

RAILWAY EMPLOYEE DROWN AT BULL RUN

Edward Fisher, aged 35, employed at the Bull Run powerhouse of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, was drowned at about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon while working on the flume above the power house, his body being recovered in the reservoir 5000 feet below the point where he fell in about thirty minutes later.

Mr. Fisher, who was employed in the capacity of carpenter helper, had started work Tuesday about noon, although he was familiar with the power plant, having been employed there in a similar capacity about six years ago. His duties consisted in maintaining the flume in repair and it was while engaged in this work that the accident occurred which resulted in his death. He, in company with another carpenter, was engaged in pushing a small handcar along the track which is laid on planks along the center of the open top of the flume, and the absence of a four-foot length of plank which was missing from the runway caused him to miss his footing and fall into the swiftly flowing water of the flume.

His body was recovered less than thirty minutes after the accident occurred and he was worked over by power plant employees and Dr. Addis, the latter the company physician with offices in Gresham, but life was extinct.

Papers found among the effects of the dead man would indicate that Mr. Fisher had connections in Minneapolis or St. Paul and an effort is being made to get in touch with them. He also had friends in Portland.

Alf Smith, superintendent for the Portland Railway, Light & Power company at its power house at Bull Run, has taken charge of the body and that company will attend to its disposition.

LOYALTY TO FLAG OF ADOPTION BRINGS MERITED REWARD

SALEM, Aug. 4.—Certain concessions making naturalization easier for foreigners who served with the fighting forces of the United States in the world war have been made by the government, according to instructions received by County Clerk U. G. Boyer. Such foreigners may be naturalized, say the instructions, without having lived in this country five years.

Under an act of congress approved July 19, 1919, a person of foreign birth who served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the war, after examination and acceptance by military or naval authorities, and who has been discharged, may be naturalized without proving five years' residence in the United States or one year's residence in the state, also without a declaration of intention, a certificate of arrival and with out the payment of a fee.

SALEM IS AGITATING MUNICIPAL OWNED TELEPHONE SYSTEM

SALEM, Aug. 5.—Revival of agitation favoring a municipal telephone plant for Salem is a result of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company's latest increase in rates. At a meeting of the city council last night the aldermen set as a special order of business for the next regular meeting the question of calling a special election to vote on the issue of a city owned and operated plant.

CHINESE IN FRANCE ASKED TO BE DRILLED TO RESIST JAPAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Three hundred Chinese now in France have asked to be drilled preparatory to resist Japanese aggression, in the declaration here today of David T. Yui, former secretary to President Li of the republic of China. Yui said that every Chinese in the United States is ready to lay down his life to prevent Shantung being given to Japan.

The West's Opportunity

The attitude of Oregon editors on presidential timber, as reflected through a questionnaire of The Oregonian, furnishes food for political thought. Mr. Taft, who carried only two states in the election of 1912, is the favorite, with Hughes and General Wood following.

Taft stock has gone up, due to his consistent advocacy of a league for the maintenance of peace throughout the world. He was active in this propaganda long before Mr. Wilson trotted out his league of nations covenant, and he has been in the van of those supporting the league of nations idea because he realized that the time was opportune for gaining a decisive step along the lines of his own activity.

The endorsement of Taft as a presidential candidate is not due to his personal popularity. It is quite true that he is stronger in the public mind than when he was completing his term as president, and when he was the Republican nominee for reelection, only because the people are thinking more. In 1912 we had Mr. Taft on one side and Mr. Roosevelt on the other, and the personal popularity of Roosevelt was his greatest political asset. The pair divided the Republican vote and permitted the election of Mr. Wilson.

It is too early to forecast the Republican nominee for president. The populous Eastern states will govern this matter, to a great degree, though the West will have a voice, and in the event of a closely contested sentiment in the national convention, the West may have a decisive voice. It should not be forgotten that the West elected Mr. Wilson in 1916, and the West may nominate the Republican candidate in 1920. But he will be an Eastern man, and will not be chosen from the ranks of the Borahs, Johnsons and Poindexters.

TEACHERS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC AT ANNUAL MEET

The School of Instruction for teachers in the schools of the county, which opened Monday at the high school and will continue until Friday evening, promises to go on record as the best attended and most successful session of any of the like nature held in Clackamas county in previous years, and all sessions held so far this week have been marked with a degree of enthusiasm on the part of both the lecturers and the attending teachers which will bear fruit in added accomplishments during the ensuing school term in all schools throughout the county.

Registration of teachers from the various sections of the county for Monday, the opening day, totaled 75, a most creditable percentage for the first day of the session, and Tuesday saw the total increased to 90. Every indication is that for the balance of the session this total will be materially increased.

