OREGON CITY REAL ESTATE DEALERS ARE COMPLYING WITH LAW

Under a recent ruling of the State Legislature all real estate dealers are required to secure a license permitting them to act as dealers in the buying and selling of real estate, and any dealer failing to take out the required license is liable to a fine of not less than $25.00 nor more than $500.

The purpose of the law, known as Chapter 172, Laws of Oregon for 1919, is to protect the owners of real estate from the operations of unscrupulous dealers, and it has already resulted in raising the standard of dealers to an extent that it difficult to estimate.

The dealers of Oregon City who have secured the necessary license are given as follows in a pamphlet recently issued by A. C. Barber, State Insurance Commissioner: A. J. Block, H. O. Dillman, Ernest P. Elliott, Morrie A. Elliott, Harvey A. Heater, A. C. Howland, Louis Leppera, John W. Loder, F. B. Madison, B. F. Mitchell, H. O. Rosebraugh and E. E. Teeple.

OREGON HISTORICAL SOCIETY RECORDS UNIQUE TRAIL DEED

That future generations may have record of the transaction which decided to them the historic Barlow road by which the pioneers of the Willamette valley negotiated the passes of the mountain range and gained the fertile valleys where they found the goal they sought, the Oregon Historical Society has caused to be spread upon its records a certified copy of the deed drawn up by George W. and Bertha L. Joseph of Portland transferring the Barlow Road from Sandy, in Clackamas county, to Wapinitia, in Wasco county, to the government of the State of Oregon, that the residents thereof and the thousands who travel over its highways every year may enjoy forever the scenic grandeur of its vistas.

The clause of the deed which has actuated the recording of the transaction by the Historical Society is quoted as follows:

"To have and to hold unto the said State of Oregon, with all its mountains and hills, its forests and vines, its flowers and shrubs, its valleys and dells, its crags and rocks, its gorges and canyons, its glaciers and snowfields, its rivers and streams, its lakes and springs, its animals and birds, its tempests and storms, its lights and shadows, its trails and paths, and all the beauties and grandeur of Mount Hood, for the use, benefit and pleasure of all, forever.

Odd Happenings.
"Pa, do they have lots of snow and ice in Panama?"
"Of course not, son."
"Then how can they have those slides on the canal?"

Pointless.
"The man is a pinhead!" exclaimed the exasperated person.
"Not at all," replied the soothing citizen. "Even a pinhead leads to some sort of a point. He never does."
