COMPANY TO RUN JITNEY SERVICE

COUNCIL GRANTS P. R. L. & P.
ALL RIGHTS TO AUTO
BUS BUSINESS

MAYOR READS HIS MESSAGE

Metzner is President. Standing Committees Appointed. New Member Seated

All privileges for the operation of jitney lines in and about Oregon City were given to the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. at the meeting of the city council on Wednesday night, and at the same time the franchise application of W. M. Foster was turned down when it came up for final passage. The P. R. L. & P. Co. application passed first reading.

In the form it has been put the company promises to operate lines between Main street and Mountain View, giving hourly service, and between Oregon City and Oswego, and is sought with the understanding that there shall be no competition. C. D. Latourette represented the company legally and G. C. Fields, interurban traffic superintendent, was at the meeting. Livy Stipp represented W. M. Foster and H. E. Cross appeared for Stephen Carver, who contemplates the operation of busses to such outlying communities at Logan, Highland and Viola. The meeting was featured by hot debates between Councilman Albright and lawyers and between attorneys. Most of the session was devoted to a discussion of the jitney problem. Councilmen Albright and Buckles were the only ones to vote finally in favor of the Foster application.

Aside from the jitney debate, the feature of the meeting, attended by many citizens, was the reading by Mayor E. C. Hackett of the annual message to the council. Mayor Hackett spoke especially of road work within the city and pointed out the fallacy of any plan other than one to provide permanent improvements. He said:

"We have just completed a year of service for the people and are just commencing a new year of such service."

"In doing this 'tis sometimes well to look back over the work we've just done to see where we can improve matters. We have about kept within the budget for the past year, and it certainly behooves us to keep within our budget for this coming year, as we are each personally responsible if we do not."

"When it is known that the citizens of Oregon City will be required to pay 40.8 mills for this year, it tells a story that ought not to go abroad; and yet we ought to bear this in mind in all that pertains to the welfare of the city, and it ought to teach us to be careful what we do. A man that is badly in debt cannot do and act as the man who is well to do, and so it is with us and the city."

"And it behooves us to be more than careful of the people's money, and I hope that some day we may burn the mortgage and say that we are out of debt."

"I am very anxious to see the day when we can say that we own our electric plant and can have light at half what we are paying now and perhaps less. I'm sure the people would appreciate any improvements that could be made along this line. I am anxious to see a system adopted of hard surfacing our streets. To this end I appointed a man who is an expert at the business, but you did not see fit to confirm him—so if you can devise any better way of getting at this proposition please get busy."

"The present method of patching up streets with crushed rock is a willful waste of the people's money, and especially so on streets that have much traffic on them. Pavements can now be made that are quite within the reach of the people, and whatever we do let's be sure and do it right. This is economy in the long run. We have wasted money enough in years past to have paved the entire town, but we didn't know it; but its time to wake up."

"We beg and ask the assistance of the good people of this city and the press that we may all work in harmony and endeavor to build the foundation right, that those who follow us may find the trail well-blazed. I wish to thank you one and all for your kind assistance in the past and trust the future may bear better fruit."

Mayor Hackett appointed the following standing committees for the year: streets and public property, Metzner, Bridges and Buckles; fire and water, Albright, Bridges and Buckles; health and police, Cox, Moore and Friedrich; finance, Templeton, Van Aiken and Moore; cemetery, Van Aiken, Templeton and Moore.

At a special meeting of the council on Tuesday evening, the aldermen elected Councilmen Fred Metzner as president of the body to succeed Roy B. Cox. Isom C. Bridges, newly

COUNCILMAN'S SEAT IS OBJECT OF SUIT

MR. ANDREWS DECLARES THAT BRIDGES NOT QUALIFIED TO OCCUPY PLACE

A battle of lawyers will be waged to determine the eligibility of Isom C. Bridges to serve as a member of the Oregon City council, to which he was elected by the voters of ward three at the special city election last month. Mr. Andrews on Tuesday brought suit against Mr. Bridges. E. B. Andrews, who was defeated for re-election to the council by Mr. Bridges, declared that Mr. Bridges' election was unlawful because of the fact that he had not resided in the city for one year prior to the date of election.