The Monday session of the Instruction class was taken up with regular instruction work to the attending teachers and with lectures by Mrs. M. L. Fulkerson on instruction work in the primary grades, and Miss Lilli Schmidt and Supt. R. W. Kirk on the instruction work throughout the advanced grades.

The lectures of Professor Louis Leppere, who has been appointed as Physical Instructor for the city schools to assume charge of the newly added course of compulsory physical training, received the closest attention from those in attendance at the Monday session, and the manner of enthusiasm with which his lecture was received gives undoubted assurance that the new course will be one of the most popular in the school work. Prof. Leppere has been connected with the Seattle schools previously to his coming to Oregon City and he is thoroughly conversant with the work he has in hand and with the beneficial influence that physical training has on children during their school work.

At the Tuesday session Dr. W. T. Milliken, recently resigned as pastor of the Baptist church, addressed the assemblage, his subject being "The World in Its Making." His remarks were received with closest attention and the fact was evident that he had created a most profound impression upon his hearers with the theories which he propounded as to the ultimate solution of the present-day tangle of tongues and nationalities. The outstanding feature of his lecture was his conviction that the ultimate settlement will see the establishment of three distinctive tongues which will be universal, viz: English, Spanish Latin.

Today J. M. Tice is scheduled to lecture on the Palmer Method of Writing. Mr. Tice is representative of this system of writing, which is rapidly coming to be taught in all schools of the United States.

Miss R. P. Snedeker, County Club lecturer, is scheduled to lecture on the subject of "Organization" on Thursday and her lecture is looked forward to by the attending teachers with a great degree of anticipation.

The lecture hours for Friday will be taken up by Supt. J. A. Churchill, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The daily sessions are scheduled for the following hours: Morning, 8:30 to 11:45; Afternoon, 1:00 to 3:00.

14 YEAR OLD FORGER IS TAKEN UP BY SHERIFF

Vernon Frost was arrested Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Wilson at Boring on a charge of passing a forged check, the complaint being issued by a storekeeper of that place named Carey.

In the complaint it was charged that the young man presented a check signed and indorsed with the name of Richard Moore in the sum of $22.50 and that he honored it, giving young Frost a check for $9.00 and the balance in cash.

The check was cleared through the Estacada bank and sent to Portland, where the forgery was detected and the check returned, whereupon Mr. Carey swore out the complaint against Frost and his arrest followed.

The check was passed on the 19th of July, the forgery only being detected Wednesday.

Young Frost endorsed the check with the name of Richard Moore and when he was apprehended by Sheriff Wilson he stoutly maintained that the paper was given to him by another young man already indorsed and volunteered to take the sheriff to this young man for verification of his statement. The latter complied to his request that they look up the third young man, but an attempt to do so was fruitless and Frost was then confronted with young Moore, with the result that he broke down in his attitude and confessed the forgery.

Disposition of his case has not been accomplished, although it is expected that he will be remitted to the reform school.

PRESIDENT WILSON TO PROBE HIGH COST

WASHINGTON, July 31.—President Wilson is giving "deep and very thoughtful consideration" to the high cost of living, it was announced today at the White house, and all branches of the government that might aid in solving the problem are at work.

The president is understood to have been deeply impressed by the statement presented to him yesterday by Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, describing the unrest over the country because of the decreased purchasing power of the dollar.

In this connection, it became known today that the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen had presented to the railroad administration a statement similar to that of the engineers, setting forth that the trainmen must have increased wages unless immediate steps were taken to reduce living costs.

GETTING SO THICK DISTINCTIVE NAMES FOUND NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, July 31.—To settle linguistic difficulties which have arisen with the development of aeronautics, the air service has officially decided to use the word "airship" only to designate dirigible balloons and other lighter than air types of craft. All heavier than air craft will be designated as "airplanes."

GOVERNMENT TO PROSECUTE THE BIG PROFIT MEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The government is going to prosecute the food profiteers in the United States as an immediate remedy for the high cost of living.

General Palmer after a conference with the president which followed an all-day deliberation of the special cabinet committee on means of reducing the prices of necessities to the agitated public.

The department of justice, it was declared, will employ every resource at its command to ferret out and prosecute the hoarders of food and those who are charging extortionate prices.

Big and little profiteers are to be prosecuted and congress is to be asked to supplement the existing penal code of the food act with amendments which will enable the government to reach its hands out and grapple the retailer who in many communities is charging exorbitant prices for food-stuffs.

Five homes in this city were entered at an early hour Sunday morning and four of these were robbed of jewelry and money, but so far there is no trace of the robber. It is thought the robber is the same man who entered the homes of Mrs. Kate Shannon and John Collier, and secured money and jewelry.

