CALL TO ARMS IS HEARD AND HEEDED

COMPANY G MOBILIZES RAPIDLY
WHEN SUDDEN ORDER IS SOUNDED

GUARDS CAMP AT CLACKAMAS

Captain Blanchard Foresees Service
on Border and Maybe in Foreign Country

The call to arms has been sounded. Sudden as was the order to mobilize the troops of the Oregon National guard, Company G of Oregon City, commanded by Captain Lowell E. Blanchard was not found wanting and within a few hours after the summons came Captain Blanchard had a majority of his men in uniform and under arms.

Throughout Monday and Tuesday the men and officers of Company G worked strenuously at the tasks incident to mobilization and by Wednesday morning had recruited to more than the minimum strength required by United States army regulations and were at the concentration camp at Clackamas station. Captain Blanchard received a brief command on Sunday night and throughout the night and the early hours of the morning was a most active person in gathering his flock of guardsmen together under the shelter of Busch hall, the company's armory.

Lieutenant William R. Logus and Second Lieutenant Eldon Blanchard were on the job soon after orders were received by the captain and they cared for the details of the mobilization of the command preparatory to its departure for Clackamas. Within a few hours the junior officers had secured more than twenty enlistments from young men from all stations in the life of the community who had the warlike ambition.

By Tuesday evening the army had been cleared of equipment and all had been shipped to the state rifle range which is the site of the concentration camp for troops of this state. Telegrams from members of the company in several sections of the state had been received announcing their intention of joining the local force at the earliest possible moment and the departure on Wednesday marked one of the most prompt and orderly mobilizations reported from any of the valley cities. The company left fully equipped for most strenuous field duty and prepared in the spirit of the occasion for anything that duty demands of them.

"Although the orders I have received say nothing of border service, other than to intimate that such is the purpose of the mobilization of the citizen soldiery of the entire United States, I see nothing that would indicate that the guard will not see active service on the border, and that probably within less than a month," said Captain Blanchard. "There could be no other purpose for this great national troop movement, as the expense of an experiment at this time is too great for the government to bear if there is not a very serious motive behind it. I know no more about the plans of the war department than any citizen, but I am certain that the Oregon National guard will see service."

The junior officers and enlisted men of the company, representing every industry in the city, are enthusiastic over the prospects of the first actual service since the Spanish-American war, and authorities on the Mexican situation predict that their services will be demanded by the war department before the concentration camp is any more than well-established. Heads of local industries have been willing to have their employees join the colors and in many cases have promised the reinstatement of militia members upon their return from service. Sixty-five men and officers comprise the local force which is encamped at Clackamas.

On Monday five hours were spent in drill and the new members of the company were put through a stiff training session. On Tuesday the same dose was repeated and each day at the concentration camp will be featured by approximately five hours of drill and tactical duty. On Monday afternoon the rifle and drum corps of the Grand army visited the armory and played martial airs and also appeared on Main street with their instruments. The entire period of mobilization in Oregon City has been featured by orderly haste and a marvelous amount of work was accomplished in the short time between the receipt of orders and the transfer of troops and equipment to Clackamas. There is no doubt that the officers of Company G have been the busiest men in the county since Sunday night, but the enthusiasm and the spirit of it all has offset any tiring effects of the strenuous labor.

The wives of the local officers and the wives and sweethearts of the enlisted men have been the most interested among the great number of spectators during the mobilization of the company. For the most part the

MINER FILES ANSWER TO TOOZE COMPLAINT

COME-BACK IS SUPPLEMENT TO FORMER CHARGES MADE BY PRINCIPAL

Supplementing his charges presented to the state department of education and to the Oregon City school board against City Superintendent F. J. Tooze, C. G. Miner, former principal of the high school here, has filed an answer to the complaint filed against him in the circuit court by Superintendent Tooze.

Mr. Miner admits having made every declaration alleged by the superintendent and rather than forego the force of any of these he adds to them, at least by reiteration. Mr. Miner admits the authorship of letters to State Superintendent Churchill and includes in his statement the use of the words "immorality" and "dishonesty." It is explained, however, that immorality has other meanings than the common one, and the dictionaries indicate that the word is synonymous with dishonesty and others of similar meaning. Mr. Miner according to his statement, probably did not intend to convey the impression that the superintendent was unchaste.