The complaint in the case, although the state is merely a figurehead in the attack, was signed by District Attorney Gilbert L. Hodges and Livy Stipp, who has been retained by Mr. Andrews. It alleges that Mr. Bridges, who claims a residence of 15 years in this city, moved with his family away from Oregon City on February 24, 1914, and did not return until June 15, 1916. It says that Mr. Bridges is guilty of "unlawful intrusion and usurpation" of aldermanic duties and asks that his election be declared void.

The city charter specifies that a requisite to election is a residence of one year within the city prior to the election. Mr. Andrews, councilman from ward three, sought re-election and was defeated by a favorable margin.

At its meeting on Tuesday night the council, aware that this action had been brought, voted to seat Mr. Bridges and permit him to have an official voice in the business of the city until such time as the pending suit is settled.

NON-SUIT ALLOWED

Oliver Fails to Get Damages From City for Girl's Death

The city of Oregon City is not held responsible for the injuries to the late Miss Carrie Oliver, inasmuch as Judge Campbell feels Miss Oliver did not exercise ordinary care when she fell backwards from a sidewalk, striking her head on pointed rocks ten feet below. The injuries caused almost immediate death and her father, David Oliver, brought suit against the city and J. W. Shea, a contractor, for $7500 damages. A non-suit was granted yesterday by Judge Campbell. A non-suit was obtained by City Attorney Schuebel when another complaint was filed last spring.

Miss Oliver had been playing on a sidewalk under construction on High street, June 30, 1914. The fact that the walk was under construction, Judge Campbell held, should be sufficient warning of danger. City Attorney C. Schuebel and City Prosecutor George L. Story each appeared in the courtroom for the city. Mr. Schuebel prosecuted the case himself, but upon request of Mr. Story the latter's name was entered on court records as a counsel for the city.

The jury in the case included C. H. Rider, J. D. Chitwood, J. W. Gray, Alex. Baker, E. Harrington, M. G. Smith, W. J. Hester, William Daniels, Clyde C. Saling, C. G. Stromgreen, C. G. Millard and G. N. Barker.

ARSON SUSPECTED

Feed Barn Owner Thinks Unknown
Enemy Set Saturday Night Fires

Because Edward L. Walters, owner of the Walters' feed barn in this city, sleeps on the premises, he probably prevented the total destruction of the property by fire on Saturday night. Mr. Walters was awakened early in the night in time to extinguish two small fires that had apparently been started by an arsonist for the purpose of burning the place. Mr. Walters found signs to indicate that the fires had been carefully set, but he put both fires out in time to prevent any damage.

She Asks Divorce
A divorce complaint was filed yesterday by Ada Marie Watts against Raymond B. Watts. The couple was married at Portland on June 9, 1915, and after an alleged course of cruel treatment Mr. Watts deserted his wife on December 23 last, the complaint says. Mrs. Watts asks the restoration of her maiden name, Ada Marie Wallace. She says she has not seen her husband since he left their home two days before Christmas in a fit of anger.

The Oregon City Courier and Oregon Daily Journal (except Sunday) 475.

elected councilman from the third ward, was seated officially pending the outcome of a circuit court action to have his election declared void. C. W. Friedrich, the other new member, also attended the meeting.

All appointive officers who served last year were reinstated by appointment of the mayor. These are Chief of Police L. E. Blanchard, Night Policemen Henry Cooke and George Woodward and City Engineer Miller. The members voted thanks to the mayor for his selections. An adjourned session of the council will be held on Friday evening.

OFFICIALS MAKE REPORT FOR YEAR

PAST SIX MONTHS HAVE BEEN BUSY IN AFFAIRS AT THE COURT HOUSE

COUNTY SPENDS $468,799

Circuit Court Has 591 Cases in 1916
and 237 of Them are Divorce
Complaints

The usual holiday lull in court house business gave the various officials time late last week and early this week to prepare and file with County Clerk Harrington their several statements of business for the past six months. Most of the figures included in these reports cover only one-half year, or from June 30 to January 1, but they form an interesting basis for approximating the business of the county as it is today.

County Clerk Harrington reports a decrease in sales of game licenses during the year, she having collected $2795 in 1916. Of this amount 95 per cent is turned over to the state government. The total of all fees collected by the county clerk in the past year is $7066. During the same period of time 591 cases of different kinds were filed in the clerk's office for action at the hands of the circuit court. Of these 237 were divorce complaints.

