

STREIBIG ASKS PAPERS

Patriotic German-American Would Cut Out the Hyphen

August Krick, born in Germany in 1884, yesterday applied for final certificate of citizenship. He came to Oregon from Mexico in 1910 and is a machinist living at Milwaukee. Henry William Streibig, prominent local merchant, also applied yesterday for the final certificate. Mr. Streibig is a native of Germany and has been voting in the United States for more than 25 years. He has been in Oregon City since 1905 and has been identified with almost every patriotic movement the city has known in that time. Mr. Streibig is especially popular as a leader of patriotic parades and was the first Main street merchant to display the American flag during the present crisis.

William James Moore and Burton Taylor Moore, Canadians, yesterday declared citizenship intentions. They are brothers and live at Estacada. They have been in the United States since 1903.

Wolf Brings Two Suits

Charles Wolf yesterday filed separate suits against Mathias and Marie Poveletz to recover money alleged due from them. The first suit is against Mathias Poveletz, and asks a judgment of $173.50 and costs to cover three loans that were made by Wolf to Poveletz, who bought livestock and other things with the money, the complaint states. Wolf asks $165 from Marie Poveletz because he alleges that the woman collected that amount on installments for property sold by Wolf to another party and failed to turn the money over. "She converted it to her own use," the complaint says. Wolf also asks $191 because he paid that amount on the hospital bill of Mrs. Poveletz' daughter at the request of the mother.

Called Him a Cheap Skate

When his wife called him a "cheap skate," and said he was "nuttty," the straw broke the camel's back in the connubial relations of Samuel J. and Mattie Robacher. The couple was married at Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1893, the complaint says. Mr. Robacher alleges that his wife is a nurse and often stays away from home for long periods, leaving him to "shift for himself." He asks that she be permitted to retain title to property and other gifts he has made to her, valued at $5250. Such are the terms of an agreement made between them.

Wants Partnership Settled

Theodore Bin Friday filed suit in Judge Campbell's court asking the dissolution of an unnamed partnership and demanding an accounting of the partnership. Ten years ago, the complaint says, the plaintiff entered into an agreement with Gus, Peter and Panagoeus Bin to farm certain property in Minthorn's addition to Portland. Late Gus Bin, following a disagreement, ordered Theodore from the place. The latter now wants the property sold for his benefit and wants an accounting all around.

Parents' Day is Sunday

The second Sunday in May will be "Parents' day" at the First Congregational church. At 11 a. m. Mr. McCallum's subject will be "Our Mothers;" at 7:30 his subject will be "Our Fathers." In honor of the mothers a white rose or other white flower will be worn; and a red rose or flower for the fathers in the evening. Special arrangements will be made for the convenience of aged and sick. The music will be special for the day.

Guardsmen Feasted

Eleven of the national guardsmen stationed in this city were guests of honor at a dinner given at the Presbyterian church by the Christian Endeavor society on Wednesday evening. Some fifty persons were about the dinner tables and heard the address of E. Evert Baker of Oak Grove. The high school orchestra played and special selections were rendered by Mrs. Frank Schoenborn, Miss Lulu Miller and William Miller.

Paper Day Postponed

The Girls' Honor Guard has been forced to postpone its first monthly paper day because of the good roads rally held in Portland Saturday and will sell the great stock of paper that has been collected this Saturday, May 5. The girls believe they have collected 25 to 30 tons of waste paper that will be sold to the Crown-Willamette company on May 5. A number of the girls who went to Portland were provided with accommodations by Miss C. Pratt, leader of the Honor guard.

Youngsters Cannot Coast

Because youngsters coasting with little wagons on the sidewalks of the city make so much noise, Lee French, acting chief of police, last week issued an order restraining the play. None of the boys will be corrected before they are warned to stop the practice, Mr. French said, but the fact that so many working men sleep during the day, it is necessary to have things as quiet as possible.

TO BUILD SHIPS AT COST PRICE

Bethlehem Steel Will Make Offer to Uncle Sam.

BIDS ON 16 INCH NAVY SHELLS

No Chance For Profit In Them Under Present Tests, Grace Says—Possible Explanation of the Prices Made by an English Firm Which Bids Under All American Manufacturers.

