TO CHANGE SEAMEN'S BILL.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Indications that President Wilson will recommend changes in the La Follette seamen's law during the next session of congress were increasing today. The commerce department has not yet completed its investigation of the claim of the Pacific Mail company that the La Follette law would force it to withdraw from the Transpacific trade and lease its six big liners.

ANDRESEN IS PLEASED WITH PIPELINE WORK

THREE COMMISSIONERS GO OVER SURVEY—EXCAVATION IS ALMOST COMPLETED.

Satisfaction with the progress in the construction of the South Fork pipeline was expressed Wednesday by William Andresen, chairman of the South Fork commission, who with M. D. Latourrette and W. A. Long, members of the commission, went over the line Tuesday.

The party made the trip to Estacada by automobiles and followed the survey to the intake, inspecting the more difficult work in the canyon of the Clackamas river and along the South Fork. On the return trip to Oregon City, the commissioners inspected that portion of the line in which pipe has been laid.

Mr. Andresen said that only about a quarter of a mile of trench work in the canyon of the Clackamas was not completed and that within a week or ten days all of the upper section of the line will be ready for the 15-inch pipe, the first shipment of which is expected in a few days. Practically all of the 16-inch pipe is now here.

Pipe-laying is now being rushed with two crews in the field. With the trench practically completed and with most of the 16-inch pipe, which is being laid in the lower section of the 25-mile line, on the ground, no delay is expected and the commission is confident that water can be delivered here about two months before the date of completion in the contract.

SANDY MAN IS STUNG TO UNCONSCIOUSNESS

BEE-RAISER DISDAINS THE USUAL PROTECTION AND IS ATTACKED.

D. L. Erdman, resident of Sandy, had a red-hot experience and nearly lost his life, when he undertook to take care of a swarm of bees that had left the hive for a new home Sunday last. Mr. Erdman makes a lot of bees, but there are some things he does not know about having a family of bees. He thought that if one handled the bees gently they would not get irritated and fight, but he has learned different. He went out in the backyard when he found the swarm had left the hive and, instead of taking the usual precautions of swathing his head and face in castor oil armor plate, he undertook to persuade the bees that they should make their home in a handsome, brand-new hive he had prepared in anticipation of the swarming. But the bees knew better than Mr. Erdman what they wanted, and when he tried to get them into the hive they attacked him, stinging him all over the head, face and neck until he became unconscious.

When help came Mr. Erdman was carried into the house, where Dr. Barendrick, the local physician, worked over him for an hour before he revived.

Note Found In A Bottle Tells of Death In River

POLICE INVESTIGATE MESSAGE DATED JUNE 19 AND SIGNED W. W. MURPHY.

Both city and county officials are puzzled by a note turned over Tuesday to Chief of Police Shaw by Beldon Ganoing who found it last Saturday in a bottle on the river bank. The note follows:

"June 19, '15.—(To Whom This May Reach):—I have committed suicide. You will find my body in the river somewhere. Please notify my parents, 241 Charles Street, Joseph, Mo. Yours gone, W. W. MURPHY."

Chief Shaw is not inclined to class the note with the usual messages often found in bottles, owing to the address and the fact that several persons living in and near Canby saw a man wandering near the river bank Friday night. Arch Long, of Canby, is one of those who saw the suspicious looking stranger.

The note was written on coarse paper and was difficult to read, owing to poor writing. Chief of Police Shaw will probably send word to the St. Joseph address.

Persisting in its farms-for-farmers propaganda, the Woodburn Independent says: "The northwest has been waiting for the colonists to come, and instead is getting a little of the tourist travel, which does not count for much when it comes to buying farms. The best thing the farmer can do is to forget his speculative dreams and keep right on farming and going at it with a view of profiting."

PAVING OF MAIN STREET AWARDED TO WORSWICK

ONLY ONE BID IS RECEIVED FOR $14,000 IMPROVEMENT CONTRACT.