It cost Clackamas county $258,271 to conduct its business during the last six months of the year. That figure represents the sum of money issued in warrants by the clerk. For the first six months of the year the county government was operated more cheaply, for the clerk's report at that time showed warrants issued in the total sum of $210,528. The total cost for the year, then, is seen to be $468,799. This includes salaries of all officials and the total expenses of the several offices and officials.

In the recorder's office, where Dudley C. Boyles assumed his duties on Tuesday morning, $6054 was collected during the past year. This represents the gain to the county from charges made for filing deeds, mortgages and other documents of record. The sum has been turned over to the treasurer as collected.

Treasurer M. E. Dunn presented a statement to the county clerk showing a cash balance on hand, from all county funds, amounting to $59,456.07 at the close of business in 1916. With the beginning of business for the year there was on hand $35,553. Mr. Dunn's figures show that he has collected from the various officers and other sources, including the tax collector, $443,093 within the last six months. During the first half of the year, up to June 30, the treasury report shows $118,732, or a total for the year of $561,825.

The report submitted by Sheriff W. J. Wilson shows total collections for the half-year to be $296,262.05. The amount of taxes collected during that time on assessments for 1913, 1914 and 1915 was $295,948. Other collections were $52 from fire patrol and $260 from fees.

In all, the reports from the several offices show an increase of business of the first half-year and over the years previous.

WHISKY STILL FOUND

Officials Uncover Plant on Banks of River West of Canby

The Kentucky mountaineers with their fiction-famous whisky stills that have caused the federal government officials much worry and trouble, have nothing on Clackamas county. Such is the opinion of Sheriff W. J. Wilson and Deputy District Attorney Thomas A. Burke, who Saturday uncovered all the apparatus for the manufacture of whisky. The plant was found almost perfectly hidden on the banks of the Willamette four miles west of Canby. The property was destroyed, with the exception of considerable pipe, which was confiscated and brought to Oregon City. No liquor was found.

Searching for men who have been stealing from farmers in that neighborhood, officials last week located the illicit still. Its owners were not found, although suspects are A. G. Collins and Leonard Westfall, who are now under indictment and held in Marion county on burglary charges. The still was concealed near the cabin of A. J. Sivilly, a blind fisherman.

WILBUR'S TIME EXTENDED

Julius Wilbur, convicted proprietor of the Friars' club at Milwaukie, was before the court again last Thursday seeking time in which to prepare legal barriers against his incarceration for the six months' sentence pronounced by Judge Campbell recently. Wilbur has been granted 15 days in which to file a bill of exceptions and the time for filing a transcript of appeal to the supreme court has been extended to February 20.

D. CUPID OUTCLASSED BY DIVORCE COURTS

DIVORCES GRANTED IN 1916 EX-
CEED MARRIAGE LICENSES
BY TOTAL OF 27

Although young D. Cupid, that intrepid moulder of romance and welder of matrimonial bonds, is not entirely obscure in Clackamas county, it is a fact that his delightful works are sadly overshadowed and proved to be very fickle by the grim hand of the law through the divorce court.

In records in County Clerk Harrington's office, the fact that 237 divorce decrees were granted by Judge J. U. Campbell during the year just passed reveals itself. This is three decrees more than were granted in 1915, showing that the law is consistent. How this record offsets that established by our little friend Cupid is apparent from the fact that 210 marriage licenses were issued during 1916, bringing to the county treasury $630 and to the judges, justices and ministers of the city a neat little fortune.

Oregon City is most willing that Vancouver, Wash., claim all honors as the Gretna Green of the northwest, especially in view of the admirable record established this year in Judge Campbell's court. More than 1000 marriage licenses were issued in Vancouver, Wash., in 1916, and it is a noticeable fact that a good percentage of the divorce decrees granted in Oregon City, although not a majority, perhaps, separated couples married at Vancouver. One divorce complaint filed here this year followed within less than a month the marriage ceremony performed at Vancouver. While Vancouver claims distinction as a Gretna Green, Oregon City might properly assume designation as the northwest's Reno.