Superintendent Tooze has filed suit against the former high school head asking for libel damages of $20,000. The suit, prepared by Christian Schubel, contains two counts of action; the first deals with Mr. Miner's charge to State Superintendent Churchill in which Mr. Tooze was said to be dishonest and immoral and the author of anonymous letters. The second count deals with the publication of a story in a Portland newspaper, said to have been submitted for publication through or by Mr. Miner.

In answering this action Mr. Miner does little more than to reiterate the charges he had already made. He says:

"The Plaintiff is so given to falsehood, chicanery and deceit, and has so practiced the same in the said schools of the said district, among and toward the teachers and pupils of the school, and especially in the said high school, that he is, does and during the last school year did have a shameful and evil effect upon the students of the high school and kept the teaching force in such an uncertain and perturbed state of mind as almost to disorganize the high school and did prevent the teachers from conducting the said school in an efficient manner."

"Plaintiff had no certificate to teach school and defendant learned of and had knowledge of the foregoing alleged facts and honestly believed that plaintiff was thereby unfit to hold the said position of superintendent of schools, and further found that the only charge covering such acts of plaintiff as hereinbefore alleged was 'immorality' and before a certificate should be issued to a teacher he should present evidence of good moral character and personal fitness—that defendant had no intent to charge and did not charge plaintiff with lewdness."

Ladies have been as brave in the face of the possible danger to their husbands and friends as have the men themselves, but they were at the armory during practically the entire time of the assembling of the company.

Memories of the days of '98 attracted many Spanish-American war veterans to the armory to witness mobilization proceedings. To a man these veterans expressed a desire to get into the uniform of service once more if their age and business would permit. Many of these men have advanced greatly in the business world since their war and many have taken upon themselves the "ties that bind," so that their enlistment is impossible. Those, however, who are free have been enlisting in great numbers.

Norby P. Hoff, son of State Labor Commissioner O. P. Hoff is a non-commissioned officer in Captain Blanchard's command. Mr. Hoff was a member of Company G for a short time some years ago and when he heard the call to duty he came to Oregon City from a good position in Portland to take up arms. Mr. Hoff is a graduate of the Oregon Agricultural college and while there received the primary military training that qualifies him as an experienced soldier with the national guard.

Second Lieutenant Eldon Blanchard, brother of Captain Blanchard, both of Company G, returned on Tuesday evening from Aberdeen, Wash., as soon as possible after receipt of orders. Lieutenant Blanchard had only recently located at Aberdeen where he was agent for the American-Wells Fargo express companies.

After a severe and long-houred siege of labor First Lieutenant William R. Logus took a well-earned vacation on Tuesday and spent the day in Portland. Lieutenant Logus has been with the local company since its organization and is known as one of the most efficient officers in the service. He served through the Spanish-American war as a member of Com-

HEDGES RE-ELECTED A SCHOOL DIRECTOR

LODER ONLY OPPONENT OF MAN WHO PLEDGES DEVELOPMENT OF SCHOOLS

With factions working against him Joseph E. Hedges was re-elected director on the Oregon City school board on Monday by 79 votes out of a total of 339. John W. Loder, city recorder and local attorney, was the only opponent of Mr. Hedges for the five-year term which is to go again to Mr. Hedges.

The balloting was a source of much interest to taxpayers throughout the day and at least three factions were at work among those entitled to vote. Attack was made upon Mr. Hedges because of the action of which he was father and which accomplished the banishment of an anti-Roman Catholic newspapers from the tables of the local library. This action was as significant of Mr. Hedges' Catholic inclination, but such a supposition was found to be absolutely without foundation. Mr. Hedges is not a member of any church and members of his family are not allied with the Catholic denomination.

"Americanism and peace, preparedness and prosperity—are the issues upon which the democratic party stands, and the heart of democracy swells with pride that is more than a pride of party as it hails the man, who has asserted this Americanism, assured this peace, advocated this preparedness and produced this prosperity."—Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York.

