

ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR CLOSED, BIG SUCCESS

The Thirtieth annual Clackamas county fair came to a close at the Canby fair grounds Saturday evening after one of the most successful four-day meets in the history of the Fair Association.

The industrial and educational exhibits, which filled the pavilion and other buildings on the grounds to overflowing, were significant illustrations of the progress and development of the county during the past few years, and the many hundreds of residents of the various sections of the county in attendance were given concrete evidence of the strides which have been made in the development of the county wherein they have chosen to make their homes.

The signal success of the Clackamas county exhibits in competition with those of the other counties of the state at the State fair at Salem recently closed did much to bear out the contention of Clackamas county residents that their county is the best in the state, and is rapidly coming into the front rank among the producing centers of the Pacific coast.

A significant feature of the four-day fair just closed, and one which though characteristic of county and state fairs generally during the present year is nevertheless a distinct mark of the progress of Clackamas county, was the preponderance of automobiles over horse-drawn vehicles on and about the fair grounds. It was remarked by visitors at the fair that one found it necessary to go to the race track to see a horse, none being in evidence about the grounds. In days of yore, when the farmer and his family planned to visit a county fair, it was necessary to prepare to be absent from home for a matter of days, and the trip was made over dusty or muddy roads, as the case might be, in the family democrat wagon, a full day usually being allowed for the trip to the grounds. Nowadays the farmer and his family are able to reach the fair grounds in their county from any district within a one or two-hour drive in a comfortable, roomy automobile, over hard-surfaced roads and without the slightest hint of dust or inconvenience. They can enjoy the best part of the program of any one day and return in ample time to their farm duties in the evening.

In the Clackamas county fair, with its myriad exhibits of prize-winning stock and farm produce, Clackamas county farmers have had ample evidence of the development of the county which has attended their industry of the past decade, and the successful closing of the Thirtieth Annual fair may fairly be taken as symbolical of the closing of a most successful year of their farm life, wherein they may take much pride.

The awarding of ribbons to the prize-winning cattle and livestock was completed late Saturday afternoon and following the work of the judges the stalls had the appearance of a gaudily ribboned carnival float, the blue ribbons showing in preponderance. The following were the winners of the livestock classes; a complete list of winners will be published as soon as detailed information is available: Jersey show—Harold Riding and son, Molalla, 1st with 2-year-old bull, 4-year-old cow and 2-year-old heifer; Gus Jaeger, 1st with short-horn bull, 3-year-old, and 3 heifers and 1 calf. Juvenile pig show: Harold Kitchen, Estacada, 1st prize. Heifer, less than 1-year-old, A. D. Gribble, 1st, and 2nd on Jersey heifer. Grant Dimick took 19 prizes on his hog exhibit, declared to be the finest in the history of the fair. A feature of his exhibit was a 6-month-old hog weighing 550 pounds.

The poultry exhibits were unparalleled for the quality of the birds and the variety of strains shown and many blue ribbons were awarded.

In the races during the afternoon the following results were given: 1st race, free-for-all trot: Perlio won all three heats, time 2:28, 2:24½ and 2:22. Second race, 1-mile special: Marion H. took all three heats, time 1:18½, 1:15½ and 1:18. Third race, three-quarter mile run: one heat, Dr. C. P. Fryer, 1st, time 1:19.

AUTO ROBBERERS HOLD UP WOMEN NEAR MILWAUKIE

Two highwaymen, from descriptions given being apparently the same men who have been operating in the Milwaukie district during the past fortnight, held up Miss Barbara Bartlett and her mother near the Golf Links Monday evening about 8:15 and took a diamond ring from the mother's hand which is valued at more than $1000.

According to the story given by Miss Bartlett to Sheriff Wilson, who with Deputy Sheriff Hughes and Speed Officer Meads were called to the scene shortly after the holdup, the two ladies were on their way home from Portland and were approaching a turn in the road leading to the Golf Links when they met a Ford coming down a steep incline into the road. They were forced to slow down to about five miles an hour and as they passed the Ford two men sprang onto the running board on each side of their car and, showing revolvers against their necks, ordered them to stop their car. They were then ordered to descend from the machine and to raise their hands above their heads, and in this position they were ordered to walk back into the woods, a distance of about fifteen feet.

Under cover of the darkness that enveloped the scene of the holdup outside of the glare of the headlights, Miss Bartlett managed to slip a valuable ring off her finger and place it in her mouth, and in this manner saved it when the men searched her. Mrs. Bartlett dropped a purse containing a large sum of money in the weeds alongside the road and the missed it also. They did, however, discover the diamond on Mrs. Bartlett's hand and forced her to give it up.

