

About the State

Resume of the News of the Week from All Parts of Oregon

School graduation exercises were celebrated at Dixie School, in Linn county, by the farmers hauling and spreading 300 loads of gravel in one day.

The Joseph Light & Power Company has been purchased by the Enterprise Electric Company for $57,000 completing the merger of all the electric plants in Walla Walla county.

The circuit court expense for Yamhill county for the year ending June 30, 1916, was over $9,000. Between seven and eight thousand of this was expense due to the Booth murder trial.

Twenty-five eastern capitalists who are members of the Western Pine association, with headquarters in Spokane, were in The Dalles on Monday and after spending most of the day went to Bend.

The Polk County Educational board met at the office of County Superintendent W. I. Reynolds Saturday afternoon and elected Floyd D. Moore, of Monmouth, supervisor of rural schools to succeed H. H. Parsons, whose term had expired and who declined to be a candidate to succeed himself.

Investigation of the flax acreage late last week by members of the State Board of control, Robert Crawford, the state's new flax expert, and J. W. Minto, superintendent of the Oregon penitentiary, developed the fact that a large percentage of the flax fields are foul with weeds, and many fields will not be accepted by the board.

To avoid paying the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company rent on 180 telephone poles at 10 cents each, the state of Oregon has returned to the company a check for 17 cents, its share of the earnings for the last year of a telephone line from Big Eddy to The Dalles. Only one call was registered over the line.

Found guilty of that clause of the law which prohibits intoxicating beverages at public gatherings, Jack Travers, of Cascade Locks, tried at Hood River, before Justice of the Peace A. C. Buck, was fined $100. Travers is the first man found guilty of a liquor charge in Wasco county since the prohibition law went into effect.

The trollers operating outside the mouth of the river at Astoria last week met with good success, as did the gillnetters drifting close to the breakers at the bar. Persons fishing further up the stream did practically nothing. The season thus far has been exceptionally slack and peculiar in many ways; only on two or three days have any amount of salmon been caught above Smith's point.

Plans and specifications for three road improvements have been completed by County Surveyor H. W. Libby of Lane county, and bids will be asked by the county court for the improvements within a short time. These roads are: The Cape Horn improvement, the mile of road on the Crabtree hill, near Elimra, and the Hayden Bridge improvement from Fifth street, Springfield, eastward to the Tibbert corner.

John Wood, of Newberg, who is harvesting a crop of blackcap berries out on the side of Chehalem mountain, is paying one and one-half cents a pound for picking, and he furnishes the following list of names of his pickers and what each one made on Wednesday of last week: Ruth Stoll, $3.05; Margaret St. Germain, $3.03; Carnie Wood, $2.52; Mary Courtney, $2.50; Vlasta Kutchanek, $2.43; Wills Courtney, $2.30; Mrs. Ruth Phillips, $1.97; Mrs. C. H. Stoll, $1.50; James Stoll, $1.50.

Petitions will be placed in circulation at Roseburg within the next few days, asking the federal government to spare the only tree now on Cass street. The tree is located directly in front of the site for the new federal building, and will be cut down unless the government officials grant the request of the women who are sponsor for the move to have the "ornament" preserved. The contractor in charge of erecting the building has promised the women to delay cutting the tree down until word can be received from Washington.

Definite announcement was made this week of two important building projects on two corners of Main and west First streets. S. D. Keltner has received plans for his new two story hardware store, to be erected on the southeast corner, which he has used for implements. The Walla Walla National bank is advertising for bids to remodel and enlarge its two story banking property at the northeast corner. Both these building projects have been under consideration for some months.—Enterprise Chieftain.

During the last three days of the Oregon Normal Summer session, 258 students, carrying rural school work, divided themselves into two sections and models of rural schools were made. Past, present and future institutions were pictured and the work will become the permanent property of the school. The school at Spanish Gulch, in Wheeler county, was modeled by two girls who had taught in it. The Deep Creek school, in Columbia county, and the Marmot, the first school in Clackamas county, also were shown.

A Good Time Coming

BILLY SUNDAY HEARD

County Delegation Gets Idea of Work of Famous Evangelist

"Billy" Sunday, the best advertised and highest paid evangelist in the business of saving souls—some say for profit only—entertained 8000 people in Portland on Tuesday night, among whom there were a considerable number of Clackamas county and county seat people.

They returned fully convinced that the proverbial Sunday fire and oratory are all that they have been claimed, and were immensely pleased with the hard working style of the speaker. Sunday, they say, really labors at his work. He took off his coat midway in his tirade against the demon rum on Tuesday evening and hammered his facts home with an admirable vocabulary of colloquial slang.

A few Sundayisms and less familiar remarks made by Billy Sunday on Tuesday evening and those which especially impressed Oregon City folks in his great audience are given here:

"I challenge you to show me any community where a saloon license policy has lightened taxes."

"The saloon is the sum of all villainies, the crime of crimes, the mother of sins."

"To know what the devil will do find out what the saloon will do."

"You could build six Panama canals with one year's drink bill for this nation."