The second faction attacking Mr. Hedges is said to have been the friends of Fred J. Tooze, city school superintendent. These persons would have accomplished the defeat of the incumbent for the political advantage the superintendent could gain by the election of Mr. Loder. In addition to these a few of the friends of Mr. Hedges took a personal interest in his campaign and are said to have brought a number of voters to the polls. Mr. Hedges has been out of the city for more than a week and took no part in the campaign for his re-election.

The polls were opened at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon and closed at 6 o'clock. Only property owners, including owners of stock in local corporations, are allowed the franchise in school elections and the fact that 339 votes were polled is considered a fair representation.

Mr. Hedges' term as school director will not be interrupted. He has been re-elected for five years and the last term and the new one will be continuous. He is well-known in this community as an active and progressive citizen, with the welfare of the school system deeply implanted and his re-election is a source of gratification to his many friends. His service on the board in the past has been very creditable and before the election on Monday he pledged himself to maintain the same rules of conduct in connection with the schools as he has been working out in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Holman of Dallas, Ore., were visitors in Oregon City this morning en route to Portland. Mr. Holman is county treasurer of Polk county, and is in line for election as county clerk. He was touring to Portland to take Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Tetherow of Falls City, to the pioneer convention in the metropolis.

CAMPAIGN AROUSES INTEREST IN CLUBS

H. C. SEYMOUR SPEAKS HIGHLY OF COUNTY OFFICERS FOR SCHOOL WORK

The campaign to interest pupils of the Clackamas county schools in industrial club projects in connection with their class duties received impetus last week when H. C. Seymour, state leader of industrial club work for the Oregon Agricultural college spent two days visiting schools in different parts of the county. Mr. Seymour was accompanied by Superintendent Calavan on his trips about the county.

Notwithstanding the fact that classes had been dismissed for the summer vacation the officers had no trouble in assembling large numbers of the pupils at the several school houses where meetings were held, and the talks proved the attraction of the industrial club plan, with the result that a great many more boys and girls will take part in the projects than ever before. On Monday Mr. Seymour spoke to many audiences and on Friday visited Gladstone, Jennings Lodge, Ardenwald, Oak Grove, Milwaukie, Clackamas and Harmony.

In these schools Mr. Seymour found the club work well under way and found the children not only interested in their work, but accomplishing pleasing results. This was especially true of the Oak Grove, Milwaukie and Ardenwald schools. The club members are already planning exhibits for local, county and state fairs this fall. In most cases money has already been raised to finance these exhibits.

Oak Grove and Milwaukie pupils plan to hold local exhibits of their products just before the time of the county fair. This will materially assist in the work of assembling for the latter and when the local and county fairs are off the boards the displays will be taken to Salem to form a part of the county exhibit.

"The development of club work in Clackamas county compares very favorably with conditions I find in any other county in the state," said Mr. Seymour after his meetings on Friday. Mr. Seymour has visited practically every hamlet in the state since he took up the duties of state leader with the O. A. C. He was formerly county superintendent of schools in Polk county and is an authority in school affairs. It was largely through his work as a school superintendent that the industrial club plan got such an active start in this state and it is now through his efforts that it is keeping the interest of thousands of pupils. Mr. Seymour said: "In fact, I find the club work here in a better condition in many ways than I have found it anywhere else. For this fact I can only praise Superintendent Calavan and Supervisor Vedder for the admirable work they have been doing. They are very capable partners and I can say that the whole extension department is very proud of them for their work."

Mr. Seymour will return to this county about July 15 with a staff of six assistants to conduct a great industrial club revival campaign in which every phase of the work will be taken up with every pupil that can be reached in the county. The campaign, under the direction of Mr. Seymour and the county officers will be carried on by the college experts from July 15 to 20, inclusive, and is destined to be one of the greatest and most enthusiastic grade educational features the county has known. Mr. Seymour will bring extension specialists in all lines and together with his own work and that of the county officers Clackamas county will undoubtedly forge to the front rapidly with her school industrial clubs.

COUNCIL APPROPRIATES

Five Hundred Dollars Presented to Guard Company

At a special meeting of the city council held late Tuesday afternoon, an ordinance was presented and passed both readings authorizing the appropriation of $500 for the benefit of Company G, O. N. G., as part of a fund that was being raised by a committee from the Live Wires of the Commercial club.