After the holdup the women were allowed to proceed to their home. Arriving there they immediately got in touch with the office of Sheriff Wilson here and he, in company with Deputy Sheriff Hughes and Speed Officer Meads rushed to the scene of the holdup. Officers from the office of Sheriff Harburt in Portland were also called but a thorough search of the district surrounding the scene of the holdup was fruitless.

From a description of the robbers given by the two victims it is probable that the two men involved in the holdup are the same two who have been operating in the Milwaukie district recently. One of the men is described as being tall and the other as being under medium height, but no accurate description of the features of either are as yet available.

HUNTING ACCIDENT FATAL TO NEEDY MAN

Melvin Werner, 14-year-old son of Ernest Werner, residing about one mile east of Needy, died Sunday afternoon as the result of a gunshot wound received while hunting China pheasants a few miles from that village.

Another party of hunters near the scene of the accident heard Mr. Werner's calls for help and when they arrived discovered the young man, so weak from the loss of blood that he was unable to move. He had evidently crawled for some distance from the point where the accident occurred. Efforts at reviving him were partially successful and his rescuers were able to secure details of the accident before the young man lost consciousness.

Mr. Werner stated that his shotgun had been accidentally discharged while he was crawling over a fence, and the charge had torn its way through his forearm, practically severing the arm at the elbow.

Werner was taken to his home, but died before medical attention could be given. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Werner, were visiting for the day in Silverton and were immediately notified of the accident upon the arrival of the rescue party at the Werner home.

An inquest was not considered necessary because of the fact that the injured man was able to make a statement before his death completely establishing the responsibility for the accident.

RECKLESS DRIVING BRINGS LECTURE AND FINE TO DELIVERYMAN

Gilbert Coffey, driver of the delivery truck for Farr Bros. Grocery Co., was arrested on a charge of reckless driving Tuesday and when tried before Justice of the Peace Livy Stipp was fined $5 and given a severe lecture on the fine points of handling an automobile and the proper regard for the safety of pedestrians.

Illogical Conclusions

The Oregon Voter draws a severe lesson from Clackamas county's experience in building a small bridge at Lower Falls on Eagle Creek with inexperienced labor, and recites that the bridge fell into a rocky canyon, where the broken and splintered timbers now remain, and a more experienced bridge builder has since finished the job. The Voter says the original builder feels he is entitled to some remuneration for his labor, and if he gets it the taxpayers will foot that extra expense. Editor Chapman sums up the incident in the following paragraph:

"In this instance it was fortunate the bridge collapsed immediately on completion, or a serious accident might have happened later and it should be an object lesson to Clackamas and other counties, who labor under the delusion that it is more economical to employ neighborhood experts and local politicians than to contract with responsible firms for work demanding experienced, skilled workers."

Mr. Chapman might have gone farther and told his readers of a bridge that was constructed across the St. Lawrence river a few years ago at a cost of several million dollars, and that the center span collapsed and many people were killed and the loss ran into millions. That bridge was constructed, we opine, under contract, and the best brains of the country were available for the plans of the structure.

Bridges will sometimes fall, whether built by local labor or by contract. Likewise roads will fall to pieces, whether constructed by county paving plants or by contract. Witness the paving of the Pacific highway between Canemah and New Era last year under the contract system, and note the condition of the road within a few months of its acceptance by the highway commission.

AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR RAILROAD CROSSING IS NEAR FATALITY

Mrs. H. E. Straight was accidentally struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Ross Eaton at Tenth and Railroad Avenue Thursday night at 9 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Straight were on their way home and were crossing up Tenth Street, when the bell alarm of the railroad crossing was sounded. Mrs. Straight alighted from the Straight automobile to see if a train was close so that they could proceed up the Slinger hill, and as she was starting to enter the automobile, the Eaton machine struck her. Dr. Eaton not seeing Mrs. Straight.

The physician at once applied the brakes, and gave every assistance, and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Straight to their home to give medical treatment if necessary. No bones were broken, but Mrs. Straight suffered from bruises and from the shock of being knocked to the ground.

Many times the alarm at this crossing sounds for some time before the trains arrive, and the cars are delayed unnecessarily. Mrs. Straight, fearing they would be delayed for some time, had stepped out of the automobile and was returning towards the machine when struck.

YOUNG MAN CHARGED WITH TIRE THEFT IS THOUGHT SUBNORMAL

A lad giving the names of Edward Dahline and Charlie Johnson was brought to Oregon City Monday evening by Sheriff W. T. Wilson, charged with selling articles belonging to the garage of Graham Brothers, of Canby.

He was taken to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Gagger, who resides near the Goode bridge, Canby, this evening, and it is probable that no charge will be brought against him, as he appears to be mentally subnormal.

