

I Am Going Back Into The Barber Business

A FEW years ago I was compelled to quit the barber business on account of my health, and took up Chiropractic study, getting a diploma and practicing in Oregon City for several years.

I have regained my health and have now started again in my old location a

New Barber Shop

at 414 Main Street Oregon City

where I will be pleased to have my old friends and patrons call.

I have put in new chairs, new fixtures—in fact I have a complete and up-to-date Barber Shop. I also have put in one of the finest and most up-to-date Bath Rooms in Oregon City.

I also wish to state that I am still a licensed Chiropractor and will be pleased to have the public call.

News of the Week from War Zones of Europe and Mexico

The sinking of a transport ship filled with troops in the Mediterranean by a German submarine on January 25 was announced by the admiralty. The vessel sank in ten minutes. The following announcement was issued: "A German submarine in the eastern Mediterranean sank a fully laden steamer of about 5000 tons and on January 15 the armed British tank steamer Garfield, 3800 tons, bound from Malta to Port Said with coal and oil. The captain of the Garfield was made prisoner."

A congratulatory message sent by Russia is experiencing famine in the Polish council of state to Emperor William on his birthday is quoted by the Overseas News agency as follows: "We beg your majesty to accept the expression of our deepest gratitude for the proclamation and promises of November 5, in which your majesty's wisdom recognized the promotion of humanity as a war aim and by which, together with your exalted ally, you guaranteed the re-establishment of the Polish state."

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, received one of the greatest ovations of his career when he arose to speak Monday at the close of a testimonial dinner attended by more than 1000 labor leaders from all parts of the country. Mr. Gompers urged organized workers to think about peace, to work for peace and to pray for peace.

in the midst of plenty, according to an undated article in the Times from a correspondent in that country. The article refers chiefly but not exclusively to Petrograd and Moscow. The writer believes that there is enough food in Russia to supply the entire population for two years but owing to the inadequacy of the railroads, the lack of organization and coordination in distribution, the people in some districts find it difficult and even impossible to get supplies. The people of Petrograd have to stand in line for many hours to obtain meat, bread, milk, sugar and vegetables. The thermometer in the capital is sometimes 20 below zero.

In reply to birthday congratulations, Emperor William reiterated Saturday the assertion that the German people will obtain peace by the sword. The emperor's message as quoted read: "The unshakable will to victory of the German people, who are prepared for every sacrifice of blood and treasure will, I trust God, preserve the fatherland from the ruin contemplated by its enemies and will force by the sword the peace necessary for the blessed development of the people."

"Italy wishes once for all to free the Italians who are still living under Austrian tyranny," said Francesco Ruffini, minister of public instruction, in a statement to the associated press in regard to President Wilson's address to the senate. "Part of the president's message, regarding the possibility of seeking guarantees for future peace, is supported in its fundamental ideas by the entente, which in its note set forth the same aspirations for a stable settlement in Europe."

Despite the severity of the weather reported from nearly all the European battle fronts spirited fighting is taking place in several of the war areas. The most notable recent development is on the northern end of the Roumanian line, where the Russians took the offensive Saturday and broke through the Austro-German lines on a two-mile front along the railway from Kimpolung to Jacobeni.

According to German official statement the Russian forces have been unable to make further progress. The Russians are also on the offensive in the Zlota Lipa region in Galicia, where their campaign for Lemberg came to a pause some months ago. Turkish troops apparently are the main defenders of the central powers' line in this region and Berlin declares that they have been successful in beating off the assaults. The Franco-Belgian front is also breaking into activity at many points.

Berlin reports persistent efforts by the French to recapture their lost position at Hill 304, northwest of Verdun. A surprise attack which failed was followed by three assaults, but these are declared all to have been broken down without gain. The British front in France is also a lively sector. The reported capture by the British last week of an important position near Le Transloy was followed Sunday by fresh assaults delivered by British troops north of Arras. These failed with severe losses, according to Berlin, while southwest of Le Transloy the Germans captured a British post.