The home of W. C. Green on Seventh and Center street was entered by the front door, the door being blocked in such a manner by the robber when entering the home that it would allow him to make a quick getaway. He first entered the room of Clyde Green, where he secured $25 in cash, a diamond stick pin, cuff links and bunch of keys. He also entered the room of W. C. Green, father of Clyde Green, where he secured a purse containing some small change. The other rooms, where several young women were sleeping who are making their home at the Green residence, was not entered, nor a room occupied by Miss Hilda Myers, this room adjoining the one occupied by the other young women.

Miss Carl Green, who was sleeping in a room adjoining the room occupied by W. C. Green, heard foot-steps in the hall about 3 o'clock, but thought little of the noise, believing it a member of the household walking in the stairway. The following morning they discovered the robbery, and the door was found open as left by the robber. From the indications the robber had emptied the purse stolen from W. C. Green and dropped some of the pennies and nickels on the ground, and had made his escape by way of a narrow alley between the two buildings occupied by the Smith retiring shop and the Hazelwood dairy.

The next home visited by the robber was that of Miss Florence Grace, of Eighth and Washington streets. At Miss Grace's home were Miss Dimick, book-keeper for Price Brothers' store, who has an apartment there, and Miss Tallman, of Estacada, and Miss Grace. Miss Tallman, who was awakened by prowling in the reception hall, screamed, awakening Miss Grace, who saw a man standing near the door with a flashlight in his hand. The robber seemed to think this no place for him with one young woman screaming and the second awakening, as he made his escape without attempting further depredations.

Here's Food to Feed Big Army Thrust on Market

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The following are some of the principal food commodities and the amount available which the war department had listed as surplus and which are to be turned over for sale so that the public may profit by normal prices to be charged:

- Among the principal food products listed are 8,870,327 pounds of bacon and 5,205,955 cans of bacon, 38,581,085 cans of corned beef, 60,470,452 pounds of frozen fresh beef, 1,511,852 one-pound cans of roast beef, 12,135,991 two-pound cans of roast beef, 1,190,471 six-pound cans of roast beef, 7,005,960 pounds of fresh pork, 2,915,293 pounds of fresh frozen poultry, and 1,477,596 pounds of ham.

Today Secretary Baker agreed to a plan whereby municipalities may requisition this food from the department and sell it to the public, paying for it within 30 days, the government to fix a price below current high market prices.

The Power of a Dollar

The realization of the fallacy in boosting wages and then increasing the prices of all sorts of commodities is beginning to dawn upon the people of this country. The trainmen have finally recognized that higher pay really means nothing to them, as prices of food, clothing and everything else that go to make up the necessities of life advance as fast or even faster than have their wages, and the trainmen, in general, are probably the highest paid class of labor in the United States, and their working conditions are better than the average.

Down in Medford pears are being sold on the cars for about $3 a box, yet the fruit growers assert that they made more money when the price was $1.50.

There is a growing belief that profiteering is rampant that the woodpile has a nigger in it, and that something is rotten in Denmark. Wages have gone up by leaps and bounds and so has material, but the workman who receives $4.50 a day, or more, is in no better financial condition than when he was paid $2.50.

The president is reported as giving "grave thought and consideration" to the cost of living problem. He will have to do more than that. A rigid investigation is demanded and should be made, and it may disclose the real reason for excessive prices, if they are excessive. It may even result in the government fixing prices of all kinds of products, or enforcing strict regulations that will bring relief.

Wages go up and up and prices go higher, and to what end. The purchasing power of a dollar is the thing to be considered and is, after all, the only thing that is germane to the cost of living. Jim Hill's statement that the "cost of high living is the cost of living high" may have been true when he made it, but it is no longer true.

DISCONTENT OF NATION VITAL TOPIC AT CAPITOL

Washington, Aug. 4.—Organized labor came out today with the unequivocal, formal demand that private capital be retired from the railroads. A tripartite control, composed of the public, the operating management and the employees, is demanded instead.

Addressed to the American public and undersigned by the engineers, the firemen, the conductors and the American Federation of Labor, a formal statement was issued announcing this proposal, which will be carried before congress Wednesday.

"It marks," says the statement, "the step by which organized labor passes from demands for wage increases to demands that the system of profits in industry be overhauled." This sentence sums up in a few words the proposal of which there have been hints and indications, but which is now laid before the country for the first time. Everywhere in official Washington it is recognized as the most serious and far-reaching proposition the country will be called on to face.

Characterizing the proposal as labor's bill, it is put forth as a remedy for the high cost of living, because the railroads are the key industry of the nation.