TEN YEAR GUARANTEE IS ONE CONDITION DEMANDED BY CITY

Police Will Receive Vacation, Decides Council—$30 Witness Fees Awarded to Two Private Boze Detectives.

The contract for the improvement of Main street with an asphaltic concrete pavement was awarded to the Worswick company at the special council meeting Wednesday night.

Worswick submitted a bid of $120 a yard with the condition that the paving company will keep the street in condition for a period of 10 years. Bids were received Tuesday afternoon by the committee on streets and public property and the council instructed the mayor and recorder to enter into a contract with the Worswick company on the recommendation of the committee. Although there were rumors to the effect that two bids were submitted for the work Tuesday, the committee reported that only one bid was received. The cost of the improvement is not to exceed $14,184.

The city budget, after being almost forgotten for several months, was again discussed at the meeting when Mayor Jones reminded the council that the first six months of the year had passed and suggested that the heads of the departments of the administration prepare statements to show the amount of money spent during the first half of the year.

The council decided to give the chief and the two night policemen each two weeks' vacation. It was estimated that the cost would be about $120.

According to habits formed during the last two months, the council went into executive session again, and on returning to open meeting railroaded through a motion for $30 for witness fees for H. E. Bradley, one of the private detectives employed last month. The fees will pay each of the two detectives $15 a day for each of the three trials.

Several suggestions were made by the councilmen. Hackett wanted a steel overhead crossing on the Southern Pacific track at Fourteenth street. Templeton suggested that the Portland Railway, Light & Power company straighten out its Main street track before the new street was laid and later urged regulation of the jitneys. Hackett said that he was opposed to extras on the Main street improvement.

PROPERTY OWNERS AND COMPANY AGREE

An agreement out of court has been reached between the trustees of the Graham estate and the Hawley Pulp & Paper company over the opening of an alley through the block bounded by Main street and the river and Third and Fourth streets.

The trustees filed a suit asking for an injunction early in this week, alleging that the paper company was closing an alley by building a warehouse. Under the terms of the agreement the paper company will dedicate a new alley to take the place of the one covered by the new warehouse. Court proceedings will be necessary to carry out the terms of the agreement.

SOUTH FORK TRENCH ALMOST COMPLETED

FIFTY PER CENT OF PIPE IS NOW HERE—TUNNEL WORK BEING RUSHED.

The trench work on the South Fork water line, which will connect Oregon City and West Linn with the South Fork of the Clackamas river, is practically completed and 50 per cent of the pipe has arrived from the Pittsburg factory said J. W. Moffatt, of the Oregon Engineering & Construction company.

Only about a mile of the trench remains to be opened up. The seven tunnels in the canyon of the Clackamas river are almost completed and it will be only a few days until the last of the trench work is finished. Men who worked in the trenches are now being laid off.

The lower portion of the line will be laid with 16-inch Matheson lap-welded steel pipe and practically all of this size has arrived. The upper section will be 18-inch pipe and the first shipment will be here within the next two weeks, said Mr. Moffatt.

G. WHEELER CHURCH DIES AT GLADSTONE

HEART TROUBLE CAUSES DEATH OF PROMINENT CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Gilbert Wheeler Church, a resident of Oregon for the last 25 years, died at his home in Gladstone Tuesday, following an illness of only a few days.

Mr. Church complained of being ill Saturday and was slowly improving. Tuesday morning he suddenly became worse and died within a few minutes after his second attack. His death was due to heart trouble.

He was born April 19, 1819, in Wisconsin and came to Oregon about 1880. Up until about eight years ago, when his eyesight failed him, he was one of the most active contractors in the country. He spent many years in Portland and Gladstone but lived the greater part of his life in Oregon City.

Mr. Church is survived by his widow, Mrs. M. E. Church, and two sons, James W. Church, manager of the Marion Hotel in Salem, and Carl G. Church, of Sellwood.