The boy arrived in Canby a few weeks ago from the East, and was making his home with his grandmother. He appeared at the Erickson store at Mulino this morning where he sold a tire, which it is claimed was taken from the Graham Brothers garage. He told Erickson he had 40 bushels of beans he desired to sell also, but the beans were not to be seen. He said he got these at Salem.

Dahline or Johnson, whoever he is, was taken in custody at Buckner Station.

DOOM OF CIGARETTE IS CERTAIN IF NEW FROST BILL PASSES

SALEM, Or., Oct. 3.—Attorney General Brown has prepared the ballot title for the anti-cigarette bill which has been initiated by D. E. Frost, of Oregon City, and which, if a sufficient number of signatures are signed to the petitions, will be voted on by the people at the general election of November, 1920. Approximately 10,000 signatures of legal voters will be necessary on the petitions. The ballot title follows:

Purpose—Abolishing cigarettes by prohibiting the sale, use or possession thereof; also prohibiting soliciting, receiving orders for, or making contracts for the sale of cigarettes; prohibiting the advertisement of cigarettes; providing that the words "cigarette" or "cigarettes," as used in the act, shall be held to include cigarette, cigarette paper, cigarette wrapper, or any substitute therefor, or any paper or form prepared to be filled with tobacco for cigarette use; defining the duties of the officers in enforcing this act, and providing a penalty for its violation.

NEW BILL PROPOSED WOULD LOWER LEGAL RATE OF INTEREST

SALEM, Oct. 3.—To make the legal rate of interest 4 per cent and no more is the purpose of a proposed constitutional amendment filed with the secretary of state today by J. F. Albright, of Oregon City.

The measure would amend article 9.

It further provides that on contracts 5 per cent may be charged by agreement, which rate shall be inclusive of all brokerage and commissions.

It is stated further that "no laws of this state relating to interest or usury are repealed or abrogated by this section except in so far as the legal rate of interest is modified hereby."

AUTO ACCIDENT IS FATAL TO SALEM MAN. SMALL SON ESCAPES

SALEM, Oct. 4.—Ray Perkins, who lives on rural route No. 8, Salem, was killed by the overturning of his automobile west of Blodgett, on the Newport-Yaquina bay railway line, late yesterday, according to information reaching Salem.

Mr. Perkins and his young son were hurrying, it is said, to get out of the hills before darkness. At a turn in the road the steering gear of the automobile failed and the car was turned over, killing Mr. Perkins.

The boy was not injured. Other details are lacking. Mr. Perkins leaves a widow.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO HELP ON BRIDGE

At a meeting held in Portland Wednesday the State Highway Commission ordered that the commission guarantee one-half of construction cost of a new suspension bridge across the Willamette river in this city, provided the municipalities of Oregon City and West Linn, and Clackamas county furnish the funds to pay the balance of the cost of the structure.

It has been estimated that the cost of the structure will total in the neighborhood of $300,000, and the appropriation of $105,000 has already been designated for the building of the bridge, to be provided from the proposed road bond issue in the event of its passing at the special election to be held in the near future. An additional fund of $14,000, available at present for the bridge structure, will be included in the fifty percent share of the cities and county in the form of a sinking fund, making a total of $119,000 toward the cost of the bridge to meet the offer of the State Highway commission.

At a special meeting called by the Clackamas county court held recently a committee composed of E. J. Williams, J. J. Tobin and L. L. Porter was appointed to appear before the Commission in Portland today in connection with the discussion for a bridge over the Willamette river and action by the commission followed an able presentation of the facts by L. L. Porter, chairman of the committee, who as spokesman most convincingly presented the views of Oregon City, West Linn and Clackamas county as regards the proposed structure and its benefits to the cities, the county and the state.

His discourse resulted in a motion being put to the Commission that that body authorize the expenditure of sufficient funds to pay one-half of the cost of the construction of the bridge and S. Benson, chairman of the State Highway commission, ordered the motion carried after the hearing of a proper second.

The sentiment of the meeting of the commission appeared to most strongly bear out the argument presented by Mr. Porter that the new bridge would prove as valuable to the state as a unit of the Pacific highway as it would to the cities of Oregon City and West Linn and to Clackamas county, and his arguments apparently had much to do with the action of the commission.

ARMY AIRPLANES IN CROSS COUNTRY RACE LEAVE SAN FRANCISCO

PORTLAND, Oct. 8.—Fifteen army airplanes left San Francisco this morning on a dash to the Atlantic coast, and ten other machines left Roosevelt field for the Pacific in the greatest air derby ever staged.

The planes, driven by army aviators, many of whom saw service in the great war, will attempt round trip flights from coast to coast.