The committee, comprising H. E. Williams, O. D. Eby, M. D. Latourette, C. Schubel and George Harding, waited upon the council with a request for this donation and with very little discussion the worth of such an appropriation was made evident to the councilmen, with the result that the appropriation had the unanimous support of the body.

With $100 provided through subscription from Live Wire members, the $500 given to the company by the council for the appropriation of $350 by the county court, Company G has gone into camp with a company fund approximating $1000. This will be used in the most efficient manner to provide those luxuries which men from civil life will demand during the first part of their enforced military life when the rations provided by the government commissary do not meet the demands of the untrained stomach.

You can get the Courier for one year for $1.00—if you pay in advance.

POSTAL WORKERS TO ASSEMBLE SATURDAY

CONVENTION

Next Saturday Oregon City will be turned over to the three state associations of postoffice employees for the annual convention of the organization here, and the local hosts are planning an extensive and very interesting program for the entertainment of the guests, who will number close to 400 persons.

Those who will come to Oregon City are the rural carriers and city carriers and the mail clerks, and an interesting note in this connection is the fact that the presidents of the three individual associations are employees of the local office. Frank Whiteman is president of the rural carriers association; John Etcheson of the city carriers and Carl Joehne of the mail clerks. The municipality has shown its interest in the convention by the appropriation of $75 to help in defraying the expenses incident to the entertainment of the visitors.

The first feature of the program will be an address of welcome by Mayor Hackett. This meeting will be held at Busch's hall and following Mayor Hackett, T. Leston Kirk will speak. Mr. Kirk was the first western man to become a member of the national board. His station now is at Bremerton, Wash. Other speakers during the day will be the Rev. James Elvin of Salem and Herman Wise of Astoria. District Attorney G. L. Hedges will act as toastmaster.

Committees in charge of the convention include: Arrangements, J. L. Spagle, Charles Andrus, William Lettemeier and Hazen Brainard; publicity, Mrs. C. A. Nash, Charles Andrus and John Egr; refreshments, Roy Trullinger, Thomas Smith and Ralph Niles; finance, W. B. Howell, Ralph Niles and Orville Johnson; reception, Luther McNulty, Otto Lyman, Frank Fuge, Perry Meek and Roy Trullinger.

The following program is outlined by the hosts:

Saturday afternoon, 1:30 to 2:30, trip to the mills; 3 to 6 o'clock, business session; 7 to 8:30, parade and auto ride; 8:30, banquet at Busch's hall, with G. L. Hedges as toastmaster; instrumental music, orchestra; selection, Canemah quartet; address, Rev. James Elvin; instrumental music, orchestra; address, Herman Wise; selection, Canemah quartet; address, T. Leston Kirk; patriotic song, "Star Spangled Banner."

BOYSEN GETS TERM IN JAIL AND FINE

JUDGE CAMPBELL GIVES MAXIMUM SENTENCE; SCORES
OLD OFFENDER

Fritz Boysen, whose booze has made Milwaukie famous, will probably appeal from the decision rendered in Circuit Judge J. U. Campbell's court on Friday finding him guilty on a charge of selling intoxicants at the Hotel Belle, Milwaukie. Judge Campbell sentenced Boysen on Friday to six months in jail and a fine of $500 in the case which was appealed from the justice court.

If an appeal is not taken Mr. Boysen will probably ask for a new trial and he has ten days from the date of the decision to prepare such a motion. The Milwaukie tavern keeper is at liberty for the time being under bail for $2000, double the amount that gave him freedom before the trial.

Boysen's trial was featured by the evidence of Miss Helen Sullivan, arrested last week by Sheriff Wilson while on the ferry between Vancouver and Portland, just after her release from the Clarke county, Washington, jail. She was one of a number who testified that she secured intoxicants at the Belle hotel and her testimony was valuable to the state's case, presented by District Attorney Gilbert L. Hedges and Deputy Thomas C. Burke.

The jury in the case was out twenty-four hours, with the exception of a few minutes and many ballots were required to establish the verdict. John H. Stevenson, attorney for Boysen, maintained that the deliberations of the jury were proof that the evidence presented was inconclusive, but this had no weight with the court, which had opinions of its own regarding the guilt of the defendant. In passing judgment Judge Campbell scored Mr. Boysen.

