Girl—Aren't the moon and stars grand?
The Director—Bah! They're no good to shoot pictures by.—Film Fun.

Die me must, but why be dying
All our days?
Turn away from faithless sighing,
Turn to praise.

Show the witness of glad living
To earth's need,
And thy courage of thanksgiving
Men will heed.

I. C. Rankin.

A FEW GOOD COOKIES.

Take one cupful of sugar, one-third of a cupful of shortening, two teaspoonsful of cream of tartar and one of soda, one-half cupful of milk and a little flour sifted with the soda and cream of tartar; add the rest of the milk and flour. Roll out and place the following filling on one and cover with another:

Filling.—Take one cupful of raisins, half a cupful of sugar, half a cupful of hot water, one tablespoonful of flour and the juice of half a lemon. Cook until smooth and thick. Put on the cookies and bake.

Ginger Cakes.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of shortening, one cupful each of sugar and molasses, two eggs, one teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in a half cupful of boiling water. Ginger, cinnamon, cloves and salt to taste. Add flour to roll and let stand on ice to chill before rolling.

Fruit Cookies.—Take three eggs, one scant cupful of shortening, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water. One cupful of grated coconut. One pound of dates cut fine, one teaspoonful of salt and lemon or vanilla extract for flavoring. This makes 40 small cakes. Bake in small tins or patty pans.

Jumbles.—Take one cupful of molasses, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, beat well, add three beaten eggs, one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of shortening, a half teaspoonful of salt, one-half tablespoonful of ginger, the same of cinnamon and four cupfuls of flour. Drop like drop cookies.

Gingersnaps.—Take one cupful each of shortening, molasses, brown sugar, add one beaten egg, one tablespoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda and flour to roll. Cook for six minutes after it begins to boil, the sugar, molasses and shortening; cool and add the egg, then the rest of the ingredients.

Nellie Maxwell

LUDWIG A. TUCHOLKE PASSES AT COURTNEY

Ludwig A. Tucholke, a well known farmer, residing near Courtney station, died at the family home April 20. He was born September 14, 1838, in the little village of Jankowo, Poland, and was aged 80 years, 7 months and 6 days.

Mr. Tucholke came to America in 1862 and settled in Wisconsin. In 1865 he married Miss Margaret Hammetter. Ten children were born, six sons and four daughters, three of whom preceded their father in death.

After a few years' residence in Wisconsin, they removed to Sumner, Iowa, and in 1877 migrated to Oregon and located near Milwaukie. With hard labor and faithfulness he erected a home in the woods for himself and family, enduring the hardships and trials of a pioneer.

Mr. Tucholke leaves to mourn his departure his aged widow, four sons and three daughters, the Misses Anna and Louise Tucholke, of Milwaukie; Emil A., of Sumner, Iowa; Charley W. C., of Norcross, Minn.; August A., of Denton, Mont.; John M., of The Dalles; Mrs. Lydia S. Miller, of Yacolt, Wash., and four grandchildren.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Methodist church at Courtney station, with Rev. P. J. Sehnert, pastor, officiating. The interment was in Milwaukie cemetery.

During his residence in Wisconsin, Mr. Tucholke united with the Evangelical association, and remained a member until his death.

RESIDENT OF NEW ERA SEVERELY INJURED IN MILL LAST SATURDAY

Joseph Andree, an employee of the Doernbecker mill near New Era, met with an accident while at the mill Friday afternoon that nearly cost him his life. He became caught in a belt which had been broken, the man suffered serious injuries, including the breaking of his right arm in three places and badly lacerating that member. The man was rushed to the Oregon City hospital, and was given medical attention by Drs. H. S. and Guy Mount of this city. An effort is being made to save the arm.

Andree is married and has five children.

120,000 SOLDIERS AT SEA
WASHINGTON, April 23.—On April 21 an official announcement by the war department + said 120,278 from the army over + seas were at sea on route to this + country.

His Privilege.
"What will happen if the pretty widow spurs the judge who is making love to her?"
"He can fine her for contempt of court."

A Misunderstanding.
"I saw Jags the other day and he seemed full of spirits."
"Why, I understood he was on the water wagon."

Accounting for It.
"A metropolis is the heart of a nation."
"Is that the reason why the average metropolis has so many beards?"

Office Phone Residence Phone
Milwaukie 9 Oak Grove 38-Y

DR. R. S. RAMSEY DENTIST

HOURS—9:30 A. M. to 12 M. 1:00 P. M. to 3:00 P. M.
Rooms 5-6-7 Bank Building
Milwaukie, Oregon

First State Bank of Milwaukie

"YOUR HOME BANK"

Conducts a General Banking Business

4 per cent. interest on Savings. Safe Deposit Boxes for Rent

YOUR PARTONAGE APPRECIATED

SELLWOOD 941

B-1563

East Side Mill & Lumber Company

Mill and General Office: Foot of Spokane Avenue

BRANCH YARDS:—
East Thirty-ninth and Halsey streets; phones: Tabor 2811, C-1237
Multnomah Station; phone: Main 4632
Miller-Mowrey Lumber Co., Lents; Tabor 2116, B-6111

J. P. FINLEY & SON

Perfect Funeral Service

Telephone Main 9 Montgomery and Fifth
A-1599 Portland

Prescriptions

Pure Drugs and Chemicals

Russell & Gilbert's Choice Candies

Kodaks, Films and Supplies.

At your reliable drug store

TRADE AT HOME

PERRY PHARMACY

PHONE 19-W

MILWAUKIE, OREGON