Owing to the wind conditions it is expected that the westward bound planes will make better time than those flying east; but early reports today showed that both groups were making high speed.

Planes from the California starting point had passed Reno, beyond the Sierras, when early reports came in; and planes flying west were near the New York-Ohio line at the same time. It is expected that the west-bound fliers will reach the neighborhood of Cleveland this evening.

At both the eastern and western starting fields one machine of each of the early groups failed to get away. There are over 60 entries in the big race, and all machines must get away before sundown to qualify.

The machines were reported to be maintaining a speed of from 100 to 120 miles an hour, and with rests for fuel and at night, are expected to keep up this driving rate for the 2700 mile rush from coast to coast.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Lieutenant B. W. Maynard, first of the transcontinental fliers to reach Chicago, landed at Ashburn field at 5:53 P. M.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The first day's flight of the army airplanes in their cross-country flight was marred by several accidents, one of which occurred at Buena Vista field near Salt Lake, causing the death of Major D. H. Crissy, Mather field No. 66, and Sergeant Virgil Thomas, his observer, Rockwell field, San Diego. Lieutenant Maikhan, one of the coast-to-coast fliers, was forced to land at Glendale N. Y., but was uninjured. Air Commodore Charlton, the British flier, abandoned the race at Interlaken, 35 miles northwest of Ithaca, and Lieut. W. R. Taylor, flying an Italian S. V. A., was forced to land at Nicholas, Pa., 40 miles from Binghamton.

The most valuable pouls are round. Next comes the pear-shaped, and lastly the egg-shaped.

RELIEF IN FAMINE OF SUGAR IS REPORTED

PORTLAND, Oct. 8.—Portlanders will not have to depend much longer on the uses of adversity to sweeten their breakfast cereal. There will be a plentiful supply of sugar on the local market within the next few days, or at least in time to avert an absolute famine of the staple.

According to a telegram received this morning by H. M. Haller of the Kelly-Clarke company, 45 Fourth St., local representatives of the Western Sugar Refiners company, the California refinery recently shut down because of a strike has resumed operations and will ship sugar to all western states as rapidly as it can be manufactured. The factory is running 24 hours a day, according to the telegram, to supply all jobbers, confectioners and bottling works with their allotments of cane sugar.

FOREST PATROL PLANE CRASHES; ONE KILLED ONE BADLY INJURED

MEDFORD, Oct. 8.—Crumpling of one of big wings and engine trouble caused the wreck of the big DeHavilland forest patrol airplane near Ray Gold yesterday, resulting in the death of Lieutenant W. H. Webb, the pilot, and the serious injury of Lieutenant John C. McGinn, the observer.

According to Lieutenant McGinn the machine was flying at an elevation of 1600 feet when the engine died.

A field a mile and a half to the south then became the objective and an attempt was made to flyplane to it. When at a height of approximately 800 feet the machine went into a tail spin, due to loss of momentum, and dropped like a stone.

Lieutenant Webb, the pilot, was crushed beneath the engine. The extent of Lieut. McGinn's injuries are not known, except that he suffered a broken leg and arm and bled from internal injuries not necessarily fatal, according to Dr. Stearns, the attending physician.

The drop from the sky was witnessed by several, including workmen on the Pacific highway, who watched the approach of the big bombing machine and noted the first sign of trouble.

Even while the machine was tumbling in the fatal tail spin, J. J. Powers, a workman, said it did not appear as if the machine was out of control. He says that when the machine was about 300 feet up he remarked to a companion that it seemed low. The next instant the wings crumpled.

With neighboring farmers the workmen rushed to the scene and hurried Lieutenant McGinn to this city in an auto.

The airplane engine was driven into the ground by the force of the impact and the framework is a mass of tangled wreckage. The body of Lieutenant Webb was pinned beneath the heavy engine. It was first reported that Lieutenant McGinn was killed. A revolver with his name engraved on it was picked up nearby.

BIDS ON BRIDGES FOR PACIFIC HIGHWAY AT OSWEGO ARE OPENED

Bids were opened by the State Highway commission at its meeting in Portland Wednesday afternoon for the construction of bridges over Sucker creek and Tryon creek on the Pacific Highway between West Linn and Portland. The structure over Sucker creek is to be of concrete and that over Tryon creek will be a trestle structure.

Ed. Olds of Oregon City is reported to have presented the lowest bid for the construction of the latter structure. The two bridges are on the line of the new survey of the Pacific highway in the vicinity of Oswego which eliminates a bad grade known as the Oswego hill.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE IN GUANO PLANT.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 7.—The plant of the Standard Guano company at Curtis Bay, a suburb, was partially destroyed by fire of unknown origin today, and two negro workmen lost their lives. An official of the company estimated the loss at $1,500,000.