"If there ever was a jubilee in hell it was when lager beer was invented."

"The saloon is a liar. It promises good cheer and sends sorrow. It is an infidel. Having no faith in God or religion, it would close every church in the land."

"Seventy-five per cent of our idiots come from intemperate parents; and there are more insane people in the United States than students in the universities and colleges."

"Ninety-nine per cent of adult criminals are drinking men, and committed their crimes while under the influence of drink."

"We have 218,000 saloons in America. Allowing 100 feet frontage to each, it would make a street from New York to Denver. Five millions people go into these saloons daily. Marching twenty miles a day, it would take 30 days to pass a given point. Five abreast, they would stretch 590 miles. Oregon will never be safe until America is dry."

A GOOD FRIEND

A good friend stands by you when in need. Oregon City people tell how Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test. Mrs. Baxter, Oregon City, endorsed Doan's over three years ago and again confirms the story. Could you ask for more convincing testimony?

On April 17, 1916, Mrs. Baxter said: "Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cured me of kidney trouble and my back is as strong as ever."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Baxter has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

EDITORS HAVE FINE TIME

Four Hundred Enjoy Rare Hospitality at Ashland and Medford

The great beauty of the wonderful Crater Lake and the national park surrounding, the unusual hospitality of the citizens of Medford and Ashland and the value from a professional standpoint of the state editorial convention, vie in the minds of scores of editors and their families who attended the convention at Medford last week, for first place on the honor roll.

The convention was a rare success and the program of professional matters taken up by the editors, with E. E. Brodie of Oregon City presiding, was excellent. The speeches of the writers were of a high order and the good that will result from this instruction and discussion is bound to be felt by all who attended the convention.

A great amount of praise is to be given to the citizens of Medford and Ashland for the high order of the entertainment that was provided for the guests, numbering more than 400 and including the wives and families of many of the scribes. Medford was the official home of the convention and the details of the program in the hands of Medford citizens were very capably carried out by Ben Sheldon of the southern Oregon metropolis. Mr. Sheldon proved himself to be a tireless worker and to his efforts is attributed much of the pleasure that was derived from the interesting trips.

Ashland, with its magnificent Lithia park, was also host to the editors on Friday, after an interesting trip over the Siskiyou highway. The tone of hospitality pervaded the entire period of the convention and the two cities literally outdid themselves to make the convention a record breaker. An open air banquet at Lithia park was a feature of the trip to Ashland and an address of welcome was made by the chief executive of the city.

On Saturday the business session of the convention was held, and speeches were made on various professional subjects by editors from all parts of the state and from Washington. E. E. Brodie presided at the business meeting and very capably responded to the address of welcome made by Medford's mayor. On Saturday evening a grand banquet was indulged in at the Medford hotel, where addresses were made by President Brodie, Phil Bates, Will G. Steel, superintendent of Crater Lake park, Rev. T. B. Ford, formerly of Oregon City, Wallace B. Jessup, president of the Washington State Editorial association and others.

The whole expense of the convention after arrival at Medford, including lodging and travel, was born by the citizens of Medford and they provided automobiles in which the trip was made to the beautiful Crater Lake. C. W. Robey, editor of the Courier, and Mrs. Robey were provided with a Ford all their own in which the editor "engineered" over the pretty highways to southern Oregon's scenic wonder, the Crater lake.

The trip to the lake was started early Sunday morning and the 400 guests at the convention remained over night at the hotel on the rim of the lake. All are of the opinion that in Crater Lake Oregon has one of the world's most wonderful scenic charms, and the editors and their families listened intently to the romantic story of its second discovery and its reclamation by Will G. Steel, present superintendent of the park. Mr. Steel is devoting his life to the Crater lake park work merely because of his love for the spot. He is aging, but his love of this particular piece of nature's work keeps his love steadfast and his story of his part in the creation of the park was highly interesting to the editors who gathered about the fireplace on Sunday evening near the edge of the great crater whose scenic charms have been heralded to all the world. Steel's part in the convention was no small one and he did much to help make the trip to the lake a pleasant one.

E. E. Brodie, president of the Oregon Editorial association, and Phil S. Bates, secretary, are entitled to much credit for the interest they aroused in the convention and for the success of its meeting in Medford. A genuine vote of thanks is due the citizens of Medford and Ashland from the press of the state for the entertainment that was provided and for the excellent spirit of hospitality that was displayed.

Those who attended the convention from Clackamas county were: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Taylor, Molalla; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Standish, Estacada; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brodie, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Robey, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Harding, Miss Eva Alldredge and J. David Olson of Oregon City. Mr. Brodie and Mr. Taylor were the oratorical spokesmen of the press of this county.

MARKET IS FAIR

Prices of Stockyards Show Weakness Over Last Week

Reports from the union stockyards of Portland indicate that cattle receipts were very fair for the week; but that prices showed somewhat of a decline over last week all along the line. Cows ranged round the $4.50 to $5 mark for the best and steers were $6.50 to $7.10 for the choicest grass stuff.