It demands the genuine co-operation and partnership based on a real community of interest and participation in control of which Pres. Wilson spoke to congress and which the statement says has been ignored by labor and the private owners of the railroads.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The nation today is face to face with the problem of the rising cost of living. President Wilson hurried home from a week-end trip down the Potomac today to devote his entire attention to the question. Railroad officials at the capital were summoned to a conference by Director General Hines to meet with him in wrestling with the living cost problem and its attendant feature—strikes.

From all parts of the country come reports of further price increases and further demands on the part of the workers for more money to provide the actual necessities of life. An example of the trend was a report from Chicago on an increase by pie manufacturers in the price of pies, attributed to the higher cost of fruits, other materials and labor, followed immediately by a report that the restaurant keepers had followed suit and increased the price to their patrons. This trend it is which is bringing the matter to the people—the fact that the middleman or dealer never seems to bear the brunt, but shifts every increase in price directly to the consumer, usually with an added profit.

27,000 METAL TRADES WORKERS IN MONTANA VOTE FOR WALKOUT

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 1.—The metal trades workers of Butte, Anaconda and Great Falls have overwhelmingly voted to strike unless the mining companies accept the demands of the workers for higher wages and improved working conditions. Approximately 27,000 men are affected.

PLANS ARE COMPLETE FOR VISIT OF EDITORS

Plans are complete for the dedication ceremonies of the monument erected by Willard P. Hawley, Sr., president of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, to commemorate the site of the Oregon Spectator, the first newspaper published west of the Rocky mountains, which will be held next Saturday during the visit of the delegates of the National Editorial association to this city on their tour of the West coast.

It is expected that 500 members of the association will be in attendance at the dedication ceremonies, making the trip from Portland on the special train to be run by the Portland Railway, Light & Power company for the occasion. The party is scheduled to arrive in Oregon City at 4:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon and will remain in the city about two hours.

The following is the official program for the afternoon:

Party will leave Portland on the 4 o'clock electric train for Oregon City from the Alder street station. Arrive in Oregon City at 4:45 o'clock.

5:00 p. m.—Unveiling of monument ceremonies at the Hawley company's plant.

E. E. Brodie, national executive committee member, presiding.

Welcome to the editors—Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, author of "McLoughlin and Old Oregon," and other historical works.

Remarks—W. P. Hawley, president of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, and donor of the monument.

Address—"The First Pacific Coast Newspaper," George H. Hines, assistant secretary of the Oregon Historical society.

Address—"Historical Treasures of Oregon City," Mrs. Jennie Barlow Harding, past regent Susannah Lee Barlow chapter, Daughters of American Revolution.

Unveiling of the monument—Mrs. Guy U. Hardy and Aaron Wait, grandson of the fourth editor of the Oregon Spectator.

Remarks—Guy U. Hardy, president of the National Editorial association. After the ceremonies, the entire party will adjourn to the Hawley mills to inspect one of the country's largest paper machines at the Hawley Pulp & Paper company's plant, which will be in operation at that time.

BREEDER OF FANCY HOGS WILL COMPETE AT FALL EXHIBITS

George DeBok, of Willamette, was among those of Clackamas county attending the Holstein sale at the stock farm of Mr. Pomeroy at Scappoose recently. Mr. DeBok purchased a 10-months' old Holstein animal, for which he paid $180, and he announced he will engage in the dairy industry as well as farming at Willamette. The animal purchased a few days ago is one of high breeding, and will probably be placed in the show ring at the Clackamas county fair in October, as Mr. DeBok has charge of the livestock department of the fair, and is encouraging others to enter their stock.

Mr. DeBok, who is a breeder of Duroc-Jersey swine, and has won many prizes at livestock shows and fairs, sold one of his Duroc boars, "Crimson Wonder," recently, the purchaser being Frank Slater, who expects to engage in the swine industry and will breed blooded stock.

Mr. DeBok has some of the best Duroc-Jersey swine at his farm that are to be found in the county. The herd boar weighs 600 pounds and will be among those to be exhibited at the coming county fair. There are other animals on the farm that tip the scales at 300 and 350 pounds that will also be entered for prizes at the Gresham and Conby fairs.

Besides engaging in the swine industry Mr. DeBok is also farming, and has five acres planted to cabbage and cauliflower; five acres to sweet corn, a portion of which is of the Golden West variety; 2 acres to field corn and a large portion to various kinds of vegetables.

Highway to Astoria Complete By Sept. 15

ASTORIA, Aug. 5.—S. Benson of the state highway commission has advised the Astoria chamber of commerce that the Warren Construction company has informed him that the highway between Svenson and Astoria will be completed by September 15.