Speaking recently before the Terrapin Club of Philadelphia, Eugene G. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Company, said in part:

In a peculiar sense Bethlehem Steel serves the American people.

For example, though we have been able to obtain in Europe almost any price, we have adhered, in our charges to the United States Government, to the basis of prices established before the war began.

We agreed—if the Government would abandon its plans for a Federal plant—to make armor for our Navy at any price the Government itself might consider fair.

Our ordnance plants are at the disposal of the nation at a fair operating cost, plus a small margin, thus saving the Government investment and depreciation.

One of the special needs of the new navy is sixteen-inch guns—guns sixty feet long and capable of hurling a 2000 pound shell with such power and accuracy as to hit a 50 foot square target fifteen miles away.

We have undertaken voluntarily to construct, at a cost of $4,500,000, a plant fitted to build sixteen-inch guns.

Under no conceivable circumstances can orders which we may receive for this plant pay even a fair return on the investment.

Considerable comment has been made upon the fact that a British manufacturer recently bid less than American manufacturers for sixteen and four-teen-inch shells for the navy.

I am unable to state the basis upon which the English bid was made. It should be remembered, however, that this bid was for a specific shell, samples of which are being sent over for test—a test not yet made.

Two years ago we took an order for 2400 fourteen-inch armor-piercing shells at a contract price of $708,000, to be delivered within a certain time or we had to pay a large penalty.

The only specifications for making these shells are that they shall be of a certain size and must pierce armor-plate at a certain velocity on impact. It is impossible to foretell the exact conditions of the tests.

We had made large quantities of shells in the past which had been accepted. But in placing this particular order the Department altered the angle at which the tested shells must pierce armor-plate. The result, however, has been absolute inability on our part to produce in any quantity, shells which will meet these novel tests.

In fact, we know of no process of projectile-making through which it is possible to produce in quantities shells which will conform to the requirements.

The result is that up to now on that contract of $708,000, we have put into actual operating expense $447,881, and have been penalized for non-delivery $498,744, a total of $946,625, with no receipts whatever.

Such was the experience in the light of which we were called upon recently to bid for sixteen-inch shells.

We bid on these shells at approximately the same rate per pound as that of a fourteen-inch shell contract of one year ago upon which the Government awarded contracts.

We have not the slightest idea what profit there will be in the making of these shells. We do not know that there will be any. There is no certainty that it would be possible for us to deliver a shell to meet the test.

For officers in the Navy to assume that any bid made under such conditions is "exorbitant" is utterly unfair.

We bid on the new battle-cruisers sums which Navy department experts, after examination of our books, found would yield a profit of less than ten per cent. We agreed to assume risks for increased costs of materials and labor, that made it possible that these contracts might yield no profit whatever.

The costs run beyond the amount appropriated by Congress on the basis of the cost estimates made a year ago.

And because shipbuilders could not alter the inexorable cost facts and reduce bids to early estimates of the Navy Department, the prices are called "exorbitant."

It would be a real advantage to be relieved of this naval construction. The profit from it cannot possibly amount to much, and the responsibility is enormous.

We have determined to make this offer to the American Government.

"If you will build two of the battle-cruisers in Government navy yards, we will build the other two at the ascertained cost of building the ships in the Government yards, without additional expense or commission of any kind. We will also contract to have our ships ready for service ahead of the Government ships."

He Almost Fell Down

A. M. Hunsucker, Bogus Chitto, Miss, "felt so grateful because of being freed from pain and distress that he wrote the following letter: "I was suffering from rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, also dizziness; would almost fall down at times. I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and two boxes gave me entire relief." Disordered kidneys give warning by pains in side and back, rheumatic aches, sore muscles, swollen joints, puffiness under eyes, tired and languid feeling.—Jones Drug Co.

GUARDS ARE HONORED

Elks and Theaters Combine to Help Celebrate Dewey Day

The man in uniform was the idol of the day in Oregon City Tuesday because of a public respect for the memory of Admiral Dewey, who made history at Manila bay on May 1, and because of a general desire to pay tribute to the work the uniformed men of the state are doing.