The hog market got started early and $9.75 was reached, both for top and bulk offerings. The receipts were very light—the lightest of the season—and buyers were eager for all that arrived. All classes got in on the high spot from light to heavies.

There has been no change in the sheep situation within the past week. Offerings this week have been only moderate, with prices remaining steadily at the approximate quotations of last week.

In 1912 as in 1812 the American people and American principles won, and the result in both cases has been progress and prosperity.

Why "All Wool?"

Here's Why

When you think of Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes as all wool garments don't stop there. Just consider the bearing of all wool goods on the way the suit wears, fits, keeps its shape.

The difference between wool fabric and part cotton doesn't show until after the clothes are worn a while.

You want all wool; you'll get it when you buy a suit with the Hart Schaffner & Marx label in it.

DIVORCES ARE FEW

Conjugal Relations Appear More Bearable Than For Some Time

The sea of matrimony, usually turbulent in this county, has been struck by a calm and the good ship of married life sails more contentedly than for some months. This is largely due, perhaps, to the absence of Commander-in-Chief and First Mate Judge J. U. Campbell, who returned only a few days ago from his vacation and who absented himself from the judicial chamber again this week for a brief period. However, only two complaints were filed up to last evening.

With two grown daughters, one eighteen and the other seventeen years of age, the latter about to embark for herself upon the big voyage of life with its pretty pictures of love and happiness, Lewis D. Gilder and Mary Gilder have torn the young lady's dreams most rudely by starting a divorce action. The husband sues in this case, charging cruelty and desertion. The couple was married at Hiawatha, Kan., on January 13, 1897. The complaint was filed on Monday.

Cruelty and even brutality are the causes Mrs. Clara F. Boyer uses to base her complaint for divorce from Granville F. Boyer, to whom she was married at Curriville, Clackamas county, on April 5, 1905. The Boyers have a seven year old boy and the mother seeks the custody of this offspring.

The matrimonial bark struck the rock of separation, one of the most terrible of the handicaps to smooth sailing upon the high sea, in the case of two couples this week. Thomas F. Stillwell was granted a decree divorcing him from Margaret J. Stillwell. Judge Campbell ordered the decree entered on the ground of default.

Katherine McMaster Mason is a gain enjoying single blessedness as a result of a default decree granted on Monday divorcing her from Landon R. Mason. Mr. Mason was served with the court summons in the case while at New Zealand hospital, Walton-on-Thames, England.

NEW BEACH OPENS

Columbia River Resort Proves Popular from First Day

The new bathing resort right at Portland's gates, practically unknown to the city's pleasure-seekers a year ago, without a cent in improvements, sprang into such immediate favor late in the 1915 season that for a number of weeks it proved the strongest drawing-card of all the recreation resorts in this section.

This season the management has expended in the neighborhood of $15,000 in improving the grounds, in buildings and in providing play and amusement features, beside installing all forms of modern conveniences for the bathing population. The whole of Sand Island on which Columbia beach proper is situated, has been groomed and "spruced up" so that it will hardly be recognized as the same place by those who visited it a year ago.

One of the most important additions is the great causeway, 650 feet long, connecting the railway trestle with the beach grounds. The causeway has a spacious board walk for pedestrians and a driveway for all forms of vehicular traffic. Winding paths and drives lead to all parts of the island, the bathing beach, the amusement zone, the athletic field and the "tent city," all of which are among the attractions installed this year. Columbia beach is on the Vancouver carline on the Oregon side of the Columbia river.

INSTITUTE CONTINUES

Teachers at Summer School are to Visit Columbia River Highway

The annual Clackamas county teachers' institute, being held under the supervision of County School Superintendent J. E. Calavan, continues in interest and good work at the Barclay school building. A number of well known men have addressed the assembly of teachers within the past week and the attendance of registered teachers has increased from $5 on the first day to 140.

The days remaining between now and the final session, which is to be held on August 18, will be filled with important work for the teachers. Tomorrow a party of about 100 teachers will leave here at half past eight in the morning for a trip over the Columbia River highway in automobiles loaned for the day by businessmen and others of this city. Superintendent Calavan has arranged ample accommodations for all who can make the trip and is expecting a fine day of pleasure.

Dr. Hector Macpherson of the Oregon Agricultural college delivered a highly interesting address to the teachers on Tuesday afternoon and yesterday afternoon the Rev. W. T. Milliken of the Oregon City Baptist church delivered the principal address.

Dr. Macpherson discussed general farm conditions in the state and brought out the value to farmers and all connected with agricultural enterprises of the proposed Rural Credit amendment which will be submitted to voters in November.

Asks Appointment

A petition for letters of administration upon the estate of her father, the late Andrew Anderson, was filed on Monday by Minnie A. Anderson. Mr. Anderson died intestate on April 20, 1915, and left property both personal and real, of an estimated value of $7250. This consists of an 8-acre farm near Mt. Angel in Clackamas county and deposit in the Bank of Woodburn and another in the Bank of Mt. Angel. The heirs to this property are the widow ad Emil J. Anderson and Minnie A. Anderson.