CALAVAN PLANS FOR JUVENILE DISPLAYS

AWARDS MADE YEAR AGO WILL BE DUPLICATED THIS YEAR, HE SAYS.

The juvenile department of the county fair at Canby next September will be one of the features of the annual exhibit, according to County School Superintendent Calavan who has already begun to make plans for the display.

Mr. Calavan has checked over the premium list awarded a year ago with Ward B. Lawton, secretary of the fair association, and the two have reached a decision to make practically the same awards this year as in 1914. Prizes will be given under the following divisions: domestic science, domestic art, manual art, poultry, pig feeding, dairy records, agriculture, grain selection and flowers.

Mr. Calavan had charge of the juvenile department last year and will direct that side of the fair against this year. He predicts that this year's display will surpass the successful one of a year ago.

IRVING HANSON IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

ATTORNEY GEORGE BROWNELL HAS SIX CRIMINAL CASES IN AS MANY DAYS.

Irving Hanson, charged with a statutory crime, was found not guilty by a jury in the circuit court Monday afternoon. The jury was out an hour and 20 minutes.

The defense consisted principally of an attempt to prove an alibi. Arvilla Kirk, a 16-year-old girl, was the principal witness for the state. She testified that March 20 was the date of the crime while the defense introduced testimony to show that Hanson was at a party at the home of Mrs. Imel on that date.

Six criminal cases are set for this week and every one of the defendants has engaged George C. Brownell as attorney. The dates of the five yet to be tried are: Tuesday, Gus Wiseman, threatening to commit a felony; Wednesday, Floyd Hanson, statutory charge; Thursday, Ross Hiddleston, statutory charge; Friday, J. W. Leet, and Saturday, Matt Jagmin, burglary.

DESERTION IS CHARGED

Desertion is alleged in two divorce actions instituted in the circuit court. Mrs. Margaret Lewis, J. J. Lewis, J. H. Ketchum and L. G. Ketchum are the principals in the suits. Mrs. Ketchum asks for $15 monthly alimony.

OTTO WISEMAN IS FOUND GUILTY IN LESS THAN HOUR

CLARKS FARMER CONVICTED FOR THREATENING TO COMMIT A FELONY.

ACTIONS AGAINST THREE BOYS ARE DROPPED SAYS HEDGES

District Attorney Also States That Matt Jagmin, Held for Elwood Burglaries, Will Enter Plea of Guilty.

Otto Wiseman, a farmer of the Clarks district was found guilty in the circuit court Tuesday afternoon on a charge of threatening to commit a felony. The jury was out less than an hour.

Wiseman, it was alleged, threatened to kill Charles Schreiber, the son of John Schreiber, a neighbor of the Wisemans. The defense was granted five days to prepare and file a motion for a new trial. The court room was well filled with residents of the Clarks district, many coming in as witnesses. Those who took the stand are: For the state, Rev. H. B. Mann, Mrs. H. B. Mann, John Schreiber, D. E. Frost, Sheriff William J. Wilson, and Mrs. John Schreiber; for the defendant, Otto Wiseman, Roy Thomas, George Clark, Joe Supple, Frederick Marshall, Mrs. Wiseman, Fred Lindow, George Clark, Otto Gans and Helen Gans.

The trials of the series of criminal cases, which were to have taken up the entire week, suddenly came to an end Tuesday afternoon when District Attorney Hedges announced that the statutory charges against Lloyd Hanson, Ross Hiddleston and Oliver Leek would be dropped and that Matt Jagmin, who was to have been tried Saturday, will enter a plea of guilty today.

Mr. Hedges' decision in regard to the Hanson, Hiddleston and Leek cases follows the acquittal of Irving Hanson on a similar charge Monday. He said that the Irving Hanson case was the strongest of the four and that if convicted failed with such testimony, there was no use in taking the other three cases into court. Jagmin, who Mr. Hedges said would plead guilty, is being held for a series of burglaries.

MATT JAGMIN ENTER