WATER BOARD SAYS IT SUPPORTS SELF

SYSTEM HAS 1283 USERS AND PROFIT IS REALIZED ON BUSINESS FOR YEAR

The semi-annual report of the Oregon City board of water commissioners shows the healthy condition of that branch of the affairs of the municipality and shows the disposition of $54,852.71, which represents the total receipts of the board since June 30. The report was presented officially at the meeting of the city council last night. During the past six months, the report further shows, the board expended $49,726.95, leaving a surplus that will permit the board to transact future business on a cash basis, since there are no more outstanding warrants.

The water system now includes 1283 users, having had 203 connections added within the past half-year. These users paid to the board $29,916, helping somewhat to increase the departments' assets to $487,730.60. The liabilities before the board in preparing the report amounted to $72,730.60.

Inasmuch as the system had been added to within six months by the completion of the 5,000,000-gallon reservoir and the laying of several miles of pipe, the report is considered good. Two large warehouses have been added to the equipment and a site for another reservoir purchased. There are outstanding bonds of the issue of 1912 in the sum of $40,000 and of the issue of 1915, covering the south fork line, $375,000. The board's greatest asset is a two-third interest in the south fork line, valued at $233,000.

YOUNG THIEVES JAILED

Youths Have Rendezvous in Cottage on Fourth Street. Have Confessed

Having confessed to the robbery of the Everhart & Hall and the Reddaway grocery stores, Ewald Snyder, aged 19, and George Taylor, about the same age, are held in the county jail here. Snyder was arrested several days ago and Taylor, who was held on vagrancy charges by the Portland police, was turned over to local officials on Tuesday.

The arrest of Snyder is due to the ability of Police Chief Blanchard, Sheriff Wilson and Constable Frost, who located and arrested the youth after being given a very slight clue upon which to base their search. The arrest was made in a deserted cottage on Fourth street, where the boys had been making their headquarters.

Snyder is the same lad who was arrested here last spring and was committed to the state training school. He escaped from that institution and went to Idaho, according to his own story. In Idaho he was again arrested, but escaped from jail and returned to Oregon. He was arrested by Portland officers last week and released.

Marriage License

A marriage license was issued yesterday by County Clerk Harrington to Helen Gay Full and A. C. Shadlinger of Warren, Ore.

WIRES TO OPPOSE COUNTY DIVISION

MEETING CALLED WITH COUNTY
COURT FOR FRIDAY. MAY GET ROADS

PLAN A MEETING AT OSWEGO

Retain Expert to Appraise Property.
Special Interests Charged With Agitation

Armed with several ambitious plans to fight the agitation for the division of Clackamas county by cutting off a strip including the Oswego neighborhood to be added to Multnomah county, the Live Wires of the Commercial club will wait upon the county court tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. The delegation hopes to induce the court to promise Oswego a definite road program for the coming summer and for the future, including the hard surfacing of the main road between that city and the Multnomah county line.

This action is the result of considerable discussion of the subject at the weekly meeting of the Wires on Tuesday. It is also contemplated to send a group, including as many of the members as possible, to Oswego to hold a mass meeting. The proposition will be put up to the dissatisfied taxpayers of that community from Oregon City's standpoint, and from the information that has been brought to Oregon City from there, the local business men hope and believe they can show Oswego folk the folly of their ways.

G. F. Johnson, who is retiring as chief deputy in the office of the county assessor, has been retained by the Wires to prepare a report upon the assessed valuation of all taxable property in the district which would withdraw from this county. He will be asked to include in this report the amount of taxes paid by the district. The statement will be used in an attempt to cool the tempers of Oswego people.

The nature of the discussion at the meeting of Tuesday gave the impression that the general opinion is that Oswego and her environs have not been accorded the most impartial treatment, and the belief is that the district is entitled to as good roads as any other part of the county. The report that the county court planned to erect a paving plant on the west side of the river and pave the entire distance of road between West Linn and the Multnomah county line next summer was discussed. W. P. Hawley, Sr., advanced the idea that Hawley, Sr., advanced the idea that local business men hold a mass meeting at Oswego as soon as possible to show the good faith in which this community is acting and to induce the taxpayers there to drop their activity.