Minister Havenith, of Belgium, has issued a statement denouncing as untrue the German government's contention that deportation of Belgians for forced labor is a social necessity on account of unemployment resulting from the British blockade. "In reality what has happened is the exact contrary to the statement of Germany," said the minister, "and, as in the case of the deportations, it is the Germans who have created a state of affairs upon which they have afterward endeavored to establish the justification of the illegal measures taken by them."

British troops advancing in three waves attacked German positions north of Arras Sunday, the war office announced. The attacks were repulsed with heavy losses. On the Verdun front four attacks were made by the French. The statement says all these efforts were broken up by the German fire. In Galicia Sunday the Russians attacked with strong forces positions held by Turkish troops on the Zlota Lipa river. Monday's official announcement says the Russians were repulsed.

French troops Sunday night easily repulsed an attempted attack by the Germans on a trench at Hartman's Wellerkopf, Alsace, Monday's war office statement announced. During the night numerous patrol engagements took place in the Champagne and at various points along the Alsace front.

During Saturday's battle northeast of Jacobeni on the northern end of the Roumanian front, Russian troops captured 30 war officers and more than 1000 men, the Russian war office announced Monday.

"All Oregon troops on the border ordered home." This telegram received Sunday afternoon from Senator George E. Chamberlain by Major W. W. Wilson, acting adjutant-general, is the first announcement that has been made of the decision of the government to recall from the Mexican border the last of the Oregon contingent which was called out seven months ago, and which has been in continual service ever since. "It is probable that we know here that the troops are coming home before they know it themselves, for today being Sunday, the order will not reach General Funston in all probability until Monday," said Major Wilson on Sunday.

Guatemala has declared her intention of strictly enforcing the neutrality laws, and as the first act toward this end President Estrada Cabrera ordered the arrest of General Luis Medina Barron, said to be one of the leading generals supporting Felix Diaz in operations against the de facto government of Mexico, according to information received at San Antonio, Texas. President Cabrera also declared his intention of allowing the extradition of all former followers of Huerta now living in Guatemala.

None of the United States cavalrymen engaged in the battle on the border with Mexicans at Stone House from Friday morning until 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning was killed or wounded. The Mexicans fled at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning and the Americans crossed the border but found no wounded or dead Mexicans. The fighting was caused by some 25 irresponsible Mexican bandit cattle rustlers, according to a statement made by Brigadier General Plummer. The bandits, he said, were resisting cowboys who were trying to recover stolen cattle. He said the Mexican bandits fired first from the American side of the boundary line. No regular Carranza troops took part in the affair, he said, although some of the bandits were in uniform.

THE BOY THAT WAS

When the hair about the temples starts to show the signs of gray, and a fellow realizes that he's wandering far away from the pleasures of his boyhood and his youth, and never more will know the joy of laughter as he did in days of yore, Oh, it's then he starts to thinking of a stubby little lad with a face as brown as berries and a soul supremely glad.

When a gray-haired dreamer wanders down the lanes of memory and forgets the living present for the time of "used-to-be," He takes off his shoes and stockings and he throws his coat away, And he's free from all restrictions, says the rules of manly play. He may be in tattered garments, but bareheaded in the sun. He forgets his proud successes and the riches he has won.

Oh, there's not a man that liveth but would give his all to be The stubby little fellow that in dreamland he can see. And the splendors that surround him and the joys around him spread Only seem to rise to taunt him with the boyhood that has fled. When the hair about the temples starts to show time's silver stain Then the richest man that's living yearns to be a boy again.

TOOZE CHARGED AGAIN

Calls For Third Amended Answer in Damage Action

The motion of attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cartledge in the $20,000 damage case of F. J. Toozé versus Mr. and Mrs. Cartledge, to strike out as irrelevant certain parts of the complaint, was granted as to some clauses and denied as to others by Judge Campbell on Monday. Mr. Toozé, city school superintendent, seeks to recover $20,000 damages for an attack made upon him in Bulletin No. 1, which was circulated here last spring and of which the Cartledges have admitted authorship. The case is an outgrowth of the feud in which high school teachers here were lined up against Mr. Toozé in the fall of 1915 and spring of last year.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Cartledge filed their third amended answer to the Toozé complaint and in it they reiterate much of what has been covered in previous answers. They uphold their belief in the truth of the statements contained in Bulletin No. 1 and mention a number of actions alleged to have brought discredit to the superintendent in school matters.