Tuesday the Elks' club rooms were opened throughout the day for the pleasure of the soldiers and they made good use of them, from the bowling alley to the dining room, where the lodge was host at a fine dinner in the evening. The soldiers stationed here on guard duty were the guests.

During the day, too, the moving picture shows in the city admitted soldiers and their young women companions free. Only the discipline of army life kept more than one young man steadfast to his duty by some out-of-the-way sentry post while the fun was going on Tuesday.

At the services conducted at the Gladstone Christian church by the Rev. Oliver L. Curtis, a quartet including Nora Webster, Mrs. Edward E. Rayburn, Homer Hollowell and Gilbert Hanson, sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Lead, Kindly Light." The honorary pallbearers, friends of the young woman, were Zella McFarland, Verna Wyman, Marjory Reed, Alice Freytag, Gertrude Edwards, Fayne Burdon and Genevieve Evon. CONTRACT LET

Work on Chautauqua Auditorium to Go Forward

The contract for the construction of the proposed new Gladstone Park Chautauqua auditorium was let at a meeting of the building committee of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua association last Thursday afternoon to Edward Keep of Portland. The contract price, as stated by the committee Thursday, is $5580, and the contract let to keep requires that work be started at once in order that the building may be ready for the annual assembly this year.

The proposed building will replace the auditorium used at Gladstone for the past 23 years. It is to be constructed upon a plan very similar to that used in the famous Mormon tabernacle at Salt Lake City, and throughout its construction and equipment particular attention will be paid to the acoustics. The new building is to be in approximately the same place as the present structure.

Bruno Friedrich Marries

When Bruno Friedrich, son of Mrs. Gustav Friedrich of Gladstone, brought home a new wife late last week and introduced the young woman to the household, there was a great impromptu surprise party. The young man had been married to Miss Gertrude Bailey, a Sherwood school teacher, at Salem on April 14, and had kept the wedding secret until he chose to introduce Mrs. Friedrich to the family.

GRANGERS FAVOR BONDS

State Organization to Support Plan, is Prediction

The great majority of the grange organizations in the state of Oregon will support the $6,000,000 road bond bill, according to a prediction made at the meeting of the Eugene Chamber of Commerce last week by B. S. Worsley, a Clatsop county farmer and grange member.

Mr. Worsley said that he had visited 34 granges in the state, speaking in the interest of the road bonds, and that all but three had unanimously endorsed the bonds.

Those who are opposing the proposition are offering arguments that are utterly fallacious," he said. Automobile license fees will pay the bill. No one will suffer from taxation.

"Up until last year I had no outlet from my farm. Then a nine and a half-mile dirt road was opened up from my place so that it was possible to haul to Astoria. Selling my strawberries at $3 a crate I had made enough money to pay my share of interest on bonds for the next 50 years and have enough left to go about the state telling farmers about the good that will come from good roads and why the bond issue should carry."

Fear is That Gladstone Youth Has Ended His Own Life

The sudden and strange disappearance of Charles Sladen, 20 years old, has caused the members of his family to fear that he may have taken his own life. Tuesday the family made known to officials the fact that the youth had been gone since last Thursday. He went into the house at noon on Thursday to ask his mother, Mrs. Nellie Sladen, if lunch was ready. He immediately left the place and did not return.

The youth has been suffering from melancholia and absent-mindedness lately, and has upon several occasions threatened to jump into the river. Sladen weighed about 145 pounds, had light hair and wore a jumper and gray overalls, according to his mother.

MEASLES EFFECT SCHOOLS

Some Sixty Cases Found in Two City Grade Buildings

Measles are this week playing havoc with the attendance in the three schools of Oregon City, according to information from Professor F. J. Toozee, city school superintendent. Some 60 cases of the malady have developed in the grade schools and there are five or six in the high school. New cases are reported each day to the city health officers by Professor Toozee, and extra precautions are taken wherever possible to prevent the attendance at the school of pupils who show symptoms of measles. Most of the cases in the grade schools are among the young children in the lower grades and are very mild.