A commercial club meeting has been called for tonight at the club rooms here to interest that body officially in the plans for curbing the activities of certain interests which are especially anxious for the proposed division. Direct charges were made at the meeting of the Live Wires Tuesday that A. King Wilson, mayor of Oswego and Portland attorney, and the Oregon Iron & Steel company, a Ladd interest owning much property in the Oswego district, are responsible for the activity that would divide the county. Senator Walter A. Dimick, who has taken an interest in the entire procedure and who has much valuable information concerning the plans for the division, expressed the thought that a meeting at Oswego, where a definite road program could be promised the district, would do a great deal toward smoothing things over. He reported that practically the entire Multnomah county legislative delegation had been lined up to support the bill for the division, which, it has been stated, will be offered at Salem this month by Herman A. Lewis, joint senator.

The Live Wires have issued a special request to all in any way interested in the division questions to be present at the meeting with the county court tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. Indications are that the court will be in a mood to consider favorably the creditable plan fathered by the Wires and that the result will be the outlining of a definite road program for the coming summer.

CARVER WOULD BUILD

Extension of Rail Line to Highland is Plan of Owner

Stephen Carver, owner of the Portland & Oregon City railway, operating between Portland and Baker's Bridge, proposes the early extension of track into the Highland country and is preparing to issue $350,000 in bonds to finance the proposition. It is said to be the intention of Mr. Carver and his associates to build a branch from Dedman station to Oregon City, but plans for such work will not be carried out in the immediate future, it is thought. The proposed road into the Highland and Viola countries will tap rich properties, following up Clear Creek.

TAX COMMISSION TO BE DONE AWAY WITH

COURIER'S SUGGESTION PLACED IN SLASHING PROGRAM
AT SALEM

Outwardly, it would appear that the Courier's mild mannered agitation for the abolishment of the state tax commission and the consolidation of the duties of that useless figurehead of the state administration is to bear almost as much fruit as we had hoped for from a certain type of state government which has the poor old state of Oregon by the nape of the neck and the seat of the pants. Reports from Salem say that a plan is under consideration for the abolishment of that commission to the extent that its work will be turned over to one commissioner. That is hardly as good an idea as throwing all the commission-ers out and turning the few remaining tasks of the tax commission over to the public service commission.

Dissatisfaction from all quarters has been heeded at Salem, according to reports from the seat of government, and it is suggested now to save more than $40,000 biennially by the reduction of the state tax commission to a single commissioner; the consolidation of the food and dairy commissioner and social hygiene society with the state board of health; the labor commissioner, child labor commissioner and industrial welfare commission with the state industrial accident commission, and the stallion registration board with the livestock sanitary board.

Recommendations for the reduction of the membership of the tax commission to one commissioner, the merging of the dairy and food commissioner and the social hygiene society with the board of health, and the four labor commissions, will in all probability be embodied in the message of Governor Withycombe to the legislature. Whether he favors the last named consolidation is not known, but a number of legislators regard it as feasible, and bills providing for the merger will likely be introduced.

STRIKE BROUGHT HERE

Seven Metal Workers at Hawley Mills
Called Out by Labor Organization

Labor troubles that have tied up several of the important ship-building yards in Portland within the past week or so were brought to Oregon City on Tuesday morning when seven metal workers working at the Hawley Pulp & Paper company's new addition were called off the job by the metal workers' union. The seven men were employees of the Willamette Iron & Steel company, which had the contract for the construction of the digesters. This company was declared unfair to organized labor in Portland last week and its extensive ship-building operations were paralyzed for the time being.

W. P. Hawley, Jr., Tuesday said that the strike coming to Oregon City would have little effect upon the mill. The men called out were not mill employees, and it is probable that the work will be started again before the end of the week. The work upon which the strikers were engaged is new construction and in spite of the action of the union workmen can probably be completed in time that the opening of the new addition will not be much delayed.

The Willamette Iron & Steel company has been devoting much of its money and equipment to ship-building recently and several important ocean going vessels were under construction in the company's yards. The strike of all workmen employed resulted from the company's refusal, in common with other large ship yards, to recognize the unions to the absolute exclusion of non-union help. The ship building concerns have been working their men eight hours and paying practically the union wage scale, but the unions were not satisfied with that and ordered the employers to hire only union men or none at all. Pickets have been posted about the plants in Portland to prevent workmen from accepting employment.