As a mitigating circumstance Mr. and Mrs. Cartledge say they did not originate the statements, imputations or intimations in Bulletin No. 1, and that their only interest in the matter was to bring about an investigation into the cause of the friction in the high school staff. A member of the school board, the answer says, told Mr. Cartledge prior to the publication of the bulletin, that Mr. Toozé was "systematically deceiving the teachers and stringing the school board." The third amended answer prays for a dismissal of the action and a judgment against Mr. Toozé for the costs to which Mr. and Mrs. Cartledge have been put.

is usually found through the prompt administration of a mildly laxative, dispersive tonic—one that will scatter the inflammation, remove the waste, and help Nature to build up resistance.

Peruna is That Tonic.

Its action is prompt, usually very effective, and its use is without harmful effects. Every household should keep it at hand for this purpose, and every extraneous sufferer should regularly use this reliable remedy.

The tablet form will be found very convenient. A tablet or two at the very beginning of a cold will frequently prevent its development, and these tablets may be taken regularly with beneficial results.

State Central Committee Pushes Slate Through at Portland Meeting

There was not the slightest hitch to the premeditated proceedings at the meeting of the Democratic State Central committee at Portland last Saturday, when the committeemen gathered to make recommendations for federal appointments that are practically at the disposal of the Oregon delegation at Washington.

Two Oregon City democrats figured prominently in the meeting as candidates for the committee's indorsement, but the slate had been prepared against them by Sam White, state chairman, and some of his colleagues. E. T. Mass, former sheriff of this county, was prominent as a candidate for the office of United States marshal. He went to Portland with the personal indorsement of many of the state's most prominent partisans, but this support was not availing against the slate. District Attorney Gilbert L. Hedges, while not actively seeking the berth, was mentioned prominently as a successor to Clarence Reams, United States district attorney. Mr. Mass was defeated by F. B. Tichenor, a member of the state committee, who pulled wires only to be reached from the inside in getting the indorsement. John Montag, who has incurred the enmity of Sam White in some manner, was not mentioned conspicuously for reappointment as marshal. Mr. Reams was renominated as United States district attorney after getting out of a tight place, and almost losing the indorsement to George F. Alexander, a new comer to Oregon.

Other indorsements made were those of George H. Watson for postmaster at Portland to succeed Frank Myers and Will Moore, Pendleton grain dealer, as successor to Thomas C. Burke as collector of customs. Milton A. Miller was indorsed for another term as collector of internal revenue and Edward Worth is recommended as a worthy person to succeed himself as surveyor general for Oregon. Other postoffice indorsements were made at the meeting.

LLOYD RICHES WINS FAME

Former Oregon City Youth Qualifies as Champion Broncho Buster

Many men and most women are glibly when it comes to celebrity. They are just naturally so keen to boast an acquaintance with some person who has distinguished himself that it wouldn't be very difficult to palm off a sheepherder on them for an Italian count. Else how can you explain two vaudeville actresses being duped into accepting Lloyd Riches, editor of the Stanfield Standard, as Lee Caldwell, champion broncho buster of the world, inquires the Pendleton East Oregonian's Weekly Bulldogger, which then proceeds:

"That's just what happened last week in the Hotel Pendleton lobby. Lloyd, as a mere infant, galloped on a hobby horse, as a boy he charged about on a stick horse and it is even said he rode a pony through school. But that's about the extent of his equestrian experience. Ten thousand bales of greenbacks wouldn't tempt him to mount old Long Tim, upon whose back Caldwell won his title. And yet, when these little footlight favorites expressed an eager desire to meet the king of bucking horse tamers, Joe Rose had the temerity to drag forth the erudite editor of Stanfield who chanced to be registered at the hotel. After the first blush of timidity had faded from his face, Lloyd responded to the hero worshipping smiles of the ladies and in five minutes was boasting of his daredevil deeds with the braggadocio and swagger of a western desperado. Joe Rose says Lloyd may not qualify as a champion broncho buster, but he'll pit him against the world as a bull thrower."—Portland Journal.

