THE KAISER'S PRAYER

Mine Gott, will you be my partner?
You don't know who I am!
I am the German Kaiser, Der Emperor, vell I am.

You know I whipped dem Belgians, Und mid bullets filled Russia full; Und I vil whip France and Italy Und blow up Johnny Bull.

Now for al dem other nations I don't gif a d—n,
If you just be my partner Und whip dot Uncle Sam.

You know I got dem submarines, All Europe knows doo well, But dot man Edison got a patent now Vot blows dem all to h—l.

Now, Gott, if you do this, Den you I vil always love; Und I vil be der emperor of earth, Und you be der emperor above.

But Gott, if you refuse this, Tomorrow night at eleven I'll call mine Zeppelins out, Und declare war on Heaven.

I wouldn't ask dis from you,
But it can be plainly seen; Dot ven Edison pushes dot button, I got no submarines.

WHEN YOU BUY SUGAR

When you buy sugar you pay less per pound when you buy it by the dollar's worth. You pay still less per pound when you buy it by the hundred-pound sack or by the barrel.

The same is true of the manufacturer and the merchant. The larger quantities of anything that he can buy the less he has to pay for it. It costs him less to handle it in large quantities than in small lots. It costs less per pound to ship a carload than it does to ship a carload in separate shipments of 100 pounds each. Just as it costs you less to buy a hundred pounds of sugar at one time than it would to buy a hundred pounds a quarter's worth at a time. Less in money. Less in time. Less waste—less in every way.

The manufacturer and merchant who advertise are enabled to buy and to sell in larger quantities. By doing a "quantity" business they cut expenses and save waste on every hand.
They can sell better quality—pay the small advertising cost—and sell for less than if they were doing business in a small way.

In these times of advancing prices carefully compiled statistics prove that the advertised brands of merchandise have advanced much less in proportion than those which are not advertised.

In the interest of economy buy advertised merchandise from merchants who advertise.

THE CORK OAK TREE.

There is Nothing "Just as Good" as its Bark Product.

When a man goes into a hardware store for a supply of cork for some specific purpose he generally gets what he asks for. The reason why the dealer does not endeavor to persuade him to try something else "just as good" is because there is nothing else he could offer.

Cork is cheap, and for ages it has stood alone in its field of usefulness.
It is tough and elastic, and its specific gravity is only 0.21. This, added to the fact that it is impervious to water, accounts for its use in life preservers.

The cork oak, which grows principally in Spain, Portugal, Algeria and southern France, furnishes the supply.
Only the outer bark of the tree is used for the commercial product. When the tree has attained a diameter of approximately five inches, which usually it does by the time it is twenty years old, the cork, as the first stripping of bark is called, is removed. This cork is so rough, coarse and dense that it has little commercial value. But its removal does not kill the tree. On the contrary, it seems to promote development.

The stripping is done in July and August, and great skill is necessary in order not to injure the tree. If it is injured at any place the growth there ceases, and the spot remains ever afterward scarred and uncovered.—Popular Science Monthly.

Cornmeal Mueh.

It has been found after careful tests that five pounds and two ounces of corn are required to produce one pound of pork—that is, a hog must consume more than five pounds of corn to gain a pound in weight.

Cornmeal mush or cornbread, it follows, is vastly more economical as a food for our tables than ham or bacon.
The only practical difficulty in benefiting by this knowledge is that many people think that corn is so much better when it is transmuted by the lovely hog that it is worth five times the original price.—New York Telegram.

Called the Bluff.

The learned counsel was endeavoring to impress the court with the fact that his clients had always been anxious to settle. "My lord," he said impressively, "only eighteen months ago we held out the olive branch." "Yes," responded the witty judge, "but there were no olives on it."

Iodine Cures Erysipelas.

Dr. W. Keopler reports to the Medi-zinische Klinik of Berlin that a prompt and certain cure for erysipelas is obtained by painting the affected part with a 10 per cent solution of iodine.

Specialist.

"Mary, have you cemented the handle on the water pitcher you dropped yesterday?"
"Well, muna, I started to, but I dropped the cement bottle."—Puck.

TO SELL AMERICAN FRUIT

To help American fruit shippers obtain Pacific outlets for their products during the coming season, the Office of Markets and Rural Organization is sending a representative to China, Japan, Australia, the Philippines and Eastern Siberia to investigate the marketing of American fruit in these countries, according to an announcement of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The need of expanding the Pacific outlet is made evident by the closing, practically, of the English and Scandinavian markets to which the United States has previously forwarded large quantities of fruit, particularly apples and pears.

The representative, Anson Penfield Bateham, special investigator in foreign markets, will sail from Vancouver today. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of State, will cooperate with the Office of Markets and Rural Organization in the investigation through the commercial attaches and the various consular officers in the countries to be visited.

CHURCHILL MAKES SAVAGE
ATTACK ON CHIEF FRENCH

Walter J. Churchill, who had gone violently insane in the woods near Sunnyside last Thursday, was brought to the county jail and later committed to the insane asylum at Salem, after he had terrorized the neighborhood in which he worked for two days and made an unsuccessful attempt on the life of Chief of Police Lee French, of this city, who with Constable D. E.
Frost and Deputy H. H. Hughes went to Sunnyside to apprehend the man.
Churchill invited the officers to come up the hillside on which he was standing, declaring that "God told me to kill all of you fellows," and he attempted to carry out the edict with a heavy club with which he struck French. Among his possessions, found in a hovel in which he lived, were rough sketches of saw-sets and descriptions for their use, which he had told neighbors he was going to patent. He had written a rambling story which was entitled "The Mystery of the Saw Dust Pile." A memorandum was also found. It gave his age at 42 years. Churchill is a powerfully built man and he made a de-spiteful fight to resist arrest. Three attendants of the asylum took him to Salem Thursday night.

MARINE WEEK JUNE 10-16

Special Drive to Be Made for Recruits to Soldiers of the Sea

The week of June 10 to 16 has been designated as "Marine Week," and a special effort will be made during that time to obtain recruits for the arm of the service known as the soldiers of the sea, and the first line of defense.
The Marine corps is the oldest arm of the service, being older than the republic itself, it is claimed. The corps was organized November 10, 1775, and has taken part in almost every important engagement as well as being the only branch of the service present at many minor engagements since that time.