ROUTLEDGES DIVORCED

Prominent Couple Comes Here to Sever Conjugal Knot

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Routledge was Friday awarded a divorce decree from J. Ira Routledge, of the Routledge Seed & Floral company of Portland. Mr. Routledge filed the original complaint, alleging cruelty and Mrs. Routledge immediately filed a cross-complaint. She was given the decree by default of the husband, and was awarded the custody of the minor child, J. Ira Routledge, Jr. The decree gives Mrs. Routledge property at Seaview, Wash., and in Multnomah county, in addition to $48 a month alimony.

Twilight Church Entertains

The first social event of the new Twilight congregation, which was organized for Sunday school and church services at Twilight, will be a basket social on Saturday evening. The affair is designed to draw the people of the community together and to interest them in the work of the new church.

TAXES INCREASE VALUE IS LOWER

OREGON CITY WILL PAY 40.8
MILLS THIS YEAR. OTHER CITIES LESS

COUNTY LEVY IS 18.5 MILLS

County Valuation Placed at $28,737,352 and $531,640 Will be Collected in Tax

The high cost of living is a minor worry as compared with the high cost of taxation, and the good people of Oregon City are due to pay taxes this year in excess of all previous high records. The total assessment against Oregon City's taxpayers is placed at 40.8 mills, after adding the county levy, fixed last week by the county court.

The total county tax levy, exclusive of special city, road or school taxes, is 18.5 mills, according to the figures of the county court. In Oregon City the municipal tax, including a 7-mill levy for the payment of interest on bonds, is 14.5 mills. Adding to this the special school district levy of 7.8 mills the total of 40.8 mills is derived. As far as the county seat is concerned this is considerably in excess of last year's assessment, when the total was 34.5 mills. Last year the general county levy was 18 mills, .5-mill less than the levy for this year.

The county tax proper for the year, as the court has figured it, will be 4.7 mills. The state and school tax will each be 3.4 mills and the road tax, of which incorporated cities will receive 70 per cent on the property within their boundaries, will be 7 mills. The entire sum of money to be derived from these levies is placed at $531,640, with the road levy alone bringing in $201,161. This is a decrease over 1915, as the total receipts then were $545,916.57, with the levy one-half mill less.

The difference is due, of course, to a shrinkage in the value of taxable properties and to the reduction of the assessed valuation of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company by the state tax commission. The assessed valuation for this year is $38,737,352, as compared with $30,328,536.98 for last year, or a decrease of $1,591,184.98.

While the county levy has increased only .5 mill, the Oregon City levy includes an addition of 4 mills. This is the result of a tax amendment to the city charter made a year ago. At the same time the city school district levy includes an increase of 1.8 mills. The total city levy for next year is an increase of 6.3 mills over last year's total of 34.5 mills.

Oregon City will pay the highest increase and by far the heaviest tax of any incorporation in the county. The highest levy in other corporations will be at Sandy and Oswego, where the local levies are 10 mills. Added to the county levy, this makes a total of 28.5 mills. The following are levies for other county corporations, and are aside from the county levy: Barlow, 5 mills; Canby, 8 mills; Milwaukie, 9 mills; Molalla, 7.5 mills; Oswego, 10 mills; Sandy, 10 mills, and West Linn, 7 mills.

The following tabulation shows the division of the county tax made on a valuation of $28,737,352:

	Levy	Total tax
County tax	.0047	$135,095
State tax	.0034	97,707
School tax	.0034	97,707
Road tax	.007	201,161
Totals	.0185	$531,640

COURT IN SESSION

County Commissioners Will Meet
With Civic Club Tomorrow

The county court is in session for its January meeting and has under consideration a highly important program. County Commissioner W. A. Procter, recently elected, is attending his first session with the court. Wednesday, the first day, was spent in the consideration of road petitions and other matters along the same line. Today the court has devoted most of its time to passing on the bills for the month.

Tomorrow morning at ten o'clock the Live Wires of Oregon City and other business men opposed to the division of Clackamas county by cutting off a large section in the Oswego vicinity, will wait upon the court to discuss ways and means to bring the division agitation to an end. The visitors, the court has been advised, will ask the court to promise something definite in the way of road construction for the coming summer.

Judge and Mrs. Anderson Hosts

The home of County Judge and Mrs. H. S. Anderson was the scene of a happy gathering of friends on new year's day. The home was beautifully decorated for the day and in the spacious, pretty dining room covers were laid for 16 guests. A delightful holiday dinner was served and the day was spent socially.