Child Labor Regulation

Salem, January 30, 1917.

To the Editor: Every good mother and father is concerned with how child labor is regulated in Oregon. At present the child labor laws are enforced by a commission of four devoted women and one man. The total expense to the state is less than $5,000 for each two-year appropriation period.

These four women have at heart the welfare of the child. They are Miss Pauline Kline of Corvallis, Mrs. Millie R. Trumbull of Portland, Mrs. Turner Oliver of La Grande and Mrs. Sarah A. Evans of Portland. Mrs. Trumbull is secretary of the board and the only paid executive in charge of the work.

She is sensible and experienced, a woman of judgment and courage. Her work requires rare qualities of tact, patience and firmness in dealing with rapacious employers and greedy parents who conspire to make little children lie about their ages so as to evade the law. She brings to bear upon her work the experience and training of years of social service, and that genuine affection for children which places their welfare before all selfish considerations.

This work is now in jeopardy, as legislators propose to consolidate it into one of the paid political boards, where it would be administered as a mere detail by state officers busy with many other matters and concerned primarily with making political records for themselves. This would be sacrificing the children's welfare on the altar of political consolidation.

I urge good mothers and fathers to write to their members of the senate and house beseeching them to consider the little children and not let the politicians get control of Oregon's child labor administration.

A Seventy-Year Old Couple
Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Carpenter, Harrisburg, Pa., suffered from kidney trouble. He says: "My wife and I suffered from kidney trouble and had rheumatic pains all through the body. The first few doses of Foley Kidney Pills relieved us, and five bottles entirely cured us. Although we are both in the seventies, we are as vigorous as we were thirty years ago." Foley Kidney Pills stop sleep-disturbing bladder weakness, backache, rheumatism, swollen joints.—Jones Drug Co.

Jitney in Operation
Monday morning the P. R. L. & P. Co., through its subsidiary, the Oregon City Motor Bus company, started the operation of its jitney to Mountain View with a large and comfortable bus. The new car accommodates 16 passengers and is operated on a half-hour schedule between Seventh and Main street and the top of the hill at Mountain View. The first car leaves down town at 8:45 in the morning.

How Publicity Helped Mrs. Thomas to Health

Doctor Had Decried Operation When She Read of Mrs. Dunlap's Experience

Some time ago Mrs. R. C. Dunlap of DeKalb, Mo., wrote to the St. Joseph, Mo., News-Press, telling how, after years of suffering with stomach trouble, she had been relieved of a quantity of gall stones and restored to health through using Fruitola and Traxo. This letter was published and read by Mrs. Georgia Coe Thomas of Lancaster, Mo., who had been told by her doctor, after months of treatment for similar trouble, that nothing but an operation would save her. Mrs. Thomas obtained Fruitola and Traxo from the drug store, and says:

"By the time I had taken a month's treatment, I felt like a new woman; the first dose of Fruitola brought a large number of gall stones and I am certain Fruitola and Traxo saved my life."

Fruitola and Traxo are compounded from the original Edsall formulas at the Pinus laboratories in Monticello, Ill., and can be purchased in Oregon City, Portland, Canby and Hubbard at the Huntley Bros. Co.'s drug stores; a doctor's prescription is not necessary. Fruitola is a pure fruit oil that acts as an intestinal lubricant and disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, discharging the accumulated waste to the sufferer's intense relief. One dose is usually sufficient to indicate its efficiency. Traxo is a tonic-alterative that is most effective to rebuild and restore the weakened, rundown system.

A booklet of special interest to those who suffer from stomach trouble can be obtained by writing to the Pinus laboratories, Monticello, Illinois.