"You have been before this court three times. As far as this county is concerned you are up against it," said Judge Campbell, employing a popular phrase to carry to Boysen's mind what he need expect if a new trial is sought. "I know, from the statements of a man who is very close to me, but who has never been on the witness stand, just what kind of a den you have operated since the first of the year, and before that time. You have violated the law many times since the first of the year and I have authority for the assertion

COUNCIL UNKIND TO JITNEY PLAN

ALDERMAN TEMPLETON WAXES
ELOQUENT IN DENOUNCING
OF PETITIONERS

COUNCIL VACATES STREET

City Will Build 5,000,000 Gallon Reservoir. May Sell West Linn Bonds for Fund

When the good taxpayers of the Oswego district stretched their imaginations to that point where they dreamed of having established a jitney service between Portland and Oregon City by way of Oswego, that they might have other means of transportation to the county seat than that provided by nature, they forgot to reckon with Councilman Templeton.

At the meeting of the Oregon City council last evening a delegation of Oswego patriots, led by E. James Jones, editor of the Oswego Times, and V. F. Cooper, presented the traffic situation to the council with a prayer that something might be done to permit a jitney to operate into this city. No sooner had Mr. Jones finished a statement regarding the desire of west side residents to bring their trade and banking to the county seat than Councilman Templeton had the floor.

Mr. Templeton employed personalities and strong statements to show his objection to the transportation scheme proposed. The alderman laid down the law to the delegation and to the Oswego Times, expressing his opinion of the latter and its editor in terms of certain scorn. He concluded his tirade with a motion to lay the proposition on the table. An amendment was moved by Councilman Cox, and carried after much discussion, to put the matter in the hands of a committee for investigation. The mayor appointed Templeton, Metzner and Roake as members of this committee, and in the mind of the visitors thereby put the last nail in the coffin of their hopes, for Templeton and Metzner are avowed enemies of any such plan as that desired by the Oswego delegation.

An ordinance prepared and presented by C. D. Latourette as attorney for the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, asked for the vacation of Fourth street between Main street and the bluff. The ordinance was presented with the approval of City Attorney Schubel and passed the first reading. The first regular meeting next month has been set as the time for the final reading.

In spite of the fact that the council recently voted a temporary permit to Ransoh and Lamb, pool hall operators, for the removal of their business to the basement of the Andressen building, the council promising an ordinance covering the move after the expiration of the three-month permit, the body refused to recognize its pledge through an ordinance presented for the pool hall owners by W. A. Dimick. Mr. Dimick took occasion to score the council for its change of faith and charged them with forcing a legitimate business from the city. A city ordinance in effect at present provides that all pool or billiard halls must be on the ground floor and visible from the street.

The city proposes to build a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir and in a scheme to provide funds for the purpose contemplates the sale of certain West Linn improvement bonds which it owns. The legality of such a sale has been questioned and by a majority vote of the council the matter of the bond proposition was referred to the water board with power to act.

Permission to occupy a small section of Water street, which is already covered by a building, was granted to Mr. Frisbie.

Authority to accept the resignation of the present fire alarm tender and the power to employ his successor was vested in the fire and water committee by a vote of the council.

By unanimous vote the council upheld the action of Mayor Hackett in tentatively promising that Chief of Police Blanchard would be reinstated in his position with the city upon his return from duty with Company G, O. N. G., of which he is commanding officer.

that you have sold liquor illicitly within the last ten days."

"The Hotel Belle is a notorious blind pig," said District Attorney Gilbert L. Hedges in requesting that the court impose the maximum sentence, "and its owner is a hard man, and a stubborn fighter behind the best legal talent he can secure. Blind pigging can only be curbed by putting the 'piggy' where he belongs."

Oak Lawn Elects

The annual school election held at the Oak Lawn school, district number 22, resulted in the election to the board of directors of Alfred Schneider by a large majority over John McKenzie. P. J. Schneider was unanimously elected clerk of the board.

The Oak Lawn school has just closed a prosperous and very successful year with Mrs. Belknap as teacher.
